Mr. J. Blewett and Mr. Harry Blewett were in Peterborough on Thursday.

Mr. W. G. Ferguson and Mr. Alex. Gibson of Peterborough, were in the village on Thursday to attend the business men's excursion.

Mr. T. H. Adams, of Peterborough, was in the village on Thursday.

Mr. John Blewett and Mr. Harry Blewett weer at Burleigh Falls on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lennox and Miss Lennox have gone to "Belvidere," Crowes Landing, for the season.

Mrs. Israel Church, of Burleigh Falls, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Blewett for a few days.

Mrs. B. Moore was called to Omemee on Tnesday by the illness of her sister.

Mr. J. Walton of Toronto, is visiting relatives in the village.

Mrs. H. J. Sutton entertained a few lady friends on Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Leighton and Mrs. Leadingham.

Mrs. B. O. Dench gave a jolly little tea on Wednesday afternoon at "North Douro Lodge."

Business Men's Picnic.

The annual excursion of the Lakefield business men left the Lakefield dock at 1.30 per steamer "Stoney Stoney Lake" on Thursday. There were about one hundred present and the men all looked as though they anticipated a good time. A stop was made at Sandy Point for sports and the annual ball game, after which they proceeded to "Viamede" for dinner.

It is really a misnomer to call it the business men's excursion, as it really is a community excursion, as all men, whether business men or not, look forward to the day's outing. This has been a custom of years in Lakefield and is more and more popular. There seems to be no age limit, as veterans of over seventy made their way to the wharf, with lads of eighten. The only restriction seems to be one of sex, as no ladies are taken on this day of days. The weather was very warm and they had a wonderful time.

The "Stoney Lake" carrying the business men's excursion, had hardly reached the Three Islands, when the dock once more became a rendezvous for pleasure seekers, also with the sex restriction. The wives of the business men had a picnic of their own to Miller's Bay and had a good time. The ladies had laid their plans well and spent an afternoon enjoying the scenery and partaking of a supper, which was indeed a feast of good things. "When the cat's away the mice will play" was the motto of the ladies as they treated themselves to one of the jolliest picnics of the season.

TIME after time the test shown above was repeated with the same result. Valet AutoStrop Razor blades used over 30 days made good. They had been stropped regularly. That meant comfortable, smooth shaves. Ordinary, unstropped blades, used only 5 days, failed. That meant they would "pull" and scrape in shaving.

Good home made bread is the most palatable, wholesome and nourishing food in the world. It is far more economical than any other staple food. If people would eat less meat and other heavy foods they would feel better and help to keep down the cost of living. Bread made in the home with Royal Yeast Cakes is more nourishing and appetizing than any other. Nothing healthier for children and grown ups.

A fresh, rosy complexion indicates perfect health. To secure this in most cases all that is necessary is to take one to three Royal Yeast Cakes a day for a few weeks.

Yeast is a food. It supplies the water soluble vitamine which the diet may lack. Scientists tell us that this vitamine is essential to good health. Yeast is highly beneficial in many cases in which the system seems to be run down. The yeast cakes simply add to the diet.

Dissolve a Royal Yeast Cake in fruit juices or mix it with cereal and milk, and take it at meal time. The chances are in a few weeks the complexion will be clear. Constipation and other ills will be relieved. For children reduce the amount to one-half or one-quarter of a cake with each meal.

LEONARD COMES

Chapter 72.

When that taxicab had rushed up and stopped suddenly with a jerk in front of the house, I knew instinctively that the time of waiting was very near an end.

At first I had felt panic, and had been imbued with the one thought of getting away. I wanted to run from Leonard. I knew the climax of all those terrible months was at hand, and I did not have the nerve or courage to face it. I dreaded it, horribly.

Then, as suddenly, I had realized that I must face it and that I wanted to. It had been the one fundamental longing of my heart. Whatever it meant, whatever the outcome, I wanted it quickly. Leonard and I were both terribly worn and exhausted with the nerve-racking suspense. It was well that now, at last, the end was near.

I sat in the dark by the window in my room and waited.

Leonard came over nearer to me. He must have seen my silhouette against the reflection from the street lamp where it shone through the window. Yet he came softly and touched my shoulder ever so lightly with his hand, as if he wanted to locate me, wanted to feel that I was there.

I didn't speak, I was numb all over.

"Noreen?" Leonard's voice sounded terrible. I clutched at my throat, but still I could not speak. There seemed to be nothing to say.

He turned and I heard his feet shuffle across the soft rug, back and forth.

Then he came near to me again. He was speaking. I wished for a light so I could see his face. Yet the darkness seemed merciful, too.

"You must listen to me—do you hear me, Noreen?" he spoke as if it cost him a terrible effort, and yet his words had the sting of a whip lash. His voice held a desperate pleading note.

He went on without waiting for me to answer.

"When I finish what I am going to say, what I must say, you will hate me. You will never touch me again. I only ask that you let me finish. You must hear not half, but all that I have to tell—that is all I can ask of you."

His voice came to me out of the darkness, dry and lifeless, and as from far off. I had stopped trembling, but I felt as though my body belonged to someone else, and when I put one hand over the other they were cold and without feeling.

My eyes had become accustomed to the darkness and I could see him now, though indistinctly. He pressed his hand to his throat and pulled at his collar. Then he turned and walked away from me and stood somewhere back in the shadow.

"A woman, another woman has come into my life." He stopped a minute. The silence of the house was deadly. Only the metallic ticking of the hall clock broke the stillness. "I did not know that such a thing could happen to me. I did not think it possible. But it has—she has held me for months as in a vice. She has brought out a weakness in me that all my strength could not overcome. I don't know why. I can't understand or explain it. Perhaps some would call it a fascination—if so, her fascination held the power of a deadly siren over me."

As he paused and packed back and forth across the room, I leaned back listlessly in my chair and closed my eyes as if I hoped to be able to shut out the ghastly words that Leonard was saying.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Diamond, returned on Thursday afternoon from Cobourg from whence they had gone to Rochester on the Warden's excursion.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Harris celebrated their tin wedding on Tuesday evening. About 20 guests assembled to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Harris on their anniversary, and presented them with many useful gifts. The Masonic Lodge presented Mr. Harris with a beautiful pipe as a token of their respect and good wishes.

A very pleasant evening was spent in song, dancing, amusing contests, and the party broke up by singing ing Auld Lang Syne.

Kerr is Captain.

At a special meeting of the Intermediate Lacrosse, held on Wednesday evening, H. Townsend was appointed assistant manager, and Jas. Kerr was made Captain.

The regular meeting of the Water and Light Commission was held on Thursday evening with Commissioners Wragg, Meyers and Abernethy present; also Engineer B. A. McLean. Mr. Wragg presided.

Mr. Benor addressed the commission re power for his mill. Mr. Benor has been buying power at a fixed rate per horse power. He claimed that he had been paying more than he should have. The matter was thoroughly discussed, and his mill was changed from a connected load to a maximum demand metre system, plus a metre reading charge. The commission decided to purchase two maximum demand metres and install one in Weston's factory and one in Benor's.

An Interesting Item.

A communication was also read from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission saying a representative would be in Campbellford in the near future and would discuss any matters with the Commission.

Mr. McLean made verbal communication from Mr. Killaly, Supt. of Trent Canal, re the lighting of the Lower Bridge.

He considered that it would be a great improvement but said that lights might be installed much more quickly if the commission were to string wires across to supply customers on the opposite side. Mr. Wragg opposed this plan because he thought that the expense would be far too great for the returns which they might receive.

Mr. Wragg made a motion which Mr. Abernethy seconded, that the council as a whole request the government to place lights on both the highway bridge and on Dam No. 10.

Report on Lights.

The progress of the installation of the new street lighting system was next discussed. The commission was authorized to spend $3000 in lighting the streets from the G. T. R. station to the Baptist church, all of Bridge street and Front street, from the opera house to the intersection of Rear and Front streets. They have spent approximately $3,590.47 in installing 97 lights of the 104 which were purchased, which leaves seven lights to be still put up. If about 40 more lights were put up at an approximate cost of $1500 the entire town would be relighted for about $4000 where a small part was to be done for $3000. The reason that some of the lights were not giving good satisfaction was apparently because of the number of short circuits caused by the limbs of trees ,etc. Mr. Meyers favored the presenting of a written report to the council with a recommendation to complete the system. It was also decided to ask all the citizens to immediately report any light which is not burning to the commissoiners' office.

Mr. McLean reported that 24 of the 60 metres not installed at the last meeting have since been installed.

Mr. Wragg favored the dividing of the town into sections so that if any fire occurrs in one section the others might still have light and power. The following accounts were paid:

AUTUMN MAY SEE CUT IN STEEL PRICES

Such is the Opinion Prevalent Among Pittsburg Buyers.

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—The opinion seems to have become general among buyers of steel that prices will be lower in two or three months Steel producers do not admit it, but they do not argue that they will not. The common view probaly is that a revival could be started in August, provided that meanwhile the readjustment in commodity prices and wage rates continues to make progress. Without a further reduction in cost of consuming steel, of conversion to actual employment, there cannot be any widespread demand for steel for no matter how cheaply the steel mills sells the steel it costs too much to put the steel into use.

PESSIMISM, SAYS FORBES

Business Man's Mental Attitude Partly to Blame for Hard Times, Editor Says.

NEW YORK, JUNE — "Too much pessimism,"—this was the brief description of the present-day business man's mental attitude given by B. C. Forbes, edditor of Forbes Magazine, who recently addressed the National Paper Box Manufacturers' Association at their annual convention here. This point of view, he said, was a reaction from an over-optimistic attitude adopted a year ago when wages and prices were at their peak.

"We were headed for disaster then as plain as a pikestafff," said Mr. Forbes, "but today we are headed in the right direction, and there is no reason for deep discouragement. There is not one pillar of modern business which is not strong—I mean by these pillars money, labor, agriculture, transportation, politics, international affairs, and last but not least, our mental attitude.

"On the first subject, everything points to easier money. Prices are coming down, frozen credits are thawing out, and much less capital and credit is needed for running the business of the country. Labor was too cocky and arrogant a year ago, but now it is not only plentiful, but is rather rapidly becoming efficient. Wages are caming down, as was inevitable, for they must come to the same level in this country as in other parts of the world. Labor is headed in the right direction.

"As to the farmers, those who live in the larger cities do not realize that these "hayseeds", as they call them, are the most important element in our population, and constitute one third of it. Whether the farmers suffer, whether their crops are large or small it is of fundamental importance to business. And they are now meeting prices 33 per cent. higher than they were in 1913, while in the industries, such as coal, steel, building materials, furniture, and so forth, they are 50 to 150 per cent. higher than in that year. But happily the prices of the farmer's supplies are coming down, and the price of his products is rising, although it should do so a little more still.

HAVELOCK OPENED LACROSSE SEASON BY DEFEATING PETERBORO 8 TO 5

CLEAN, FAST GAME YESTERDAY FOUND PETERBORO WITHOUT A DEFENSE—FRED GOODFELLOW IN GOAL GAVE A BRILLIANT EXHIBITION—ONLY TWO PENALTIES.

Before a fairly large crowd in Havelock on Thursday afternoon, Peterboro's intermediate lacrosse team was defeated by the score of 8 to 5 in the first scheduled game of the local group. Fresh from their exhibition matches with Campbellford, Havelock was in fine condition and played a fast and flashy game, getting two goals in the first period, while Peterboro was held scoreless. They added two more in the second frame, but Peterboro came through with three, leaving the half time figures 4 to 3. It was clean lacrosse all the way, occasionally a bit loose due to indifferent checking, but always interesting. Jack Creighton of Peterboro, was referee, and gave entire satisfaction to both teams. The only penalties in fact were drawn by the visitors, Lawson getting five minutes for what looked like a fair body check, and Fred Goodfellow ten minutes for slashing Brinkman over the shoulder in what appeared from the side lines to be a stiff check, but was interpreted by Creighton as being unwarranted.

Excuses and alibis should have no place in the telling of how it happened, but in extention of the result it may be mentioned that Peterboro was minus two or three defense men. In their absence Jim Skinner had to use players who had been practicing on the home, and were unaccustomed to the positions and style of play in front of their own nets. The result was a weakness that handicapped the whole team.

Goodfellow's Great Game.

It might as well be admitted that the score would have been much larger except for the splendid work of Fred Goodfellow in the Peterboro goal. He was easily the outstanding player of both teams. Time after time the tricky and skilful Havelock home players broke through, but Goodfellow turned back all but eight of their fusilade of shots. And two of their goals were rather fluky. Pete King got a mighty easy one after intercepting Goodfellow's pass and flipping it into the open goal. Goodfellow stopped another but, in clearing, side-swiped it into his own net. In referring to these incidents there is no desire to minimize Havelock's game. Their snipers bored in often, but missed many shots that went either wide or high. They got through the defence so often, and bothered Goodfellow so much that his hard check of Brinkman, who went close in on the goal, might have been due to the fact that he had been hard pressed throughout most of the game. Goodfellow invariably plays a clean game, and although he did not question the referee's decision he felt that a penalty of ten minutes was too much for a check that stopped the ball, and saved a goal. However, to preclude anything that might tend to roughness creeping in, the O. A. L. A. gives the arbiters considerable latitude in the use of their discretion.

Personnel of the Teams.

The teams lined up as follows:

Havelock: Goal, E. Powers; point, J. Hooper; cover, W. H. Rose; 1st defence, D. Wright; 2nd defence, R. O'Brien; centre, C. Brennan; 2nd home, C. Holmes; 1st home, D. Brennan; outside, Pete King; inside G. Wright; Spares, W. Brinkman and F. Owens.

Peterboro: Goal, F. Goodfellow; point, H. Webb; cover, Gene Donovan; 1st defence, J. Lawson; 2nd defence, E. Brown; centre, J. Thirnbeck; 2nd home, H. Tudhope ;1st home, C. Nattress; outside, G. Halpin; inside, B. Todd, Substitute, C. Nolan.

The Goal Getting.

Goodfellow stopped a string of shots before Holmes beat him from a face off. He stopped another from Holmes' stick, but this was booted in. Doug. Brennan got the third at the opening of the second quarter, going right through the defence. Grover Halpin scored Peterboro's first on a nice play from Tudhope to Todd. Todd made it two from a scramble in front of the Havelock goal, and Elmer Brown tied it up with a shot he followed from a Peterboro rush. Pete King intercepted a pass out from Goodfellow and lobbed an easy goal into the open net.

Opening the second half King flashed again with a beautiful catch he had to reach for and a quick shot that scored. He got the next in a fast combination started by Charlie Brennan. In the last quarter King bounced Havelock's seventh goal past Goodfellow in a nice team play, in which Doug. Brennan and Glen Wright figured prominently. Thirnbeck scored for Peterboro from a face off. Lawson, replacing Goodfellow, stopped several bullets that were right on the nets, but Holmes beat him with a fast roller. Todd took a long pass from Lawson, edged his way through the Havelock defence for a nice goal.

This summary does not give any idea of the fine exhibition Goodfellow gave in goal. Powers, too, was called upon to stop a bunch of them but they were not nearly so numerous. Webb was playing his first game of lacrosse. He has been practicing all spring and takes to the game well. He tried hard but needed a veteran or two alongside him against that Havelock home crowd. Elmer Brown, who swtiched to centre, played his first full game. His only other experience was at Norwood. His lacrosse form is not as finished as it will be, but he is a hard and willing plugger, and proved decidedly useful yesterday. On the home Bert Todd and Grover Halpin worked well together, and Thirnbeck and Lawson in the centre field gave their checks a real battle. For the most part the checking was nothing to write about. Todd's influence on the home was shown by the fact that when he went on at the second quarter Peterboro immediately began to take a hand in the scoring. Jim Skinner's team had a good share of the handling of the ball but they were facing a strong tlefence, and first and second homes, who followed the play down the field.

Give Peterboro a defence and a different story will be told in the return game. Some of the players are reluctant to ask their employers for the time off to accompany the team, and in these days, when conditions are the reverse of the period when you had to work or fight, or go to jail, the man who has a job has no intention of jeopardizing it for the sake of lacrosse. Of course, in Campbellford, and some other towns, there are employers who encourage sports as a community interest.

For Havelock, Holmes had a big day. King was as neat and fast as usual but missed too many chances, especially had the score being going against his team. The Brennan and Wright boys played well, Glen Wright having a big hand in the Havelock home's field day. Powers made quite a number of clean, difficult stops, but he had a comparativel ylight session.

CHILDREN'S OWN CIRCUS COMING.

One of John Robinson's Big Features.

All the kiddies won't be in the crowds of youngsters who will flock out to the show grounds, Thursday, June 16, to see the John Robinson Circus tents put up, to swarm through the cook tents and the horse tents and the menagerie, to feed peanuts to the ostriches and to offer their services to carry water for the elephants. Lord love you, no. Behind the scenes of the big show, chaperoned by circus daddies and petted by circus mommies, there will be a small army of kiddies—clever kiddies, acrobatic kiddies, kiddies who can "throw somersaults" or "skin the cat" without half trying; kiddies who were figuratively born in the circus and who would have been peeved if they had been born anywhere else. And it is because of this element of youth and joy that goes with the spring-time of life that the John Robinson show is often called "The Circus of Childhood," despite the fact that it is on its ninety-eighth annual tour. For the oldest circus—John Robinson's—boasts a heart aff youth.

But, after all, the children of the circus are much like other children, and the kiddies of the big outside world are just as interesting to them as they are to the youngsters who see in the circus a mysterious world of wonders, into which the are rarely permitted to enter. Be now and again the children of th circus hold impromptu receptions i the dressing tent, and their litt town visitors are regaled with bit of circus dexterity that these tin tots of the circus world will o day, when they are old enough, pre sent in the "big top," and they depart after this fleeting glimpse of the strange world behind the scenes feeling that they have been favored beyond all the kids that were born or ever will be.

The Robinson Circus has its appeal for the children as well as for their elders. For the children there are trained monkeys, and acting dogs, and dancing, whirling ponies, and baby elephants, and a number of funny little bucking burros. For the grown-ups there are thrilling acts in profusion, in the rings, on the stages and in the air.

There are stimulating riding acts; there are flying performances by daredevil air-acrobats; there is an aerial ballet in which a score of comely young women do the most wonderful posturing while suspended in the air by their teeth; there are startling exhibition on swaying wires and on balancing ladders; there are twenty-five trained elephants, and, finally, fifty clowns ave been engaged to provide a contant stream of burlesque fun.

The performances begin at 2 and p.m. The street parade will take lace at 10 in the morning.

The whole wheat is the most perfect food given to man. But the whole wheat must be thoroughly cooked: The ordinary loaf of whole-wheat bread is coarse and indigestible. In making

ACCEDED TO THRONE IN 1914 BUT WAR DELAYED CORONATION

ALBA JULIA, Transylvania, June 10.—(Associated Press).—King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania will be crowned here September 24. Plans are now being made for the erection of a church for use in the religious service of the coronation and in memory of the great battles which brought Greater Rumania into being. The church, it is expected, will serve for the crowning of all future kings of Rumania.

On the outskirts of this little Saxon town, where five hundred years ago Michael the Grave, Rumania's Great Washington, scored a victory over the Hungarians, a monumental arch, with reliefs commemorating events in Rumanian history, will be erected.

On the coronation day, after a service at the new church, at which all the Rumanian Bishops will be present, the King and Queen, crowned, will proceed to the new triumphal arch, where there will be a great military pageant.

In the afternoon and evening there will be gala entertainments, including a banquet in the hall in which the union of Transylvania with Rumania was proclaimed in December, 1918.

The next day the sovereigns will arrive in Bucharest and make a triumphal entry into the Rumanian capital. Here also an arch will be erected to commemorate the day for future generations.

King Ferdinand and Queen Marie have occupied the Rumanian throne nearly seven years, having succeeded the late King Carol in October of 1914; but on account of the war they never were formally crowned.

It is expected that soon after the coronation, the King and Queen will visit the United States.

UPHOLDS MAIL BAN ON RADICAL PRESS.

Court of Appeals Reverses Hitz Decision Ordering The Call Restored to Privileges.

WASHINGTON, June 9. — The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia put in the hands of the Attorney-General and the Post Office Department an effective weapon against Bolshevism and similar radical doctrines by placing utterances and writings of this character in the same category with "indecent and obscene literature," thereby making the former unmailable and rendering the publishers of such matter not only liable to loss of mailing privileges, but liable to punishment under Section 211 of the Penal Code.

The decision was given in the case of The New York Call, a Socialist newspaper, which was deprived of second-class mailing privileges by former Postmaster General Burleson. The Call won its case in the District Supreme Court in an opinion by Justice William Hitz, who directed that a writ of mandamus issue compelling the Postmaster General to restore the mailing privilege.

The mail privileges of The Call were revoked in November, 1917, after it had, it was alleged, published certain articles and editorials tending to obstruct the selective service draft and otherwise hinder the Government in the war against Germany. Mr. Burleson acted under the provisions of the Espionage Act.

Recently Postmaster General Hays issued a statement in which he declared his intention of restoring those privileges not only to The New York Call and The Milwaukee Leader, both Socialist newspapers, but to The Liberator, an anarchist publication.

The decision of the Appellate Court takes an opposite view to that of Mr. Hays, though it does not mention his statement.

UNVEIL STATUE TO ICELANDIC PATRIOT, JUNE 17.

Preparing For Interesting Ceremony in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, June 10.—The statue of Jon Sigurdsson, the Icelandic patriot and statesman, will be unveiled at the new Parliament Buildings, June 17, and will be the chief event of the annual celebration of the Icelandic national festival. The statue, which is life-sized and in bronze, has just been presented to the Province by a committee representing the Icelandic people. It will be erected on the east side of the grounds, facing Kennedy street, between the old Parliament Buildings and Broadway.

Workmen are to-day busy preparing the site for the statue of Queen Victoria, which will be transferred from its position in front of the old Parliament Buildings to a prominent position on the central approach to the new capitol.

The statue of Jacques Etienne Cartier, the French statesman, which was presented some time ago by the Province of Quebec, will be erected as soon as possible.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it is certainly helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."—Mrs. H. W. Baker, 3874 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B.C.

Albert Co., N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."—Mrs. Wm. B. Keiver, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N. B.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

RUSSIAN PAPERS SHOW STRUGGLE UNDER THE BOLSHEVIK

RIGA, June 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Newspapers now appearing in Moscow give some inkling of the struggle in Russia during the first two months of the attempt to restore something like normal civillzation, along the line of Lenine's new policy of freedmo of trade, and at the same time retain power in the hands of the Communists.

Reform after reform has been announced, but the Moscow papers say that difficulties are arising at every turn.

Lenine, hopeful of success, is keeping his pen busy day and night writing article after article explaining why the reforms were necessary and urging the peasants to support him.

Secklov and other more radical writers, however, are filling the Pravda and Izvestia with arguments in which they attempt to show that free trade already has proved an utter failure. They are also adopting the "I told you so" attitude and suggesting a return to ironclad Communism.

During the period of transition no American or other foreign news correspondents were admitted into Russia and only occasional news admissions or editorial controversy is printed in the Moscow press.

The Moscow Economic Life of May 5 displays hopefully an account of a peasants' conference which agreed on the necessity of the non-partisans working with the Communists to restore Russia; but other papers editorially bemoan the fact that "the peasants are not interested and won't do anything at all."

Information from independent sources, however, indicates that Lenine has no real opposition that he could not sweep away quickly and that the situation is now entirely up to him. He is being guarded more closely than ever in view of the rumors in Moscow of a new plot to assassinate him and other commisaries.

HEAVY COST STREET WORK IN PORT HOPE

PORT HOPE, June 10. —With the half year not ended yet, Port Hope's street and bridge committee have accounts aggregating $8,500, according to Reeve Smith, who declares that if the municipality is to escape a 43 mill rate then a halt must be called on the committee's expenditures, which do not include work on county roads.

AT 70 WANTS JOB AS BATHING GRILS' CENSOR

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 9. —A new angle was injected to-day into the situation at Somers Point, where Mayor Robert Crissye has decreed that girl bathers may go bare-legged and wear one-piece bathing suits. Commodore William Tanguy, a retired Philadelphia manufacturer, who owns the "Chateau," a fine estate near the bathing district, asked to be appointed official censor without pay. The Commodore, who is 70, and limps about with a cane, believes there should be a real censor, and the Mayor has his application under consideration.

"Although I'm 70 years old," said the Commodore to-day, "I'm still able to see right well without the aid of glasses. I understand the city has no funds available to pay for the services of a censor for the beach. I'll take the job for nothing. The people seem to want a censor right bad, so why not please 'em. I have my own ideas about what should be allowed on the beaches here, and I'll say I'm not in favor of restricting the girls too much in their swimming togs."

The Rev. T. D. Stulz, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church at the Point, believes the question is one for the women to settle themselves. "The women have the right of franchise," he said. "They are citizens and can express themselves. I think it entirely within their province to make it plain to the Mayor what their desires may be. It has been my experience to close to fifty years in the ministry that they are quite capable of handling such situations as this without any other assistance."

SECRET HISTORY OF ALLIED SUPREME COUNCIL HOLDS REMARKABLE INTRIGUE

BACKSTAIRS DIPLOMACY SUCH AS WERE THE DELIGHT OF CHANCELLERIES OF EUROPE IN PRE-WAR DAYS.

(By Alfred J. West).

LONDON.—When the secret history of the Allied Supreme Council is written—if ever—it will reveal a remarkable series of backstairs intrigues such as were the delight of the chancelleries of Europe in the old pre-war days of diplomacy.

Machiavellianism is still the dominant factor in European politics. There is still harbored in the breasts of European statesmen the same old war-breeding spirit of graft and gain. The conferences of the Supreme Council have proved this to the hilt, despite the issued reports of "solidarity and goodwill."

Like others of a flock of foreign correspondents who were daily fed by Lord Riddell, the official reporter, with a highly restricted diet of news, I penetrated into the inner circles and satisfied my appetite with liberal scraps from the hands, or tongues, of the various foreign delegates. I discovered much that was interesting.

Breach Widening.

The discovery was made that since the first Paris Conference there has been an ever-widening breach between the preaching and the practice of the Great Powers, until the relapse into the old order of interational politics has become so marked that we can only regard the League of Nations, and all it stands for, as the costly dustbin of the Supreme Council, or the whited sepulchre wherein lies buried the crushed ideal for which our heroes died.

This may seem a rather strong statement to all but close students of European affairs, and especially to the mass of Canadians who read in their reports of the "wonderful harmony" that existed. But there is much to learn about the conversations at the conferences, and the more we learn the more we are convinced that the Machiavellian spirit is still rampant in the councils of Europe.

The fact that another meeting of the Supreme Council is to be held to discuss the Near Eastern question brings vividly back to mind the last conference on this question held at St. James' Palace, when the Greeks and Turks laid their respective claims before the Allied Powers.

French Intriguing.

Were the discussions distinguished by Allied unanimity or a plain, straightforward determination to settle the Eastern question in the general interest? By no means. France was mainly concerned in ridding herself of her obligation to protect the Cilician Christians, weakening Britain's position at Constantinople, obtaining valuable concessions, and spiting the Greeks for recalling Constantine. Italy joined her in seeking first the friendship of the Osmanli for what financial and economic profit could be obtained thereby. With the promised friendship of France and Italy in his pocket, even the stoical Turk must have found it difficult to keep a straight face while Mr. Lloyd George was playing a lone hand for principle and reading out the Allies' proposals, which purported to be a serious and unanimous effort on the part of the Supreme Council to reach a Near Eastern settlement, but which, of course, were nothing of the kind.

What moral and practical chances the so-called compromise ever possessed were destroyed by the negotiations which were carried on without the conference walls. While we fondly imagined that Count Sforza was burning the midnight oil at the Savoy Hotel in an endeavour to persuade the Angora delegation to be reasonable, and that M. Briand was laudably seconding his efforts, these two statesmen appear to have been engaged upon negotiations which satisfied their own particular aspirations and deliberately encouraged the Turks to continue their resistance to the establishment of peace.

Sevres Treaty Defied.

Both France and Italy formally recognized the Kemalist Government, and virtually concluded separate treaties with it, in defiance of the Treaty of Sevres, and apparently behind the back of Mr. Lloyd George and over the head of the Supreme Council. The so-called compromise proposals that were agreed upon were merely dope for Downing Street.

The upshot of all this is that the progress made towards a settlement of the Eastern question has been ruthlessly torpedoed, and we are reduced to the pitiable expedient of looking on to see what another war will bring forth. So far there are no signs of the struggle between the Greeks and the Turks coming to an end, despite all the Leagues of Nations and the Supreme Councils.

The Near Eastern question is fascinating to the students of European politics, and I well imagine that it cannot interest Canadians a great deal. But a little closer study will show them that the bad old brand of diplomacy is still triumphant. We see its inevitable consequences in renewed warfare precipitated in Asia Minor. In such fashion is peace established! Small wonder that America seeks to wash her hands of old Europe, and that in many quarters the League of Nations is regarded as an extravagant farce, and that some men in the higher councils are returning to the belief that if Might is not Right, it is a sight more reliable.

Struggle Behind Scenes.

At the recent "Make Germany Pay" conference we had another instance of the policy of force. As the foreign correspondents sat in the famous "Room 49" of the foreign office and received the scraps of news doled out to them they would have been convinced that all was going "merrily and peacefully" had they not foraged for themselves. For behind the scenes in No. 10 Downing Street there was a tremendous struggle being waged between the forces of peace and force. The French delegation came to London to force the conference to acquiesce in the forcible occupation of the rich Ruhr, but the forces of peace, which saw that if Germany were deprived of this territory there would be no reparations to collect, finally triumphed.

This does not suggest for one moment that the imperialism of France is of the same vicious breed as the Teuton policy, which plunged the world into bloodshed in 1914. There is an essential and obvious difference. But that does not alter the fact that Europe has returned to a situation where the nations look to force rather than justice and goodwill as their means of defence, and if, as may be alleged, this was inevitable, it is all the more unfortunate, and demonstrates conclusively that humanity is incapable of working out its own salvation. In any case, it shows us how far we have departed from the principles which statesmen shrieked from the housetops in Paris during the opening sessions of the great Conference.

JAP EXPLORER OFF AGAIN

EDMONTON, Alta., June 8.—(Canadian Press).—Jujrio Wada, intrepid Japanese explorer, who holds the distinction of having made the fastest return trip from Edmonton to the Fort Norman oil fields by dog-team, is again on his way north on an expedition to the Arctic which may prove even more eventful than that made in the dead of winter this year. He expects to return here by fall.

The little Jap who has been continuously exploring Canadian Arctic regions since the year 1893, is convinced wthat there are minerals including gold on the far northern slope and plans to spend the next four or five months exploring the region of the Canoe river from the Arctic Ocean inland.

FRED SOWARD FIRST WINNER

Of the Edward Kylie Scholarship

FORMER PETERBORO BOY HAS COMPLETED A BRILLIANT COURSE AT TORONTO UNIVERSITY AND BROUGHT NEW HONORS TO THE PETERBORO COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Fred H. Soward, a graduate of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute, has gained new laurels for himself and reflected honor for the P.C.I. by winning the Edward Kylie scholarship at Toronto University, where he has completed a brilliant course in modern history. While attending the Collegiate Institute Mr. Soward was the first student to be awarded the Riddell scholarship. He continued his studies at the University and as soon as he was of age to enlist for military service, he joined the 15th battalion with which he served in France. Overseas he took advantage of the educational facilities offered by what was known as the Khaki University from which he was sent to the University of Edinburgh. Demobilized in August 1919 he returned to Toronto University and continued his course in Modern History obtaining first place in his final examinations which concluded the term recently brought to a close Mr. Soward was the only student in his course to secure first class honours throughout the whole four years.

It is especially fitting that a soldier student was the first candidate to win the Edward Kylie scholarship. Professor Kylie was on the staff of the University of Toronto, when he enlisted in the Canadian army and died before going overseas It was in his memory that this scholarship has been established. It enables the winner to take up post graduate work at Oxford University England, an opportunity of which Mr. Soward will doubtless avail himself.

In the honor roll of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute Fred Soward's name deserves place among its most briliant students and graduates. He came to Peterboro from Kinmount where his father conducted a general store until several years ago, when he moved to Toronto. While in Peterboro Fred Soward lived with his grandfather, the late Reverend Edward Soward, who in his youth was a gold medallist at college and afterwards a distinguished member of the Anglican clergy. The talents of the grandsire have been handed down undiminished to this scion of the second generation. Fred Soward is only in his early twenties full of spendid promise, which his Peterboro friends feel confident will be fully realized in a highly successful career.

"NEVER HEARD ITS EQUAL"

This is no unusual remark, the reference being to a Heintzman & Co., art piano to be seen in different styles at the warerooms of the firm, George and Hunter streets Peterboro. One has only to see and hear this piano to be at once charmed with its great excellence.

LINDSAY TEACHERS ASK MORE SALARY.

Cite Peterborough in Their Request to Board of Education.

LINDSAY, June 10. — Lower school teachers in the Collegiate Institute here are requesting of the Board of Education a yearly salary increase of $125 up to a sum commensurate with their qualifications and with the work involved.

In making this request these teachers cited Peterborough, where teachers of junior work, starting with no experience, received $1,800 this year, and next year, beginning with September, 1921, they are to receive $2,000.

SAYS A SPIRIT GUIDED HAND IN PAINTING.

Extravagant Statement By Parisian Woman.

PEORIA, Ill., June 10.—Peoria was stirred to-day over an announcement by Benjamin H. Serkowich of the Peoria Art League that a canvas painted by a woman in her dream, with the hand of the long since departed Whistler guiding her brush, was on display in a local theatre which gave space to the annual exhibit of the league.

Mrs. William Hawley Smith, wife of Dr. Smith of Peoria, is the woman referred to. She and her husband are among the wealthiest and most prominent residents here. Dr. Smith is known as a student and writer on sociological problems. Both he and Mrs. Smith say they have frequently received spirit messages.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Smith says she was sleeping soundly when Whistler appeared in a dream, commanded her to arise, don her artist's smock and get her brushes, paints and palette. Then she transferred to canvas, she says, the instructions he imparted and frequently his hand guided her brush. She worked feverishly all night, she declares, and in the morning awoke fatigued, but the picture was finished.

Local artists say that the painting is a remarkable one, and they believe implicitly the story.

FATHER PHELAN'S SUMMER FAIR

Father Phelan's Summer Fair, held at the Exhibition grounds yesterday, was a success from every point of view. The fine weather attracted large crowds to the grounds, which were patronized last evening by a jolly throng. The men and women of the parish did splendid work in connection with every item on the programme, and their efforts were well repaid by the success of the undertaking. The dining room, held in the Manufacturers' Building, was well patronized at noon and did a land-office business for supper. The booths where ice-cream, gum, home-made candy, pop-corn and soft drinks were dispensed, were furiously busy all through the afternoon and evening. The country store, prettily decorated in black and orange, where Messrs. Turcotte and Hourigan spun the wheel of fortune all evening, was a centre of interested spenders. Here everything from a sewing-machine in fine condition to a gorgeous yellow silk sofa cushion might be won for the expenditure of a dime or a quarter. There were bags of flour, and of sugar, and of potatoes, cases of oranges, sides of bacon, a set of mink furs, children's dresses of new material, pictures for den or living room and millinery of all shapes and sizes.

The fish-pond was as usual, the haven for the children. Here they clustered all afternoon and evening, until the interior of the little tent was stripped of every one of the hundreds of articles made with such painstaking care and attention through many long weeks. Mrs. Anna Dunn, Miss Annie Simons, Mrs. Thos. Cronin and Miss Hannah Fraser did great work here all day, in the stuffy little enclosure or handling the long poles from the outside, with requests for "a nice little girl" or "a good little boy." The small men who came early and could make selections to suit themselves were evidently struck with a desire for feminine apparel. Many wanted tea arons and sun-bonnets, to parade in, and Japanese umbrellas were in great demand. The little lad who came late and wanted a doll's house appeared to be quite satisfied with a fancy dish, however, which he at once placed upon his head and marched off with, while a tiny baby in arms received a portrait of the Prince of Wales with great apparent affection. The baby doll donated to the fish-pond by Mrs. L. LeBarr, for which Miss Josie Brisbois sold tickets with indefatigable vigor, was won by Mrs. Jack McCabe of East City.

Miss Florence Leahy and Miss Anna Gallagher had charge of the "little horses," and had a crowd around them all evening, the 57th Regimental Band, under Mr. Gliddon's leadership, rendered some fine music, and the open-air concert was enthusiastically applauded. A splendid programme was given, with vocal selections by the male quartette, Messrs. J. Minicolo, C. Legendre, K. Picard and J. Fitzpatrick, accompanied by Miss Doherty, a fine banjo solo from Mr. F. Clarke, and some black-face comedy from Messrs. E. V. Morphet and Geo. Wesley. These gentlemen were the hit of the evening, with a line of good jokes, rendered in their own inimitable style, and some excellent vocal solos, "Marjorie," "I Never Knew," and "George Street Blues," accompanied by Mr. Alex. Seger.

The sports programme for the day was thoroughly enjoyed. The children had races, baseball in the afternoon between Keene and Peterborough Bankers, in which the Peterborough team won by a score of 7-5, and football between the Canadian Woollens and the G.W.V.A. team, won by the score of 3-0 for the Woollens, were well patronized. The spectators in the baseball game were many and various, and spent part of their time in dodging foul balls. A group of little boys, resting quietly in the shade of a small building, discussing the latest purchases at the fish-pond, narrowly escaped annihilation at one point of the game, when a wild ball crashed into their midst.

The workers were so busy and so numerous most of the time that it was impossible to get a complete list of their number. Mr. W. S. Campbell and Mr. J. J. Lynch sold tickets at the gate, Mr. P. S. Scollard and Mr. P. Kenny looked after the automobiles, while Mr. Thos. Lane and Mr. Jack Sullivan took tickets. Mr. A. Doris and his assistants toiled all day above a roaring stove outside the dining hall, while Messrs. E. Hickey, S. Anglesey, W. S. Merrell, F. McFadden, Quinlan and McAuley looked after the general work of this department, Mr. Geo. H. Giroux labored all day in the ice cream booth, Mrs. Daley had charge of the country store, assisted by Mrs. Jas. V. Gallivan, Mrs. J. W. Fitzgerald, Mrs. N. Phelan, Mrs. R. Sheehy, Sr., Miss Croft and Miss Gallivan, the ice-cream, soft drinks and candies were looked after by Miss Amy Halpin, Miss L. Hurley, Miss N. Simons, Miss Mamie McCarthy, Miss L. Pope, Miss M. Burns, Miss C. Cahill, Miss D. Welsh, Miss N. Shevlin, Miss A. Rudkins, Miss K. Rudkins, Miss A. Scully, Mis A. Kelly, Miss Sarginson, Miss M. Gorham, Miss G. McFadden, Miss M. Lonergan, while in the dining room, under the supervision of Mrs. G. White, some of the assistants were: Mrs. T. McQuillan, Mrs. Jno. Coughlin, Mr. Ed. Hickey, Mrs. E. Leahy, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. M. C. Tooley, Mrs. Jno. Grisdale, Mrs. Conners, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Anglesey, Mrs. Colton, Mrs. Torpey, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. J. Condon, Mrs. Frank Lynch, Mrs. Fontaine, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. V. Scully, Mrs. F. Overend, Mrs. F. Shannon, Mrs. A. Sharpe, Mrs. C. Rutherford, Mrs. J. K. Sheehy, Mrs. Jno. Lynch, Mrs. F. Fairen, Mrs. N. Tobin, Mrs. Whaley, Mrs. McQuaid, Mrs. Roche and the Misses O. Leahy, Nevin, M. Merrell, M. J. Girard, M. O'Brien, K. Sharpe, L. Kelly and M. Thompson.

Amongst those who did excellent work in selling tickets for the Fair were Misses Margaret Hanlon, Rose Noonan, B. Phelan, E. Grisdale, M. Murphy, M. Green, M. Lapointe and Eileen McCabe.

The drawing for the prizes given in connection with the Fair will be held at St. Peter's school grounds on Monday evening, June 13th.

CHEMIST Opp. Turnbull's DRUGGIST

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid" indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Burning Lake Of Oil Big Scene In Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford

A big scene in George Randolph Chester's Vitagraph super-feature, "The Son of Wallingford", shows a real lake of oil, with the hero and the heroine of the story trapped in the of it in a small boat. The scene is a most fascinating one to watch on the screen, and weeks were required for its preparation. Young Wallingford and his fiance, Mary, are seen rowing in the distance on the lake, as the blaze is started hundreds of yards from them. Foot by foot the fiery tongues lick along the surface of the lake with its deep film of oil, until it is a bare fifty yards from the occupants of the small craft. Escape seems impossible as the two principals of the story are cut off by a veritable wall of fire on every side.

The brilliant flames illuminated al sides of the lake which was especially constructed for this production at Balboa, California, and its rays are thrown into all corners so that the elaborate dam with its concrete wall and tide locks shows up wonderfully and gives some real and detailed idea of just how great an engineering feat has been accomplished to get one big scene for "The Son of Wallingford." The general effect has proved most startling, and the taking of it proved most exciting too, more especially for Tom Gallery and Priscilla Bonner, the individuals in the small boat less than fifty yards from the raging furnace.

Stardom Through Our Telescope

Will Rogers and his director, Clarence Badger, have established a record. "A Poor Relation", the picture on which they are now working, is their twelfth consecutive production together. It is believed that no other star and director have ever been associated in so many consecutive pictures.

May Collins, the young leading woman in Goldwyn's picture, "All's Fair in Love", who was recently reported as engaged to Charlie Chaplin, made her first stage appearance with Grace George in "She Would and She did". "All's Fair in Love" is only the second picture she has appeared in.

Viola Dana has given up the pleasures of fashionable resorts for the questionable joys of the desert On completing work in her latest Metro picture, "Life's Darn Funny" she departed for Mojave, where she will spend two weeks in absolute rest.

Alice Joyce's latest production is entitled "The Scarab Ring," and the plot has to do with a scarab ring which was supposed to be the only one of its kind in existence. When the heroine is hopelessly enmeshed in the web of her enemies, through the fact that her guilt seems to be proved through the possession of the distinctive ring, a duplicate bobs up unexpectedly, and frees her. The Vitagraph star received a package last week from a San Francisco admirer in which was enclosed a small scarab with most usual inscriptions and markings. A brief note said: "You won't find any duplicate of this trophy, I marked this one myself. No one can duplicate, and I myself couldn't do the same thing again."

When the Goldwyn company making "Snowblind" was in Canada, Cullen Landis, who has the part of Pete in the picture, served as fireman on the special train that took the company every day from Banff to Lake Louise, where the snow scenes were taken.

Ann Hastings has been engaged to play the feminine heavy role in Charles Hutchison's next serial, at present called "One Chance in a Million," which is being produced in the East, instead of on the Pacific Coast, which supplied the locations for "Double Adventure". Aside from her youth, beauty and acting ability Miss Hastings' vital temperament and her many outdoor accomplishments, such as riding and swimming peculairly fit her for the vigorous physical action demanded in serial work. Miss Hastings' screen experience includes principal roles on "Her First Elopment", with Wanda Hawley; "Merely a Maid, with Beatrice LaPlante; "Half a Chance," with Mahlon Hamilton; "Help Wanted: Male," with Blanche Sweet and "The Virtuous Model," with Dolores Cassinelli. She is a New York girl.

E. Mason Hopper will become a near train-wrecker through the exigencies of his profession as a motion picture director. He is scheduled to wreck a Los Angeles street car for the Mary Roberts Rinehart original screen story tentatively called "The Glorious Fool." Richard Dix, who plays the leading male role, will ride in the ill-fated car and Helene Chadwick, who plays opposite him, has promised to be on hand with her first aid kit.

Canadian-Born Actor Is Dead

News has just been received from Culver City of the death, on Tuesday, April 26th., of Andrew Robson, veteran actor, in the Methodist Hospital, Los Angeles.

Mr. Robson, who was 55 years old, had been on the stage since 1889, during the past seven years in motion pictures. He was born in Toronto, Can., and began his stage career with a Canadian stock company. Later, coming to the United tates, he starred in "Richard Carvel," a role he played a thousand times: "Pretty Peggy", and "The Royal Box". He played lead to Nance O'Neill, James O'Neill and Virginia Harned.

Mr. Robson's first screen role was that of Lothario in "Mignon" in 1914. The latest picture in which he took part was "All's Fair in Love", recently made at the Goldwyn studios, Richard Dix, who has the leading role in the photoplay, was the only visitor allowed to see Mr. Robson in the week before his death.

Carter de Haven's Frog Pond Tempts Scenario Editor

The other day at luncheon Mrs. Carter de Haven was telling about the trouble they were having with frogs about the swimming pool of the de Haven estate and she remarked how strange it was that they didn't seme able to eradicate the frogs no matter how many they caught.

She added that they were about fed-up on frog legs and still the jazzbo-ukulele-bullfrog troubadours kept up their nocturnal concerts.

R. R. Rockett, of the Rockett Company, sympathized with Mrs. de Haven and suggested that they drain the pool and let the drought drive the frogs away..

To this Phil Hurn, editor-in-chief of the Rockett scenario department, strongly objected. He championed the cause of the frogs and advised Mrs. de Haven to let them alone, casting doubt upon her efforts to eradicate them.

"But they make so much noise we can't sleep," said Mrs. de H.

And she won't know until she reads this that Phil Hurn lives right back of her frog pond and that he puts new frogs pond into it as fast as Carter de Haven fishes them out. The reason is, not only that Hurn likes frog legs, but that he has gotten so used to the nocturnal racket of the amphibians that when they stop yelling he can't sleep, hence his surreptitious replenishing of the pond.

Mary Garden In Movies Again?

Is Mary Garden to be won over to the movies again?

That question arose following Miss Garden's recent visit to the Goldwyn studios at Culver City. When asked by a reporter if she intended to return to screen work, she said:

"I should love to. This studio thrills me. When I made 'Thais' for Goldwyn the art had not developed to the point it has now reached We worked on little stages, chilly and uncomfortabe. But now," she added, waving her long walking stick toward the big glass stages, "you have more facilities to work with than any other of the arts."

Miss Garden was the guest of Rupert Hughes when she visited the studio. Upon meting Reginald Barker and Frank Lloyd, featured Goldwyn directors she entered into a long discussion with them about the present state of motion pictures. She even went to the studio theatre and looked at scenes from "Mr. Barnes of New York," starring Tom Moore, and "The Grim Comedian."

Of Pheobe Hunt, playing the feminine lead in the latter picture, Miss Garden said: "She has the most marvelous hair I have ever seen."

Duncan In What He Thinks Most Strenous Bout

What William Duncan believes the greatest fight scene he has ever staged was made at Vitagraph's California studios this week, when he had for his opponent Tom Wilson, playing the villain in his new feature production, "Where Men are Men." There was no protecting the hero in this fight, as Duncan takes a personal pride in his ability to handle his fists. Wilson is a bigger man than Duncan and in his youth was known as "Sailor Tom Wilson", sparring partner and trainer for Bob Fitzsimmons when the renowned freckled one was heavyweight champion of the world.

FINED FOR ASSAULT.

Workman on Filtration Plant Before County Magistrate.

Patrick Fritz, a red-headed, red-bearded labourer of German descent, but one of Uncle Sam's doughboys in the big scrap, was fined $5 and costs, totalling $15.11, by Magistrate O. A. Langley, in the County Police Court to-day, for assaulting Mrs. Mary White, his landlady.

The house wheer Fritz lived is near the filtration plant. Mrs. White told accused not to throw the dishwater out of the front door. A wordy argument ensued in which Mrs. White was struck upon the face. Magistrate Langley decided that Fritz did not conduct himself in a gentlemanly manner, and made him pay for his hasty action.

MONKEYS SHOW GREAT CLEVERNESS

WASHINGTON. — "The Orang-utan, when he is captured young, soon becomes friendly with man, and attached to those who feed and care for him," W. H. Sheak, of Philadelphia, said at the meeting of the American society of Mammalogists here.

This monkey also has a very human-like smile, and when the young animals play they smile often. But when the Orang-utan grows older, he is inclined to become mean and cross, said Mr. Sheak.

"The Orang-utan is almost, if not altogether, as intelligent as the chimpanzee," declared Mr. Sheak. "But, as he is less active, he does not show up to as good advantage. Mr. Orang-utan spends much of his time sitting silent in one corner of his cage. He does not weep as easily as the chimpanzee, nor laugh aloud as often.

"One Orang-utan wanted a walnut that lay just beyond his reach outside his cage. He tried to roll some straw into a wand, but this was too much broken. After deliberating for some time, he took off a red sweater he was wearing, pushed it between the bars of the cage, dropped it over the nut and pulled the nut within reach. This same animal pushed his keeper toward a lantern that was turned too high, because he had previously been burned by one that took fire and exploded.

A LITTLE WATER ON THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE, PLEASE!

Ashburnman residents crossing the river three or four times a day look down at the millions of gallons of water lapping the feet of the new bridge and wonder why some of it, just a sprinkle or two at regular intervals, cannot be splashed on the dust that seems never at rest. Now and then, they say, a cart rolls over and forgets to go back until away on in the dav when pedestrians are becoming suffocated.

THE WHITE-SCOTT GOLDEN WEDDING.

Anniversary Function in Lindsay a Delightful One.

LINDSAY, June 10—On June 10.—On June 7th, 1871, in the pretty little Anglican church at Bergervil, Quebec, the wedding was solemnized by Rev. George Vernon Houseman, assisted by Rev. C. W. Rawson, of Col. George Rolt White and Mary Frances Scott.

The function was a delightful one.

The honoured couple with relatives first attended a service of thanksgiving, and also received hoy communion at St. Paul's church, Lindsay. The Rev. Canon Marsh officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. McConnachie. The wedding march was played by Mrs. A. Palen. Rev. Canon Marsh took advantage of the occasion to refer to the significance of the anniversary and expressed the hope and prayer that God would bless the honored couple with many more years of happiness.

In the afternoon a reception was held at the home of Col. White, when a large number of invited guests tendered congratulations and partook of a dainty luncheon. The venerable couple seemed to have renewed the spirit of youth and entered heartily into the gladsome festivities. They were the recipients of a great many beautiful presents as well as congratulatory messages from all parts of the world.

Col. and Mrs. White, who intend spending the summer with their son, were both born in Canada. Col. White was for a number of years commanding officer of Quebec and commanding officer of Third Special Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment at the time of the South African war.

Among the relatives present at the anniversary was a sister-in-law, Mrs. (Major-General) Wilson of Quebec. An incident of note in connection with the anniversary was the fact that a son of Col. and Mrs. White, (Harold B.) of Philadelphia, was blessed with the arrival of a young son on Tuesday.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is aching; if what you eat sours and forms acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before eating more food.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless.

Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast.

Cold blooded creatures always have tough hides.

WIFE SUFFERED SIXTEEN YEARS

"I am now enjoying good health for the first time in years, and I owe it all to Tanlac," said Robert Lorne Wise, a well-known iron moulder, living at 105 Caledonia Road, Toronto, Ont.

"Sixteen years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach. I didn't pay much attention to it at first, but it kept getting worse, until during the past year or two I just had to sit up and take notice. My appetite was poor, and after meals I suffered from sour stomach and griping pains. I also suffered from constipation, and had frequent spells of dizziness, when I came near falling over. During the past summer I had an awful time from these attacks of indigestion. My kidneys were out of order, and every time I bent over it looked like my back would break in two.

"But when I finished my last bottle of Tanlac, my stomach had quit hurting, and I felt better in every way. I kept right on taking it, and kept on improving, until now I am as well as I ever was in my life. My aches and pains are things of the past. I eat hearty, sleep good, and feel fine all the time. After what Tanlac has done for me, I couldn't help speaking up for it."

CONFIDENCE IN HATFIELD IS BEGINNING TO WANE

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., June 9.—Confidence in Rainmaker Charles M. Hatfield in beginning to wane. Hatfield's contract calls for him to supply four inches of rain in three months (May, June and July). Although he arrived in a blaze of glory (plenty of rain) his record of "production" still remains at the inch and a half mark. The district in which Hatfield guarantees to supply the rain is the driest portion of the province and while there have been splendid rains outside this area Medicine Hat is sweltering in 92 degrees in the shade and the sky is cloudless.

Meanwhile out in Chappice Lake Hatfield and his brother continue their strange operations undismayed by the hot dry weather. They state that they expected this dry period, explaining that dry periods are necessary in order to create the proper etheric disturbances, so that this hot wave is in their opinion perfectly all right.

From Cave Man to Super Man

The dawn of the bronze age, 1,800 to 3,000 years before Christ, kindled a new fire in the brain of man. The casting of copper and bronze into shapes for food containers and weapons for hunting food brought into his reach tremendous possibilities—wonders that the crude mind of that day could only hazily perceive.

Alongside of this practical development in early man, there must have been also an interesting development of early thought. At first he was busy think, "I am hungry. How can I kill that bear for food," etc. In due course, perhaps one hundred thousand to thirty-five thousand years before the bronze age, a concrete thinking power far above the dream level of the animal must have developed, as evidenced first by the rough stone implements of the Neanderthal men, and later by the highly polished flint hammer heads, and the carving of animals, etc., of no mean quality on bones and rocks in the caves of the Reindeer men. Whether they had any speech or language then to communicate thought or ideas, no one knows definitely, but the intelligent paintings rather indicate that they had some form of direct speech. They seemed to be preoccupied with animals and men, and were not interested in theology or philosophy, or superstitions or speculations of the past or the future. The carvings are of a fearless natural character. All of these crude developments in domestic science, art and thought were necessary to the final discovery of the complex metal with which our kitchens are so beautifully equipped to-day.

The seventh number of this series will appear on this page in to-morrow night's issue.

TEN "THOU SHALT NOTS"

1. Thou shalt not be dilatory nor wait for something to turn up, but shalt diligently gird up thy loins and hasten to turn up something lest it be not inverted.

2. Thou shalt not go about thy business adorned as the advance agent of a horse-race, nor shalt thou be garbed in the dress of the old-clothes man, for, verily, thy personal appearance is of more value than many letters.

3. Thou shalt not have thy mouth and thy mind filled with reasons why thou didst not do it; nor, when thou art chided, shalt thou say "I did not think."

4. Thou shalt not use up the time or the patience of thy employer awating a diagram of they duties, nor a calendar of when and how they shall be performed, if thy days are to be many in the job which thou holdest.

5. Thou shalt not fail to remember that, if thou art a disciple of Gillette, thou must gaze upon thyself in the mirror, and shouldst see therein a man of integrity, who commandeth thy respect..

6. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's job, nor the salary which appertaineth thereto, but thou shalt cast thine eyes about thee and lay hold of a position that maketh his look like thirty pence.

7. Thou shalt not fail to be frugal, nor shouldst thou forget that there are in each simoleon but one hundred units, and thou shouldst of a certainty be the possessor thereof ere thou spendest it.

8. Thou shalt not be afraid to raise thy voice in the market-place, nor to acquaint the people with thy name and thy deeds, nor neglect to call aloud thy wares, which thou hast for barter, lest thou and thy goods be not heard of.

9. Thou shalt not hesitate to say "Nay" when, peradventure, thy friends would 'touch' thee, nor when thou art entreated to place the name of the son of thy father upon a writing which beareth the legend "I promise to pay," for in this there lieth much trouble.

10. Thou shalt not spurn Opportunity, nor drive her from thy habitation, nor fail to call upon her when she is near, but thou shalt open wide thy doors ,yea, invite her to enter and take up her abode with thee.

Summary.

Thou shalt not refrain from giving to thy fellow man a square deal, nor shalt thou make unto thyself enemies; neither say we unto thee shalt thou fear them, but thou shalt live and act so that thou mayest look the inhabitants of the earth in the face and say "Go to."

Upon these commandments hang all the law and the protfis.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Sir: Will you allow me space in your column, The Voice of the People, to let our citizens know the destruction some of the boys will do. Now, Mr. Editor, two or three weeks ago myself and my neighbor thought of the safety of others who use the water above the dam to the Smith street bridge. In that water there are several piers just under the water. We took advantage of the low water and worked there and built up the three piers so that the cittzens who use the water for boating could see that there was danger there. In the centre of one of the piers we planted a post so that it would be above water at high water mark as a danger signal, which we thouhgt would probably avoid a drowning accident by running upon the jier that was just under water.

Now ,Mr. Editor, last night we went down to the water. To our surprise we saw two boys in a punt (whose names and addresses are known) wilfully destroying the pier that was built up, for the sake of a post about 4 feet long.

Now, Mr. Editor, is there no protection for such work, when our citizens give their time doing something that is for the protection of others. We want to make that body of water safe so that it can be used with fear of an accident, but of what avail if it is to be destroyed for the sake of a stic kof firewood. I hope that such work as I refer to can be stamped out—not for myself but for the sake of others. "Safety first." Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your past favors, I remain,

F. J. Tuggey, 578 Harvey Street.

DISSOLUTION SALE

Compelled to Raise Money Quickly the Price of Suits to Order Has Been Cut to a Fraction of Their Value

A SENSATIONAL MONEY-SAVING OPPORTUNITY FOR THE NEXT FEW DAYS

The withdrawal from the firm of one of the partners of The Regent Tailors compels us to raise a large sum of money at once to buy his interest. This must be done within the next few days. No matter at what loss to us, a large quantity of materials must be made up into suits at the earliest possible moment. The one thought in our minds is to get the money quickly.

In order to raise these funds, it has been decided to cut the price of our suits to measure to a point where the public will be compelled to buy because of the extraordinary saving.

So, For The Next Few Days We Offer You A Regular $25 to $30 Suit Made To Your Individual Measure for Only

The regular prices of these suits has been reduced from $25 and $30 to $15, virtually cut in two. You have a choice from a superb line of worsteds, tweeds, homespuns, and fancy mixtures, all-wool imported goods, right up to the minute in color and design, as fine a lot of fabrics as can be found in any tailoring establishment in Canada.

This Dissolution Sale begins Saturday morning at 8.30 o'clock, and will continue until just enough suits are sold to realize the sum of money required. It will be stopped as soon as we raise sufficient money. We lose money on every suit we sell, and naturally do not wish the loss to be greater than necessary. So if you would be sure of getting a suit at this special price, come to our store as soon as you can.

Remember, that the tailoring and finish of these suits will not be skimped in any way. You get the regular, well-known, high-grade Regent Clothes, a suit made to your order in any style desired, for only FIFTEEN DOLLARS. It is the Wonder Offer of To-day.

Extra clerks will be on hand to give you prompt service. We strongly advise our friends not to miss this extraordinary opportunity.

LOCKWORKS' SLIPS HELP WESTCLOX TO WIN IN MERCANTILE BY 9 TO 7

Lock Works failed to hold a four-run lead gain early in the game, and Westclox won the Mercantile League attraction at Riverside last evening. The score was 9 to 7. Lapses on the part of the lockmakers in the seventh lost to them the chance to tie it up and win. A runner at third failed to move on a play to first and a batsman did not run on a grounder down first that looked to be foul but rolled inside the line. At that time, with two gone on strike-outs, Lock Work were hitting Doughty's shoots. Two runners were in and there were two on.

A pair of passes by C. Wolff and Hill's single back of first, gave Lock Works two runs in the first. Westclox errors gave them two more in the second, two fast fielding plays by Al. Doughty, at short, stopping other runners at third. Huffman was nailed at the plate on a nice play by Powell. The two innings had seen Westclox retired in order.

Lock Works were halted in the third. Westclox sent three runs across when Neary lost control, one of his passes forcing a runner in. Prosser's single scored two.

A pass, steal, Doughty' error and Neary's hit gave Lock Works another run in the fourth. Legros' hit, his two thefts and Liddell's error allowed Legros to score in Westclox half.

With Doughty pitching for Westclox and Conners for Lock Works, the latter were retired, but Westclox got three. Walker's double driving in the runs.

Two strike-outs and an out at first stopped Lock Works in the sixth. With one down, Doughty singled and stole, and was hit home by Prosser. Herb Wolff hit for three bases, but was called out for not touching second base. The hit scored Prosser. Powell fanned for the third out.

In Lock Works' last half, Conners and Neary fanned, Hill, Margrove, Thorndyke and Huffman singled for two runs, the latter beating out his hit. Black hit down first and he did not run it out. The ball went foul and rolled back over the line, making it fair, giving LeGros an easy out that ended the game.

ZION SCORES SIX IN LAST FRAME, DEFEATING LAKEFIELD BY 13 TO 12

Local fans received their first baptism of East Peterborough League baseball at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon, when Zion came from behind and defeated Lakefield by the score of 13 to 12. It was an afternoon of wallops, some of them never being out-distanced at the ball lot. There was also some smart fielding, a brace of double plays being thrown in for good measure. Hull, playing middle field for Lakefield, made a nifty catch of George Close's long fly in the fourth, and doubled B. Crowley at first. Fitzgerald took a drive from Connors and made it a double killing by throwing to Greer and getting Shaughnessy.

The fielding honors, however, went to Coughlin, at first base for Zion. He took eleven chances without a slip, five of them coming on throws from Rice, who handled as many grounders in faultless style. Rice also gave a good exhibition of pitching.

That which adds interest to the games of ("Jake") Solomon's circuit was present throughout the game. Everybody was doing it yesterday. Lakefield would get away to what looked to be a comfortable lead when Zion would come back with a series of wallops that would keep them in the race. At the fifth Lakefield had a two-run lead. They added four more in th sixth, Zion retaliated by scoring a quartet of runs. Then in the seventh Lakefield got three runs, giving them a lead of five. Clancy led in the seventh for Zion's last chance with a single. Jackson fanned. Greer, at second base, knocked down a hard drive from B. Crowley, but the throw was a bit high and the runner was safe. Then followed five consecutive clouts in all directions. With the score tied and a runner at third, Erskine took a grounder and threw wildly at first, allowing the winning run to score.

It was hot work for Zion in the seventh, but it brought victory.

Game Next Wednesday.

Another league game will be played at Riverside Park next Wednesday evening at six o'clock, when Zion will play Douro. The game will be a hummer, and local fans should reserve the date.

MIDGETS CAPTURE SHIELD; WIN THE GAME BY DEFAULT

O nTuesday night the G. T. Midgets defeated the Hungry Nine by the score of 21 -12. They won by default from Patterson's street on Thursday night thus capturing the shield.

Batteries for the Midgets were Chambers and Coheen; Miller and Robertson.

BASEBALL NOTES

The scorer for the Lindsay Post should spend his next half holiday in a quiet study of the sections of the baseball rules that deal with scoring. The Post box score credits the pitcher with an assist for each strike-out he is responsible for, gives the batter a sacrfiice hit whenever a base-runner advances on an out, whether a sacrifice is intended or not, fails to take off a time at bat or a sacrifice hit, calls a single to the outfield a double when the batter goes to second on a throw to the plate to catch a runner, and in general violates half the rules in the book.

The Lindsay Post complains about Manager Solomon's crabbing in a ball game. How about Coombs, who was kicking all through Wednesday's game and who, unike the Petes' manager, did not know what he was kicking about.

The Post describes Micky Murray's wild heave to first in the ninth innings Wednesday as a clean hit for Coombs. Some hit!

GROVE SCHOOL CRICKETERS WON FROM OLD TIMERS

Grove School cricketers defeated a time-worn eleven from Peterborough yesterday afternoon by 73 to 67. he match was arranged by Rev. McKenzie, and was enojyed by the old Peterborough cricketers, even if they were somewhat rusty in their fielding and batting. It was a case of youth versus middle age. Youth triumphed, but the veterans put up a batle that made the youngsters call in all their reserves. The match provided great comedy, and no opportunities were lost amongst the Peterborough ranks to make sport of their parboiled comrades, some of whom had not had a bat in their hands for thirty years. The effect was to somewhat distract their attention from the game. Jack Stratton used a baseball arm that made the catcher's hands tingle, and more than once Walter Stocker had to remind him to throw them easy.

The Peterborough team was made up of Walter Stocker (captain), Frank Whitehouse, C. R. Widdifield, Albert Stratton, Jack Stratton, Dr. Young, J. E. Bates, George Boucher G. A. Macdonald, Eldridge of the Quaker Oats, A. E. Dawson, and O. A. Langley.

Following the strenuous game, the Peterborough team were the guests of the boys at supper at the School. The Grove students proved to be as hospitable hosts as they were good and fair players, and the kindness of the School was fully appreciated by the Peterborough cricketers.

A return match is being arranged for next week.

Several exceptional players are on the Grove team, Ald. Frank Whitehouse said to-day, and he predicted a stellar cricket career for the boys if they followed up the game.

WOOLLENS TOP THE CITY SOCCER LEAGUE

DEFEATED G.W.V.A. BY 3 TO 0 LAST NIGHT.

In a fast, clean soccer game played at Rev. C. J. Phelan's Fair at the Exhibition Grounds last night, the Canadian Woollens put themselves at the head of the City League by winning from the War Vets 3-0. The game was a good exhibition of football, and what tickled the soccer enthusiasts more than anything was the clean play. In the first ten minutes of play E. Jones scored for the Woollens. M. Shaw got the second goal, and in the second period J. Shaw secured the third tally on a penalty kick. The War Vets had a penalty kick in the last ten minutes of the game but failed to score. A week from Saturday the two teams will clash again; on Tuesday they play the Comrades, and to close their schedule, have one game with the De Laval.

J. L. Howarth was referee.

The line-ups were:

Canadian Woollens—Goal, Fenner; full backs, Cridland and Chambers; half-backs, Frost, McMillan and Roberts; forwards, Beard, H. Jones, M. Shaw, J. Shaw and E. Jones.

G.W.V.A. — Goal, Jones; full backs, Perry and Gamble; half-backs, Hurle, Haycock and Peel; forwards, Burrows, Monks, Dwyer, Willis and Sharman.

C.G.E. LINE UP FOR BIG GAME TO-MORROW

The C.G.E. team will line up as follows against the St. Kits' soccer eleven at Riverside Park to-morrow night:

Goal, Griffin; full backs, Mason and McDonald; half-backs, Williams, Turner and Ninn; forwards, Manders, Hotston, Parkins, Gash and Bartley.

The C.G.E. players are requested to meet at the G.W.V.A. Rooms at five o'clock.

HIDES AND SHOES FREE

Changes Predicted in U.S. Permanent Tariff by N.Y. Paper.

NEW YORK, June 9. — The "Journal of Commerce" says that free hides free leather and free boots and shoes will be the feature of the free list of the new permannt tariff bill. This result has been brought about by the unyielding fight made by the Western and especially the agricultural interests against the old formula of putting hides on the free list and protecting leather and manufactures of leather.

In a conference of the majority member of the Ways and Means Committee the final vote on the situation stood 9 to 8 for free hides. Then the western members, who have the cattle interests in their districts, and representatives from farming districts, revolted and declared that if there must be, as heretofore, free hides there should be free leather and free boots and shoes.

AT THE THEATRES

FEMALE IMPERSONATOR PLEASES AT CAPITOL

With a resplendent head of yellow curly hair, a black satin wrap, and a couple of beautiful evening gowns in the latest mode, Gene Pearson, the female impersonator at the Capitol Theatre, received a rousing welcome last evening. He possesses a sweet voice with an extraordinarily high range, and when he doffed his ear-rings and his wig, sang "Peggy O'Neil" in a fine baritone voice that was just as pleasing.

The picture, "Straight is the Way," with Matt Moore and Gladys Leslie, is a heart-interest drama, with two soft-hearted burglars and a sweet and winsome country maiden. The old constable, who remembers when he was a boy; Jonathan Squoggs, the villain, and the mythical Uncle Henry, who comes to visit through the medium of the ouija board, are funny notes in the picture, and the burglars who live in the deserted half of the old Peabody mansion, and burst into righteous indignation at the "dirty, low-down crook" who comes to rob the two defenceless ladies, are very far from being master villains. In fact, there are no real villains in this pretty picture, and it ends as peacefully as the old-time dramas.

AT THE REGENT.

LOUISE LOVELY A HIT IN EMOTIONAL ROLE

Louise Lovely, whom William Fox recently elevated to stardom, scored a sensational success in "Partners of Fate" at the Regent Theatre last night.

As the loyal wife of a man with whom she had nothing in common, and through the trying experiences of an enforced sojourn on a lonely island in the South Seas with the man she idolized and who she knew loved her, Miss Lovely rose to dramatic heights that made her characterization a constant delight.

The story itself is an unusual one. It deals with the troubles that beset an oddly paired quartette of friends, each of whom is married to a life partner with whom happiness is impossible. Then, as the result of a shipwreck, the young people, cast upon two uninhabited islands, find themselves paired as they should have been earlier—and with each couple in ignorance of the other's fate. How all the strength and weakness of their respective natures are brought to the surface in these circumstances, forms a most absorbing narrative—unique in treatment and puzzling as to what the outcome will be.

AT THE ALLEN.

AUTHOR FINDS EDGAR COMEDIES RING TRUE

Cleves Kinkead, noted playwright author of "Common Clay", has been interestingly watching production at the Goldwyn Studios of the "Edgar" pictures, the two-reel comedies in which Booth Tarkington takes his school boy hero through a series of youthful adventures. "Edgar Camps Out", the sixth of there episodes, will be shown at the Allen Theatre for 3 days commencing Thursday.

"I have been studying these "Edgar" pictures with an unusual interest", said Mr. Kinkead, 'because they prove that the only things worth while in literature are the real true things, no matter how simple they are, and how easy they may appear to be to portray. But they are a lot easier to look at than they are to do, as any one who tries to write will know."

LINDSAY CONFIDENT OF BEATING THE PETES HERE TO-MORROW

TO-MORROW'S CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE GAME AT RIVERSIDE PARK PROMISES TO BE BATTLE ROYAL.

SOME BASEBALL GOSSIP

With good weather to-morrow a record crowd is certain for the Lindsay-Peterborough Central League clash at Riverside Park, which will either put the Petes further out in front in the League race or pull Lindsay up on even terms with them once more. Lindsay expect to turn the trick. They are discounting Wednesday's victory by the Petes by declaring that the Solomon crew got all the breaks and that Oulette was not on edge for the battle. They are a fighting gang that Lindsay crew and the fact that the Petes beat them Wednesday will only make them work harder to reverse the decision to-morrow. The Peterborough squad confine themselves to saying that Lindsay will know there has been a ball game. Oulette, of course, will do the heaving for the visitors, while Manager Solomon, as usual, is not giving out any advance information as to his gunner. All the Petes pitchers are in form and anxious to draw the assignment to-morrow.

The Peterborough squad will be as follows: L. Rose, Kirn, McElory, Harrison, Swanston, Ross, R. Rose, Holyman, Cherrett, Murray, Lowe, Jackson, Pinnette, McCarney and Manager Solomon.

To-morrow's game is the last home game for two weeks, for the Petes are on the road twice next week, playing in Port Hope Wednesday and in Oshawa Saturday.

Umpire Jack Rosevear, of Port Hope, will be in charge to-morrow, and will get the teams away at 3 o'clock sharp.

CARPENTIER CONTINUES HEAVY TRAINING BHIND CLOSED DOORS

(By JACK McAULIFFE, Undefeated Lightweight Champion.)

MANHASSET, L. I., June 10.—We need X-ray eyes and spy-glasses to get a look at the Frenchman now. Outside of the road work that he takes through the woods, he is keeping himself under cover.

When Carpentier goes on the road now he has an advance guard to clear the path of photographers since an occurrence the other day. A movie man hid his camera in some weeds along the "line of march" and got about five hundred feet of the champion and his party coming down the road before they heard the click of the machine. They made a dash for him, but he was too fast and got away with the film. Since then they're watching all the time.

The Frenchman is working. From the road where the brave newshounds gather to annoy the motorcycle cop on guard, we can hear the pounding of the punching bag in the barn and the occasional thump of the glove. Beyond learning that much, we might as well be in Podunk. Carpentier even hides behind the bushes when he is ducking to and from the cow pasture.

Gus Wilson, who hands out news when he is not rubbing the Frenchman, pressing his clothes, etc., handed us a hot one. The other day Carpentier saw a rabbit in the woods and decided he would be a nice souvenir. So he ran down the cottontail after a long chase and grabbed him by the ears on the fly. The Frenchman sure is an all-around athlete.

We haven't seen a thing of the new sparring partners. Italian Joe Gans told us in a pinochle game that some more were coming, but he's getting as tight-mouthed as Descamps, the famous "no, no—get out" man.

We asked Descamps if Carpentier would go after Dempsey's bad eye. "You be in Jersey City, July 2, and you see what we do. We not see or you not see before," he answered.

We're watching the butcher's cart and the milk wagon to see if Dempsey is not sneaked into the camp. Dempsey is a dummy that is said to be on its way. The dummy is the exact size of the champion with all his vital marks outlined with bright paint. According to the rumor, Dempsey will be hung by a rope from a rafter in the barn and the Frenchman will take target practice on him. Maybe the bad eye will be fixed up with a bag of red ink, to burst when Carpentier hits the mark.

This camp sure does make me think of the old days—it's so different. I used to have the cops running me down, instead of keeping the people away from me.

KINGSTON BALL GAMES LACKING IN SUPPORT.

May Stop Them Unless Receipts Grow.

KINGSTON, June 9.— It is announced that unless the gate receipts for baseball games at the cricket field increase, it would be almost impossible to continue the games being played there.

Mr. Stanley Trotter points out the collections have been smaller this year than usual, and with the expenses of bringing in teams as great, and in some cases greater than before, the club could not be expected to continue furnishing baseball with outside teams, working at a loss.

MOVIES SEEKING MRS. BOUCK WHITE.

Ill-Treated Wife of Radical Leader May Accept Offer.

PLOUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 10.—Andree Emilie Simon White, wife of Bouck White, will probably blossom forth soon as a film star, as she has had many offers to enter the pictures. Her attorney, Barnard F. Cecire, admits that she has already refused several offers, but says that representatives of well-known concerns have been here to see her and had even taken pictures of her to test whether her picture on the screen would show up the beauty which is hers.

Mrs. White says that it will be necessary for her to work. She worked as a chemist in France. Since her first refusals to become a movie star she has thought the matter over and is less reluctant than before.

An attempt at romance has entered the situation, for Mrs. White has received daily letters proposing marriage to her after she has secured her freedom, and promising that she will come to realize that there are husbands who can be tender and kind. Her lawyer says that he does not think she will consider any of the offers, however, after her recent trouble.

Letters offering her positions in from a woman who "feels sorry for her" and will give her a position assisting with the housework and who adds that she has only one baby, which is cutting teeth.

ARE NOT GOING INTO HARD TIMES.

Fact Is Canada Is Merging From Pretty Soft Times.

"We are not going into hard times. The fact of the matter is, we are emerging from pretty soft times, and must realize that we must give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. The cause of the unrest has been selfishness and greed. We have not been giving the other fellow a chance, but think of 'Me' always."

Such were the utterances of J. A. Zeomans, Industrial Speakers' Bureau, N. Y., at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Kingston.

Non-Production.

Mr. Zeomans declared the high cost of living to be result of non-production, and "it is a fact," he said, "that in the last three years the United States has not produced 50 per cent. of what it could. The consumer will lay the blame on the retailer, the retailer on the wholesaler, and so on down to the farmer. Let us then start at the farmer. Go out in the country and buy produce, and you will pay the top prices, the same as you would in the city.

'Farm implements are needed, and in the United States not enough farm implements are being made to furnish 2 per cent. of the farms of the nation. We have got to produce more, for we have been living too long on substitutes. Millions to-day are trying to find a substitute for work, and it simply cannot be done."

Have Always Fought.

Turning to labor unrest, he said: "Capital and labor have always fought, and legislation won't stop them. Legislation never performed anything great that I know of. Till 1914 capital had the upper hand and used it. During the past seven years labor had the upper hand and fought with it at every stage. Before their fight can stop they have to come together. Manufacturers had overlooked their biggest bets. They had sold their products, but had failed to sell themselves to the workmen who made it possible for them to sell their products."

MILITARY CAMPS.

Next week will see the Prince of Wales' Canadian Dragoons and the 4th Battery C.F.A. in camp at Peterborough. The heavy battery went into camp at Cobourg on Monday. The 4th Hussars and the 34th Battery go in camp at Barriefield on Monday of next week. Belleville camp opens on the 20th.

Take Stock of Your Physical Assets

Take a mental inventory of yourself. Are there any weak points? In nine cases out of ten, if you are 100 per cent. efficient elsewhere there's a weakness in your eyes. Don't neglect the first sign of failure of the eyesight. It's the most prevalent but least necessary failing. Fowler's will look after your eyes, make them efficient and guarantee their work.

NATIONALISTS CLAIM THEY EXECUTED BRITISH AGENT BECAUSE HE PLOTTED KEMAL'S ASSASSINATION.

SHIPS BOMBARD COAST

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—Greek destroyers bombarded Karamursal village, on the southern shore of the Gulf of Ismid, and there have been several skirmishes along the Turkish front in Asia Minor. Coast towns along the Black Sea, the Sea of Marmora and the Aegean Sea are filled with refugees, who have fled from the interior because of the imminence of the Greek offensive against the Turkish Nationalists.

The Angora Government has replied to the British note relative to the execution of Mustapha Sachir, Indian British subject, declaring he was tried by court martial and convicted of plotting the assassination of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader.

Hallam was accused of having shot Lebrun in the knee when the latter broke away after having been placed under arrest. Lebrun was found not guilty by the jury of escaping from custody and also of having resisted arrest.

WHAT IS PETERBORO'S GREATEST NEED?

L. Florence: I would like to see the city put away a few thousand dollars a year to engage one industrial man exclusively, to come in contact with industries thinking of locating in Canada and induce them to come to Peterborough. I note in other cities and towns factories are coming in faster than in Peterborough. Peterborough considers if it gets one important industry in five years it does well. I think a few thousand dollars spent towards this end would benefit the city greatly.

I would also have the city print all envelopes the merchants and manufacturers are sending out through the country, bearing on the back of them the important things manufactured in Peterborough, for instance: Motors manufactured by the Canadian General will keep factories running steadily, locks manufactured in Peterborough will keep the burglars out, Canoes manufactured in Peterborough will always keep you afloat, Woollens manufactured in Peterborough never wear out, and Agricultural implements and ploughs manufactured in Peterborough make roots move fast. Such advertising is cheap, and would not only advertise Peterborough goods, but those receiving these envelopes would greatly appreciate what Peterborough is doing for the manufacturer.

I would also give the manufacturer wanting to locate in Canada free land, if necessary, reasonable help and financing, fixed taxes, etc. This would enable them to compete with the world's market. I believe in helping our industries as much as possible, as by helping them we are helping ourselves, because the more orders they can procure the bigger the pay-roll will be, more steady work and more labour employed, while their money is spent in Peterborough in necessities and rents, and by increasing the population of Peterborough we not only reduce the taxes individually, but also increase the selling value greatly. This is where the city will benefit.

I would also, for the interest of Peterborough, help advertise our city by asking the railway companies to advertise our lakes and induce tourists to come to Peterborough, as the railways advertise Muskoka and other lakes. You never see the Kawartha or Stoney Lakes advertised.

I would like to see the city arrange with the County to have the road between Lakefield and Peterborough on the east side repaired, and trees planted where necessary. This would make one of the most picturesque river drives any city could possess, for a stretch of eight or ten miles.

"SPURIOUS AND MISLEADING," SAYS BIGGS OF CRITICISMS OF ROAD POLICY BY WILSON

ACCORDING TO MINISTER'S STATEMENT, ROADS "BETWEEN BIGGS' HOUSE AND BIGGS' BARN" WERE NOT BUILT BY PROVINCE—HAS SOME HOT SHOTS FOR M.P. HE CALLS "UNCROWNED KING."

(Special despatch to The Examiner)

HAMILTON, June 11.—Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works for Ontario, whose roads policy has been under fire during the past few weeks, comes back to-day with a vigorous reply to the charges made in the House of Commons by Gordon Wilson, M.P. for Wentworth. Mr. Wilson quoted Tennyson in his attack on Mr. Biggs, declaring the latter had "roads to the right of him, roads to the left of him" etc. Here are some of the hot shots in the Biggs reply.

"The Wilson charges are spurious and his pictures misleading.

"The Roads and Bridges he claims were built by the Province were really built by the County of Wentworth.

"The blind concession, running beside my farm, is a county roadway, first designated in 1792.

"Gordon Wilson, M.P., is playing petty politics. He is only one of the many in Wentworth County who is out of step.

"The Cattle Bridge, Wilson says I built, was constructed by the county before I was an M.P.P.

"Engineers disagreed with Mr. Wilson but that is a minor point with 'the uncrowned king.'

"I am one of the heaviest tax payers in Wentworth. Mr. Wilson is not even a property owner. He enjoys privileges and does not pay for them.

"The Road that skirts my farm is part of a main thoroughfare —the policy was framed by the late government."

WILSON COUNTERS BIGGS' DENIAL AND SAYS HIS CHARGES ARE NOT SPURIOUS

WENTWORTH M.P. ROARS WHEN TOLD OF MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS' STATEMENT IN REPLY TO CHARGES OF EXTRAVAGANCE IN BUILDING ONTARIO ROADS.

DUNDAS, Ont., June 11. — (Special Despatch to The Examiner) —Gordon Wilson, M.P. for Wentworth, just roared when told Hon. Mr. Biggs called him the "Uncrowned King of Wentworth County."

"I had an idea what he would say," laughed Mr. Wilson. "His charge that I am not even a property owner in the county and do not pay for the privileges I enjoy is easily explained. We sold our house recently to the Anglican Church, and they are going to build a church there. That is the only reason I am not a property owner at present.

"But is not that really an argument in my favor? If I am not a property owner, it means that no matter how recklessly Mr. Biggs spends money, I will have no taxes to pay. It shows too that I am criticizing his policy without prejudice, because he takes nothing out of my pocket."

Mr. Wilson thought the answer to his charge that Biggs had built roads skirting his own property rather inadequate. "If the road adjacent to his own farm is part of the Provincial system, that makes my contention all the stronger, because Mr. Biggs said some time ago that there was not a Provincial road within seven miles of his farm. The fact remains that Mr. Biggs has got a city road built right up to his farm gate—and he cannot get away from it.

"The charges I made against him are not spurious. They can be proved and will be proved to the hilt. I intend to make a detailed reply to the Drury Minister and will also call a public meeting within the next thirty days, right in his own bailiwick, at which he will get a chance to state his case."

Mr. Wilson says that so far as he is concerned, there is nothing in the inference of Premier Drury at Richmond Hill yesterday, that attacks on the Biggs road policy are inspired by the "cement barons," because Mr. Biggs is starting a Government-owned cement plant. "I never owned a share of cement stock in my life. I don't know any one connected with any cement company, and have never spoken to anyone remotely connected with the industry so far as I know," declared Mr. Wilson. "The fact that I am known as 'Hydro Wilson' shows that I am a public ownership man. I went all over the Province with Sir Adam Beck, stumping for the Hydro power system, though I disagree with him on certain details of the radials. I object to duplication. This talk about cement is all nonsense."

TRINITY CHURCH: FLOWER SUNDAY.

To-morrow will be Flower Sunday at Trinity Church. The speaker for the day will be Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson, a former pastor, whose many friends in the city will no doubt be glad to hear him again. The teachers and officers of the school are requested to meet with their classes at 10.45 a.m. in the basement of the church.

LATEST ESTIMATES PLACE KNOWN DEAD AT 95, PROPERTY DAMAGE AT TEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS, CROP LOSS AT $500,000.

AND STILL INCOMPLETE

DENVER, Colo., June 11.—(Canadian Press.)— Incomplete reports from the flooded Colorado areas in response to inquiries from the Associated Press, show that ninety-five persons have lost their lives according to the latest counts. The Pueblo death list is given as forty-nine. Property damage in Pueblo is variously estimated at from ten to twenty million dollars. Damage to crops in the flood area is put at half a million.

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR DEBATING OF DISARMING

WASHINGTON HOPEFUL TO-DAY THAT SOMETHING DEFINITE WILL RESULT FROM RESPONSES OF POWERS.

PRELIMINARY STEPS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Prospects for an International Conference on Disarmament were considered bright in administration and diplomatic circles to-day following the announcement yesterday that responses of an informal nature had been received from several of the governments to whic hthe United States recently addressed preliminary suggestions for such a conference.

Nothing definite in the way of actual diplomatic discussion has so far transpired, it was said, but it is understood that preliminary steps are well under way.

G. A. HELSON ALLEGES PATENT OF HIS INVENTION IS INFRINGED

ASKS FOR AN INJUNCTION RESTRAINING THE DUSTLESS SWEEPER COMPANY, LIMITED, FROM USING GERTAIN PATENT --CLAIM IS DENIED BY THE COMPANY—SEVERAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS FIGURE IN COUNTY COURT DOCKET.

Albert H. Stratton claims $150 damages to his automobile, $20 for medical attendance for himself and unstated amounts for personal injuries and the depreciated value of his car in an action against the Hydro-Electric Commission as owners of the Peterborough street railway, to be tried by jury before Judge Huycke in the County Court next week The court opens on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The plaintiff alleges that the driver of the street car was to blame for a collision with his automobile at the corner of Park and Hunter streets on October 8, 1919.

In their reply the company say that the "plaintiff was guilty of negligence by recklessly attempting to cross the car tracks in front of the approaching street car and in bringing his automobile to a sudden standstill upon the tracks in front of the approaching car, and the collision was due entirely to his own negligence."

Florence vs Cole

This is also set down for hearing by a jury and centres upon a motor accident. Louis Florence brings action against Archie C. Cole, general merchant at Bailieboro, for $218.60 and costs. He claims that while driving southward on Park street on June 22, 1920, at 11.15 p.m. he was crossing the intersection of Charlotte street. When completely over the north rail of the street car tracks, the defendant's car collided with plaintiff's, carrying it to the south-west corner of Park and Charlotte streets and bringing up at a large iron hydrant. Negligence on Cole's part is alleged by Florence. Defendant denies the statements of plaintiff and makes a counterclaim of $75.

Helson Vs. The Dominion Dustless Sweepers Company, Limited, and W. T. Blaney.

George A. Helson, salesman, Peterborough, asserts that the invention used by the Dominion Dustless Sweepers Company, Limited, was discovered and patented by himself. He alleges that on September 23, 1913, he applied for a patent in Canada for improvements in street cleaning and sweeping apparatus, and received it on January 12th, 1915. He says that he is the sole proprietor of the said letters patent of invention, entitled to all the benefits arising from them.

Continuing his statement is: "The plaintiff has recently discovered for the first time that the defendants without the permission of the plaintiff have caused to be constructed machines constructed according to the plaintiff's invention, or upon the principle or process of the same, or only colorably differing from the plaintiff's said invention." He asks for an injunction restraining the defendants from using the patents and $500 for alleged intringement.

The defendant's deny the whole statement of claim and say that nothing was invented by the alleged inventor of the devices described in the re-issued patents dated March 2, 1920. They also declare that there was nothing new or useful in the re-issued patents and that the said invention had been described in Canadian or foreign patents, or otherwise described to the public prior to the date of the alleged invention thereof.

Defendants also say that they had a practical working machine produced when the re-issue of the patent was applied for on January 7, 1919, and August 2, 1920, although the patent of the plaintiff was dated January 12th, 1915.

Patterson Vs. Burnham.

William Patterson, a farmer formerly residing in Douro, alleges that on April 1st, 1920, he agreed with Mark S. Burnham to work the defendant's farm on shares, that he did work the farm but received no accounting of the money which the produce bought. He claimed a share of the assets of the partnership and costs.

Defendant replies that Patterson omitted to plow nine acres and allowed 8 barrels of apples to become frozen, failed to feed cows and caused other losses. Mr. Burnham asks by way of counterclaim $500 damages for non-performance and negligent performance of duties.

McQuigge Vs. Hunter.

Mrs. Cora McQuigge of Havelock claims $2,000 for injuries suffered in an automobile accident in Asphodel Township on October 13, 1920, which, she alleges, was caused by too speedy driving by the defendant, Bradford Simpson.

SCHOOL OVER AT THE COLLEGIATE

EXCEPT FOR THE STUDENTS WHO FACE DEPARTMENTAL EXAMINATIONS.

Students at the Collegiate Institute, excepting those who write on their Matriculation or Departmental examinations, are free from academic care, or are supposed to be, till autumn.

When they completed their examinations yesterday afternoon, the school doors closed behind them, some for the last time, some till they resume their studies in September.

Joy and sadness were mingled in the hearts of those who drifted out of the Collegiate yesterday afternoon—joy that the examinations were over, was unconcealed, but the sadness was deeper and not so apparent, yet it was there.

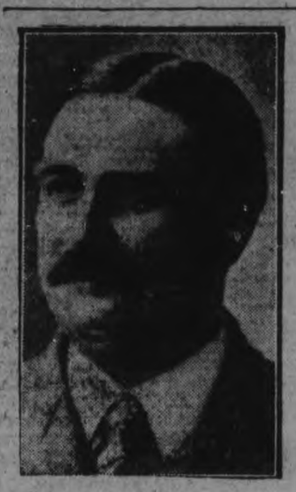
The Matriculation and Departmental examinations commence next week and run into the following week.

Collegiate youths this year will feel the unemployment situation. In other years the boys readily obtained jobs in factories and on the farms, and in two months work made enough money to furnish a luxurious holiday somewhere, and keep them in pocket money for a period. The work to those boys, less fortunate in worldly goods, came as a God-send, and this year they will be the ones to feel the pinch. A few will obtain work on the farm but from the present outlook most of the youths will from force of circumstances remain idle. One effect of the situation will be that boys who in recent summers found a new joy in earning money, will spend their summer on the river or at the lakes.

"PETERBOROUGH AND ITS NEED"

Will be the subject of the addresses Sunday night in Central Park. The songs will include a solo and quartette by the Hartshorn Quartette, Mr. Wallace Mulligan taking the solo. Mrs. Gordon Hartshorn will also sing a solo. Mr. G. W. Mulligan will sing as usual. The various organizations that are interested in a better Peterborough are invited to be present and take to heart the vital truths, without any varnish or color. Meeting will open at 8.15.

PROPOSED RE-ORGANIZATION OF CONSERVATIVES HERE DEFERRED AT MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT



J. HA. BURNHAM, ex-M.P.,
Who was the chief speaker at the Conservative meeting last night, at which an attempt to form a new West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association, ended in action being deferred.

DISSATISFACTION OF SOME WITH CONDUCT OF ASSOCIATION'S AFFAIRS BY EXISTING EXECUTIVE LED TO NEAR BREACH AT MEETING.

DELEGATION SECURED DEFERMENT OF ACTION

With less than one hundred persons at the meeting the Burnham faction of the local Conserative party failed in their attempt last night to re-organize the Conservative Association. In spite of the stifling heat it was expected that there would be at least several hundred Conservatives at the meeting, and it was surprising to some that after so many signing the petition for the meeting there was not a larger attendance.

William Croft was chairman. He read the proposed constitution for the new association, following which J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., made a strong attack upon the Meighen government and warmly criticized the Liberal-Conservatives in this riding for their lethargy before and since the by-election. After Mr. Burnham had spoken everything was set, for the adoption of the constitution, but J. F. Strickland and J. W. Worth, representing the Liberal-Conservatives with excellent tact, had the meeting, because of its momentous nature, adjourned for a larger attendance, a view of the situation in which Mr. Burnham concurred.

The meeting in Victoria Hall was called after every attempt had been made to have the party come together and a rejuvenation take place. Mr. Croft declared. There was virtually no other course to take. The Conservative party could not be allowed to fall by the wayside. The chiarman said there had been a petition of several hundred names that a meeting be called and he went on to read the motion of Fred C. Miller and Samuel Jordan that an association of Liberal-Conservatives be formed and that the following be the constitution of the Association:

A Constitution.

Moved by Fred C. Miller, seconded by Sam Jordan: That an Association of Liberal-Conseratives be hereby formed. That the following be the constitution of this Association:

1. The name of the Association shall be "The Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough.

2. The membership of the Association shall consist of those electors who subscribe their names in the official book of the Association as Liberal-Conservatives.

3. Only those who are members shall be eligble to vote or take part in any of the proceedings of the Association.

4. The officers of the Association shall consist of one president, two vice-presidents, a secretary and a treasurer, and these officers shall alone constitute the Executive committee of the Association. Three to constitute a quorum.

5. The duties of the Executive committee shall be to carry out matters of routine and directions given to it from time to time by the Association.

6. A general meeting of the Association shall be called at any time on two weeks' notice published in the newspapers, by the president, either by his own wish or on the written request of twenty-five members who shall guarantee the expenses of the same, twenty-five to constitute a quorum.

7. A general meeting of the Association shall be held for the selection of candidates for parliamentary or legislative purposes and said candidates shall be chosen by the Association at such general meetings by the votes of the members and if more than one nomination, then by ballot.

8. And this general meeting of June 10th, 1921, shall constitute a

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION URGES PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENTS TO ADD THIS COURSE TO CURRICULUMS.

OPPOSE CUT IN HOURS

VANCOUVER, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—Recommending that Faculties of Journalism be established in the Provincial Universities throughout Canada, the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association adopted a resolution at the closing session of the convention here yesterday, urging that Provincial Governments take steps to add journalism to the curriculum of Universities.

Other resolutions oppose any move at present for the reduction of hours of labor; urge the necessity for better publicity campaigns, and urge members of the association to pay their license fees as job printers and collect a sales tax as manufacturers.

30 CENT BUTTER ON MARKET TO-DAY

FARM PRODUCE PLENTIFUL IN SPITE OF THE RAIN.

Eggs, butter, and chickens — the three staples in the basket market—all sold around the same figure today. There was a big crowd of farmers' wives in the basket section, and consequently a plentitude of those things city folks want.

Eggs were 30 and 32 cents dozen, butter 32 and 33 cents a pound generally but if one whispered 30 cents below the hearing range of the next lady, an acquiescing nod was generally received.

Chickens sold as low as 30 cents a pound.

The Outside Market.

The drenching rain spoiled the outside market. Potatoes were 50 cents a bag. Native lettuce rhubarb, onions, and radiches sold at 5 cents, asparagus at 10 cents.

There were fine tomato and cabbage plants at 15 cnts or two for 25 cents, and asters well started were only 10 cents.

Young pigs were $10.00 to $14.00 a pair. There were only a few pairs on to-day.

The rain put a damper on the activities of the auctioneers and only one of the artistes was making any attempt to dispose of goods. Tools of various descriptions were being knocked down by him, despite the showers, and there was a gleam in his eye as he thought of his getting a lead on his contemporaries.

MR BURNHAM QUOTES KINGSTON STANDARD ON UNION GOVERNMENT

In addressing the Conservatives in Victoria Hall last night, Mr. Burnham in his stand for a return to old-line politics, made use of the following editorial from the Kingston Standard, a Conservative paper in Sir Henry Drayton's riding:

Kingston Standard.— Under the circumstances it is not surprising that almost everywhere one hears desire expressed that we should get back to real party Government again, and that mongrelism in politics shall be ended. Unionism in politics shall be ended. Unionism, necessary in war time, has served its purpose, these people say; and they add—and cirmustances it is not surprising that now has come for positivism in party—for the positivism that characterized the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald, than whom Canada has never had a greater statesman, nor one with a larger and loftier vision or a surer faith in the future of his country.

MAY'S SCHOOL AND HOME ASSOCIATION.

The ladies of the May's School and Home Association held a meeting yesterday. After a pleasant social hour in the grounds, a business meeting was held, with Mrs. Anderton in the chair. A report of the last year's work was read by the secretary, Mrs. K. M. Denoon, and the election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President, Mrs. W. Moore; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Lambden; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Stilson; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. Porter; 4th Vice-President, Mrs. Yardley; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. K. M. Denoon; Convenor Social Committee, Mrs. McCormick; of the Programme Committee, Mrs. Knox, and of the Visiting Committee, Mrs. J. Burns.

An interesting talk was given by Mrs. Jackson, Principal of May's School, on the work done in the winter months in connection with the serving of hot drinks and soup to the school children, and some discussion took place with regard to arrangements for the coming bazaar and picnic to be given by the teachers on the 25th of June. At the conclusion of business, refreshments were served.

Paners also were found, implicating 400 foreign Bolshevists staying in Sweden who will be arrested and expelled from the country, it is said. The records of the Stockholm police show the arrest of five Finlanders, former members of the Finnish Red Guard, and one Swede in connection with the movement.

OXFORD COUNTY COUNCIL ASKS CENTRAL PLACE OF EXECUTION

WOODSTOCK, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—As an aftermath to the Garfield execution, Oxford County Council has gone on record as favoring some central place for the detention and execution of convicted murderers. Part of the petition to be forwarded to the Attorney-General reads:

"And above all that the great nerve strain upon the inhabitants of small places and upon those persons living in the neighborhood of county jails be spared." Also the Council trusted that such action would minimize the bad effect of vulgar curiosity while the salutary effect of such an execution would still be preserved. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to various county councils of the Province for their co-operation.

U.S. REPUBLICANS FEAR THAT BRITAIN MAY RENEW ALLIANCE WITH JAPAN; WAIT ANXIOUSLY

CAUCASIAN RACE CANNOT AFFORD TO BE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF AND GROWTH IN ORIENTAL POWER IS A MENACE TO OCCIDENTAL PEOPLES, PRESIDENT OF REPUBLICAN PUBLICITY ASSOCIATION DECLARES.

U.S. AND BRITAIN MUST UNITE AGAINST YELLOW RACE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—In view of the importance of the Japanese question to the people of the United States, the action of the Dominions' conference in London on the question of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is being awaited eagerly by officials here. With the conflicting interests of Japan and the United States in the Far East, especially China, the island of Yap problem, the California question, and a score of other disputed points that may cause trouble between the United States and the Nippon Government remaining to be settled, there seems to be strong hope here that the British Dominions, especially Canada, Australia and New Zealand, will take a hand at the conference to prevent Great Britain from tying herself up too closely with Japan.

The trend of thought in Washington on this question is indicated in a statement just issued by the Republican National Publicity Association through the president, former Senator Jonathan Bourne. Dealing with the coming conference in London, Mr. Bourne says:

"One of the principal subjects to come before the meeting will be the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance. In the action taken on that matter the United States has more than a passing interest, in view of the points now in dispute between this country and Japan. The Premiers of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa have already signified their intention of opposing a continuance of the treaty if they see in it anything unacceptable to the United States. The first three of these Dominions in particular are faced with much the same Japanese problems as is the United States, and are determined that they shall never be placed in opposition to a nation that maintains their own viewpoint.

"The British home government, on the other hand, is embarrassed by its desire not to raise the race question while there is danger of an uprising in India. Likewise it cannot lose sight of the fact that Japan was an ally in the war and rendered considerable assistance to the Allied cause. An eye must also be kept on the possibility of a future compact between Japan, Russia and Germany as a menace to world peace, which a present Anglo-Japanese understanding might forestall.

"There are two sides to the question when considered from the angle of present-day world politics, but it is likely that its final solution will be guided by reasons more far-reaching and fundamental. The Caucasian race cannot afford to be divided against itself. If the next half century sees as rapid a growth in Oriental power and influence as the last, the white nations will have to take council among themselves on how to meet a common danger. Even now, if she chose to do so, Japan could extend her boundary almost indefinitely northward into Siberia, and the means she has adopted in the last few years to overawe the Chinese and Koreans are notorious. Although there is an antagonism at present between China and Japan, fifty years hence may well see the huge man power of China molded into a Japanese weapon of war and the natural resources of Siberia transformed under Japanese direction into an inexhaustible source of munitions.

"Treaties of alliance could never prevent the conflict that such a menace would portend. They would merely delay precautionary measures that Great Britain and other nations might otherwise take. When that time comes both the United States and Great Britain will be equally endangered, and they must both be free to consider a mutual defence. British control over India might be effected to some extent in refusing a renewal of the Japanese alliance by reason of race, but when the propitious moment comes Japan will find it just as easy to foment trouble with the natives of India with a treaty as without. In any case, that is the natural course her intrigues would take, and Great Britain would better provide against it now than delude herself into a false sense of security through a treaty of alliance with Japan.

"The American people, as well as the British, should be alive to the possibilities of the next fifty years. Should war come between the United States and Japan, we would find it very convenient to have British moral and material sympathy behind us. The presence in London of the Japanese Crown Prince is evidence of the anxiety of the Orientals to keep on a friendly footing with the British, but such bandishments must not blind Caucasian eyes to the need for the closest racial ties."

UNEARTH PLOT OF SOVIET TO START REVOLT

THE SWEDISH POLICE DISCOVER PLANS FOR SIMULTANEOUS RED UPRISING THROUGHOUT SCANDINAVIA.

ARREST MANY RADICALS

LONDON, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—The resumption of work in the British coal mines on Monday, June 20, it is generally assumed here, will result from the decision reached yesterday at the conference of the miners' delegates to take a ballot on the proposals made by the coal mine owners looking to a settlement of the strike. This assumption is said to be based less on the idea that the miners regard the latest terms offered by the mine owners as acceptable than on the belief that there will not be a two-thirds majority in favor of the continuance of the strike.

THE WEATHER

In another column in this issue, "Quintus," who provides an interesting and educative article each Saturday, says that Canadians are noted the world over for their proneness to discuss the weather, and matters relating thereto, and that with them at least it is the universal topic. However that may be, I have noticed that when the weather is pursuing the even tenor of its way, and I neglect to chronicle some startling event in the weather line (when there is none) it is gently hint that something at least would be acceptable. For several days we have had some very warm weather, warm in the sense of bodily discomfort and a feeling of oppressiveness. The thermometer each day has gone to about 83 degrees, but the air being moist the heat has been greatly felt. All around the horizon last evening there were signs of approaching rain, but it failed to materialize to any great extent, although much needed. The total that fell during the night was but .02 of an inch—barely sufficient to lay the dust. However this morning the prospects are bright for more. There is a slowly falling barometer and a humid atmosphere, and the combination should bring rain before long. There is an old proverb, however, which says that "all signs fail in dry weather."—W. INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON DISARMAMENT MAY BE CONVENED AS GREAT POWERS ARE WILLING

WASHINGTON HAS RECEIVED INFORMATION TO THIS EFFECT, FOLLOWING FEELERS PUT OUT TWO MONTHS AGO.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—An international disarmament conference, in which the United States would take an active part now may be regarded as a probability. It became known for the first time yesterday that this government has received information of readiness to talk on the subject of disarmament from some of the great Powers.

This is the first tangible result of the informal feelers put out in the last two months by the administration.

The opinions of other governments were sounded by Ambassador George Harvey at the meeting of the Supreme Council in London. Their willingness to co-operate, it is believed, has been communicated directly by Ambassador Harvey to President Harding. The result will be to expedite the calling of an international conference which probably will be held in Washington, and at which representatives of all interested Powers will be present.

LAKE OF THE WOODS CONTROL FIGHT IS STARTED BY DRURY

RICHMOND HILL, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—In an address at the U.F.O. demonstration and picnic here yesterday, Hon. E. C. Drury, Premier of Ontario, devoted most of his time to a discussion of the control of the Lake of the Woods and the action of the Dominion Government in regard to the matter. He described it as the "great emergent question of the day," and having pointed out that the problem is in no sense a political one, insisted that the people of the Province should line up and fight against (any infringement of the rights of the Province.

BITTER FIGHT CONTINUES ON LUMBER DUTY

MINNESOTA REPUBLICANS MAY DRAW HARDING INTO FRAY IN CANADA'S FAVOR.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—The fight to prevent a tariff on lumber entering the United States from Canada continued yesterday. The Minnesota Republicans have taken steps to bring the President into it. They are urging him to oppose the lumber duty in the interest of agriculture and the public in general because free lumber would encourage building.

A Car as Fine As Its Wonderful Motor

Everywhere you hear the Chalmers motor spoken of with real enthusiasm by its owners.

It is due the Chalmers motor that it should be praised. For it is truly a wonderful car.

Its Great Performance

It is wonderful in the efficiency it gets from to-day's poor gasoline. In the added miles it returns. In the way it performs and stands up.

These things are largely due to preheating the fuel by the hot-spot before it enters the cylinders.

As a direct result of this fine performance, upkeep and replacement costs on the Chalmers are surprisingly low.

Motor Not Only Feature

But Chalmers excellence is far from beginning and ending with its motor. It is a car that is finely built in every detail.

It affords consummate riding comfort, drives with a minimum of effort, and is beautiful in design and finish. We invite you to look into Chalmers records and Chalmers standing without delay.

SPLENDID NEWS.

The announcement that the conference of British coal miners delegates had decided to take a ballot in all the coal fields on the proposals made by the mine owners for a settlement of the strike, is the best news that the cable has brought us in many a day. There is every confidence that the striking miners will vote strongly in favour of dropping the wage pool scheme and in this way remove the chief obstacle to an amicable settlement. The insistence of the men upon the pool plan has been a stumbling block in the negotiations, and once this proposal is definitely out of the way the settlement of the strike should be speedily accomplished. It is thought likely that the men will get a forty per cent. increase over the wages page in 1914. All Canadians will hope that yesterday's cables were not too optimistic and that the end is near. This country has already begun to feel to some extent the result of the strike, and were the disruption of industry in Britain to be prolonged indefintely, many of Canada's manufacturers and producers would be severely hit as a result.

SOLDIER FARMERS.

War veterans in the eastern part of Canada who have for the most part ignored the Federal land settlement scheme, must begin to wonder whether or not they have not made a mistake in not paying more attention to the opportunities offered them of becoming farmers with estates of their own. The ex-service men, the great majority of them westerners, although many eastern veterans took advantage of the scheme, have done surprisingly well as farmers. A recent report shows that 25,443 veterans took up land on their return from the front and 19,771 were loaned $80,371,750 by the government for the purchase of land, implements or stock. Many of these loans have been paid back, and last year the soldier farmers produced crops valued at $13,953,178. Altogether they undertook the cultivation of nearly five million acres of ground and broke nearly 200,000 acres of virgin soil. These are figures upon which the ex-service men and the country generally are to be congratulated. Every soldier who has taken up land and made good is an asset to Canada, the value of which cannot be over-estimated, and the prosperity of the veteran-farmers is a matter for general rejoicing.

THE BEST LIFE.

Is it the strenuous life or the simple life that is most conducive to longevity? A New York medical research expert is asking the question and seeking answers from leading business and professional men. If the answers are at all representative of human life, they will probably leave the inquirer where he was at the beginning. Strenuous living agrees with some people; the simple life agrees better with others. The majority of people who live to be very old probably do not live the strenuous life as it is understood these days; althought it may be strenuous enough to them. The stories of the lives of old people seem to indicate that there is no simple rule for growing old. The secret of old age seems to be different with different people. The New York expert is himself an advocate of the strenuous life; but he is careful to add the provision that strenuous living should be accomplished by intense interest in the work, and that every man should have a hobby which will serve as a change rather than a rest.

"The proviso," comments the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, "is all important. Too little attention is given, perhaps, to the value of a harmless hobby as a factor in the problem of successful living. Everybody should have something to fall back on. There are few more pathetic spectacles than that of the man who salves and toils through the years of his active life, promising himself rest and enjoyment when his work is done, and who finds in the end that he does not know how to rest and has no capacity for enjoyment. Fortunate is the man who can derive satisfaction from his work while he is working and who has a hobby to keep up his interest when he needs a change."

THE VOGUE OF SPORT.

Never at any time in Peterborough's history has there been such general and widespread interest in the various seasonal sports as exists here at present and while some people depreciate the sport craze as overdone and carried to too great a length, there seems no reason why the enthusiasm over athletic games should not be regarded as a very health sign. The Toronto Star puts it neatly:

"This interest in games is part of our Anglo-Saxon heritage. You remember the game of bowls Sir Francis Drake finished in Plymouth Home before he set out to smash the Spaniard. You remember the archery tournaments in a glade of the green wood when William the Conqueror ruled England. You remember the jousting of the Middle Ages. Games and combats are in your blood and that's why you flock to lacrosse matches, ball games, hockey matches and all the rest of them."

The interest that Peterborough people are showing in baseball and football means a better community spirit. It means that hundreds of people get out into the open air at least once a week and forget their worries and the little problems of every day life in the excitement of the game. For the players themselves the contests mean stronger bodies and bigger muscles and the development of character. The differences of religion and social position fade away in the brotherhood of sport, and men get to know each other better and understand each other better and like each other better when they play side by side for the honour of their team. It is a great training and the British love of sport which we Canadians have inherited, has carried the Empire through many an awkward moment.

CAPITAL, LABOUR, AND THE PUBLIC.

A healthy relationship between capital and labour is largely a question of balance. This involves the mutual interests of the workers and of the employer and of the public—including all workers and employers—in order that there may be a fair return in interest for capital and wages for labour from a product which can be successfully marketed. In the maintenance of this balance there must be continual adjustments. Economic conditions do not stay fixed.

Through the organisation of labour unions the status of many of the workers has been greatly improved. A few old-fashioned autocrats helped to give the movement impetus. The unions greatly increased their control of the labour situation during the period of great demand occasioned by the war and marked by the employment of millions in military activities. Now we are experiencing a period of readjustment. Prices of agricultural products have descended to pre-war levels. Basic materials of all kinds have been drawn into the downward movement. Labour, in many cases, is endeavouring to hold to wartime price levels. But labour is, after all, a commodity, and it seems inevitable that the labour cost factor in production must also come down whether by lower wages, greater efficiency or better organisation.

In such a situation the labour leaders must carefully consider the danger of abusing their powers to the detriment of the interests of the union workers themselves as well as of capital and the public. Apart from the question of wages and of hours one weakness in the policy of some unions is the desire to put all member workers on a similar level, no matter what their ability, capacity, or willingness may be. This leads to inefficiency and provides a very important, though not apparent, factor in relation to the cost of production, thus upsetting the balance as between capital and labour on the one hand and producer and consumer on the other.

During the past twenty years or so — and particularly since 1914 — unions have been an important factor in raising the wage standards and securing other favours for their members in regard to hours and conditions. To-day labour leaders must consider how best the labour cost factor in production can be reduced in order that the benefits of lower prices for materials may become general and cut down the cost of living. To ignor this phase of the question will only mean that the real benefits of the labour movement may be lost.—Financial Post.

The Dempsey-Carpentier Fight to Date.

Dempsey lands the freedom of Atlantic City on Carpentier's jaw. Carpentier recovers and leads a two-column interview for Dempsey's solar plexus.

Dempsey counters neatly with a two-column wheel-chair ride on the boardwalk, which is a staggering blow. Carpentier replies weakly with five-column layout of pictures on shipboard. Dempsey comes back strong with picture of training quarters.

Carpentier makes a strong bid for a knockout with pictures of five sparring partners in rotogravure section of Sunday papers. Dempsey appears groggy at end of round.

Carpentier opens with five-column story of his life in France. This jars Jack considerably, but he recuperates and comes back with a crushing blow to the point of the jaw in shape of a new motion picture.

Those at the ringside believed this would end the Frenchman's chances, but he still showed signs of life and tapped Dempsey lightly on the left shoulder blade with a new picture of his pompadour. He followed this with a three-column interview on French salads.

Dempsey was staggered, but, gathering himself quickly, he struck Carpentier a vicious wallop with a three-column picture of the freight car on which he used to be brakeman out west. Carpentier clinched to end the round.

WOULD BAR WOMEN FROM BEING ON A JURY

Chicago Lawyer Argues They Are Not in Law Peers of Men.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Are women, even if they are enfranchised, the "peers" of men?

Levy Mayer, special counsel retained by the Cook County Jury Commissioners, does not think so.

The question was argued to-day before Judge Kavanagh, Mrs. Margaret L. Fay appearing on behalf of Mrs. Ebba R. Eckberg, a club woman and suffragette, who in a petition filed recently asks that the County Clerk and the Jury Commissioners be made to show cause why the names of women should not be drawn from jury panels on the same basis as the names of men.

Attorney Mayer went back to the days of the Norman conquerors to prove his contention that women never were and are not now qualified as jurors.

"Under our Constitution and Government," he said, "a man has a right to be tried by his peers. Women jurors would hardly be his peers."

"For 1,000 years," continued Mr. Mayer, "the laws of England and the United States have specified trials by juries of twelve men. There never has been any modification of this rule. It is as hide-bound as the code of the Medes and Persians.

"I have in my library volumes containing manuscript of English law back to the time of William the Conqueror, and in none of these can I find any authority for the impanelling of woman jurors.

"Not that I deny woman's fitness to serve in the role of juror in Cook County. I only wish to point out the legal barriers against such service."

U. S. RAIL MEN MAY ACCEPT CUT.

Cannot Afford to Vote Against Labor Board.

NEW YORK, June 10.—It is the opinion of many railroad officials that the railway employes of the country will not reject the 12 per cent. reduction due July 1, in accordance with the decision by the United States Labor Board last week. This will be determined by a referendum of the workers.

Sentiment is that the unions cannot afford, at present, to vote against this decision of the Labor Board. In view of the extent of unemployment, the railroads would have little to gain by a strike.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

CONFESSION

Chapter 73.

I opened my eyes again and stared into the darkness of my room. Leonard was still pacing back and forth across the rug. I wondered how long we had been there. It seemed ages.

He stopped again, and went on speaking, chcosing his words with an effort and as if each one caused him deadly pain. Still I did not believe the pain of them could be any worse for him than for me.

"I am not trying to defend myself. I only want you to understand things as they are. What I have done is bad enough. I only want you to know—know the truth. The fact that for months and months I have been able to put you aside and be susceptible to the subtle power of another woman, is beastly—I—I loathe myself for it! But before God, you must believe me when I say it is this, and only this. And now before it is too late, too late to even come and tell you that I have come to my senses now before I have defiled my manhood, does not excuse the rest—does not make it much easier to bear the shame of my neglect as a husband."

He came toward me slowly. I gripped the arms of my chair and the wicker creaked and groaned under the strain of my grasp. It was easier when he did not stand so close.

"I am thankful that I have been able to come to you and tell you. I have tried to hide it, to keep it from you, long enough. I have only contempt for myself when I think that I have been glad you did not know—that I have been able to deceive you. I could not come back to you and take again that which, if you knew, you would not care to give me. The only way I could bring peace or honor to myself was to tell you—tell you everything—and—and then give you your release—your—your freedom from me." His voice broke and the dreadful words came in heart-rending sobs.

I felt him brush against my knees and then sink to the floor as he tried to reach the couch. His head and shoulders lay across it and his arms reached out and clung to the covering. His shoulders rose and fell with the exhausting strength of his sobs. All the strain of the past months gave way and surged over him

I did not feel any to strong myself. But my long suffering had given me poise. I slipped down on my knees beside him. I was trembling again terribly.

I laid my hand gently on his shoulder. He moved a little, but did not raise his head.

"Don't touch me, Noreen—don't! I don't ask it," he said, brokenly. "Only believe that the best—the best of me was true to you."

"I know—I know!" I said softly, trying to steady my voice. "Don't try to tell me. I am thankful, oh so thankful," I sobbed, my voice giving way to the tumult of my heart.

We stayed like that, very still, for a few minutes. Then I raised my hand and caressed the back of Leonard's head, stroking his hair ever so lightly.

"I knew that you would surely come to yourself again," I said, and all the answered longing of my soul went into those words.

"You knew! You knew all the time?" he asked, and when I whispered to him that I did—"You knew and still care?" he asked, turning quickly and catching me by the shoulders, trying eagerly in the darkness to search my face.

Tomorrow—Reconciliation.

Ouch! Lame Back

Rub backache, Lumbago, Soreness and stiffness away—Try this!

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

When a hurrying male looks at a pretty girl and gives a violent start, it doesn't mean that he is charmed. It means that he has just remembered to get that paint for the porch furniture.—Robert Quiller.

A copy of this announcement has been filed for registration pursuant to Section 43 (a) of the Companies Act Amendment Act, 1917, Dominion of Canada, and a copy has been filed with the Provincial Secretary of Ontario before its issue.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Greater Canada Security Corporation, Limited

Greater Canada Security Corporation, Limited, has been incorporated under the Companies Act of the Dominion of Canada, with power to carry on the business of buying, selling, and otherwise dealing in stocks, bonds, mortgages, and investments generally, but it is especially intended to purchase existing mortgage investments, particularly existing second mortgages on improved real estate.

The Corporation has been organized after a thorough investigation of the mortgage and housing conditions in several Canadian cities. This investigation brought out the following facts:

(a) There is a real scarcity in Canada of funds for mortgage investment.
(b) There is a serious shortage of houses in nearly every Canadian city and town.
(c) There is a close relation between the scarcity of mortgage funds and the lack of houses.
(d) The shortage of funds for mortgage investment is due to a combination of circumstances, among which are: the lack, owing to war conditions, of funds coming into Canada as formerly for investment, the rate of English exchange, the large investment of private and company funds in Victory Bonds, and the higher rate of interest obtainable in recent years on bonds and debentures.
(e) That only one home purchaser in seven is ready to pay in cash the balance of price above the ordinary first mortgage.
(f) That while material and labor costs are contributing factors to the housing shortage, the real key to the situation in every city is that the majority of builders have their working capital tied up in second mortgages or sale agreements.
(g) That insurance and loan companies are largely prevented by statutory or other limitation from dealing in second mortgages or sale agreements.

After this investigation, and in view of these facts, it was concluded that it was possible to organize at this time a corporation that would specialize in purchasing existing second mortgages, and that such a business, while affording relief to the builder and relieving the housing shortage, would at the same time be profitable, and Greater Canada Security Corporation, Limited, has been formed on the following basis:

(a) Authorized capital stock divided into 50,000 8% cumulative preference shares of $100.00 each and 75,000 ordinary shares without nominal or par value.
(b) The preference shares are entitled to a cumulative preferential dividend at the rate of 8% per annum, but not to further participation in the profits of the Company. They are also entitled to repayment of capital in priority to the ordinary shares. Preference shareholders are entitled to attend and vote at all meetings.
(c) The common or ordinary shares have no declared nominal or par value, but for the purpose of Sections Nos. 70 and 82 of the Companies Act, the capital of the Company shall be deemed to be the amount of the allotted preferred shares issued, and in addition a sum equal to $5.00 for each allotted common or ordinary share.
(d) No amount has been paid or is intended to be paid to any promoter.
(e) There are no founders or management or deferred shares.

To obtain the capital necessary for this business at this time, it was necessary either to organize and train a sales force for the marketing of these shares, and to make substantial outlays for advertising, etc., or to obtain some reliable and competent sales organization, which would assume all expenditures. The following arrangement was affected:

(a) The Smoot Service Corporation, Limited, a company incorporated under the Dominion of Canada Companies Act and having its head office in Toronto with branch offices in other Canadian cities, and with organized sales forces, has undertaken the selling of the Company's preferred and common shares.
(b) Greater Canada Security Corporation, Limited, has given an option on shares of its unissued capital stock to The Smoot Service Corporation, Limited, and is to receive in cash, the full par value ($100.00) to each preferred share and $5.00 per share for each common or ordinary share which is issued thereunder.
(c) The Smoot Service Corporation, Limited, has undertaken all costs in connection with selling the shares, including the costs of branch offices, sales managers salesmen, advertising, literature, etc., and is selling to the public in units of one preferred and one ordinary share, the 8% preferred shares at par ($100.00) and the common shares at $35.00 per share, thus securing a margin above the option price sufficient to cover expenses incident to the marketing of the shares, and to leave a margin of profit for The Smoot Service Corporation, Limited.
(d) The Smoot Service Corporation, Limited, assumes all risk in the undertaking and receives no remuneration, except as shares are sold and paid for, and its ultimate profit is dependent on the success of Great Canada Security Corporation, Limited, creating an increased value for the ordinary shares.

STRAWBERRIES AND TOMATOES BEGIN TO DROP IN PRICE

LOCAL BERRIES ONLY BEGINNING TO ARRIVE AND ARE COMPARATILELY FEW AT PRESENT—FRUIT AND VEGETABLE SEASON SHOWING NEW LIFE.

That there will not be a very large crop of strawberries is the opinion of Walter J. Oke. The frost is responsible for this and high prices will likely prevail, it is believed. There are no local berries of any account on the Peterborough market yet. In the wholesale fruit market they are steady. Canadian berries sell to the trade at 30 and 35 cents a quart, so the retail price is generally 40 cents, or of poorer grade 35 cents. Imported strawberries are practically off the market. Pint boxes are selling in the shops at 20 and 25 cents.

Lemons are high and likely to be higher say fruit men. California lemons are quoted by one jobber, F.O.B. Toronto, $10 per case of 300 or $900 per case of 240. Only the smaller variety are selling at 40 and 50 cents. All of the good ones are 60 cents, and 10-cent lemonade is not improbable at the summer attractions this year. Tomatoes are selling as low as 25 cents in the shops. All are hot-house. A reduction in the price is anticipated shortly. Watermelons are high. Only an occasional small one is selling under $2. Most of them are figured about $2.50, and for 30 cents you get one-eight, about the smallest possible division that can be made. There is some complaining over cantaloupe prices. A small one costs 40 or 45 cents, but then see how far they come. New potatoes are selling at 70 or 80 cents a peck. Wholesale they are quoted at $5.50 to $6.75 a barrel, a low price when it is recalled that old potatoes sold at about the same price a year ago per bag.

The charge against profanity is that when it isn't necessary it is superfluous, and when it is necessary it is inadequate.—British Whig.

SAY LENINE MOST CHEERFUL SOVIET

LIVES SIMPLY IN CONTRAST TO OTHER RED OFFICIALS.

REVAL, Esthonia, June 11.—(Associated Press.) — Nikolai Lenine, head of the Russian Bolshevik government, has recently developed a liking for wolf-hunting. According to recent arrivals from Moscow, Lenine in company with Krilenko, one of the Red Army leaders, has just returned from a wolf drive at Zabidovo.

Those who know Lenine most intimately declare that despite the numerous crises through which he has had to lead the Bolshevik regime, he is still perhaps the "most cheerful man in Russia."

He preserves his continual good humor by shielding himself closely from detailed work when in his office at the Kremlin, devoting his time to the big problems of government and to the preparation of his speeches and pamphlets in which he advocates numerous changes from his old strict communistic policy.

Between labor hours when in his office he reads novels and socialistic works by foreign authors in the original French, English and German, and also keeps in touch with the principal works on other subjects.

It is said that he continues to live simply, in striking contrast to a number of minor Bolshevik officials who occupy luxurious quarters. Lenine and his wife have only a few rooms.

Mrs. Lenine, say those who know her, disagrees quite strongly with her husband on many political subjects, being more of the social revolutionist type, advocating slower changes than Lenine's Communism. However, it is said they get along splendidly.

MEXICAN VOLCANO IS CAUSING MUCH ALARM

Colima, Long Extinct, Begins to Emit Smoke and Steam.

MEXICO CITY, June 11.—(Associated Press.) — Mexico has another smoking mountain to worry its native inhabitants. The long-extinct volcano of Colima in the state of Jalisco, is said to be showing signs of life, emitting much smoke and steam similar to its larger relative, Popocatepetl, which, for several months, has caused alarm in the state of Puebla because of its activity.

Geologists who have examined both mountains declare there is small likelihood of either erupting.

REDS MAY ATTACK CONSTANTINOPLE

PREPARING LINES OF COMMUNICATION IN SOUTH RUSSIA.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 11.—(Associated Press.) — "We are marching to Constantinople," the new war song of the Bolsheviki, is considered to be significant in connection with the Bolshevik propaganda, looking to the taking of the city.

All railways leading to the chief Black Sea ports are said to be undergoing repairs to prepare them for heavy traffic. Bela Kun, Bolshevik commissary in the Crimea, is said to be putting the Crimean ports in good condition, meantime arranging to get coal from the Donetz basin and encouraging the peasants to increase their crops.

STRIKE LOSS IN ITALY IS HEAVY

55,000,000 WORKING DAYS LOST DURING PAST YEAR.

ROME, June 11. — (Associated Press.)—Italy lost 55,000,000 days of work last year because of strikes, according to figures just published by the Ministry of Labor. This figure includes labor disorders of every kind—wage disputes, loss occasioned by the occupation of the factories by workmen from last July to September and disorders in the farming districts.

Wage disputes caused the major part of the loss, with 16,500,000 days. The Communist agitations of last year when the factories were occupied are calculated to have resulted in 10,000,000 lost days. Political strikes and other suspensions not included in the other classes are said to have lost 15,500,000 days.

The textile workers engaged in 212 strikes, the largest number in any trade, throwing out of work nearly 150,000 workmen. The most costly dispute was that of the transportation workers who had 137 strikes, affecting 241,359 workmen and losing 2,523,057 days of work.

THE SATURDAY COLUMN

(By QUINTUS)

Whether it be that Canada has more weather than any other country or not it is certainly true that Canadians always fall back upon the weather as a source of conversation. In fact, they are celebrated almost the world over for the remarkable speed with which they will fly to a discussion of the weather even when there is nothing at all remarkable about it to discuss. This peculiarity is due of course to poverty of ideas and to the longing for some subject on which we can all agree. If there is going to be a united Canada it will be because the weather has produced a spirit of unity which nothing else, not even the politicians at Ottawa or Quebec, can produce. The truth is, that after all, we are not unlike the Chinese or the Mongols, in that we are a very simple people in many respects, and, like them, if left alone in the enjoyment of our simple pleasures we do not care who rules the state, and how much taxes we pay.

No long since the writer saw a man who knew a good deal about governments, and this man was laughing as if it was some good joke he was enjoying. I asked him what the joke was, whereupon he replied that no one ever yet had seen a statesman or a political leader governing a country for the benefit of that country.

"What!" I cried in horror. "Do you mean to say that Gladstone, Lincoln, Gambetta, Cavour and the like, were not true disinterested patriots, whose sole idea it was to see their country grow great and good?"

"I mean," he said, "that the average successful political leader is an agent of interests of one kind or another. Great men suddenly placed in great positions, like Lincoln, etc., are undoubtedly single minded and sincere ,but the so-called great ones are after all not one bit great, but simply scheming financial agents, or some other sort of agent of some interest, and are far from being single-minded. In fact to make a long story short I say without fear of contradiction that the readiness with which many of these people compromise on questions of great importance to their country for the sake of keeping in power, will be found to have its roots in selfish interests."

Reflecting upon the serious nature of this gentleman's statement, I looked more carefully into the matter and I found that most of the inconsistent and outrageous things that bear so hardly upon "the people," can easily be avoided if it were not that we wish to make something out of them in which event of course we must stick to them. At present there seems to be no other way of doing it. Take an example in the U.S. We had one like it here, but it is not so likely to produce friction if we abuse somebody else and far away. It was found that the private and corporate banks of the U. S. had forty millions of dollars invested in Cuban sugar and to make big dividends out of it of course it was necessary to keep up the price of sugar in the U. S., and that was done, and thus "the people" paid through their nose for one of the necessaries of life, and it is in this manner that they pay for a very great deal that they must have, or starve or freeze, and yet the "bloomin' idiots" are willing to go on year after year doing the same thing. Are not the leaders aware of these things? "You bet" they are, but they must uphold the hands of big business they say, or where will the country go to? It would go to the mass of the people, that's where it would go, and that is what speculative big business, otherwise known as Money, and Money only, does not want. And you must know, gentle reader, if you and I know anything at all, that the most welcome thing in the world to Money is a wreck. It is out of re-constructing and salvaging wrecks that the huge rake-offs are made. Empolyed capital is not money but a wholly different thing, which provides employment, and runs great risks. Money is unemployed capital. It does not seek direct employment. It lives on the good hard work of others employed and employer alike. It is like a man with the only well of water in town who sells the water to people and makes them pump it themselves. Is there anybody in the whole world green enough to think that the private business in Canada could exist here, or in any other country for that matter, if it were managed in the way public business is managed? It would go up the flue in a week. It takes all the inherited resources of a huge and naturally wealthy country like Canada or Russia ,to stand the strain. Public business is one wreck after another, and just as the people on a wild seashore welcome the storm that drives the wreck upon their coast, so do the wreckers welcome the continued mishandling of public business. Now ,it is an old maxim that nothing can be destroyed. Everything must go somewhere and to somebody and it does. If "the people" don't get it, and they usually do not (except in "the neck") somebody else does. And thus year after year, and day after day, governments and leaders spring up in the name of "the people," while as a matter of fact they are the agents of the money-makers. If you do not believe it just take a look and see how it works out. Strikes are probably, as a rule, an attempt to even up but they do not help the consumer. The consumer is not far short of being a fool, and of being treated like one, when he will consent to sit quietly down and see the country that he occupies and owns, feeding happily and amply everybody but himself, while he pays for the privilege of buying his own coal and using his own water power. What is the Public? It is something to make money out of. It is something like the countryman at the fair who was fooled with his own money.

"But what has that got to do with the weather?" you ask. It has a lot to do with it but whether it has or not it would be well for the Public to take a good square look at the facts that are staring him in the face, and see what they think of it. It is time to stop being fooled If Canada cannot support ten millions in health and happiness, as it does a portion of that ten millions, then let us write the rest of us down at once as slaves for that is what we are. Public control is one thing but public ownership is another. We have got nostrums enough on our hands without being put on the blink altogether. It is bad enough for the the general consumer to be the victim of a multitude of small combines of middlemen, but if the whole country is to be handed over to one huge ring he will be worse than the captured bandit, who was advertised as lying in the inner dungeon with shackles and manacles about his neck "weighing upwards of forty tons."

Thousands of Immigrants in Sorry Plight and Defenceless Against Typhus.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Jammed in the holds of twelve ships in New York harbor to-day were thousands of immigrants who must live for weeks like penned-up cattle, defenseless against threatening disease.

Feeble old women from Italy, half-clad children from Czecho-Slovakia, refugees from hunger-stricken Central Europe—all illkept and without a bath for months—are packed in ships where they must be held because of the new immigration tangle.

Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis appealed to-day to authorities in Washington for immediate assistance. He asked that Congress pass an amendment to the new immigration law, providing for care of these immigrants.

thousands whom they hoped to push through before the new law restricting immigration to three per cent. of the resident population of the nationalities in the United States went into effect.

With the law only five days old, three nationalities already have overrun their quota. Ships are continuing to arrive, piling up the immigrants unable to land.

Thousands Unexamined.

Five thousand who have arrived since June 3, when the law went into effect, have not yet been examined. Most of them will be rejected. Meanwhile, they are held on ships, which they probably never will leave for weeks, until they arrive back in the port in Europe from which they embarked.

A woman and two little children, eaten by ring worm, were rejected to-day, and thrown back on the ships, where they must mingle with the others, many of whom have been found diseased and mentally defective.

An aged Italian woman, lugging only a bottle of water, fainted as she attempted to climb the steps to be inspected.

Must Go Back.

She had been weakened by the sea voyage. Immigration authorities carried her to a hospital. As soon as she recovers she must be tossed into the ship and taken to Europe. She is penniless.

As the ships ride at anchor the immigrants lay piled atop their luggage in the sun. They are so crowded that they cannot get up without stepping on each other. Many of them sleep huddled in little groups on the wooden floors of their quarters.

Rodolph Enzman, 17-year-old Czecho-Slovakian, who has made three attempts to pass the immigration line and who speaks English perfectly, declared he had lived for a week in a coal bunker on the ship coming over.

"I would rather go through hell than go back," he said. "I fought in the war and carried water to the soldiers, but I never saw such hardships as among these people. I am coming back to America."

Inspector James Hegan led a gang of fighting old Italians, jabbering with dirty old women, dressed in dirt-smeared gaudy shawls, back to the places where they were forced to embark upon their ships and return to Europe.

People Go Mad.

"These people go mad when they find they have to return," he said. "Four of these men hid in the hold of the ship when they came over and refused to come out. Inspectors with drawn pistols had to go in and drag them out."

Commissioner Wallis declared immediate Congressional action would probably save their lives.

"My hands are tied," he said. "But I cannot stand by and see these people die.

"You can see their condition. We need help. I would be willing to bet a large majority of them never see land again. God only knows how many bodies, wrapped in sheets, have been tossed overboard to sea and never heard of again."

The Case for Daily Newspaper Advertising

The question has been asked: What are the advantages of Daily Newspaper Advertising by contrast with other forms of advertising?

In setting out these advantages, Daily Newspaper Publishers do not discount supplementary forms of publicity. But the area of Canada and its distribution of population are such, that Daily Newspaper Advertising has been and must be the basis of all the pointedly successful Canadian advertising campaigns.

1. UNIVERSAL APPEAL.

(a) Enters the home intimately.
The newspaper enters the home and has a more intimate appeal to all members of the family than any other reading matter.

(b) Reaches all classes.
The newspaper appeals to all literate members of the community, without distinction of race, class, creed, sex, income or occupation.

(c) Thorough distribution.
The newspaper finds its readers, whether they are at home or not; if they are not at home, it reaches them when travelling, on trains and cars, in hotels, clubs and libraries.

(d) Reaches the business man.
The newspaper is to the business executive the most necessary medium of information

(e) Minimum duplication.
Because of the completeness of the service of each newspaper, there is a minimum of duplication between newspapers.

2. IMMEDIATE APPEARANCE.

(a) Impulse to immediate action.
Because the newspaper deals with the immediate fact and the opinion of the day, its columns give an impulse to immediate action; results are often felt even before the presses are silent.

(b) Quick insertion.
Through the newspaper the reader may be reached within a few hours after copy is prepared.

(c) Quick change.
Advertisements in a newspaper may be changed or even cancelled up to a few hours before going to press.

(d) Quick repetition.
A newspaper advertisement which proves successful can be repeated promptly before the conditions favoring success have altered.

(e) Timely copy.
Newspaper copy can be adapted to the day on which it appears, or to current events, and can avoid untimely references.

3. FREQUENCY OF APPEARANCE.

(a) The choice of the day.
The newspaper advertiser has his choice of the precise day of the week most suitable to his advertising.

(b) Intensive campaigns.
Newspaper advertising permits any intensity desired, up to daily insertions.

(c) Serial campaigns.
In the newspaper it is possible to use serial copy with any desired interval between insertions.

(d) Cumulative effect.
A newspaper campaign may be planned to obtain a maximum cumulative effect, through the flexibility of space and intervals.

4. LOCALIZED CIRCULATION.

(a) Close to place of purchase.
The reader of a newspaper advertisement can go directly to the place where the article advertised is on sale.

(b) Spotty distribution.
The advertiser with spotty distribution can, by using newspapers, advertise exclusively where his goods are on sale.

(c) Concentrated territory.
The newspaper offers the maximum conconcentration of circulation any community.

(d) Strengthening weak territory.
The newspaper may be used to strengthen weak spots in the distribution with the exact degree of force desired.

(e) Progressive zone advertising.
Newspaper advertising may be extended progressively by zones, hand-in-hand with and aiding the extension of distribution.

(f) Seasonable by territory.
Seasonable variations in the demand in different territories may be taken into account in newspaper advertising.

(g) Price variations.
When necessary, different prices may be quoted in different territories through newspaper advertising.

(h) Localized copy.
Newspaper copy and illustrations may be made to meet precisely, and take advantage of, local conditions.

(i) Traceability.
The effect of newspaper advertising may be traced by observing the course of sales in each community.

(j) Try-out and test campaigns.
At low cost, tests may be made of the medium, the product, the selling plan or the copy approach at typical points before embarking on a costly general campaign.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

PETERBORO VETERANS OF 1866

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

Of this patriotic body of men there are still a few left to answer the roll call at their annual session, as evidenced last Wednesday evening when a happy reunion of the Fenian Raid veterans resident in this city and who are members of the local Veterans' Association, took place. A jolly evening's entertainment was staged in the Foresters' Hall, George street, kindly offered by the management for this auspicious occasion, and those old-timers of 55 years ago present were: Col. J. W. Miller (President), R. Tivey, J. Kylie, H. Rush, W. C. Bourn, A. Fitzgerald, J. McComb, H. Nesbitt, G. Stenton and R. J. Sanderson (Secretary). Comrade J. D. Collins was absent on account of serious illness.

After a short session of business, the President gave a short address, and on behalf of the Association welcomed the following gentlemen as guests of the evening: G. N. Gordon, M.P., J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., Capt. M. Park, Mr. Carlisle and Mr. J. Crane. Mr. S. Whatley, Secretary-Treasurer of the G.W.V.A., sent his regrets at not being at liberty to meet with the veterans of '66.

The addresses of Mr. Burnham and Mr. Gordon were of a very patriotic nature, and both gentlemen spoke in complimentary terms of the service rendered by the volunteers of 1866; both addresses were listened to with rapt attention. The solos and duets by Capt. M. Park and Mr. Carlisle were of high order, Mr. Crane kindly presiding at the piano. To all these gentlemen the veterans feel deeply grateful. After supper smokes and a free-for-all were indulged in for a short time.

The after speech by Col. Miller was much enjoyed by all present. The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close a most enjoyable reunion for the veterans of '66.

What 'Twas All About.

Fifty-five years is quite a span in the average man's life—five decades and a half of history making—and so, many readers may incline to query "who are the veterans of 1866 and what was the Fenian Raid all about?" Well, the Fenians were Irish—or supposed to be—who organized first as raiding parties in England in sympathy with the struggle in Ireland for Responsible Government and Home Rule. This Fenian movement spread to the United States, but their numbers were altogether insufficient for extensive operations, and the prevailing sentiment in the United States was opposed to them, for it was held that to invade Canadian farms and frighten farmers' wives and hired girls was simply contemptible brigandage.

In 1866 the Fenian Movement in the States became divided into two parties—one under James Stevenson, who wished to confine their operations to the proposed "freedom" of Ireland; the other, led by Sweeney, who advocated the crazy plan of advancing Irish interests by making a raid on Canada. In June, 1866, a body of 900 Fenians, well armed and many of them veterans of the American Civil War, crossed the Niagara River, landing a little below the humble village, and now ruinous earth-works of Fort Erie. They were commanded by Colonel O'Neil, took possession of Fort Erie, and played the dickens with provision stores and whiskey shops—licensed and unlicensed. They destroyed part of the Grand Trunk Railway tracks, cut telegraph wires, attempted to burn bridges and levied forced requisitions on the inhabitants for rations. The call to arms in Canada followed this invasion, to which her young men promptly responded with enthusiasm, and the volunteer authorities lost no time in hurrying their men to the front. And Peterborough sent to the post of danger one of the best equipped and most soldierly battalions of the day, the men of which stood uniformed and armed, ready for transportation the morning following the night the order to move to the front arrived. Credit for this quick response to the beat of the drum was due in no small measure to the activities of Lieutenant Strickland. In Toronto six hundred of its finest young men mustered under Lieut.-Col. Dennis and Major Gillmor of the Queen's Own, while Hamilton furnished her quota, the 13th Battalion. Major-General Napier also ordered out troops of the then regular British service in Toronto, Hamilton and districts near the Niagara frontier.

The Volunteer Corps.

The volunteer corps, under command of Lieut.-Col. Booker, was despatched to Port Colborne in protection of the Welland Canal, and there Booker learned that the Fenian force at Fort Erie was smaller than had been reported, was absolutely demoralized by drinking and plundering—in fact, a thoroughly undisciplined body offering tempting material for and easy victory. He, therefore, ignored his superior officer, Colonel George Peacocke, of the 16th Regiment of regulars and in command of the entire armament, who, history records, from his lack of knowledge of the country and his disdain for the counsels of colonials, seemed likely to make a mess of things and court disaster, which gave Lieut-Col. Booker excuse for taking on himself the responsibility for reconstructing the entire plans of the expedition. He, with his volunteer force, would proceed by rail and attack the enemy at Fort Erie and not join the troops under Peacocke's command at Stevensville, a village a short distance from Fort Erie, as instructed by the latter officer. Capt. Ain Akers, he said, might support this attack with the Welland garrison battery if Peacocke approved.

Premature Attack.

But Peacocke did not approve, and so Booker, altering his plans in deference to his superior officer, took his troops by train as far as Ridgeway station, from whence he marched toward Stevensville. His advance guard soon encountered the outposts, and O'Neil, having decided to destroy the locks at the Welland Canal before retiring to the States, Colonel Booker and Major Gibson resolved to attack the foe at once, thinking that Peacocke, with his regulars, must be close at hand in support. They did not, however, realize that by Booker's neglect of his superior officer's orders in leaving Port Colborne an hour before the arranged time, he had confused all Peacocke's plans for combining the movements of the troops. Meanwhile the order for advance was given; the Fenians came into view, some few on the road in front of our volunteers, others firing under the cover of fences of fields flanking the road. The volunteers were spirited in attack, repulsing the enemy's outposts and first line. Just at this moment an orderly reached Booker with a dispatch from Col. Peacocke ordering him to delay his departure from Port Colborne two hours from the time appointed. But as Booker had started an hour before the prearranged time, it was now evident that he could expect no support for three hours. Meantime the Fenians continued a hot fire on the gallant volunteers, who, without any hope of regular support, were opposed to a superior force of really veteran soldiers. A cooler head, it is said, might have saved the day by a brisk attack on either flank, but Booker is charged with having lost his presence of mind, and as a rumor reached him that a body of Fenian cavalry was approaching—although it was well known that at that time the United States army had but very little cavalry, and the Fenians none at all—Booker ordered Major Gillmor to form his men into square to "resist cavalry," which stupid blunder massed the volunteers into a pretty solid phlanx, easy targets for the enemy's rifles. On noticing the mistake, Gillmor attempted to form into line once more, but too late. History says that something like a panic ensued, the rear companies fell back in disorder and the word was given to retreat. No. 1 Company, Queen's Own, held the rear guard; the Trinity College and University Companies, Toronto, distinguished themselves by great gallantry, taking skirmishing under and firing on the enemy as calmly as though on parade. The Fenians pursued, but did not understand the full extent of their advantage, or that Booker's troops were without hope of reinforcement for at least two hours, otherwise they might have followed up their temporary success with more disastrous results. The Canadians' loss was one officer and eight men killed, six officers and twenty-six men wounded. The officer killed on the field was Ensign McEachren, who served in the Queen's Own, Toronto, and exchanged into the Sherbrooke Battalion shortly before this Fenian Raid.

This engagement practically ended the Raid, for O'Neill, awed by the pluck of the volunteers and near presence of regular forces, abandoned his attempt on the Welland Canal and withdrew to the States.

As Brave As They Make 'Em.

And so, it was Peterborough veterans of such intrepid Canadian volunteers as cited above who assembled in annual anniversary meeting last Wednesday, June 8th—men who in June, 1866, cheerfully endangered life and limb in patriotic support of loyalty to the British throne, against Fenians, whose raids on Canada were entirely premature and could not have gained the smallest measure of permanent success, because Canadians treated them as dangerous, if misguided, foes, against whom they were always ready to take up arms.

Had 75 Members.

The association of 1866 veterans was organized in or about 1877—eleven years after the Fenian Raid—with a membership of 75, which has been reduced, in the natural order of things, to 11 living members to-day. These remaining veterans of '66 are:

COL. J. W. MILLER,
R. TIVEY,
J. KYLIE,
H. RUSH,
W. C. BOURN,
ALEX. FITZGERALD,
J. McCOMB,
H. NESBITT,
G. STENTON,
R. J. SANDERSON,
J. D. Collins.

The first President of the Association was H. C. Rogers, afterwards commanding officer of "C" Troop, 3rd Regiment of Cavalry, and also Postmaster in Peterborough for many years. On his retirement from both the Postmastership and Presidency of the veterans of '66, to go West, where he died, Col. J. W. Miller was elected President of the Association, which honorable office he holds to-day.

J. W. Miller is an ex-Lieutenant-Colonel of the old 57th Regiment and also a veteran of the American Civil War, in which he fought with the North for the abolition of slavery, holding rank as Quartermast-Sergent. He is to-day head of Millers' high-grade shoe store on George street and Clerk of the Revision Court.

Richard J. Sanderson, the Association's Secretary-Treasurer, is the son of the late Rev. John Sanderson, one of the earliest Methodist ministers in Peterborough district. He is to-day Inspector over this section of the Trent Canal.

Alex. Fitzgerald was for many years Street Inspector for the municipality of Ashburnham, continuing in office as assistant under Street Commissioner Harry Evans after Ashburnham was annexed to Peterborough when incorporated as a city. Mr. Fitzgerald retired three or four years ago.

H. Rush enjoys the distinction of having served this city some years as Alderman, finishing his service on the Council Board as Mayor for two busy terms.

W. C. Bourn was for many years associated with Postmaster H. C. Rogers in the local Post Office.

Harry Nesbitt is Jailer at the County Jail, a position he has held for years.

Geo. Stenton is the popular caretaker of the Peterborough Post Office.

Two Hundred and Twenty Men.

The Peterborough veterans of '66 when they flew to arms to help quell the Fenian Raid, number 220 men, divided into four companies of 55 each as follows:

No. 1 Company—From the county, commanded by Capt. Poole.

No. 2 Company—Peterborough town, commanded by Capt. Kennedy.

No. 3 Company—Ashburnham, commanded by Capt. H. C. Rogers.

No. 4 Company—Lakefield, commanded by Capt. Ctrickland.

These four companies at Port Colborne were mobilized with companies from elsewhere into a Provisional Battalion, under the late Lieut.-Col. Williams of Port Hope, under whom they fought in the Raid.

Following the Fenian Raid these gallant Peterborough volunteers were mobilized in 1867 as the 57th Battalion (county) with three more companies added—from Bobcaygeon, Keene and Norwood—under the command of Lieut.-Col. Poole, Captain of No. 1 Company when it organized to repel the invaders.

In this same year, 1867, the ladies of Peterborough presented the battalion with its first standard colors, which are now in sanctuary in St. John's Anglican Church, Hunter street.

NEW EUROPEAN STATE IS TO BE MONARCHY

SINGLE LEGISLATIVE CHAMBER PROVIDED FOR IN CONSTITUTION

BELGRADE, June 11.—(Associated Press).—Jugoslavia's new constitution, recently adopted in principle by its parliament, sets up an hereditary, constitutional monarchy to be known as "The State of Serbs, Croats and Slovenians." Peter Karageorgevitch (King Peter of Serbia) is formally recognized as King Peter the First and Prince Alexander, the regent, as heir apparent. The crown will descend in the male line, with the princes' majorities fixed at 18 years.

A single chamber is provided in the constitution. Deputies are to be elected by direct, secret ballot for four years and by universal suffrage, with a deputy for each 50,000 inhabitants.

To co-ordinate the varied legislation and governments of the countries now grouped in a federation, a constitutional committee will sit for five years, empowered to offer codifying laws that must be either accepted or rejected by the Chamber.

Minorities and religious cults are protected, but the clergy is prohibited from using its offices in partisan politics.

The King's power is limited in several directions. He has the right of amnesty and pardon except in prosecutions by individuals. He is commander of the army and navy, but the ministers are responsible for his acts and the responsible minister must countersign his orders.

The King makes treaties subject to parliamentary ratification. He declares war, however, only with the consent of parliament, except in case of aggression against the state of a declaration of war against it.

The King's person is inviolable but suits may be brought against him where his private property is concerned. The King may not become the head of another state without the consent of the peoples' representatives.

AGAIN SEEK BURIAL PLACE OF REFORMER

MAN CLAIMING TO BE DESCENDANT OF CALVIN FURNISHES INFORMATION.

GENEVA, June 11. — (Canadian Press).—The spot where John Calvin, Protestant reformer and theologian, is buried, is being sought by the authorities on information furnished by a man who says he is a descendant of Calvin. The location of the grave has been handed down through the Calvin family under a pledge of secrecy, according to the man, who is 71 years of age. As he is without issue, he believed it his duty to divulge the location to the Ecclesiastical Consistory at Geneva. Tradition has it that John Calvin, who died on May 27, 1567, was buried in the common cemetery in Geneva called "Plain Palais," but the exact spot has not been identified.

LONDON, June 11. — (Canadian Press).—The first casualty suffered by the British soldiers since their entry into Upper Silesia is reported by the Oppein correspondent of the London Times, who says that a Sergeant of the Black Watch was shot dead to-day by an unknown person. The shooting, adds the correspondent, cannot be laid with certainty to the account of either the Poles or Germans.

NONE OF THE NATIONALISTS OR SINN FEIN MEMBERS PRESENT —IMPRESSIVE SCENES.

HUGH O'NEILL SPEAKER

BELFAST, June 7. — (Canadian Press).—The Parliament of Northern Ireland, elected last month under the new Home Rule measure, was opened this morning amid impressive scenes in the Council Chamber of the City Hall here. None of the Nationalist or Sinn Fein members elected were present as the forty Unionists took their seats and proceeded to the organization of the House. The ceremony occurred in the presence of a distinguished gathering. Hugh O'Neill, son of Lord O'Neill, was unanimously elected Speaker.

Premier Sir James Craig announced the following Cabinet: Home Secretary, Sir Dawson Bates; Minister of Finance, H. M. Pollock; Minister of Education, the Marquis of Londonderry; Minister of Labor, J. M. Andrews; Minister of Agriculture, Hon. E. A. Archdale.

The City Hall, although architectually one of the finest buildings in Europe, was hardly adequate for the installation of Parliament. Nevertheless, a company which gathered to witness the opening ceremonial, appeared thoroughly representative of the northern province, Cardinal Logue being the only notable absentee. It was the first ceremony for Viscount Fitzalan, the new Viceroy. There was little outward display of public interest, as the shipyard men and the population in general were apparently reserving any demonstration of note for the expected coming of King George for the State opening of the Parliament on June 22.

THREE MEN EXECUTED.

DUBLIN, June 7. — (Canadian Press).—Three men convicted of participating in the recent disorders in Ireland were executed here this morning. Edward Foley and Patrick Maher went to their doom for the murder of a Royal Irish Constabulary Sergeant at Knocklong, while Constable William Mitchell was executed for the murder of Magistrate Dixon, of Dunlevin, County Wexford. For the first time since the executions began at Mount Joy Prison last year, the public was excluded from the inner square at the front entrance while the executions were being carried out. Crowds assembled in the outer part of the jail grounds, however, and sang hymns and recited prayers for Foley and Maher. After the hangings the warder placed a notice on the gate that the three men had been executed.

DR. MIDDLETON ADDRESSED HOME AND SCHOOL AUDIENCE

A meeting of the South Central Home and School Association took place last evening, with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, the chair was occupied by Miss Mabel Dorman. Dr. J. E. Middleton delivered an address on "The Care of the Teeth", and a good musical programme was rendered, the Misses Scott giving a pretty vocal duett, and the Misses O. Johnston and H. Moffat a splendid instrumental number.

An executive meeting of the Association will take place on Friday evening, to discuss arrangements for the opening of the new Prince of Wales School in September.

WHAT IS PETERBORO'S GREATEST NEED?

J. A. Dodds, Secretary of the Trades and Labour Council:

Peterborough's greatest need certainly is "Righteousness," and if strictly adhered to, it will comply with the "Golden Rue." The employer will pay a fair wage to his servants; the employee will give an honest day's work, and act in the interest of his employer; the merchant will be satisfied with a fair profit, which will tend to prevent our citizens from buying out of town by Mail Order; the costly game of bootlegging will cease ,and immorality will be a thing of the past; the druggist will not take good money for a patent medicine that he knows is not worthless, but injurious; a citizen will get a position on his merits, instead of his "puil"; the fallen will be helped to rise, instead of being shunned.

Therefore, Miss Peterborough, get Righteousness, and all other things will be added unto you.

VACILLATION ENDS IN ACTION; CITY TO PAY THE BACK WAGES CLAIMED BY BRIDGE LABORERS

OLD COMPLAINT AGAIN

City Engineer Parsons recommended the Imhoff tank system of sewage disposal for Peterborough in a lengthy report to the City Council last night of the new sewage disposal situation as it stands at present..

Adl. Whitehouse, one of a committee who interivewed the Provincial Board of Health on this question, explained that that body had left to this city its choice of either the Imhoff or the Activated Sludge systems of sewage disposal for the new plant about to be installed. He also said engineering authorities had recommended the Imhoff system for Peterborough.

On motion of Ald. Gordon, this matter was sent to the committee of the whole for determination, when the whole sewage disposal will, it is expected, take up one entire evening in discussion.

War Against Dust.

Jno. Saddler and others, in a petition strongly objected to the continual cloud of dust hovering over Smith street, from George street across the bridge, and asked the service of a watering cart. As this thoroughfare has been oiled now, the communication was received.

Rate is O. K.

The Utilities Commission sent in an account totalling $372 for water used in the Hunter street bridge construction, which the contractors refused to pay on the ground of an excessive charge for so large a work. Russell Townsend said the charge was ten times what it should reasonably be expected. But Water Commissioner Robert Hicks contended that the water rates in Peterborough are not excessive; and, to Ald. Hamilton, declared the same rates had been in effect 20 years, wtihout any similar complaints from the many construction contractors they had served during that time.

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Gainey, that the account be referred to the Bridge committee with power to act.—Carried.

Ald. Morrison was given authority to change a grey horse at the fire hall for a bay, at his discretion.

MISHAP TO TRANSFORMER

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 7. —(Canadian Press).—The Montrose sub-station on the Chippawa-Queenston Canal was destroyed by fire around ten o'clock last night. The fire was caused by a mishap to the transformer, and the building, of concrete, wood and galvanized iron, was completely destroyed. Company officials estimated the damage at a hundred thousand. The building houses the rotary converters which generate power for the trolley lines at the Chippawa end of the Canal. The equipment was also lost, but the compressor house was saved by the fire wall. It is feared work on the Canal will be retarded by the latest fire.

RAILWAY CAN'T BE CHARITABLE AND PAY ALSO

THUS DR. CLARK SUMS UP POSITION OF NATIONAL RAILWAYS—FAR TOO MUCH PILFERING GOING ON.

MUST STOP LEAKAGES

WINNIPEG, June 7.—(Canadian Press).—The problems of the Canadian railways were discussed here to-day by Dr. Michael Clark, M.P., of Red Deer, Alta., who is on his way home from Ottawa. Increased business and the stopping of "leakages" were set out by Dr. Clark as the important immediate objectives, and the railways would participate in "increased wealth and prosperity," which would be brought about by "freer trade and a moderate taxation of land values," according to the member for Red Deer.

Dr. Clark declared: "There is no royal road to the betterment of our railway situation. Conditions cannot be helped by the waving of a magic wand. The railway problem is part of the national problem, and can only be solved by steady adherence to those fundamental business qualities which invariably lead to success in any field of human endeavor. There is a demand, in the first place, on our courage. We must bravely face the facts. There are conditions in our national life, and in the life of men generally, which will permanently affect the incomes of railways adversely.

"A condition of more or less general prevalence is the increase of motor traffic. At the end of the Parliamentary session in Britain a large number of members of both Houses of Parliament, with their retinues, used to swell the receipts of the railways. Now it is quite commonly the case that these gentlemen motor from London to their shooting boxes in provincial England, and the Highlands of Scotland. Similarly, in our western provinces, to my knowledge, commercial travellers are saving time and gaining freedom and fresh air by substituting automobiles for the trains. Motor traction applied to freight is not so general here as it is becoming in the Old Country, but many shrewd observers are looking for its increase here also.

"Prohibition has adversely affected the income of railways. People who relieved the tedium of long journeys by a glass of wine to dinner, supplied by the railway companies, now carry the money to the end of the journey to help to pay their water rates. This may be bad or good, just as we look at things. But the fact is there, and must be faced. If we cease to malt barley, furthermore, less will be grown and less will be carried.

"A potent cause of present disaster is to be found in the inflation of wages and running expenses during the war period. Time will bring some readjustments in these matters, but these readjustments must be brought about carefully.

"Increase of immigration has been advocated as a help to the railways by Mr. Beatty, the able and popular president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Free trade in labor easily commends itself to captains of industry for obvious reasons, and it may be readily conceded that Canada needs population. But there are considerations which should modify our enthusiasm along this line just at this time. Rapid increase of immigration at a time of prevalent unemployment would seem of doubtful expediency. If it be said that unemployment is in the cities, and the immigrants recommended are land workers, it needs to be pointed out in reply that our difficulty for a number of years has been to keep people on the land when placed there. They have been leaving th farm for th city, in many cases leaving Canada for the United States. Emigrants of the most desirable class and in the most satisfactory numbers will be best obtained if they are attracted and not urged to come. It has been truly said that the best immigration agent is a successful settler. The primary requisite for peopling our enormous areas of vacant land with successful producers is to make farming a remunerative occupation. This can only be done if we lessen the farmer's expenses and increase his markets. These changes can only be brought about by Federal action in fields other than an immigration policy. At best, increase of population is a very gradual and slow cure for a very acute trouble.

"What can be done at once along certain lines would bring immediate betterment in the condition. In the first place, management can be improved so as to save money, which is as good as making it. It is freely rumored that the Canadian Pacific Railway is carrying paying passengers over certain lines, while over corresponding lines the National Railway is carrying little but deadheads. This may or may not be an

The chairman of the City Relief Committee said that the estimate of five hundred killed "was as good as any." The committee of the real estate men to-day estimated the property damage in Pueblo at between fifteen and twenty millions.

Systematic and drastic action to ascertain the number of dead and to clean the city of Pueblo, flood-stricken for three days, was begun yesterday afternoon. Acting under military authority, Lieut.-Col. Paul P. Newton ordered every able-bodied man to apply himself to the task of removing debris from the streets, as a measure to prevent danger from fire and pestilence. The order bar sight-seers from the city and makes work compulsory, either for the stipulated pay or under military guard without pay.

HEAVY TAXATION IS SCORED BY PRESIDENT M'KINNON, SPEAKING AT MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION

J. S. McKINNON,

President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who attacked heavy taxation in his address to the fiftieth convention of the association in Quebec to-day.

SAYS WAR DEBT MUST BE FACED BUT TAXATION SHOULD BE BROADLY APPLIED SO AS NOT TO CRIPPLE INDUSTRY.

ASKS CO-OPERATION

QUEBEC, June 7. — (Canadian Press). — Heavy and burdensome taxation of industry and capital was opposed by J. S. McKinnon, retiring president, in his address to the Fifteith Jubilee convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here to-day. "We are paying for the war and must face heavy taxation for many years, but taxation should be broadly applied, so as not to cripple the productive machinery of the country," he declarled.

It is a mistake to tax capital out of a country, the President continued, and national financing should follow the same course as that of the prudent individual, who, when he is in debt, works hard, saves more money and endeavors to invest it wisely. He pointed to Great Britain as an example of an attempt to reduce taxation and to the advocacy of the same policy in the United States. While it might be necessary to spend money on public works for the alleviation of unemployment, he believed that this should be done without lavishness and only when the works were likely to prove productive. The spending of money for this purpose lavishly and uselessly was surely an ineffectual remedy which would ultimately only intensify the present unemployment.

He traced the growth of manufacturing in Canada, pointing out that at the time of Confederation the value of goods manufactured in Canada annually was one-quarter of a billion dollars, while to-day it is from three and a half to four billions. Per capita production has increased in the same period from $71 to $360. A great industry has been built up, he said, employing 700,000 persons, who, with their dependants, constitute about 2,000,000 people directly dependent upon manufacturing for their living.

The tendency towards placing heavy burdens upon industry by the enactment of legislation with the intention of improving living conditions, but which only made living conditions worse by increasing the cost of the finished product was criticized. Capital, he said, must not be restricted too much, and in a new country like Canada it is necessary to encourage capital.

Turning to labor conditions, he declared that capital and labor are partners, and that one lesson learned by both during the past two or three years is that the public is master. Profits, wages, benefits, hours and all other factors in the cost of production are subject to the desire and will of the buyers and must be determined accordingly.

Referring to unemployment, he stated that purchasing in the United States was one of the big factors

A cable received this morning by John G. Kent, manager of the Exhibition, from Lord Byng said that he would be proud to perform the ceremony. The day will be called "Warriors' Day."

SEEK THE USE OF OLD PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE

FOR BRIDGING CHANNEL TO CURVE LAKE INDIAN RESERVE.

The Curve Lake Indian Reserve, near Chemong, are seeking the use of the old dismantled Pigeon Creek bridge with which to bridge the channel to their reserve. The County Council are willing, and last December, on motion, gave Chief Dan Whetung permission to use enough of this bridge for the purpose specified. A copy of this resolution was in the hands of the city council last night for endorsation and was referred to the Board of Works, who will look into the city's concern in this matter. There may, it is felt, be complications over the reserve being granted the use of a portion of this old structure, as the two counties — Peterborough and Victoria — together with the Dominion Government, are involved, and all apparently claim ownership. Should reconstruction of Pigeon Creek bridge be determined on, trouble might arise were part of the old structure found far away serving the needs of the Curve Lake Indian Reserve, who would certainly resent any attempt at reclaiming what had been granted them in the manner cited.

ULSTER HOUSE OPENED TO-DAY; NAME CABINET

NONE OF THE NATIONALISTS OR SINN FEIN MEMBERS PRESENT —IMPRESSIVE SCENES.

HUGH O'NEILL SPEAKER

BELFAST, June 7. — (Canadian Press).—The Parliament of Northern Ireland, elected last month under the new Home Rule measure, was opened this morning amid impressive scenes in the Council Chamber of the City Hall here. None of the Nationalist or Sinn Fein members elected were present as the forty Unionists took their seats and proceeded to the organization of the House. The ceremony occurred in the presence of a distinguished gathering. Hugh O'Neill, son of Lord O'Neill, was unanimously elected Speaker.

Premier Sir James Craig announced the following Cabinet: Home Secretary, Sir Dawson Bates; Minister of Finance, H. M. Pollock; Minister of Education, the Marquis of Londonderry; Minister of Labor, J. M. Andrews; Minister of Agriculture, Hon. E. A. Archdale.

The City Hall, although architectually one of the finest buildings in Europe, was hardly adequate for the installation of Parliament. Nevertheless, a company which gathered to witness the opening ceremonial, appeared thoroughly representative of the northern province, Cardinal Logue being the only notable absentee. It was the first ceremony for Viscount Fitzalan, the new Viceroy. There was little outward display of public interest, as the shipyard men and the population in general were apparently reserving any demonstration of note for the expected coming of King George for the State opening of the Parliament on June 22.

THREE MEN EXECUTED.

DUBLIN, June 7. — (Canadian Press).—Three men convicted of participating in the recent disorders in Ireland were executed here this morning. Edward Foley and Patrick Maher went to their doom for the murder of a Royal Irish Constabulary Sergeant at Knocklong, while Constable William Mitchell was executed for the murder of Magistrate Dixon, of Dunlevin, County Wexford. For the first time since the executions began at Mount Joy Prison last year, the public was excluded from the inner square at the front entrance while the executions were being carried out. Crowds assembled in the outer part of the jail grounds, however, and sang hymns and recited prayers for Foley and Maher. After the hangings the warder placed a notice on the gate that the three men had been executed.

DR. MIDDLETON ADDRESSED HOME AND SCHOOL AUDIENCE

A meeting of the South Central Home and School Association took place last evening, with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, the chair was occupied by Miss Mabel Dorman. Dr. J. E. An executive meeting of the Association will take place on Friday evening, to discuss arrangements for the opening of the new Prince of Wales School in September.

WHAT IS PETERBORO'S GREATEST NEED?

J. A. Dodds, Secretary of the Trades and Labour Council:

Peterborough's greatest need certainly is "Righteousness," and if strictly adhered to, it will comply with the "Golden Rue." The employer will pay a fair wage to his servants; the employee will give an honest day's work, and act in the interest of his employer; the merchant will be satisfied with a fair profit, which will tend to prevent our citizens from buying out of town by Mail Order; the costly game of bootlegging will cease ,and immorality will be a thing of the past; the druggist will not take good money for a patent medicine that he knows is not worthless, but injurious; a citizen will get a position on his merits, instead of his "pull"; the fallen will be helped to rise, instead of being shunned.

Therefore, Miss Peterborough, get Righteousness, and all other things will be added unto you.

OLD COMPLAINT AGAIN

City Engineer Parsons recommended the Imhoff tank system of sewage disposal for Peterborough in a lengthy report to the City Council last night of the new sewage disposal situation as it stands at present..

Adl. Whitehouse, one of a committee who interivewed the Provincial Board of Health on this question, explained that that body had left to this city its choice of either the Imhoff or the Activated Sludge systems of sewage disposal for the new plant about to be installed. ASKS CO-OPERATION

QUEBEC, June 7. — (Canadian Press). — Heavy and burdensome taxation of industry and capital was opposed by J. S. McKinnon, retiring president, in his address to the Fifteith Jubilee convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here to-day. "We are paying for the war and must face heavy taxation for many years, but taxation should be broadly applied, so as not to cripple the productive machinery of the country," he declarled.

It is a mistake to tax capital out of a country, the President continued, and national financing should follow the same course as that of the prudent individual, who, when he is in debt, works hard, saves more money and endeavors to invest it wisely. He pointed to Great Britain as an example of an attempt to reduce taxation and to the advocacy of the same policy in the United States. While it might be necessary to spend money on public works for the alleviation of unemployment, he believed that this should be done without lavishness and only when the works were likely to prove productive. The spending of money for this purpose lavishly and uselessly was surely an ineffectual remedy which would ultimately only intensify the present unemployment.

He traced the growth of manufacturing in Canada, pointing out that at the time of Confederation the value of goods manufactured in Canada annually was one-quarter of a billion dollars, while to-day it is from three and a half to four billions. Per capita production has increased in the same period from $71 to $360. A great industry has been built up, he said, employing 700,000 persons, who, with their dependants, constitute about 2,000,000 people directly dependent upon manufacturing for their living.

The tendency toward placing heavy burdens upon industry by the enactment of legislation with the intention of improving living conditions, but which only made living conditions worse by increasing the cost of the finished product was criticized. Capital, he said, must not be restricted too much, and in a new country like Canada it is necessary to encourage capital.

Turning to labor conditions, he declared that capital and labor are partners, and that one lesson learned by both during the past two or three years is that the public is master. Profits, wages, benefits, hours and all other factors in the cost of production are subject to the desire and will of the buyers and must be determined accordingly.

Referring to unemployment, he stated that purchasing in the United States was one of the big factors

LORD BYNG TO OPEN C.N.E.

HAS CONSENTED TO OFFICIALLY OPEN TORONTO EXHIBITION, SAYING HE IS PROUD TO DO SO.

TO BE "WARRIORS' DAY"

TORONTO, June 7.—(Canadian Press).—Lord Byng of Vimy, Canada's newly appointed Governor-General, will officially open the Canadian National Exhibition here on August 27th. A cable received this morning by John G. Kent, manager of the Exhibition, from Lord Byng said that he would be proud to perform the ceremony. The day will be called "Warriors' Day."

FOR BRIDGING CHANNEL TO CURVE LAKE INDIAN RESERVE.

The Curve Lake Indian Reserve, near Chemong, are seeking the use of the old dismantled Pigeon Creek bridge with which to bridge the channel to their reserve. The County Council are willing, and last December, on motion, gave Chief Dan Whetung permission to use enough of this bridge for the purpose specified. A copy of this resolution was in the hands of the city council last night for endorsation and was referred to the Board of Works, who will look into the city's concern in this matter. There may, it is felt, be complications over the reserve being granted the use of a portion of this old structure, as the two counties — Peterborough and Victoria — together with the Dominion Government, are involved, and all apparently claim ownership. Should reconstruction of Pigeon Creek bridge be determined on, trouble might arise were part of the old structure found far away serving the needs of the Curve Lake Indian Reserve, who would certainly resent any attempt at reclaiming what had been granted them in the manner cited.

Heavy Taxation Is Scored

in the creating unemployment in Canada.

In concluding, Mr. McKinnon pointed out the difficulties which face Canadian industry, due to a falling market and high production costs, in which wages and the transportation are big factors. He particularly deprecated increasing transportation costs.

Industrial Relations.

The report of the Committee on Industrial Relations advised vigorous opposition to the eight-hour day and unemployment insurance, and endorsed prohibition of unemployment of women six weeks before and six weeks after child birth, all reasonable restriction of night work for women, and the reservation of the execution of public works for periods of unemployment. The committee declared itself as believing that the extremists and radicals in the ranks of labor were disappearing.

The Insurance Committee reported its opposition to the proposal to tax unlicensed insurance and its success in having proposed amendments to the Ontario Insurance Act withdrawn. Group insurance for manufacturers has become a real factor in the business world through the efforts of the association's insurance department.

The reports of the Executive Committee and the treasurer both showed satisfactory progress.

W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval Company, and James Hamilton, president of the Peter Hamilton Company, are representing the local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the convention. Mr. Breyfogle is accompanied by Mrs. Breyfogle and Rev. J. R. Webb.

LADY BYNG, NIECE FORMER HAMILTON TITLED MINISTER.

HAMILTON, June 7.—The appointment of Lord Byng as Governor-General of Canada is of special interest to the many old friends in Hamilton of the late Hon. and Rev. R. Moreton, R.N., who was at one time pastor of St. John's Presbyterian Church. Lady Byng, it is stated by friends of the late Capt. Moreton, is a niece of the titled minister who occupied a Hamilton pulpit for a number of years, and a cousin of Reg. Moreton, who was a popular member of the smart set during the residence of his father here, and who entertained several Hamilton officers of the C. E. F. forces while they were in England. Hon. R. Moreton was a brother of Earl Ducie, father of the wife of the newly-appointed Governor-General.

TENDERS FOR CAMPBELLFORD HIGH SCHOOL EXCEED $75,000; BOARD ASKS FOR $25,000 MORE

THE 1920 ROLL RETURNED SHOWING EXCEPTIONALLY SMALL BALANCE OF UNPAID TAXES—LIVERY MEN URGE COUNCIL TO FIX LICENSE FOR THEIR BUSINESS.

BANDSTAND ASKED FOR

CAMPBELLFORD, June 6.—A committee of the Board of Education informed the Council last night that the tenders for the new High School exceeded the estimated cost of $75,000 and reported that an additional sum of $25,000 in round numbers would have to be provided if the work was to be proceeded with. Mr. Douglas speaking for the deputation stated that the $75,000 debentures would not be sufficient for this undertaking. Altogether 26 tenders covering all details of the work had been received. One was for $92,000, and another for $85,700 was submitted by Norman McLeod Limited, of Toronto, on a cost plus basis. They guaranteed their estimated and also the time for the completion of the contract if the completion of the quired. They would assume half of the cost in excess of their tender, and claimed half of any surplus or saving they might make. The company would guarantee to finish the school within six months from the time they secured occupancy of the site, and offered to pay a penalty of $25 a day thereafter until the work was completed should they fail to complete it within the time limit.

Councillor Baker —You might be able to build it six or twelve months from now for $75,000. That sum was approved two years ago when costs were at the peak.

Councillor Southworth — Every month we delay this thing is time well spent in my opinion.

Councillor Wilkinson said he had no intention of hampering the work of the School Board but he wished to get full information.

"I don't think we should handle this tonight," Councillor Palliser advised. "Three of our members are away and this question has been sprung on us quickly."

Mayor Meyers agreed to call a special meeting for Tuesday, June 14th at 8 p.m. to enable the Board of Education to confer with the Council.

Want Livery License

William Diamond and George Barnum asked the ouncil to impose a livery tax that would protect the regular livery men against "snipers" those occasionals who rent automobiles in the summer but who suspend business when winter comes. The petitioners have the only liveries in the town, but Mr. Barnum said there were probably thirty men renting cars. Mr. Diamond suggested a tax of $50 a year.

Councillor Baker said he was in sympathy with the livery man and while recognizing that they should have protection he believed that the people should be protected by a tariff for livery service.

Mr. Southworth moved seconded by Mr. Meiklejohn that the Mayor name a committee to go into the question of licensing liveries.

Mayor Meyers named Councillors Southworth and Baker and the solicitor I. A. Humphries to take up this matter and report.

Petition Satisfactory

According to the report of the clerk, J. F. McGregor, the petition for the extension of the sewer on Bridge street and Booth street was sufficiently signed. This petition was presented at the March meeting, and of the thirteen ratepayers affected eleven were in favour of the proposed extension and signed the petition and two opposed it. The owners of the properties and the assessments were as follows: —

St. Andrew's Church	$ 3,000
Mrs. Janet Wood	1,900
I. A. Humhries	1,850
Mrs. Alice Burbank	1,700
John Nancarrow	1,250
E. M. Brunelle	1,225
R. J. Allan	1,700
Misses Neills	1,700
G. A. Hay	2,000
J. A. Burke	1,200
St. Mary's Church	1,8000
Total	$36,675

Those Opposed

Wm. Hume	$2,600
Mrs. A. Casson	1,300
	3,900
Total	$40,575

The Clerk's report was received. No action will be taken until an estimate of the cost of the work is received.

Need a Band tSand

A communication from George T. Salter, band sergeant of the 40th Northumberland Regiment, asked that a band stand be erected from which concerts could be given to the public this summer. He suggested as a site the Government property adjacent to the wharf which he believed could be rented from the Department of Railways and Canals at a nominal sum.

Councillor Wilkinson expressing his support of this petition moved that a committee be appointed to investigate what the Council could do.

In seconding this motion Mr. Palliser proposed that the committee consider as a possible locatian the old market square which he said could be easily cleared up. Swings might be erected and the place made a playgrounds. Next year it could be still further improved with tennis courts. In the meantime it would be a good place for a band stand, said Mr. Palliser.

Mayor Meyers appointed Reve Davidson and Councillors Paliser and Wilkinson to deal with this question.

Instal Gas Pump.

R. N. Hall's request for permission to instal a gasoline pump in front of his shop was granted on motion of Mr. Meiklejohn seconded by Mr. Palliser, the work to be done according to the usual restrictions.

Asks About Road Work

"I'm sorry Deputy-Reeve Stone is not here to-night" said Mr. Wilkinson. "Since our last regular meeting there has been a lot of work done that was not authorized by the Roads and Bridges Committee, and there was some authorized work that was not proceeded with. It is high time that steps were taken to get this work completed. There were walks to be built and it is necessary that they should be attended to. I know the money is going pretty fast. The pay sheet for the last month was $1,200. Allow a week for oiling, it is three weeks since the mixer stopped. It is not right to go ahead with work that was not authdrized by the Committee."

Mayor Meyers—Mr. Stone told me that as soon as the street oiling is completed this week work will be gone on with on Rear street. That's the work you were thinking about?

Mr. Wilkinson said it was just one of a number of streets that should be attended.

Mayor Meyers—I don't think the money was wasted, but that it was well spent.

Mr. Wilkinson —Probably so sir, but I should like to know why the work which was ordered was not done.

Made a Saving

Replying to a question from Mr. Alf. McKeel, Mayor Meyers said that the cost of walks this year had ranged from 18 to 22 cents a square foot. Last year the cost was 25 cents.

"The saving we made on the Grand road sidewalk this year will nearly pay for the new mixer we bought" said His Worship, explaining that the mechanical mixing had made the saving by the elimination of mixing by hand.

Statement of Taxes

J. D. Cummings, tax collector, returned the 1920 roll showing as follows: —

Business and Property taxes	$54,709.04
Oil Tax	957.50
Sewer Tax	92.60
Oil tax not on roll	229.25
Property tax added to the Roll	50.40
Interest	114.16
Total	$56,152.05
Paid to Treasurer	$55,183.78
Unpaid Taxes	212.08
Discounts	747.09
Cash on hand	10.00
Total	$56,152.95

Mr. Cumming's statement referring to the unpaid taxes called for an abatement of $73.06 on the road oil tax, leaving the sum of $174.12. This was further reduced by abating $77.17 general taxes, every item of which was carefully explained to the Council, leaving $94.85 unpaid taxes. Mr. Cummings said that this was the smallest unpaid sum he could remember.

"You have the satisfaction of a man who knows his work has been well done" was Mayor Meyer's compliment.

The roll was accepted on Mr. Palliser's motion.

Fix Frontage Tax

The report of B. McLean, manager of the Light and Power Utilities, on the cost of a water main on Market and Oliver streets showed a reduction of $425 below his former estimate. This was obtained by using 4 inch pipes throughout instead of part 6 inch and the rest 4 inch as at first proposed. With this revision the estimated cost of 940 feet is $1,969 requiring a frontage tax of approximately 67 cents.

Mr. Baker moved seconded by Mr. Wilkinson that the frontage tax on this work be set at 70 cents a foot on the property affected.

COULDN'T HELP IT.

Mrs. Newrich — Suzanne, tell Robert, the butler, that if he must smoke in the kitchen to use better tobacco.

Suzanne—I did tell him, but he sez they're the best cigars master has.

CENSUS TAKERS ENCOUNTER FEW OBDURATE ONES

INTERESTING FIGURES

With but an occasional grouch encountered presenting a determined obstacle to the expeditious taking of the census, the enumerators report, both in the city and country, that the work is progressing well. Col. J. Mills, Commissioner for West Peterborough, states that the people are generally giving wholehearted co-operation, and he is very well satisfied with the progress made.

It is expected that the census figures when revealed will show an increase of several thousands in the city's population since the last census of 1911. North Monaghan Township should show a decided increase, for all the populous suburbs of the city, Claridy and Brownton, are in the township, and in 1911 these thriving communities were but in an embryo state.

Peterborough West gave a total population of 26,151 in 1911. Of this number 12,936 were males, 13,215 females. With a total area of 354,437 acres in the riding, the density of population figured out at 47.23 persons per square mile. The density of population in West Peterborough is almost three times as great as in East Peterborough, and as the east riding has been decreasing, amalgamation of both into one has been suggested and is possible if redistribution takes place. In 1901 East Peterborough had a population of 16,291, in 1911 only 15,490, while in the same period West Peterborough jumped from 20,704 to 26,151.

Peterborough City has been steadily increasing in population, and it is possible that the census will show a population of 22,500. The City Assessor's figures, which are fairly correct and a good indication of the population, gave the city alone 21,790 last year. How the suburbs are outstripping the city can be estimated from Vernon's Directory figures, which gave the city and suburbs 29,100 people. In getting these figures, the Vernon people used every precaution to be correct, and it may be that these figures will be substantiated by the census.

1855	3,400
1855	4,620
1874	6,805
1899—Peterborough	9,284
Ashburnham	1,473
1890	9,337
1891	9,841
1892	10,375
1895	10,835
1900	10,879
1902	11,067
1903	11,807
1904—Union of Ashburnham and Peterborough	14,000
1906	14,962
1907	16,000
1911	19,300
1912	19,759
1913	20,150
1914	20,623
1920	21,790

OPEN SHOP IN TORONTO NEXT

EMPLOYING PRINTERS DECIDE ON THIS AS ONLY SOLUTION OF THEIR DIFFICULTIES.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

TORONTO, June 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Decision to introduce definitely into operation in their printing plants the principle of the "open shop," was reached by the members of the Toronto Typothetae at a meeting yesterday afternoon. This action was taken, it was stated, after the whole situation in connection with the local strike had been considered, and it was felt that this was the only possible solution of the difficulty. During the afternoon negotiations in progress between the Employers' committee and representatives of the Pressmen's and Press Assistants' Unions were terminated indefintely, the two sides being unable to reach an agreement.

The New Day without corns

Millions now employ it. At least 20 million corns a year are being ended by it.

To suffer corns now is a folly. One test will prove them needless.

Blue-jay comes in liquid form or plaster. You apply it by a touch. The pain ends then and you forget the corn.

In a little while it loosens and comes out.

It is fast displacing treatments which were harsh and wrong.

One test will convince you. Try it tonight.

BRITISH HELP IN COLLECTING FOREIGN DEBTS

INTEREST DUE CANADA ON BOTH GREEK AND ROUMANIAN BONDS IN DEFAULT AND BRITISH AID INVOKED

LOANS TO ASSIST TRADE

LONDON, June 7. — (Canadian Press.)—The collection of interest on the Greek Government bonds covering the credit of twenty-five million dollars granted by Canada to encourage trade has been placed by the Canadian High Commissioner here, Sir George Perley, in the hands of the British treasury for recovery in connection with the interest on British loans to the same country. The same course has been followed with regard to Roumanian bonds, interest on which is also in default. It is considered that, especially in view of the present European situation pressure from Great Britain, particularly in the case of Greece, would be more effective than from Canada, which is so much further away, and accordingly the co-operation of the British authorities has been invoked.

DIE FOLLOWING AUTO ACCIDENT

DELEGATE TO PRESBYTERIAN CONVENTION AND FARMER SUCCUMB TO INJURIES.

DRIVER IS BLAMED

BARRIE, Ont., June 7.—(Canadian Press.)— Deaths in the Royal Victoria Hospital here of Commissioner A. Murphy, of Cloverdale, B.C., who had been attending the sessions of the Presbyterian General Assembly ,and of David Boyce, prominent farmer, whose home was near Craigville, five miles from here, proved the sequel to the collision on Saturday morning at Craigville station between a gravel train which was backing up and the motor car driven by Boyce.

Yesterday the jury empaneled by Coroner Arnatt, after hearing the statements of eye-witnesses, decided that the fatal accident had been due to negligence on the part of the driver of the automobile and that the men in charge of the train were entirely free of blame. Mr. Murphy's skull was fractured in the collision, while Mr. Boyce's chest was badly crushed.

HASTINGS AND DISTRICT NEWS

HASTINGS, June 6.— From a Weyburn paper the following item was taken:

"About a score of the friends of Mr. W. R. Learmouth gathered in the grill room of the Royal Hotel to do honor to the popular banker prior to his departure for Winnipeg. Dr. Eaglesham presided at the dinner which was served, and occupied the chair during the progress of the impromptu entertainment that followed, which included vocal solos by Messrs. R. Sharpe and J. S. Harris, with J. C. Clements at the piano. The majority of those present delivered brief speeches which were very complimentary to the guest of the evening. General regret was expressed at Mr. Learmouth's departure from town. Mr. Learmouth was then presented with a handsome solid brown leather suit case as a memento of the strong freeling of friendship which his friends in Weyburn entertain towards him."

Mr. Learmouth is the son of Mrs. Learmouth, town and is well and favorably known here, where he spent his boyhood days.

Rev. L. M. Hinton conducted union services yesterday, preaching in the Methodist church in the morning and in the Presbyterian church in the evening.

The schools were closed on Friday in honor of the King's birthday, also the banks and post office.

A number of our people motored to Westwood on Friday to witness the unveiling of the monument which has recently been erected by the township of Asphodel in honor of her fallen heroes.

Mrs. Howard Runnels of Toronto, has returned to Foxboro, after a two weeks' visit with her brother, Mr. E. C. Prentice, town.

The Fowlds Co. is erecting a new power house, which will be a great improvement to that section of the town.

Mrs. (Rev.) Hinton leaves on Tuesday morning for Napanee, where she will attend the annual branch meeting of the W.M.S. for the Methodist church as a delegate from the Hastings Auxiliary.

The many friends of Mr. Jas. Buck, of Norwood (late of Hastings), will be sorry to learn that he is seriously ill at his home.

Mrs. McCormack has returned to her home in Toronto after an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. Sydney Spooner, Front street.

SENTIMENT IS NOW SWINGING TOWARD UNION

THOUGHT THAT HAD THE VOTE BEEN TAKEN YESTERDAY ASSEMBLY WOULD HAVE STRONGLY FAVORED UNION.

VOTE MAY COME TO-DAY

TORONTO, June 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Church union, while still a big problem to the Presbyterian Assembly, is not the mammoth one which it seemed to be just a few days ago. That is because oil has been poured upon the troubled waters and because the union debaters who took the platform yesterday and who treated the matter in a careful, kindly manner were able to create an atmosphere of applause which clearly indicated that the strength of union is gainig, while that of the antis is weakening.

It was Dr. Walter C. Murray of Saskatoon who started building up this atmosphere, and it was Rev. D. R. Drummond of St. Paul's church, Hamilton, who topped it off with such effect and in a dramatic manner that it is a safe thing to say that had the vote been taken at the close of his address, sentiment would have gone on record as strongly in favor of union. But there is still a long list of speakers to be heard, and in view of the number the church union debate will have precee-opening of this morning's sederunt. opening of thi smorning's sederunt. The speakers declared union would not result in loss of identity by the Presbyterians as had been thought. The vote is expected to-day.

TOURING SCOTS TROUNCE REGINA

REGINA, June. 7. — (Canadian Press.)— Regina's all star soccer team held the touring Scottish professionals to a score of 3 to nothing last night. One goal was scored in the first half and after the interval the visitors scored two more. All three were scored by Gentre Forward Wilson, whose shots gave the goalkeeper little or no chance to save. The visitors gave a dazzling display. Three thousand spectators were present.

RIVERSIDE PARK.

The decision of the City Council to expropriate Riverside Park for park purposes, a by-law to effect which was passed by the Council last night, will meet with popular approval. The ratepayers indicated their desire that this beautiful property should be preserved for the public a year ago last January, when the proposition was submitted to them, and they have been at a loss to know why the aldermen have been so slow in acting upon the mandate given them at that time. However, the project is well nuder way at last and before long Riverside Park will be the property of the city. Outside of Inverlea, it will be the only waterfront land that is owned by the people, and in the years to come its expropriation will be recognized as a most commendable step.

"HIS PROMISE UNBREAKABLE."

Will Crooks, famous English labour leader, who represented the workers in the British House of Commons, with distinction to himself and benefit to the cause for which he stood, is dead, and in his passing England has lost a public man whose counsel and judgment were always esteemed. Of Will Crooks it has been said that his word was always to be relied upon, that his promise was unbreakable. What greater tribute could be paid to any statesman? One labour leader of his calibre can do more for the cause of the workers than all the agitators that ever mounted soap boxes and tried to set one class in the community at the throats of another. During the war Will Crooks was one of the leaders of labour who put aside all petty differences of opinion in regard to the rights of the workers and who ever tried to advance England's war efforts and arouse his countrymen to the menace of Prussianism His memory will long be honoured in the Motherland, and rightly so, for he has earend the regard of the people of England.

A BIG PROBLEM.

The necessity for care and judgment in the selection of immigrants into Canada and for some better system of looking after the newcomers and making loyal Canadians of them, is made plain by Rev. John A. Cormie, Superintendent of Missions in Manitoba, who has given out some figures in regard to conditions in the west that are startling, to say the least, to easterners. It is a surprise to find that practically half the population of the three prairie provinces is foreign born. Forty different nationalities are represented and many of these foreign born westerners have been settled in huge blocks, so that it is possible to travel fifty or sixty miles without hearing the English language. The English people have been driven out of these colonies and the foreigners have been neglected and badly handled, with the result that they have made little progress towards becoming real Canadians. They form one of the big problems with which Canada has to deal. It has cost many millions to bring them here, and unless steps are taken to properly educate and take care of them, the investment is likely to be a costly one for this country.

ALL'S WELL.

The Examiner has received from Colaway Motors, Limited, Toronto, an optimisic little booklet with the above title. Its cheerful tone and encouraging information are in contrast to the blue ruin talk which too many of our people are prone to indulge in. Canada is better off to-day than any other country in the world, declares the message ,and then facts are given to substantiate the optimism of the statement. The Dominion has the agricultural products that the nations must buy and the raw materials of which half the world is in dire need. In addition Canada has proportionately fewer men out of employment than either Great Britain or the United States, while her wealth per capita is greater than any other nation on earth. Those are comforting facts. Cheering, too, are some of the figures quoted. For instance notice deposits in the banks increased by twenty million dollars in January, while since January of last year, saving deposits were increased by one hundred and forty-nine millions. During January, too, the net national debt was reduced by $5,495,000. Last year Canada exported 123,000,000 bushels of wheat as compared with 68,000,000 bushels in 1919. The adverse trade was lessened in the first month of the current year, for the exports totalled $80,822,806, while the imports were $72,252,233 .Canadians should remember these and other inspiring facts and realize, as the writer of the statement quoted does, that "better times come through hard work, through sustained, persistent effort, not through moaning about 'hard times' nor by earned the regard of the people of is no room for pessimists."

DRAWING TOGETHER.

The report that the British Government has suggested to Japan that the Anglo-Japanese Treaty be extended merely for one year reflects the difficulty, but also the urgency, which is felt in revising the terms of that instrument. The pressure for alteration comes from different sources. There is, first, the dominant motive of settled British policy to hold firm firmly to friendly relations with the United States. Anything which might even seem to rub America the wrong way will carefully be avoided by the Government in London. Yet it has to think also of the Governments in Cape Town and Melbourne. It was Imperial interest that led to the first framing of the treaty with Japan. To-day it is considerations of empire that also figure in its renewal, but they are at present making for delay and for re-shaping the treaty so as to make it perfectly agreeable to the United States. This question will be one of the chief matters to be brought up in the coming Imperial Conference.

Before leaving to attend it, Gen. Smuts made a noteworthy speech in the House of Assembly. He touched upon the Japanese alliance only to declare that the "paramount aim" of South Africa should be to secure a "complete understanding with the United States," and that there should be "no renewal" of the treaty with Japan 'unless we could satisfy the "United States that no jeopardy to American interests would follow."

Even more explicit was Premier Hughes of Australia in his address before setting out for London. He said of the Japanese question that "for all practical purposes" Australians and Western Americans "view this problem eye to eye." And he, too, demanded that the Japanese Treaty be so "modified" that it will be "acceptable to America."

These expressions come, it will be noted, from those very British Dominions which our excited opponents of the League of Nations assured us would always cast their votes and their influence against the United States. That artificial fear is now happily overpast. We are able at last to read calmly of the offers of Great Britain and her colonies to work together with America to secure the peace of the world.—New York Times.

CIRCUS COMES, PAPA LAUGHS.

Clowns Amuse Both Parents and Tots.

Only a few days now and the nimble clowns with their pink nosed poodles, the lovely ladies, with their spangles, the hippo with his wrinkled hide, the hooting, tooting calliopes, the gaily garbed bands—in fact, in a few days the vividly hued kaleidoscope of the circus will chase the glooms out of the city, for John Robinson's Circus comes to town on Thursday, June 16th.

This season the John Robinson Circus is said to be dedicated to the proposition that the public must be amused as well as thrilled. That, besides pep, vim and go, the circus should unfold a mile or so of chuckles; that things novel, stimulating and refreshing have their places under the domes of the big top; that papa should get as many laughs out of the drolleries of the clowns—fifty, count 'em—as little Freddie and little Alice.

Hence, this coming of the long, gaudily painted trains, promise the hundred men of the advance forces of the circus, means the banishment of dull care for a day. It means, they say, that novelty and freshness and fun are a sort of John Robinson trinity. Everything will be fresher—from the peanuts to the paint on the ring banks.

There will be a ladies' bugle corps on thoroughbred horses in the twenty-two blocks' lon gstreet parade and pretty girls will seat people in the grandstands. Seven bands and three calliopes will aid in keeping the air a-throbbing with rollicking circus day tunes, while the fine herds of elephants have learned to trumpet whenever the donkeys pulling the clown carts attempt to bray. Therefore, the medley of the sawdust and tanbark will be a bit more in evidence than ever before.

And one whole section will be made up of floats and novelties. The big show opens with "The Birth of the Rainbow," a beautiful spectacular pageant and extravaganza, employing 600 people and 400 animals.

SOLDIERS' OPINION OF BYNG APPOINTMENT.

OTTAWA, June 7. — Brigidier General C. H. Maclean, when informed of Lord Byng's appointment as Governor-General of Canada, said: "I am very glad to hear the news. It will be a fine appointment and very, very popular in my opinion, and if he makes as great a success in the post of Governor-General, as he did while in command of the Canadian Corps, the country is fortunate indeed. There is no question but that he will fill the office well in Canada."

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

I RAISE EMMA'S WAGES.

Chapter 68.

As Mrs. Russell went down the stairs and out of my front gate, I stood looking after her, and all the half dead firey passions of hate rose up again within me. How could a woman be such a cat!

But I was not sorry she had come. She had roused and stirred me again to action. I had needed something like that.

No, I was not beaten yet. I set my lips firmly together, but as I passed by the hall mirror I got a glimpse of my face and I did not like the reflection. I wondered how many more months of this sort of thing it would take to make a sour-faced old woman of me.

Then I thought about Emma. Could it be true that she was going to leave and had not spoken to me of it?

I had a keen desire to wring Mrs. Russell's neck. I could remember years back of seeing my uncle do it to the chickens out on his farm and how they struggled and then suddenly went limp and stopped their shrieking. In Mrs. Russell's case it would prove effectual. I felt it was the only thing that would.

I would have to speak to Emma But I hardly knew what to say. I did not like to ask her if it were true in case it wasn't.

Perhaps she had heard things about Leonard—

"Not that—surely not that," I murmured half aloud, and the tears rushed to my eyes and welled up in my throat.

I seemed so much alone, so powerless to do anything. And every one seemed to be plotting against me—even life itself.

If Emma did know things and was going to leave me, she might talk, might repeat things that had happened between Leonard and me. I would have to do something at once.

I started for the kitchen. As I opened the door leading from the hall I was thankful to find it had been closed tightly. Perhaps Emma had not overheard our conversation.

"Emma," I said, sinking down on one of the kitchen chairs, "I want to talk to you a minute. If you are perfectly happy and satisfied here, and I have no reason to believe that you are not, I have decided to raise your wages $10 more each month. I will begin right now. I feel that you deserve it," I added warmly.

I watched Emma's face and waited for what she would say. "I hoped the $10 would influence her, in case she required any encouragement.

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Allen," she responded eagerly. "I can find use for the extra $10, and thank you again—but I'm happy too and contented right here with you and Mr. Allen." Her genial face lighted with an honest smile. I think I might have hugged her if she had not been so very fat and had not at that minute had her hands dripping with soap and water.

She picked up an aluminum sauce pan from the water and wiped it dry and shining on a clean dish towel. It was as clear and bright as her own soul and quite as shining as the end of her own round nose. I was thankful for the bright and loyal spots somewhere, even if they were in the kitchen.

"Then we are both satisfied, Emma," I exclaimed, enthusiastically.

As I went out of the kitchen I was very careful to close the door firmly after me. If I could help it, no outside malice would penetrate to that one dependable source.

I had won one battle, and I felt decidedly better.

After all, Mrs. Russell's call had proved quite profitable and inspiring. It had cost me $10 a month, but it had been worth a great deal more to my spirits.

Tomorrow—I Am Aroused.

MORE SUNSHINE FOR MOTHER EARTH

As a Result of Recent Solar Eruptions.

LONDON, June 4.—Recent solar eruptions, which caused brilliant auroras and disorganized cable and telegraph service throughout the world, may result in the earth receiving an increased quota of sunshine during the remainder of the year, says Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted scientist. He declares it is probable the monsoon will be strengthened and that in consequence the Indian harvest will be improved. He even ventures the opinion that the electrical particles thrown off by the sun during the disturbance may assist in the development of vegetation and reduce the amount of dust held suspended in the atmosphere.

Sir Oliver says the magnetic disturbances that attended the solar eruption were due to a torrent of electrified particles, which constituted a gigante electric current. This opinion is also held by Camille Flammarion, the veteran French astronomer, who has expressed surprise at a storm of such unusual violence occurring at this time.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS.

An investigation requested by two of the largest automobile clubs in California regarding the condition of that State's highway system has resulted in a report from the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture that 87½ per cent., or 1,262 miles, of California's highway is paved with concrete and has been found to be in good condition or better than good condition. The Federal Bureau reports that only 12.5 per cent. of California's highway concrete is inferior.

ONLY DAUGHTER OF OGDEN ARMOUR, ONCE A CRIPPLE, WILL MARRY SON OF CHICAGO BANKER—FEE FOR OPERATION WAS $100,000.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Lolita Armour, the only child of J. Ogden Armour, the millionaire packer, and John J. Mitchell, Jr., son of the chairman of the board of directors of three of Chicago's largest banks, will be married here June 18. The wedding will unite two of Chicago's oldest and wealthiest families.

Behind that social announcement lies an intensely interesting and gripping story of a "poor little rich girl," crippled at birth, who with the aid of the world's greatest scientists, developed into a normal, healthy, sport-loving woman.

The bride-to-be, when a child, showed signs of a serious hip trouble. She was unable to walk and apparently was doomed to go through life an invalid. The best specialists of the country were consulted.

An operation was performed in 1900, when the child was three years of age, without benefit. Her parents sought throughout the world for someone to cure her. In 1902, the child's father went to Vienna to consult with Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the world's most noted orthopedic surgeon. Armour appealed to the scientist to make a trip to Chicago and attempt to cure the girl. Lorenz was loathe to leave his practice in Vienna. Armour offered to pay any amount if he would make the trip. It was finally agreed that the physician should receive $100,000 and all expenses for himself and staff to go to Chicago and try to cure the child.

The surgeon attended the child in the Armour home here. The surgeon discarded the knife and used the compelling strains of straps and weights as a substitute. The five-year-old girl was under an anaesthetic for two hours. Efforts of Lorenz and his staq were centered on forcing the hip bone mto the socket. After two hours' work there was a sharp "click." The surgeon released his grip on the tiny body. The bone had been forced into the socket. The operation was a success.

A plaster cast was placed on the hip and remained there six months. A year and a half later the girl was still unable to walk. However, surgeons were confident that the operation would be successful, if given time. In 1904, Lolita was taken to Vienna for the final treatment at the hands of the famous specialist. Her father carried her on board the ship as she was still unable to walk. During a short stay in Vienna, she learned how to walk and when the family returned to this country, she ran down the gangplank of the boat, and played as any healthy, normal child.

She later became an accomplished sportswoman and was noted as an equestrian. Lolita has taken a great interest in Chicago's charitable institutions, but her greatest efforts have been toward aiding institutions caring for crippled children.

Following her cure, her father built a two million dollar home for her at Lake Forest, a Chicago suburb, and called it "Melody Farm."

During the war she converted her home at Santa Barbara, Cal., into a hospital for crippled soldiers. When 20 years of age, she was elected a trustee of the Armour Tech Institute.

Mitchell was in the aviation service during the war. He was seriously injured when a plane which he was piloting collided with that of another flyer 100 feet above ground. The other aviator was killed.

LOSS BY LIGHTNING ON ONTARIO FARMS.

During 1919 there were 1,104 lightning fires in the Province of Ontario, causing a total loss of $506,007, Over 78 per cent. of the lightning fire losses occurred on the farms of this Province.

These figures are official, being given by Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis of Ontario. His views on the matter are summed up in the following extract from an address delivered by him: "It is perhaps somewhat difficult to make the ordinary person realize the unnecessary value of the products of the soil from fire caused year in and year out by lightning. I say unnecessary waste for it has been proved beyond a doubt that good lightning rods properly installed are more than 99 per cent. efficient."

This pronouncement of the Fire Marshal should be carefully read by every farmer in the Province. Particularly illuminating is the last sentence: 'Lightning rods properly installed are more than 99 per cent. efficient."

What does it avail a farmer to plough and harrow and seed and tend and harvest; put into barns the food on which the world depends and on the sale of which his own prosperity rests, to have the whole destroyed by a stroke of lightning—the fruits of a year's labor consumed in an hour?

"Lightning rods are over 99 per cent. efficient." The cost of material and installation of lightning rods for a sirty-foot barn and an eight-roomed house will not average more than seventy-five dollars. To-day when more than ever there is a need for economy, for production, for the elimination of waste, it is not only good business, but good citizenship—an imperative duty upon every farmer—to protect his house and barns and loved ones from the scourge of the fire fiend.

This protection costs so little is so certain, means so much to life and property, that it might properly be a subject for Government action. In the cities the Government compels the erection of fire escapes on certain buildings. The lightning rod is the farmers' fire escape.

PERIOD OF SUSPENSIONS IN DIVIDEND PAYMENTS.

NE WYORK, June 6. — A continuation of the downward trend in dividend declarations, which marked the closing days of 1920, has been observed throughout the five months of 1921. General dullness in industry as a result of credit tension, falling prices and the general failure of business to recuperate and readily adjust itself to new conditions has caused holders of the more important listed securities losses in dividend disbursements of over 17,000,000.

Prominent among the companies that have ceased dividend payments since Jan. 1, 1921, are Sears-Roebuck, Lackawanna Steel, Midvale Steel and Ordnance, Republic Iron and Steel, and New York Air Brake, representing outstanding capital of 280,108,500. Passing of Ajax and B. F. Goodrich dividends, indicate the failure of the rubber industry to resume normal business; while American Hide and Leather and Central Leather have joined the ranks of non-dividend payers in the leather industry.

In many cases the passing of dividends reflects a policy of retrenchment on the par of Boards of directors, the advisability of a conservative course, under present industrial conditions, prompting a deferment of dividend payments, although the funds for such payments were available.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHAED

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, it becomes beautifuly dark and glossy.

McKIM'S DIRECTORY FOR 1921 ISSUED.

121 Canadian Daily Papers Issued.

The 1921 edition of the Canadian Newspaper Directory has been issued by A. McKim, Limited, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg and London, England.

To Messrs' McKim goes the distinction of being the oldest and largest advertising agents in Canada. They are authorities on the newspaper situation in every town and village throughout the Dominion, and their annual publication—the Canadian Newspaper Directory—is the one authentic record of the standing of Canada's various advertising media.

The 1921 edition is the 14th issue of this work. Throughout the thirty years that have ensued since the publication of the first edition, the agency of A. McKim, Limited, and the newspapers of Canada have been growing up side by side and the Canadiaa Newspaper Directory has built up amongst the publishers and advertisers a reputation for accuracy that causes it to be consulted with the same degree of finality as the standard dictionaries. A circulation rating in the Canadian Newspaper directory is to the publishers and advertisers of Canada what a rating in Dun's or Bradstreet's is to the financial world.

The Directory describes in detail every town and village in the Dominion which boasts a newspaper of any description; it gives also the surrounding towns and villages that have no papers of their own and are obliged to look to the towns listed for their news of the world's happenings. The Directory gives the exact location of each town in its relation to other centres of importance, the railroads and waterways by which it is served, the telegraph banking and express facilities, the public buildings, and the various industries in which the people of the town are engaged. It proceeds then to describe the various papers that are published, giving their periods of issue, dates of publication names of publishers, politics, subscription prices, number and sizes of pages, circulations, etc.

Another feature is the market survey maps, which have been issued as a supplement and which show each town or city in which a newspaper is published, the railways and distribution centres.

The Canadian Newspaper Directory shows that there are to-day 121 daily papers being issued, as compared with 130 last year; 981 weeklies and 218 monthlies. With the various publications issued at other intervals there are in all 1,500 publications being published and read by the Canadian public at the moment.

The 1921 edition of the Canadian Newspaper Directory is indispensable to everyone connected with publishing and advertising, and not to these field alone are its uses confined. It will be found invaluable to the salesman planning his itinerary and to the shipper routing his goods. It is a business publication with a thousand and one uses for business men everywhere. Price $3.00, from the publishers.

SLOW PROGRESS FOR CHURCH UNION

Difficulties in the Way — Advises Against Mixed Marriages.

HAMILTON, June 6.—Referring to Church Union and its feasibility, Rev. S. E. Marshall, retiring president of the Hamilton Conference, said:

"The bishops had a glorious vision—we all feel and admit it. But when it comes to practical plans for realising it, we fear the difficulties will long delay its consummation. We rejoice, however, in the marked change of attitude and the lofty and noble Christian spirit expressed toward the free churches. It has changed the ecclesiastical climate, and is bound permanently to sweeten the relations between the Episcopal and non-Episcopal churches."

Mixed Marriages.

Regarding mixed marriages, Rev. Mr. Marshall cited the decision of the Privy Council in the Tremblay marriage case, and expressed satisfaction in the fact that the canons of the Council of Trent shall have no validity in Canada, and that Canadian civil law shall prevail regardless of the marriage and divorce laws of any religious denomination.. "The legal authority of Protestant ministers to solemnise marriage, therefore, depends in no way upon the religious belief of the persons to be married. Henceforth, there are no special privileges given to any church," the speaker pointed out. "And yet our young people will do well to heed the counsel of those more experienced than they; and in the matter of so solemn and far-reaching a life-contract as that of marriage, to keep within our own Protestant faith. Much disappointment and heart-burning and open discord in home life may be thus avoided.

"This judgment of the Privy Council at the same time ends all divorce of legally constituted families merely on a religious technicalty — and in this we rejoice. Regarding the recent proposals of the state to the extending of the grounds for divorce, we as a religious communion are utterly opposed. The Christian conscience of Ontario should protest against such action."

MERCHANTS BANK OF CANADA HOLDS 58TH ANNUAL MEETING

Sir Montagu Allen, the President, in Annual Report to Shareholders, Reviews Growth and Expansion of Bank During Reconstruction Period.

D. C. Macarow, General Manager, States That Now is the Time for Tempered Optimism in Canada.

Annual Statement Shows Increase of $7,000,000 fo rYear in Savings Deposits—Bank Handling Full Proportion of the Business of Country.

The fifty-eighth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Merchants Bank of Canada marked the close of a satisfactory year for the Bank. The annual report indicated that business had been well maintained during the period of readjustment.

Sir H. Montagu Allan, the President, in his address on behalf of the Board of Directors, dealt particularly with the main features of the progress of the Bank during the past year and pointed out that there were now 400 branches. In addition, there was a steady increase in the number of shareholders of the Bank, the total number now being 2,997, as against 2,622 a year ago, an increase during the year of 375.

D. C. Macarow, the General Manager, in a constructive address, took the view that at this stage of Canada's development a certain optimism was not only warrantable and desirable, but, indeed, essential, for it begets that stimulating measure of constructive effort, energy and courage through the application of which the obstacles the country now has to face would in due course be more surely and readily overcome.

Mr. Macarow also referred to the general business of the Bank and pointed out the large measure of assistance which was given to the industries of the country, including support in full measure, to our largest individual source of production and wealth—agriculture. This is reflected by total current loans and discounts of $109,183,000.

At the moment special reports of the Bank indicated that crop conditions throughout the country were at the present excepionally promising.

President's Address.

The President, Sir H. Montagu Allan, in presenting the Annual Report, spoke in part:—

The general depression in business which has been felt to a greater or lesser degree in every country in the world for some months past, has effected the business of the Bank to some extent, but we hope the low point of the depression has been passed, and that there will soon be a change for the better. In the meantime, although we do not feel there is any cause for anxiety in regard to the future prosperity of this country, we feel called upon to advise our customers to be very cautious before undertaking new commitments. The coal strike in England, which will no doubt result in the loss of a great deal of trade, and the unrest and discontent which seems to prevail in nearly all the countries of Europe, give rise to serious financial problems, which have got to be reckoned with, but no man in this country, who is strong and healthy, can afford to be a pessimist for any length of time. The known and undeveloped resources are sufficient to ensure future prosperity.

Bank Has 400 Branches.

During the year we opened 12 new Branches and established 11 sub-Agencies on regular Branch basis. Three Branches were closed, while 12 sub-Agencies were opened and 8 closed. Our total number of Branches is now 400.

In order to provide for our growing business in the uptown district of Montreal and to prepare for future requirements, it was deemed advisable to acquire another uptown site on St. Catherine street, and we have accordingly purchased the northeast corner of St. Catherine and Drummond streets, a site probably unequalled in point of location. It is the intention to erect thereon a suitable building that will afford every modern banking facility for that busy district.

As mentioned in last year's report, a further issue of $2,100,000 of new stock was made, making the paid-up capital of the Bank $10,500,000, and by the transfer of the premium on the new stock to the Rest Account, the Rest now stands at $9,450,000.

The Shareholders of the Bank now number 2,997, as against 2,622 in 1920, being an increase of 375 during the year.

New Directors Appointed.

We have to record with deep regret the loss by death of three of our Directors, two of whom were Vice-Presidents, Mr. K. W. Blackwell, Mr. Andrew J. Dawes and Mr. Thomas Long. Mr. Blackwell had been a Director and then Vice-President of the Bank for some years, and was a man of very high character and a most lovable disposition. He acted in my place during the four years I was absent while the war lasted, and took an active and intelligent interest in the affairs of the Bank, and his loss was very greatly felt by all of us. Mr. Andrew J. Dawes was appointed Vice-President in his place, and during the few months he occupied that position his good judgment was of great assistance on many occasions, and his death was very deeply regretted. Mr. Thomas Long had been a Director and our Ontario Representative for many years. Our business in that Province has shown satisfactory progress, which in no small measure was due to Mr. Long's exertions on our behalf.

The position of Vice-President was filled by the appointment of Mr. F. Howard Wilson, and the vacancies on the Board were filled by the appointment of Mr. John Baillie, Mr. Ross H. McMaster and Mr. Norman J. Dawes. These gentlemen are all well-known business men of high character and standing in our community, and I am sure their advice and assistance will prove very valuable in the management of the affairs of the Bank.

The General Manager's Address.

The General Manager, Mr. D. C. Macarow, in rising to make his annual address, was received, with much applause by the Shareholders. He said in part:—

The trend of our interest-bearing deposits has been steadily upward, an increase in that Department of about $7,000,000 being shown, but this gain has been more than offset by the decline in the total ordinary deposits. A year ago, however, under the heading of Demand Deposits a sum of about $8,000,000 stood to the credit of the Government in connection with Victory Loan payments. This amount, which, of course, was of a purely temporary nature, was withdrawn during the year so that, after making allowance for it, the Total Deposits and Total Assets about held their own, a satisfactory achievement we have no doubt you will agree.

Current Loans and Discounts, apart from loans to cities, towns, municipalities and school districts, stand at $109,183,000, as against $113,198,000 last year, a reduction of $4,000,000 in the twelve months' period. It will be seen, therefore, that this Bank continues to extend its ample share of assistance to the industries of the country, including support, in full measure, to our largest individual source of production and wealth —agriculture.

In this latter connection it may be said that the situation in Canada suffered severely by the disappointing out-turn of last year's Western crops. Many of the farmers who suffered crop failure, or partial failure, were facing the adverse condition for the second and even, in numerous cases, the third year in succession, while those who reaped good yields saw their prospective profits largely swept away by the declining value of their products, with the result that "carry-overs" have been many. Advances, however, for legitimate agricultural purposes are inherently safe and in all deserving cases our support as it properly should be has been ungrudgingly continued to our large and growing clientele amongst the farming community.

Crop conditions throughout the country are at the present moment exceptionally promising. That this year's actual results may measure up to present expectations is "a consummation devoutly to be wished," for much depends upon it.

If I may say a word as to general conditions it will be one of tempered optimism, having a due comprehension of the many difficulties which require to be met but having, at the same time, a proper appreciation of the actual and potential riches of this country. At this particular stage in our development a certain optimism is, I venture to think, not only warrantable and desirable, but, indeed, essential, for it begets that stimulating measure of constructive effort, energy and courage through the practical application of which the obstacles we have to face will, in due course, be the more surely and readily overcome.

UNDERTAKERS' TRUST RULES IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Attempts to prevent the funerals of war heroes on Sunday has resulted in the discovery of an undertakers' trust in Chicago. Evidence which has been gathered by volunteer investigators has been turned over to the States' Attorney.

The bodies of Lieutenant Joseph B. Fast and Sergeant Hazen A. Vaughn, both killed in France, arrived here and the parents had made arrangements for services on Sunday. The "funeral trust", however, which has an agreement to hold no burials on Sunday, attempted to stop the funerals forbidding liverymen, member of the Chicago Motor Liverymen's Association, to supply cars. Neighbors and members of fraternal orders volunteerred the use of their cars, and the funerals were held. The hearses were furnished by an undertaker who long has fought the association. The establishment of this undertaker recently was bombed. The evidence shows that the "trust" sets the prices to be charged for funeral cars and hearses and demands rigid adherence to the schedule.

LINDSAY MAN FINED FOR CRUELTY TO HORSE.

LINDSAY, June 6.—Found guilty in the Police Court here on two charges of assault and cruelty to animals, a resident was fined $20.00, and costs, for assault, and $2.00, and costs, for ill-treating a horse.

COUNCIL INCREASES SALARY OF M.O.H. BUT NOT FROM JAN. 1ST

RESOLUTION TO MAKE THE INCREASE RETROACTIVE WAS DEFEATED—CHIEF GRANGE'S REPORT REGARDING DISMISSAL OF SAM. THOMAS.

TO EXPROPRIATE PARK

A by-law was passed by the Council last night authorizing the construction of a sewer on Lansdowne street from Park street to George streets as a local improvement.

A second by-law fixed the salary of Dr. Young as M.O.H. at $2,000 to date from July 1. When first submitted it read from January 1, but Ald. Turner objected to making the increase retroactive and he moved that the salary be fixed to date from July 1.

"I feel the same as Ald. Turner. I second his motion" said Ald. Hamilton. While the increase was being put through, Ald. Phelan suggested City Solicitor Widdifield might be given an addition to his salary but was informed a separate bylaw would be required. Ald. Turner's amendment that the increase date from July 1 carried when voted on. The vote was:

For amendment:—Turner, Hamilton, Phelan, Crowe, Gainey.

For motion:—Hay, Whitehouse, Jones, Morrison.

Authorizing the execution of a plan sub-dividing lots, 18 north of McDonnel street and south of London, and west of George street, was a by law passed last night. City Engineer Parsons said he had examined the plans and found the sub-division would be satisfactory.

Judge is Arbitrator

A by law was passed to expropriate the Riverside Park property for a public park and another bylaw appointing Judge Huycke sole arbitrator on behalf of the city over the claims for damages in connection with the Hunter street bridge was approved.

Fire Chief's Report.

The Fire Chief's report for May showed that in May 19 alarms were responded to with a total property loss of $1926.00 the apparatus travelled 26 1-2 miles, 4,600 feet of hose were used, 12 gallons of chemical extinguisher fluid and 128 feet of ladders.

"The horses were drilled twice daily and on the 28th I conducted hose drill and instructed the members in the use of the cellar nozzle and the life net" wrote the Chief.

"The greater portion of the month was used for inspection. The usual monthly inspection of the business section of the city was conducted by the officers and myself, and in addition all of the stores in the outlying parts of the city were inspected by myself. The Ontario Fire Marshal had sent Home Inspection blanks to be distributed to the schools, each blank containing 35 questions. These were to be filled in by one pupil from each home in the city. The blanks were then returned to me and summary reports of these inspections were to be sent to the Fire Marshal's office. This work occupied the time of two men for nearly two weeks.

On May 25, I found it necessary to discharge Fireman Samuel Thomas. When I engaged Fireman Thomas, I did so understanding that he was a competent driver of motor vehicles. When the holiday season came on and it was necessary for him to drive in place of men on vacation I found that he was extremely short sighted. Responding to his first alarm as a driver he failed to see a car coming from the opposite direction on Hunter street until within a very few feet of him and an accident was very narrowly averted. This, together with his disrespectful attitude towards the officer in charge of the platoon were reasons he was dismissed.

Ald. Crowe's tory

Ald. Crowe had a different story to tell than this claiming on the information he had that Thomas' discharge came about as the result of a frivolous remark to the assistant chief to which he took offense.

The Council received the chief's report as satisfactory.

Gets Two Weeks

Two weeks holidays the time fixed by the chairman of the Property Committee was granted to Plumbing Inspector Metheral by the Council If a substitute is required he will be secured.

Coal Purchased

Ald. Jones moved seconded by Ald. Whitehouse that 60 tons of egg coal for the city buildings be bought off the following five dealers:—R. Hicks and Co., H. B. Taylor and Son; W. Scott and Co., J. E. A. Fitzgerald, McCarthy and Johnston at $16.25 a ton and 2 tons of nut coal for the police station be bought at $15 a ton from A. Low and Co.—Carried.

TANATED CALOMEL

The Only Drug Known That Acts Upon the Liver

Persons who have used this new drug are finding almost instantaneous relief from Headaches, Indigestion, Rheumatism, Constipation, etc. The wonderful results from this new drug is due to the fact that it is the only drug known that acts upon the Liver. Doctors will tell you that 90 per cent. of all ills are due to the Liver. When the Liver becomes inactive the whole system becomes poisoned from the wastes in the bowels causing all sorts of complaints. Until this is relieved you cannot expect to get any relief whatever. Start to-day by taking one Tanated Calomel Tablet before each meal, or two at bedtime, and you soon feel bright, vigorous, vivacious again. No salts, seidlitz, or castor oil are necessary to take with Tanated Calomel, as it is self-eliminating. A poisoned system soon decays. That is why so many of us die 20 or 30 years before we should.

Tanated Calomel is sold by F. C. Weber, Charlotte Street.

Washing Windows and Mirrors—Add one tablespoon of vinegar to each quart of clear warm water used. Wring out soft cloth and after washing glass thoroughly, dry immediately. They will not streak.

To Make Old Clothes White Again—When boiling white clothes that have turned yellow, add one-half cake of paraffin to the water. They will be as nice as new.

If a Rubber Tip, such as is used on the end of a crutch, be slipped over the end of broom, dust mop and brush handles, much marring of furniture may be avoided.

Over-Salted Food—A little sugar added to over-salted food results satisfactorily; or, if too sweet, add a little salt. Either will neutralize the other.

Wooden Breadbox—Put a coating of thick flour paste (boiled) on the inside of wooden breadbox and cover too; then when dry, put another coat of paste and line with heavy wax paper. The bread will not taste of the wood.

Cements—Enamelware may be cemented by using equal parts soft putty, sifted coal ashes and fine table salt; cover the hole on both sides, place the pan on the stove with a little water in, let boil for a few moments, set aside to dry, and do not use for a few days.

Glassware may be cemented by using five parts gelatin and one of solution of acid chromate of lime; cover the edges, press together, tie and set in sun to dry. x

FEW CANADIANS REACH LONDON YET.

A correspondent from London writes under the date May 24 that Americans are preparing to invade London this year, was the report received here a few weeks ago, and London in her usual hospitable way prepared to welcome them. The hotels rejoice and hurried on the spring cleaning, many of them opening this year for the first time since the war.

Now they are ready. The Ritz with its large cool rooms is simply asking to be filled, but alas! the only figure to be seen this morning was that of the manager wandering disconsolately round the reception rooms.

Americans and Canadians are not arriving in their hundreds, nor even their twenties. The bookings for this year are far below those of last. No doubt it is the coal strike that is scaring away the guests, but everyone optimistically hopes that it will be over soon and that the season may end more briskly than it has begun. Princes has great confidence that a fortnight will do wonders for them: "Why even to-day we had a cable from one of our Montreal clients asking for a suite of rooms—always a beginning!" the manager said cheerfully.

Last year over 5,000 contracts had to be cancelled owing to the impossibility of stretching accommodation beyond its capacity, but this year the situation is almost normal again, and there is no fear that there will not be room for all who wish to come.

SLICED OFF BEARD OF WIFE-BEATER.

AKRON, Ohio, June 7.—James F. Martin, eighty years old, of a wealthy family of Greensburg, a village near Akron, lost his silvery beard, the pride of his life, when a crowd of schoolboys sat in the case "Community vs. Martin, for wife beating."

Martin, according to reports to Domestic Court officials, frequently beat his forty-year-old wife. Sunday he came home in a bad temper and again he beat his wife and two small children. The schoolboys heard their screams and, masked and using a code language, met to give him a Ku-Klux Klan trial. He was convicted, lost his beard and later was arrested for wife beating. He is the oldest prisoner ever held in the Summit County jail.

ELEMENTS IN METEORITES.

More than 40 elements have been reported as found in meteorites, Prof. Geo. P. Merrill of the United States National Museum considers the presence of the following as fairly well established: Aluminum, argon, calcium, carbon, chlorine, chronium, cobalt, copper, helium, hydrogen, iridium, iron, magnesium, manganese, nickel, nitrogen, oxygen, palladium, phosphorus, platinum, potassium radium, ruthenium, silicon, sodieum, sulphur, titanium, and vanadium. These are all constituents of our sphere, though some of the minerals in which they are combined are very different. Both the iron and strong meteorites are of igneous origin, and it is estimated that the myriad fragments entering the atmosphere daily add 100,000 tons of matter to the earth each year. Most of these are doubtless entirely burned up. Few of those reaching the earth's surface are seen or recognized, but 815 cases have been recorded. The masses found have ranged in size from the 5 grams of the Muhla (Austria) meterotite to the 37½ tons of Peary's Greenland iron. Merrill believes that these bodies have played a greater part in world history than has been recognized, but the low proportion of silica, alumina, and lime suggests that they have been only accessory material in world building.

TAXIS INVADE ROME.

Opposition of Cab Drivers Overcome After a Long Fight.

ROME, June 7. — (Canadian Press).—Taxicabs have just invaded Rome. New brightly painted vehicles similar to those of New York have just made their appearance, replacing as many horse-drawn cabs, which have held sway in the capital of the Caesars for centuries.

The taxicab, though welcomed with open arms by the general mass of Romans, has met for years a stonewall opposition for the right to circulate in Roman streets. The 5,000 cab drivers and livery men fought its use and warned the city administration they would be defeated at election if the taxicabs were admitted.

This opposition has in a measure been overcome but there still remains some cab drivers' prejudice against motor vehicles in their business. They have insisted that the chauffeurs be mainly recruited from the cab drivers.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

PETERBORO CITY COUNCIL TO CONTRIBUTE TO WAR MEMORIAL

TO PRESENT BY-LAW TO RATEPAYERS TO BORROW $5,000 BY ISSUE OF DEBENTURES FOR 10 YEARS.

MEMORIAL COSTS $30,000

As a result of the financial section of the Soldiers' Memorial Committee waiting upon the City Council last night, the City Solicitor was instructed to prepare a by-law authorizing the issue of ten years' debentures, bearing the rate of 6½ per cent. interest, to provide a grant of $5,000 toward a fitting monument in memory of the city's and county's soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in the great war.

This was the motion of Ald. Gordon and Crowe, and it carried unanimously.

Mr. W. G. Morrow explained that $30,000 was needed for this memorial, and while the Red Cross had made a grant of $15,000, owing to considerable criticism of using that money, which was raised for patriotic purposes, it is hoped to accomplish the object in view without touching it. Hence, the deputation respectfully asked the City Council to contribute $5,000, and they would approach the County Council next week for a similar donation. It would take a year and a half to two years to complete the contemplated memorial from the time the contract was signed.

Father Phelan felt that Peterborough could not afford to be behind other municipalities in this respect. The memorial was to be a lasting one, to keep for ever green the memory of some 600 boys in this vicinity who had given their lives for their country and Empire. Keene had contributed $3,000 for a memorial, Brantford $40,000, and other municipalities—large and small—according to their status. He asked the Council to consider well this proposition.

Mr. G. O. Cameron spoke feelingly to this question, and asserted that having done our share in looking after the dependants of soldiers, this municipality must not forget those who had made the supreme sacrifice. It is for the good of Peterborough that this money be subscribed, he said—not for to-day, but for to-morrow. We have to maintain Peterborough's traditions by erecting a lasting memorial to go down through the ages, and thus influence the making of better boys and better girls. The names of all Peterborough City and County soldiers who fell overseas will be inscribed on the memorial, and, naturally, the county town should carry the biggest portion of the financial load. He felt that with the city's cooperation the committee could go out and readily raise the remainder of the $30,000 needed. The $5,000 would not have to be paid till another year; but unless the whole amount was guaranteed and the monument contracted for shortly, we might not get it for a number of years, he declared.

Mr. Roland Denne said the committee intended inaugurating a two weeks' campaign to collect the remainder of the money.

Mr. G. A. MacDonald remarked that a grant of $5,000 would be an endorsement of the scheme in encouragement of both collectors and other subscribers.

Judge Huycke—"It is a sacred duty and a privilege to be asked to contribute toward a fund for so worthy a cause. The project should not be overlooked; in fact, it has been delayed too long already."

CAMPAIGN TO HELP THE BLIND.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, with head offices at 36 King street east, Toronto, has decided to institute a campaign in 19 cities in the Province of Ontario for contributions towards the support of the Institute, which is doing such a wonderful work in connection with ameliorating the condition of the blind in Canada.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Institute, held in Toronto on June 1st, the following resolution was passed:

"On motion duly seconded, it was resolved that the plan of conducting a campaign in a newspaper in each of the 19 leading cities of the Province be approved by the committee, and that the sincere thanks of the committee be extended to the managements of the papers concerned for their pledges of support and cooperation.

"It was the opinion of the committee that, having regard for the previous records of these cities in matters of this kind, and anticipating a desire on the part of the citizens to participate and assist in the furthering of such a worthy work as that of the Institute, that an estimate based on 10 cents per capita would be a fair expectation of the amount to be realized."

The campaign has been endorsed for the following cities: Woodstock, St. Thomas, Cobalt, Peterborough, Kingston, Guelph, Kitchener, Owen Sound, Chatham, Oshawa, Sarnia, Stratford, Lindsay, Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William, St. Catharines, Galt, Windsor, and will open on the 11th of June, closing on the 30th of June. At such a low figure per capita, Peterborough should be able to contribute its full quota to a cause which has helped many of its own citizens, there being more than 30 sightless people in the city at the present time.

EDISON, JR., MAKES BIG PREDICTION.

Automobiles to Distill Own Fuel as They Go Along.

BOSTON, June 7.—A prediction that automobiles within a few years would carry individual stills to produce fuel for their operation was made by Thomas A. Edison, Jr., in an address here. He declared he had himself been seeking a substitute for gasoline for ten years. The problem would be solved, he said, by the manufacture of individual distilleries to be attached to cars, the stills to be operated by the heat and motion of the motor, and to produce from petroleum and other ingredients a combustible mixture supplied as constantly as current is generated by electric cars while in motion.

A car of average power in his opinion, could be equipped to produce sufficient fuel to run itself and enough by-products to pay for its maintenance.

WOULD WIPE OUT WITH ONE STROKE WHOLE MECHANISM OF GRAIN TRADE

POLITICIANS PLAN THE OVERTHROW OF LONG-ESTABLISHED SYSTEM OF WORLD'S GREATEST MARKET—THE FUNCTION OF HEDGING DESCRIBED BY ROYAL BANK OF CANADA.

Bills before Congress at Washington and the Illinois State Legislature at Springfield, threaten the existence of the grain markets and system of grain trading in the United States as at present constituted. The Tincher Bill which was under consideration at Washington several weeks ago, would as a federal act, practically prohibit option trading in every grain market in the country. The Tincher bill has apparently been laid aside for the time being, and the new menace to the grain trade which has arisen in the legislation now pending a Springfield threatens the Chicago wheat pit alone. If the State of Illinois passes legislation prohibiting option trading the grain trade of the United States, and to a large extent the grain trade of the whole world will pass from the Chicago Board of trade to the New York Produce Exchange, the Minneapolis and the Winnipeg grain exchanges, and other recognized centres where such business is now carried on.

Farmers are Opposed.

The present legislation attacking the grain exchanges is avowedly in the interests of the farmers. The farmers have seen their wheat fall from the dizzy heights of war time to well under half its former price, and they are represented as blaming the grain brokers and speculators for the present demoralized state of the market. They are reported to be laboring under the impression that the whole of the country or rather the whole of the grain trading community throughout the country, is leagued in a gigantic conspiracy to smash the prices of their product.

The remarkable feature about the bill now before the Illinois legislature is that the farmers are opposing it. Only a few days ago several trainloads of farmers came to Springfield to protest against a measure which they say does not originate with the farmer but with a group of politicians who are trying to do something that they believe should please the farmers.

There are rumors afloat that the Ilinois legislation is really backed by a few of the large grain dealers, like Armour and Company, into whose hands the great bulk of the grain trade would fall if the Chicago grain pit were destroyed. The board of trade is now the open market which affords protection for all brokers, large and small. If the system of option trading is eliminated, the banks would have no recourse but to refuse credit to the hundreds of smaller brokers, and the larger firms would survive by reason of their great financial strength.

Basis of Grain Credits.

This result would be inevitable from the very nature of the business as it is now carried on. At present when an elevator company, say, wishes to buy wheat from the farmer, it must go to the bank to obtain the credit to finance the transaction and pay the farmer. The first question the bank asks is: "Is the wheat hedged?" That means has the anticipated purchase been balanced beforehand by a sale for future delivery. Unless the bank is assured that the elevator company will be able to dispose of the wheat it wishes to buy little credit can naturally be advanced for the price of wheat fluctuates too rapidly to make ti a good security for a loan. The manner in which the elevator company therefore is enabled to give the bank the necessary security is to sell the wheat before actually becoming the owner of it, and then to go to the bank, stating definitely that such and such a definite price has been obtained for it, and will be paid by the purchaser upon the actual delivery of the wheat at a future date

Function of Hedging.

The function of option hedging in stabilizing the market, and in bringing buyers and sellers together from all over the world, is described as follows in the June letter of the Royal Bank of Canada. It may be said that the present legislation would prevent trading in options unless the trader actually owns the grain As pointed out above it is necessary for traders to sell the grain before becoming owners of it in order to get credit from the banks.

"At a certain time of each year the volume of grain offered for sale is greatly in excess of immediate requirements. If the producer is to have freedom to market the bulk of his crop soon after harvest, interests possessing extensive purchasing powers must be found that are prepared to carry the grain during the period when supply is out of balance with demand. The price of grain being subject to rapid fluctuations, this purchasing power will not be available unless there is reasonable security against the risk of loss. The necessary protection is supplied by future trading which enables purchases for immediate delivery to be offset by sales for immediate delivery. Apart from the period of seasonal surplus, some time must elapse between the purchase of grain in the country and its arival at a point where it can be sold on the exchange. The elevator company or track buyer trading on a narrow margin cannot afford with safety to take the risk of carrying the grain during this period, as a small decline in price in the interval would evolve the elmination of profit and probably a substantial loss."

Protects the Farmer.

Grain speculation may have its abuses but so has speculation on the stock, cotton and other produce exchanges. The principle which would justify the abolition of one, would justify the abolition of all the other markets. The whole support of the market for grain, cotton or any such commodity lies in the future demand and the destruction of the mechanism which balances present supply against this future demand would quickly produce prejudicial to the interests of the farmers themselves.

Nothing seems to please the relatives of a man's first wife like the troubles he has with his second.

LUMBER MARKET DISTINCTLY QUIET.

Saw Mills Operate With Reduced Wages.

So far as the sale of lumber is concerned, there is but little change in general conditions, says Canada Lumberman. The tone of the market is distinctly quiet, although a better feeling prevails on the part of both wholesalers and retailers than was evidenced some time ago. It is felt that the worst of the depression is now over, and, while the stagnant period may remain for some time, still the increasing number of building permits in the larger cities and the various housing schemes that are getting under way give evidence that 1921 will be a fair year in certain centres, and would be much better if it were not for the exactions of labor.

Sawmills in various parts of the country are now operating, although a number have been late in starting, due, it is said, to the fact that no great haste is urgent, as stocks on hand are ample to supply all requirements for some time. There is an abundance of labor and very few protests over the matter of wages. Ordinary unskilled labor around the mill and in the yards now receives from 30c. to 35c. an hour, whereas last year similar service was awarded by at least 20c. to 30c. more.

It is not likely that the cut in any district will be as large as last year unless there should be a radical change in conditions. Wages in the bush are likely to run from $30 to $40 during the coming season, and one concern, which has been conducting a summer operation in the woods in Northern Ontario has been obtaining all the men required for $30 to $40 a month and board. Last fall wages were just double this figure.

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY

The tavern door was open to the Spring—
A stretch of shaded sward, heaven above;
Beyond the marshes rolled the whispering sea.
Thus did the captain tell the tale to me;

"A friend had I who knew my heart,
Whose heart was one with mine
We swore we'd never drift apart
And we clinked our pots of wine
To seal the pledge of our comradery—
I and this friend of mine.

"But ere we drank, the wind arose
And brought a breath of the sea;
The clean salt air was sweeter
Than the wine to me.

"My comrade heard a robin sing
A Spring song; he bethought him of
A pretty lass—and bought a ring
For the finger of his love.

"Yes, this is how a robin's song,
And a vagrant breath of the sea,
Gave a wife to this friend of mine
And a ship to me."

The watch shows seconds, minutes, days weeks, months, seasons, years and leap-years up to the year 9,999.

ACTUAL STARVATION NOW EXISTS IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, June 6.—That actual starvation is being experienced in Montreal to an extent which the public little dreams is the statement issued by the Family Welfare Association, formerly the Charity Organisation Society.

"Men come to us starving," said one official, "and it is impossible for us to help them. Men who were out of work during the winter months were also struggling against debt, since the relief given by the city consisted only of food and clothes and other necessities had to be obtained."

Cases of children being unable to attend school for lack of clothes are common. Malnutrition is becoming terribly frequent, said another official.

PROTESTS $2,000 SALARY FOR M.O.H.

BUT REPORT RECOMMENDING SAME PASSED COUNCIL.

Ald. Crowe took exception in Council last night to clause 3 of the Property Committee's report, recommending that the salary of M. O. H. Dr. T. W. H. Young be at the rate of $2,000 a year, dating from January, this year. In any event, he said, such a recommendation should come from the Board of Health, under whose jurisdiction the M.O.H. holds office. Personally, he (Ald. Crowe) was not in a position to say whether the salary of $2,000 was justified or not.

Ald. Gordon here pointed out that Council had to provide this salary.

Continuing, Ald. Crowe could not understand why Peterborough's M. O. H. should be paid $2,000 a year when other Health Officers in municipalities comparable with this city in importance only receive $1,000 or a little over. And he thought this salary increase business worth consideration, and referring to the Board of Health. He quoted Brantford as paying their M.O.H. $3,000 a year (for his whole time), St. Thomas $1,200, Kitchener $1,000, Kingston $1,000 (for part time)—all live centres—while Port Hope pays $1,000, fixed by the County Judge. Our M.O.H. should, in any event, pay his own substitute during holidays, the Alderman added.

Ald. Whitehouse: "That question has not arisen yet."

Ald. Phelan sympathized with Ald. Crowe's attitude, in that at the time of Dr. Young's appointment other physicians were willing to assume the office at the salary then accepted by Dr. Young—$1,800. Then there had been no provision in the estimates for this $200 increase.

Ald. Phelan here seconded Ald. Crowe's motion that this salary increase provision in the report be struck out. Lost.

Ald. Gainey spoke in favor of the M.O.H. devoting all his time to his duties at a commensurate salary. By this plan, he contended, the public would be better served and more generally satisfied. He moved in amendment to his effect, but received no seconder.

CANADA CAR HAS LITTLE WORK

MONTREAL, June 7.—Owing to the small amount of business in hand, the shops of Canadian Car and Foundry Co., have been in a semi-closed-down condition for some time, and although there was no question of closing down completely for any length of time, it is possible that they may close for a short time. Regarding a rumor that the Government had cancelled all its orders, a representative of the company replied "we haven't had any orders from the Government for over a year, so they cannot cancel any."

THE IONIC IN AN UPRIGHT PIANO

One of the most artistic designs in the beautiful art upright pianos manufactured by Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter Streets, Peterborough, is the Ionic design in mahogany. This instrument is a handsome piece of furniture in any home, but best of all it is a complete musical instrument, possessing a rare and rich tone and touch that is characteristic of the pianos bearing the name of Heintzman & Co.

VACILLATION ENDS IN ACTION, ETC.

Crowe, that they be paid individually by the City Treasurer when the payroll is certified to by the contractors; and it carried unanimouslq

The whole amount totals some $637.36.

While a resolution on Council's minutes of last year fixed the wages of laborers at 50c. an hour, Russell-Townsend Co., the bridge contractors, contended that as, when taking the contract they did so at a wage for laborers of 45c. an hour, for the whole work, subsequently raised by the Council to 50c. to meet inflated conditions, they were justified last December in cutting the wages to the original 45c. when conditions returned near normal again. Hence, personally, they refused to pay the 5c. an hour in dispute since January, although in a letter read last night admitted that the city might do so in its own discretion, although they advised agains tthe wisdom of such a course.

An Old Complaint.

R. C. Braund was present in support of a petition that the ditch on the west side of Park street, from his store to Lake street, a distance of 750 feet, be filled in and a sidewalk constructed. Se complained bitterly of his having asked seven years ago for this improvement but to no avail. While the assessment is high, he said, the properties are depreciated by reason of this deep ditch—a receptable for all kinds of rubbish, to say nothing of stagnant water.

City Engineer Parsons explained that there is no surface drainage at this point and a sidewalk cannot be built until drainage is provided and the ditch in question filled in.

Ald. Gordon—"As the ratepayers turned down the surface drainage by-law on a general plan, the only thing to do is to provide surface drainage in Mr. Braund's neighborhood and charge it up as a local improvement.

Ald. Gordon's and Crowe's motion to this effect carried.

Mr. Braund — "The assessment now is unreasonable. Below me there are 7 houses which have got storm drainage; why should I have had to wait seven years for the same privilege?

Ald. Whitehouse — "Conditions there are unique; there is a ditch seven or eight feet wide in front of Mr. Braund's property, and undoubtedly those lots were sold more reasonably than others level with the road." However, Ald. Whitehouse thought the matter will be adjusted.

Dangerous Precedent.

The fire, water and light report recommended a light placed on the lane south of Murray and west of George streets, but on motion of Ald. Turner and Crowe this was referred back to committee to see if arrangements to move the street light to suit requirements could not be made.

Ald. Turner, Jones, and Whitehouse contended that Council would be courting trouble by starting putting lights in private lanes such as this one in question.

A light on Brock street at the rear of St. John's church was added to committee's recommendations.

The members present were Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Aldermen H. Gainey, R. Morrison, J. Crowe, J. J. Turner, G. N. Gordon, Jas. Hamilton, R. Jones, F. Whitehouse, Hay and Nagle Phelan.

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty).

There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made of mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 to 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

MILLIONAIRE HOBO CLAIMED AS FATHER.

CHICAGO, June 7.—James Eads How, the "millionaire hobo," has become the central figure in a domestic mystery. A woman who believes she is his long lost daughter is seeking him.

Chicago authorities have received a letter from her to be delivered to the noted tramp. She is Mrs. Amy Jagan, of Thompson, Iowa. She said her father's name is James Eads Howell, and that she had not heard of him since she was a little girl.

She read recently that How was in Chicago attending the hobo convention and immediately wrote him.

"If you long for a daughter, as I long for you," she wrote in her letter, "we will be happy together."

COAL STRIKE HAS CAUSED HOT WATER AND ICE SHORTAGE.

Call on National Kitchen and Holland to Meet Situation.

HULL, England, June 7.—(Associated Press).—The shortage of coal has been so serious here during the strike of the miners that the people were unable to obtain hot water. To meet this situation the National Kitchen, which happened to have a supply of coal, sold hot water to the working people at one-half pennya bucket.

The shortage of coal also produced a shortage of ice as it handicapped the artificial ice plants. To obviate this, trawlers were sent to holland to bring coal, which they exchanged here for ice.

TOASTS AT DINNER AND HOW THEY ORIGINATED.

When John Smith gets up at a banquet, and, lifting a glass of legitimate or illegitimate liquor, calls out: "The ladies, God bless 'em," or, "Robert Brown, our honored guest!" or whatever else comes to his mind, he doesn't realize that in thus proposing a toast he is only going through the relic of an ancient ceremony.

Originally, when the ancient Greeks or Romans were at a feast, the custom was to bow before the statue of Bacchus, the god of wine, exclaiming, "Be propitious, O Bacchus!" and pouring a little wine on the ground. This was also done to other gods. Emperors being deified, this honor was paid them. Then wealthy people and beautiful women were thus toasted, and the habit of toasting was established, and later, showing sense, people decided to drink the liquor instead of wasting it.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF MOVIE LAND

The Music That Makes 'Em Cry

Nearly all motion picture actors make use of the studio orchestra to get into the mood of the scene which they are playing. Here are the selections that some players call for when they are required to weep, or express genuine sorrow:

Helene Chadwick	"To a Wild Rose"
Tom Moore	"My Wild Irish Rose"
Will Rogers	"Annie Laurie"
Lon Chaney	"Let the Rest of the World Go By"
Leatrice Joy	"Scented Violets"
Edythe Chapman	"Old Kentucky Home"
Mary Alden	"Dear Old Pal of Mine"
Cullen Landis	"Sleep, Baby, Sleep"
Molly Malone	"Muassenet's 'Elegie'"
John Bowers	Friml's "Melody"
Irene Rich	Aria from "Samson and Delila"
Sylvia Breamer	Shubert's "Ave Maria"
House Peters	Bohm's "Cavatina"
Johnny Jones	"Little Bunch of Lilacs"
Richard Tucker	Aria from "Madame Butterfly"

"Hoakum" Serial Is Doomed By Development Of Public Taste

Few and remote are the audiences left for cheap and sensational motion pictures. Fewer still are the "hoakum" serials that can be disposed of anywhere, at any price. Audiences, even in the small towns where patronage in drawn largely from the rural districts, have developed along lines of taste even more rapidly than picture production has. This significent statement represents the conviction of Edgar Oswald Brookes, Pathe Serial Sales Manager, after a tour of the southwestern territory and talks with exhibitors catering to all classes of audiences.

Mr. Brooks spent three weeks in visits to exhibitors in Indiana, Western Kentucky, Southern Illinois, Missouri and Iowa. He was pleased to discover that even in localities where present economic conditions are disturbing, and depressing for general business, no concessions are made in favor of cheap inferior pictures. Where coal mines are operating only one day in the week, and where the tobacco staple cannot be moved because the market abroad is not now available, all classes of motion picture theatres are well filled, but would not be, so exhibitors declare, if any lower quality of pictures were supplied.

Bad Pictures Rarely Found

The moving picture to-day is just as clean and often infinitely cleaner than its rivals of amusement—the stage, vaudeville, the book, magazine and even the big games in the world of sport, baseball and football. Considering that bad pictures have become a rarity, the censorship of films, as experience, has taught the National Board of Review to look on the matter, has become largely a constructive piece of work, not destructive, as suggested in Section 4 of the Act (Ohio) establishing the State Board of Censors.

"Only such films as are, in the judgment and discretion of the Board of Censorship," reads this Act, "of a moral, educational or amusing and harmless character, shall be passed and approved by such Board." It would seem that the idea is to encourage the State Board to condemn as many films as possible. —U. S. National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

Have Movie Actors "Hit the Sawdust"?

Judging by the number of Bibles, Unity, New Thought, Christian Science, Theosophical, Psychological and other religious, scientific, metaphysical and philosophical books lying around in dressing rooms and on sets at the motion picture studios nowadays, the actor body of cameraland is passing through what amounts to a metempsychosis.

Stardom Through Our Telescope

"Extras' about motion picture studios aren't easily fooled. They know the "ropes"; yet a host of them at the Goldwn studios in Culver City, Cal., thought that they were destined to pay a few days' salary in fines when they were caught smoking by an imposing-looking fire inspector. The incident took place during the filming of Tom Moore's latest picture, "Maade in Heaven," which was shown in Peterborough last week. In the photoplay, Mr. Moore appears as a fireman; and when he made his first appearance on the set, he strutted in proudly for the director's approval of his costume. Upon his dramatic entrance, a number of extras immediately dropped their cigaretes or hid them in their plams. An electrician raised the hand of one of the extras and called to Mr. Moore:

"Hey, Inspector, look here!"

Mr. Moore approached the frightened "extra."

"Got a spare cigarette about you?" he said.

The "extra" handed Mr. Moore a pack.

Whenever Helen Chadwick is required to weep in a picture she weeps real tears. It is the task of her director to get her so thoroughly into the spirit of the story that the tears come naturally.

Mary Alden, who has the part of the mother in "The Old Nest," says the longest time she has ever spent in any one place is eleven months. She has globe-trotted ever since she was a child.

Judge Priest in "Boys Will Be Boys," the picture starring Will Rogers, is played by Ed. Kimball, father of Clara Kimball Young. He is an old school actor, with a long legitimate stage career, and is often seen on the screen in support of his daughter.

Larry Semon was laid up in a Los Angeles hospital for two days last week, as a result of minor injuries sustained in filming a scene for his newest comedy, "The Fall Guy." He was a fraction of a second late in leaping from the top of a garage which, in a comedy scene, was being caried over a cliff. He saved himself from serious injury, but another fraction of a second might have told an entirely different story.

Antonio Moreno's little racing car, in which he has been seen frequently on the boulevards of Hollywood, California, has been donated by the Vitagraph star to the Actors' Fund, and was to be sold at the Actors' Fund Festival to be staged by Daniel Frohman at the famous Beverly Hills auto speedway on June 4th.

The announcement that Will Rogers has decided to give Bacon part credit for the plays which bear Shakespeare's name is expected to stir up a tempest in academic circles, where the question of authorishp of the immortal dramas is always open for debate. In "Doubling for Romeo," the picture Rogers just completed at the Goldwyn studios, Shakespeare and Bacon are jointly credited for the ancient sub-titles—but the star defies anyone to separate them. Rogers himself takes credit for the modern sub-titles — which of course are the best, he adds modestly.

RAILWAYS CAN'T BE CHARITABLE AND PAY ALSO

exaggerated statement. We do know that special cars and passes to our legislators, Federal and Provincial, and their sisters and their cousins and their aunts, entail expense and curtail income. The duty of the management is clear. A bankrupt concern ought not to be, and cannot be for long, a charitable institution. With the exception of servants of the road, all passes should be cut out and special cars reduced to a minimum. If firm action were taken along this line, the management would be in a better position to deal with leakages of a graver nature. One would hesitate to mention these, if the Canadian Railroader, an organ of labor, had not plainly stated that serious pilferings are going on. These statements have been repeated in Parliament. One member went so far as to assert that freight had been shipped and disappeared in its entirety before the point of destination was reached. This is a blot on the national character as well as an insuperable obstacle to railway success. Every servant and every citizen should aid the management in putting an end to this state of affairs. Under the head of leakage, it may be added, in a sentence, that all railroad extensions should be suspended for the time being.

"The stoppage of leakages is not enough. Income must be increased, and here manifestly the welfare of the railways is only a branch of the welfare of the nation. And at this point an impregnable position can be occupied. There are two great obstacles to what might be the absolutely unparalleled progress of Canada. One is the restraint of trade by unwise methods of taxation. Our development and production can only be fostered to the uttermost by the gradual removal of artificial obstacles to trade. With even a comparatively limited population we could build up a practically unlimited foreign and internal trade by the simple process of removing obstacles, such are our resources, the greatest heritage ever descending to a young people. The other great obstacle to our development is restraint of production by speculation in land. It is at once a national loss and a gross injustice to individuals to drive settlers back forty, fifty and sixty miles to find homes and a livelihood, while speculators, without effort, grow into fortunes by the simple process of holding lands near the railway out of use for the inevitable rise in values. The same process is produring in our cities the enormous rise in house rents, which is a terrible burden on the backs of city dwellers. These lands, whether urban or rural, shodld be taxed into use.

"A freer trade and a moderate taxation of land values would thus combine to bring about greater production, wider commerce, and increased wealth and prosperity in which our railways would amply narticipate. Not only so, but running expenses would be lessened by cheaper supplies, which would benefit the railways along with the general consumer. To illustrate, coal carries a tariff of fifty-three cents a ton. This item alone means hundreds of thousands of dollars to our railways annually.

"When we have cheapened supplies and lessened the cost of living to individuals, it will be time enough to look into the wage situation. These are common-sense business roads to greater prosperity not only for railways but for the nation in all its varied activities.

"The reforms here briefly indicated would be facilitated and rendered more effective if we boldly faced the question of revaluation, which has received prominence from Mr. Crerar's advocacy. The national road has been built or bought by and belongs to the people of Canada. They gain nothing by attaching a fictitious capital value to the property. Indeed, they lose, for management and people are both depressed and dispirited by reports of annual deficits calculated on a false basis. So far as I understand Mr. Crerar's proposal, it is that we should relieve the management of the incubus of endeavoring to show good results under an inflated capital value.

"The important things, however, are to increase business and stop leakages. To do these things is a challenge to our patriotism. Canada needs a citizenship in some small degree worthy of those who gave their lives for her — a citizenship from parliament downwards of men and women who will resolutely set themselves to merge their own interests completely in the national interests. Canada is worth living for. And if we work incessantly for her in a spirit of unselfishness and devotion to the public good, he will rapidly become incomparably the country which is best worth living in."

TOWN MAY STOP ROOSTERS' SONG.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 7.—A prolonged municipal controversy relative to the control of crowing roosters during the wee hours, Los Gatos, twelve miles west of here, is planning a test of the two most promising plans submitted by citizens of the community.

Zedd Riggs, real estate dealer, of the Gem City, contends that all roosters before they crow must first flap their wings for several seconds. By tying down their wings each night, he soliloquizes, the early morning crow of the rooster can be checked.

George Shaner, another disturbed member of the foothill community, however, sees a different solution, based on a different idea of cause. Shaner holds that the crow is always preceded by a stretching of the neck of the rooster. Therefore his contention is that the rooster should nightly be placed in an enclosure which would force him to lie down and which would cause him to receive a bump on the head if he endeavored to stretch.

Business Well Maintained By Merchants Bank of Canada: Substantial Gain in Deposits

Profit and Loss Account Shows Satisfactory Profits for Year--Surplus yf $293,375 Carried Forward After Payment of Dividends and Bonus--Current Loans Amount to $112,-000,000.

The strength of the Canadian banking system during the period of deflation is strikingly reflected by the statements of the larger Canadian banks. The annual report of The Merchants Bank of Canada, details of which have been made public, is the first of the larger banks to make its appearance for the fiscal year to April 30th.

This covers almost the twelve months during which deflation has progressed throughout the country, and in this account it will be of special interest to shareholders of bank to know that its business has been so well maintained. During the war period, as is well known, all the banks undertook special business for the Governments. For the past year there has been a general tendency to adjust these special undertakings and to go back to normal lines of business.

The Merhhants Banl. is particularly interested in the growth and development of Canadian commerce, agriculture and industry. On this account its business is closely related to the whole general public of the country. There will be special interest to see whether during the period of deflation and lessened industrial activity the people of the country have been able to keep on adding to their savings. As far as the Merchants Bank is concerned, its clientele have been able to do this, as deposits bearing interest at the end of the fiscal year amounted to $120,004,549, an increase of approximately $6,006,000 for the year.

Notwithstanding the changed conditions and the lessened requirements of customers, current loans have been well maintained. Of this amount current loans and discounts in Canada total $109,183,502 and loans to cities, towns, municipalities and school districts $3,085,602.

Of the total assets of $190,367,409, liquid assets amount to $69,427,380. Included in them are Dominion and Provincial Government securities, amounting to $11,039,325, up from $7,893,229 in the previous year, while railway and other bonds, debentures and stocks stand at $5,020,059, as against $4,507,688. Canadian municipal securities and British, foreign and colonial public securities other than Canadian amount to $13,753,757, practically the same figure as a year ago.

During the year the capital of the bank was increased to $10,500,000, up from $8,400,000. In the same period the reserve fund has also increased to $9,450,000, up from $8,400,000.

The profit and loss account also contains a number of interesting features. Even during the period of lessed activity, all the dividends have not only been comfortably earned, but the bank has, in addition, been able to pay a bonus to shareholders. Profits for the year amounted to $1,-402,820. In addition, there was received as premium on new stock $1,-050,000. The amount brought forward from the previous year was $260,774. This made the total amount available for distribution $2,713,590, which was appropriated as follows:

Dividends and bonus	$1,273,635
Government war tax on note circulation	96,585
Transferred to reserve fund from premium on new stock	1,505,000

leaving a balance to be carried forward of $293,375.

Mr. C. S. Cummer is the energetic manager of the Peterborough branch.

The principal items in the general statement of assets and liabilities show as follows:

Total assets	$197,387,855
Liquid assets	69,427,380
Current loans	109,183,592
Loans to cities, towns, municipalities, etc.	3,085,602
Deposits not bearing interest	28,733,831
Deposits bearing interest	120,904,549

40 CENTS AN HOUR MINIMUM WAGE FOR CITY LABOURERS

REDUCTION IN WAGES ACCOMPANIED BY AN INCREASE IN THE WORKING DAY TO NINE HOURS—ALD. GAINEY OBJECTED VIGOROUSLY TO BOTH MOTIONS—ALD. TURNER EXPLAINED THAT THE MEN WOULD BE GRADED UPWARD ACCORDING TO THEIR ABILITY.

ARGUMENT WAS PROTRACTED

In view of the plenitude of labor in the city, Ald. Turner advocated last night in Council fixing the rate of wages to the labourers who will be employed on the Lansdowne street sewer at 40 cents an hour as a minimum instead of the one rate of 50 cents at present. Ald. Turner said his purpose was not to cut the wages beyond a reasonable figure, but to set a fair minimum, and to pay the men what they were worth above that. "If a man is worth 75 cents an hour or even a dollar I say he should get it."

Ald. Crowe at once protested against slicing the labourer's wage and not making it a general cut through the city services. "I think if you were conscientious you would cut all hands. You could save about $8,000," said Ald. Crowe.

In supporting Ald. Turner, Ald. Jones declared that the 40 cent rate was very fair as on other jobs around the city only 35 cents was being paid. He said the City Engineer should be given power to grade the wages above 40 cents. He seconded Ald. Turner's motion that the minimum rate of wages for labourers employed by the city be 40 cents an hour instead of 50 cents, to date from June 10.

Ald. Gainey declared the Council were taking a wrong stand. The rate should be higher, he said, as the men will probably have to work in shifts and every cent will be needed to tide them over the winter. Moreover because there is some work going on now and the paving will shortly be commenced. Ald. Gainey strongly favoured holding the sewer and all other possible works till the winter. "I say lay off the sewers and wait for winter, when the city must provide work."

Other members of the Council were doubtful if the sewers could be put in if it was a fairly severe winter, and the matter was not discussed further.

When the motion of Ald. Turner's was put, Ald Whitehouse refused to vote, because, he stated, he opposed the city interfering with wage rates. The city should pay the prevailing wage. The ays and nays were called for with the result:

Ays—Phelan, Hay, Jones, Hamilton, Turner.

Nays— Crowe, Morrison, Gainey, Mayor.

Looking into Council rules, City Clerk Armstrong showed the Mayor a section requiring a member to be excused by a vote of Council from voting. Ald. Whitehouse asked to be excused and Ald. Jones moved, seconded by Ald. Hay, that he be excused. After a little comedy over the vote the motion excusing Ald. Whitehouse from voting carried and Ald. Turner's original motion was adopted.

Concluding an hour's discussion of labour and wage questions was a motion of Ald. Hamilton that the hours of labour employed by the city be fixed at nine hours. It was precluded by a Council talk on what constituted a good day's work.

Ald. Gainey strenuously objected to nine hours, favoring eight hours to strech out the work.

Ald. Hamilton attacked Ald. Gainey warmly on the eight hour question. Ald. Hamilton wanted to know why Ald. Gainey did not practice what he preached. "You work about 14 hours," said Ald. Hamilton. "No, I don't. I'm working for the city." Ald. Hamilton laughed and Ald. Gainey smiled and clouds cleared away. It was decided that nine hours be fixed. It was believed the men would welcome the longer hours as a chance to make more money. The motion carried.

Before adjourning at 12.15 Ald. Jones seconded by Ald. Hamilton, moved that J. J. Turner and Sons remove the flags in the Council chamber and have them cleaned.—Carried.

MOTORISTS MAY ACT AGAINST SPEEDERS

PROPOSE THAT MEMBERS REPORT TO POLICE MISDEMEANOURS BY RECKLESS DRIVERS.

The Automobile Association will meet at 7.45 to-night at the Chamber of Commerce. The Traffic Regulation Committee met on Wednesday, and their recommendations will be discussed and acted on this evening. Their report follows:

"The Special Committee appointed to consider the local traffic by-laws begs to report that, after examination of By-law No. 1685 of 1912, with subsequent amendments, No. 2036 of 1917 and No. 2872 of 1920, we would recommend the confirmation thereof to be included in a revised by-law with revisions as follows:

"(a) No vehicle shall stand in front of the entrance to a theatre, auditorium or public building where assemblages of over one hundred are being held.

"(b) No vehicle shall stand within five feet of a fire hydrant or be parked or stopped in such a position as to prevent convenient movement of another vehicle already stopped.

"(c) No vehicle shall be parked on any bridge within the municipality.

"The committee would further recommend that the attention of the Police Department be drawn to the desirability of renewing the lines of safety zones at the various street intersections throughout the business area; also that right-hand-turn signs be placed in convenient positions at the corner of Hunter and Rubidge streets and Hunter and Reid streets.

"And also further, that all cases of misdemeanor, such as reckless driving, etc., on the part of local motorists coming under the notice of members, shall be immediately reported, together with license number and type of car of the offender, time, place and nature of the incident, to the office of the Association, to enable the Executive to forward a warning letter to the offender."

BIG LIQUOR HAUL.

Epidemic of Robberies Break Out in Sydney, N.S.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 6.—A series of daring liquor robberies, covering a period of two weeks, came to a climax recently, when thieves penetrated the cellar of a well-known Sydney business man and, without disturbing the household, got away with fourteen cases of cream of barley whisky, three cases of wine, and a quantity of gin.

Some of the liquor was recovered by Assistant Temperance Act Inspector John Karn, from a cache in a patch of woods.

The police believe the liquor robberies are the work of an oragnized gang who are raiding every cellar in which private stock is likely to be found.

THEN NOW

From Cave Man to Super Man

Even in their day the lake dwellers felt the everlasting urge of progress and refinement, and to their crude pottery later races owed their inspiration for the artistic marvels in clay punch bowls and other food containers.

Much of this pottery is found in lakes in Switzerland, where these lake dwellers, for safety and possibly sanitary reasons, had built huts on piles. Hot stones may have been used to heat these utensils, or they may have been placed over stone fireplaces.

In fashioning stone weapons and clay pots, as shown in these stories, prehistoric man leaped the gigantic gap that was to separate man forever from his animal contemporaries and enabled him to embark on his career of civilization and culture that must remain the abiding wonder of the universe. In his own hazy way he, no doubt, felt the identical urge that moves the up-to-date housekeeper to-day in stocking her kitchen with pure and sanitary "Well-Worth" Aluminum Ware.

The fourth number of this interesting series on the evolution of cooking utensils from the stone age to the Aluminum age, by the Wentworth Manufacturing Co., Hamilton, will appear on this page to-morrow. The above picture of the lake dwellers' pottery was taken from originals in the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto.

There is a special Seven-Day Sale and Demonstration of 99% Aluminum now going on in Turnbull's Economy Basement. Look for the "Well-Worth" trade mark to make sure you are getting the best Aluminum that can be bought.

More Lighting.

In committee of the whole City Council last night when bridge matters were discussed, Ald. Crowe raised the question of two more light standards properly wired, at each end of the bridge—four in all—and declared that there is ample material on hand now for their construction, which would cost considerably more if delayed till a future date. These additional lights, he said, would greatly improve the appearance of the structure.

This matter was sent to the bridge committee for a report, as also was Ald. Crowe's protest against the "lift" in the footway past the Quaker Oats vehicular platform, which he requested removed at the earliest possible moment.

It seems that for some unexplained reason, at the entrance to this platform the sidewalk at each end drops four inches for about the width of a vehicle, leaving in the centre of the approach, a "lift" of four inches (the continuatoin of the sidewalk proper, actually speaking) making it somewhat awkward for pedestrian traffic.

On motion of Ald. Whitehouse and Jones, the chairman of the bridge committee was authorized to sign a contract with the Utilities Commission for lighting the bridge.

Walkway to Park.

Ald. Phelan spoke strongly for a temporary board walk to the ball grounds from the stairway at the south side of the bridge, east end.

On motion of Ald. Gordon, this matter was left to the discretion of the chairman of the bridge committee.

Ald. Whitehouse thought those who got a revenue from the ball grounds should pay for this work, if laid.

Ald. Phelan drew attention to its need as a public utility, as thousands attend the ball grounds. The old gravel pit across which the sidewalk would be constructed, is the property of the city, which should assume the responsibility.

Ald. Whitehouse—"The city would give the right of way; let the park owners build the walk, which is a convenient short cut for their patrons.

Ald. Gordon rather favored Ald. Phelan's request.

That Granite Finish.

Subsequently in council session a letter was received from Leon Frazer, secretary local Chamber of Commerce, stating that it si generally conceded that the granite finish on the hand rail of the Hunter St. bridge enhances its appearance considerably; but it is also suggested that in the case of the centre arch a considerable sum of expense would be saved and less damage to dresses ,etc., occasioned by sightseers viewing the scenery along the river north and south by limiting the granite finish to the concrete work immediately surrounding the terra-cotta, and leaving the top with a smooth finish.

Ald. Hamilton replied that the hand rail must be finished in chipped granite as such work on the east side had already been done. He also explained that it is intended, according to agreement, to granite finish the face of the arches, carrying such chipping underneath them for a depth of 18 inches only.

Ald. Crowe understood that the specifications had been amended to chip the bridge rail each side of the roadway only to save expense; but Ald. Hamilton did not agree with that contention, pointing out that the original plan provided for a chipped granite finish throughout the whole structure.

No action was taken on the communication.

The One-Piece Bathing Suit Has Now at Last Received Official Endorsement, and With It a Plea for a More Reasonable Point of View on the Part of Critics.

© KEYSTONE VIEW CO.

Miss Lucy Burns of Chicago, Whose One-Piece Suit Enables Her to Give Quite the Impression of Mermaid Grace.

Miss Gertrude Artlett of Philadelphia, the 17-Year-Old Swimming Champion, Wearing a Typical One-Piece Bathing Suit Such as the New Fashion Asks for and at Least Two Official Censors Have Now Accepted as Satisfactory.

By Ethel Thurston

SHREWD observers will probably say that they saw it coming, that the one-piece bathing suit is one of those inevitable things. Maybe it is. Nevertheless, there seems to be something sensational about the fact that censorship has passed it at last.

Supervisor David R. McKeith, of the Milwaukee Bureau of Parks and Playgrounds, says that the one-piece suit is all right.

And the official custodians of Chesapeake Beach, Washington, D. C.'s seashore bathing resort, have decided to lift the ban against bare legs and scanty one-piece bathing suits for women. They held a meeting a few days ago and agreed to disregard as precedents the prohibitory orders issued at Coney Island and Atlantic City against daring bathing costumes.

"It is silly to put the ban on bare legs," one of the Chesapeake Beach censors said. "If any of the girls want to help in the fight against the high cost of bathing suits by wearing the more simplified and more sensible kind of bathing costume known as the one-piece suit, the police won't say a word."

Old-fashioned conservatism may hold up its hands in despair, but the thing is done. Censorship has spoken.

Where One-Piece Suits Are O. K.

The one-piece fashion began to make itself heard from in America after England had freely adopted it. Think of England, that once frowned at the American notion of letting men and women bathe in the same bit of ocean, doing a thing like that! Yet it has done that. The English woman's declaration of independence has been one of the most startling things that ever happened there. That is to say, it once was startling. It doesn't startle any longer. The one-piece suit is a commonplace everywhere in Britain.

So that we are to conclude that America is conservative, in some ways at least. The old Mother Hubbard American surf costume died hard. Every modification of it died hard. You would think that conservatism really saw the one-piece coming!

Now comes Supervisor McKeith with the latest blow.

Among the various duties of the office filled by Supervisor McKeith is that of controlling the Lake Michigan bathing beaches lying within the city limits. The up-keep of the municipal bath houses, safety appliances, life-saving and first-aid stations is under his control. He also regulates the bathing houses and it is part of his business to see that the bathers of both sexes conform to every official requirement in the way of suitable and sufficient bathing costumes. He is, in other words, Milwaukee's official bathing censor.

Milwaukee's Censor Approves

For several years it has been the rule at Milwaukee that a woman must wear not less than a two-piece bathing costume in addition to long stockings. Bathing shoes were optional and so was the waterproof cap. If she preferred to go into the water in her stocking feet, occasionally stubbing her toe and wearing out the soles of her stockings at the rate of a pair a day, that, of course, was her own business. If she wanted to get her hair soaked and then have to sit around for an hour afterwards in the sun waiting for it to dry, that was her business, too.

But it was the official censor's business to see that she wore long stockings completely concealing her legs up to and beyond the point where that duty devolved upon the be-gartered bloomers. In addition to the bloomers she was obligated to wear a combination overskirt and blouse which completed the costume.

The weight of these cumbersome garments when water-soaked, and the "drag" of the skirt which always interfered with the swimmer's perfect freedom of leg movement, have been considered a dangerous handicap to women when bathing. The extra weight of clothes overtaxed their strength during a long swim and the skirt and bloomers were generally condemned as unnecessary impedimenta—mere survivals of more Puritanical days.

The Milwaukee bathing girl, it may be observed, was not the only one who felt that way. At practically every bathing beach from one side of the United States to the other the bathing girl has been heard in protest against the clothing impositions which, she declared, were depriving her of a great deal of the pleasure incidental to swimming and also making it very dangerous for a girl to venture out beyond her depth unless she was a very good swimmer.

There is still another reason this year for the general protest against being compelled to wear so much clothing when bathing. That is the higher cost of material. A two-piece bathing suit, consisting of bloomers and a combination skirt and blouse, when added to stockings, bathing shoes and a waterproof cap, was going to cost twice as much as last year, whereas a simple little, ready-made, one-piece bathing suit, all ready to slip into, can be purchased for a very moderate sum.

But Censor McKeith says that the high cost of material had nothing to do with his decision.

"We always have had a rule," said he, "that women must wear two-piece bathing costumes, but this year we will overlook that rule.

"Personally I would rather see a lady bathing in a nice, artistic, one-piece suit than burdened with a lot of useless clothes. Too many garments don't make bathing comfortable, and besides, they give the woman the appearance of a drowned hen—perhaps I should say chicken—as she emerges from her dip.

"While I am no authority on the styles, I understand that they will be unusually gaudy this year, so that with our liberal interpretation of what is proper Milwaukee maidens should have no complaint to make.

Got to Educate the Men

"It all depends upon the point of view; it is a condition of the mind. Our duty is to train the minds of a certain type of men to view a pretty form in a bathing suit as one might look at a painting or a statue. It is not the low cut and it is not the high cut of the bathing suit that we will have to regulate. The women give no trouble. It is the mind of the male bather that we must train."

Of course one censor doesn't make a nation. It was the joke when the Queen of Belgium was here that she found perplexity in the fact that bathing suits must be one way on the Atlantic coast and could be quite another way on the Pacific coast. The perplexity is much more intricate than that. A bathing suit that may receive the official O. K. in one quarter may be scorned a mile away. The question is really extraordinarily difficult. But as the lawyers would say, there is now a decision—something official to quote. Just how some other judges will fall into line is a matter not to be prophesied offhand.

Meanwhile the American girl is showing great ingenuity in dodging the eye of surviving criticism. Some of the so-called two-piece suits are wonders of sophistry. Two pieces, yes, but—well, you would hardly know it! Such dainty and artistic evasion even the wizardry of fashion has probably never before achieved.

To look pretty and to be free—it sounds like an alluring plea.

"Plain sense will do the final regulating," says one philosopher. "Old ideas have got to give way to new ones. In spite of all the sour prophecies the world is growing a freer and more decent place to live in. We used to be shocked at things that should not have shocked us. We invented the shock. We insisted on being shocked by ankles. But ankles are not shocking any more, not because they aren't the same ankles they always were, but because our habits of mind are cleaner. It will be the same about other prejudices. Every nation has discovered that its bathing clothes are not a criterion for other clothes. Japanese women bathe without any clothing at all. Yet they are perhaps the most modest women in the world, and show it in their street and home habits."

A Gourmandizing Musical Genius

SCIENCE itself admits that it cannot explain genius, for genius simply is without explanation.

Handel was only 7 when he insisted on following his father to the court of Saxe-Weisenfels, whose prince hearing him play on the organ in church after the service was over, persuaded his father to give the boy a chance. By the time he was 9 he began to compose church services for voices and instruments and did so every week for three years.

But Handel was a tremendous gourmandiser. He ordered dinner for three at a hotel, and when asked if he would wait for the others, replied: "I am the others, serve the dinner," and he ate all of it.

A story is told of Handel that while seated at dinner with some other musicians he exclaimed, "Oh, I have de taught!" Those about him begged that he go into another room and write down "de taught," lest they lose some wonderful composition. Handel did this several times, when one of his friends looked through the keyhole and saw him pouring down some Burgundy which an admirer had sent him and he did not wish to share with the others.

When a singer complained to Handel that the style of his accompaniments distracted the attention of the hearers from the singer to the musician and that if he did not accompany him better he would jump up on the harpsichord (the piano of that time) and smash it. Handel replied: "Fine, tell me when you are going to do that and I shall advertise it, for more people will come to see you jump than to hear you sing."

It is told of Haydn that his first appearance in public was in a procession of the choristers of Hamburg, when the regular drummer fell ill and the leader, after showing Haydn the stroke, had to furnish a hunchback to carry the drum for the 6-year-old Haydn to play. The drum is still preserved in the choir of the Hamburg church.

(By Jack McAuliffe, Undefeated Lightweight Champion. Written for the United Press and Spectator.)

This big Journee, who is doing most of the work with the Frenchman, is far from a first-class man. He was knocked out by Bob Martin in the inter-allied tournaments in one of the first bouts Martin had. He was knocked out by Nils, the French heavyweight, a few nights before he came over with Carpentier.

I am inclind to think, however, that Carpentier might be letting those blows get to him for a purpose. His work yesterday was far from impressive, far less than what they say he can do.

The Frenchman has been using his left little more. He puts it over with a leaping motion of the body, but every time he misses he's off balance and wide open when he comes to the floor. His right swing is the same way.

The atmosphere around the camp is changing greatly. There seems to be less of the air of seriousness that made the farmhouse look like a tomb for the first week or so.

They have movies at night now to help the challenger pass away his spare moments, and he seems in much better spirits. He is improving right along. He has lost all of the nervousness that was so marked in his actions and attitude when he first came over. The crowds do not seem to get on his nerves like they did.

The Frenchman is clever. There is no doubt about that. He's on his toes all the time, and he can hit from every angle. He has more co-ordination than any boxer I have ever seen. His mind, arms, and legs work in exact unison, enabling him to take advantage of an opening with tremendous speed.

I have no doubt that he will land on Dempsey, but I'm not so sure that he will be able to stop the "big train."

I'm not going too much on the public bouts. Journee looks like he has been roughly handled in the star chamber sessions. Carpentier may have something up his sleeve. I know he is perfecting a new punch, but I haven't been able to get a look at it.

WEIGHT AND HEAVY BLOWS OF DEMPSEY TO BE MATCHED AGAINST CARPENTIER'S DEXTERITY AND UNKNOWN HITTING POWER

NEW YORK, JUNE 6.—(Associated Press.)—With a difference in weight of abou 20 pounds when they meet in the ring four weeks hence, Dempsey and Carpentier will otherwise appear almost equal in build and stature. If both were to mix in among a few collegiate athletes football players and oarsmen, probably neither would be picked out as being unusually big or formidable in general make up. Dempsey stands 6 feet, 1 1-2 inches in height, just two inches taller than the French champion and while Carpentier will weigh about 170 pounds in fighting condition, Dempsey expects to enter the ring slightly under 190 pounds.

The champion's shoulders are broad while Carpentier's are sloping in shape but otherwise the bodily measurements of the pair do not differ to any marked extent.

Experts who have seen both men are satisfied that they will be well matched in speed and cleverness but the majority believe that Dempsey will carry by far the heavier weight in his blows. Dexterity and suppleness are claimed as advantages for the Frenchman by his followers but just how hard a punch he can deliver is still a problem.

Dempsey showed in his bout with Willard at Toledo that his blows possess enormous punishing power but his more recent encounters with Bill Brennan at Madison Square Garden did not demonstrate that he still retains the forceful punch necessary to successfully stand off a man of Carpentier's undoubted ability and cleverness.

Just how good the challenger is or how hard a blow he can land is problematical to the majority of American fistic patrons, who have seen him an action. His only bout here, that with Levinsky in Jersey City last year, did not afford much of a line on Carpentier's prowess. Levinsky, always a clever boxer, made practically no serious effort to defend himself on that occasion and went down and out an easy victim for the Frenchman in the fourth round.

Nearly 30 years have elapsed since Queensberry rules and glove contests were substituted for the London prize ring code governing pugilistic contests for championship titles. In most of the bouts fought for the heavyweight championship since change took place, there was a decided advantage in stature between the principals, but this did not always carry victory with it.

Beginning wth the Corbett-Sullvan battle at New Orleans in 1892, the big Boston man was massive in proportion to the lithe, supple and extremely clever Californian but the smaller man bore the big champion down and annexed the title in the 21st round. Corbett was one and one-half inches taller but 15 pounds lighter than Sullivan who stood 6 feet 10 1-2 inches and weighed about 200 pounds.

Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons were more evenly matched in height and age. Corbett was half an inch taller and four years younger than the Cornishman but he was nearly 20 pounds heavier than Fitzsimmons when the latter knocked him out and won the title at Carson City, March 17, 1897.

Two years later James J. Jeffries of huge build and outweighing Fitzsimmons by fully 50 pounds won the title in 11 rounds from Bob at Coney Island and five months later. November, 1899, Jeffries got a referees decision over Tom Sharkey in a 25 round bout in the same arena. Sharkey was several inches shorter and about 20 pounds lighter than the then champion.

Corbett challenged Jeffries twice for the title but was knocked out by the bigger man each time, once in 23 rounds and the next time in 10 rounds.

Jack Johnson, the negro who defeated Jeffries at Reno, Nev., in 1910, was nearer to the big mans' size than any of the other heavyweights who had met him for the title in the previous ten years. Johnson was three years younger, one inch shorter and only ten pounds lighter than the Ohioan. Johnson scored a knock out in 15 rounds.

Jess Willard, the giant Kansan, was by all odds the biggest man who ever held the world's heavy weight title. He stood 6 feet, 6 inches, weighted 250 pounds and had decided advantages in every way over Johnson when he won from the negro at Havana Cuba, in 1915. When he met Dempsey, two years ago, these physical advantages did not enable him to withstand Dempsey's sudden onslaught as he confessed afterward that he did not remember much after he was knocked down in the opening round.

FOOTBALL

The game scheduled for tonight between the Caledonians and the C.G.E. has been postponed. The Caledonians will practice and also hold a meeting at the Exhibition Grounds to-morrow night at 6.30 o'clock.

To enable the C.G.E. team to keep in good shape for their game here with St. Catharines on Saturday, the game called for Thursday between the Canadian Woollens and the C.G.E. has been laid over. All the local soccer men are requested to co-operate as much as possible with the C. G. E. team in an effort to help them bring the championship to Peterboro.

The Veterans have selected the following team to play Canadian Woollens at the Exhibition Park on Thursday evening beginning at 6 o'clock sharp:—Goal W. Jones, backs Gamble and Perry; halves Peel, Haycock and Hurle; orwards Sharman, Willis, Dyer, Monks, and Burrows. Reserves Willshaw and C. Willis.

All the teams in the Central League are hoping that Lindsay will defeat Peterboro on Wednesday afternoon. It should be a great game as the Greybirds are out to take King Solomon's measure.—Lindsay Post.

By the way, girls, although King Solomon of Biblical fame, had many wives, Peterboro's baseball king is still a bachelor.—Lindsay Post.

Dainty pitched for Oshawa, and Dear for Port Hope. What a sweet pair!—Lindsay Post.

The Greybirds are the boys that are peddling the surprises in the Central Ontario Baseball League this year. Wednesday they intend springing another one by beating Peterboro. And the game is to be played right here, right where the locals can see the execution in progress. The game is bound to be real classy ball. Oulette ,the Lindsay 'dark horse' has turned out a roarin' plate winner. "Lefty" McElroy's prowess is well known hereabouts. Peterboro showed their fitness by backing Oshawa off the Riverside Park three punches to one. Lindsay made the Beleville champs eat humble pie. When an irresistable force meets an immovable object, what happens? Come to the ball park on Wednesday half holiday and see for yourself.—Lindsay Post.

THOSE FIELD RATS ARE REGULAR TERRIERS

An interesting and fierce game of Ball was played last night at the King Edward School Grounds by the South End Field Rats and the Browntown, All Stars. The Field Rats were at the best first and slugged the Stars pitcher very hard.

The game went on in good time till the Field Rats got Pitcher Rogers started throwing wild. They changed their battery but with no success. They were hit hard and the Rats being determined, still brought in runs.

The Stars were after the game but went home very disappointed. The Rats' batteries were Clarke, Shaugh nessy pitching Bridgenaw C. All Stars, Rogers, Conners, p. Charlibious C.

The Score was 22-9 in favour of the Field Rats.

McGRAW'S TEAM WELL IN FRONT NOW.

WON SEVEN OUT OF LAST EIGHT GAMES.

NEW YORK, June 6.—John McGraw's New York Giants are beginning to justify the euolgies of last spring.

The rounding of the Giants into predicted form was the feature of last week's play in the National league.

The Giants won seven out of eight games. They took three straight from the Pittsburg Pirates and bumped them out of first place.

Sudden transformation of the pitching staff, due in large part to hot weather, turned the trick for McGraw and Jennings.

The club is going great now, and if Heinie Groh joins the ranks which seems sure it looks like the pennant.

The Pirates can't be counted out of it by any means, but the Giants look better just now for the long jaunt through to October.

The American league race is tightening a bit with the Yankees closing in on the league-leading Indians. The coming series between the two contenders may mean a change in the leadership.

The St. Louis Cardinals are beginning to do some of the things expected of them. They won five out of eight games with the pitching becoming a little better.

The Cubs are skidding. Johnny Evers had the team going over its gait. Evers is beginning to razz his players, and that won't help them any.

Detroit and Washington are sticking right along in the race and doing their best to keep the campaign from being a two-club affair.

Brooklyn is still floundering along. Uncle Robby's champions won only three out of seven games. The club is generally upset with erratic hitting and unreliable pitching.

The Cincinnati Reds are in the cellar, but they have hopes of getting out soon if the deal with the Giants is completed. Goldie Rapp at third, Benny Kauff in the outfield and Jess Baries on the pitching staff at least ought to raise them one notch and make them better than the Philadelphia Fills.

RECKLESSNESS OF GOOD WOMANHOOD EXEMPLIFIED IN "THE OATH."

Miriam Cooper Scores Triumph as Wife who Swears Husband to Marriage Secrecy.

Never has the heedless recklessness of good womanhood when friendship sounds the call for succor been more splendidly exemplified than in "The Oath," the R. A. Walsh production for Associated First National Pictures, which opened at the Allen Theatre yesterday. The scene in which Irene Merriam sacrifices everything for the sake of her husband's friend is the most dramatic which has been shown on the screen in years.

Mr. Walsh is to be thanked for an admirable piece of entertainment—he has taken William J. Locke's novel "Idols," and, while adhering closely to the plot which makes the work such a strongly dramatic piece of fiction, has brightened it considerably and made the action rapid and scintillating by discarding the non-essentials and building his picture play around the big points of the original work. The finished result is a remarkable structure of dramatic entertainment.

The cast which Mr. Walsh has selected for the portrayal of his story could hardly be improved upon. Miriam Cooper wins new laurels by the splendid ability she shows in interpreting the emotional and contradictory character of Mina Hart. Conway Tearle won the distinction of heading his own company by his work in the production. Henry Clive portrays the role of Gerard Merriam and Anna Q. Nilsson the role of Irene Lansing in a way that entitles them to share honors with Miss Cooper and Mr. Tearle.

Mr. Walsh has taken a daring subject, that of the relation of religious prejudice to marriage between parties of different creeds and has treated the matter so delicately that there is nothing but delightful entertainment. The dramatic story that results could have been based on no other premises than that deep emotions aroused by conflicting religions. A more gripping photoplay has not been seen here this season.

NEAL BURNS MARRIES AGAIN AFTER STEALING OTHER GIRL

Neal Burns, popular Christie comedian, has been married three times in the last four months. Twice in that time he has been married to Vera Steadman. Of course it is all in motion pictures, but in "Wedding Blues," the latest of the Christie pictures which comes to the Allen Theatre to-day, he has a new stunt to perform. He has to fix up a wedding for his chum before he can square himself with his fiance. His efforts spring some of the most unusual complications that have ever been seen in a film, including the kidnapping of his chum's bride while she is apeparing in a scant dancing attire. He only does it after holding up father in the role of a policeman.

"SAPHEAD PROVES GREATEST EVENT OF SCREEN SEASON

"The Saphead," produced last night at the Capitol Theatre with William H. Crane and Buster Keaton as co-stars, proved to be the biggest event of the season. Here was a screen play that carried with it the very breath of life. The characters were developed as real human beings, far removed from the conventional types of the screen. The story grew naturally out of the lives of the characters, and it grew with that queer mixture of comedy and tragedy that is an essential part of human experience.

The story concerns itself with New York society and the Stock Exchange. The wealthy father is a miner in Arizona, left a widower with two children, a boy and girl. In addition he has a ward, a young lady. With a fortune accumulated in the mines he goes to New York and enters the financial world. It is a world that takes a grip of him and holds his interest to the exclusion of the three children.

The boy, liberally supplied with money, but rather short on the brain supply, drifts into a fast set of wealthy young men about town. At his club he is known as "The Saphead." His sister becomes the bride of a scheming, brilliant broker who comes of good family but has become known as somewhat of a rake. The ward is away at a finishing school.

"The Saphead" is in love with the ward and they are to be married when a family scandal breaks. The sister's husband has had an affair with a young woman. There is a child. The woman dies and leaves letters showing the broker is the father. On "The Saphead's" wedding day, the broker cleverly throws suspicion on him. The marriage is called off. The trusting son is disinherited with only a check for $1,000,000 to see him through the world.

With his money he purchases a seat on the Stock Exchange and as his first venture proceeds to buy in the stock of a mine which is owned by his father but which is being sold by the false son-in-law. The disinherited son does not know it is his father's stock, but his action has saved the financial king from ruin and the scheming brother-in-law finding his plans brought to naught conveniently effaces himself while "The Saphead" is welcomed back into the family and wins the girl of his choice.

William H. Crane plays the role of the bluff and arrogant, money magnate with that finesse which made him one of the leading stars of the stage. The rich, mellow art of the great stage comedian is here seen at its highest degree of perfection. Buster Keaton, as "The Saphead," was continuously funny, but the fun comes from the humanity of the characterization, not from the slapstick tricks by which Mr. Keaton gained fame.

Mr. Tom Smith, a member of the house orchestra of the Capitol Theatre, gave an excellent violoncello solo during the performance last evening. He rendered Renard's 2nd Berceuse in fine style, receiving enthusiastic applause from the well-filled house.

AT THE REGENT.

ROMANCE UNSULLIED IN "HOMESPUN FOLKS"

There is something vitally American in the fibre of "Homespun Folks", Thomas H. Ince's first contribution to the releases of Associated Producers, Inc., which is being shown at the Regent Theatre to-day. Like all big American successes it stands for clean romance and wholesome after-tastes. The audience will leave the theatre feeling better for having seen the picture, a tribute to the art of Thomas H. Ince.

Human interest fairly oozes out of the drama. The acting of Lydia Knott as the mother and Charles Mailes as the father, is superb, while young Lloyd Hughes exemplifies all that is best in young American manhood. The characterizations smack of real life. There is nothing studied about the action.

Animals and humans alike play important parts in this rural epic. "Homespun Folks" will live, just as "The Old Homestead" will live and just as 'Way Down East' has lived. It is vitally real, and its appeal is as universal as the appeal of motherhood. Every class and creed will enjoy "Homespun Folks." It is the story drama of 10,000 small towns and 60,000,000 plain people.

LINDSAY AND PETERBORO FIGHTING FOR LEADERSHIP

PETES PLAY IN LINDSAY TO-MORROW AND GRAYBIRDS WILL BE HERE ON SATURDAY FOR THE RETURN GAME—SOME BASEBALL GOSSIP.

To-morrow's game at Lindsay between the Lindsay Graybirds and the Petes will put one team or the other out in front in the League race. Both teams have won their first two starts and the clash to-morrow should be a scrappy battle. Like Oshawa were after they had beaten Belleville the Lindsay crew are decidedly cocky and expect that Oulette has only to walk out on the mound to-morrow and the Petes are beaten. The Solomon gang are not saying much but tough opposition always seems to bring out their best form.

Peterboro's squad will be as follows: L. Rose, McElroy, Kirn, Swanston, Ross, R. Rose, Cherrett, Murray, Holyman, Lowe, Pinnette, Jackson, McCarney and Manager Solomon.

The Lindsay team will be here on Saturday and Riverside Park will hold the bigest crowd in years to see the battle. Whatever the result of to-morrow's game in Lindsay the return game on Saturay will be a fight from the first ball to the final out. Every Central League game so far has been a real exhibition and Saturday's fixture promises to be the best of the season.

THREE SOCCER PLAYERS SEVERELY PENALIZED BY THE ASSOCIATION

EXECUTIVE SUSPENDS CALDER OF CALEDONIANS UNTIL END OF 1921—BARTLEY GETS TEN DAYS' SUSPENSION AND M'MILLAN IS OUT TO THE END OF THE SEASON, JUNE 30.

An executive meeting of the Peterborough Football Association was held last evening in the G.W.V.A. Hall. The organisation had a long and strenuous session before them, and considerable business was gone through. The chief items were the arrangements for the big game on Saturday, 11th June with the fast-going St. Catharines team in the Ontario Cup finals, and the dealing with reported players.

The executive are going to put a stop to this fighting element and do everything possible in supporting the referees and the elimination of rough play. The public can be assured of good, clean football in Peterborough. Player Bartley of the C.G.E. team was suspended for ten days from date of the final on 30th May, for kicking. McMillan of the Caledonian F. C. for a similar offence and causing trouble after the game, was suspended to the end of the playing season, 30th June. Calder, of the Caledonians, was suspended to the end of the year, 1921, for misconduct. The public of Peterborough is assured of a great game on Saturday, 11th June, when the Gordon Cup winners meet the St. Catharines representatives. This game will be played at Riverside Park on Saturday evening — kick-off at six o'clock. The official in charge of the game is Capt. Dunn, of Ottawa. The Association are hoping to have the C.G.E. team in first-class shape for this game, and their matches this week have been postponed to give them every chance against the St. Kitts outfit.

All football fans are requested to get behind the Peterborough boys, and help them into the next round, and by so doing Peterborough will then be visited by the winners of the Brantford vs. Ottawa game.

The secretary received information that Mr. W. Dean, of Hamilton, the president of the Ontario Football Association, will witness the game.

The C.G.E. vs. Caledonian fixture slated for to-night is postponed, and a League game between G.W.V.A. and Canadian Woollens will be played at Rev. Father Phelan's Fair in the Exhibition Grounds on Thursday evening, 9th June. Referee, Mr. J. L. Howarth. Kick-off at 6 p.m.

AN ONTARIO CUP GAME IN PETERBORO ON SATURDAY

ST. CATHARINES TEAM TO MEET C.G.E. AND WINNERS OF THE GAME WILL PLAY WINNERS OF BRANTFORD-OTTAWA CLASH—THE FEATURE OF THE SEASON.

Peterborough soccer fans are looking forward with keen interest to the Ontario Cup fixture which brings the St. Catharines eleven here on Saturday to clash with the C. G. E. team, the local winners. Definite arrangements have not yet been made, but it is expected that the game will be played at Riverside Park, commencing at 6 o'clock. This hour would allow people a chance to see the Lindsay-Peterborough ball game and still be in time for the football game, which is regarded as the biggest feature of the football season. The winner of the St. Catharines-Peterborough game will meet the winners of the Brantford-Ottawa clash, so that a victory over St. Kitts on Saturday means a visit from either Brantford or Ottawa on the following Saturday. The St. Catharines outfit will come east with a good reputation, but the C.G.E. are in excellent shape and are hopeful of pulling off a victory.

The Canadian Woollens and the G. W.V.A. will play a League game at Rev. Father Phelan's picnic at the Exhibition grounds on Thursday evening, the Canadian Woollens-C.G. E. game which was to have been played at the picnic, having been postponed.

The Canadian Woollens Athletic Association will meet at the Board of Trade rooms on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

LOCAL SPORT COMMENT

Local umpires can consider themselves lucky. At Stanley Park, Toronto, the rowdy element threw stones at an arbiter, after a decision on a close play.

"Old Man" Adams pitched Mooney Gibson's Pirates back into first place yesterday, a ninth innings run giving Pittsburg a victory over the Giants.

Spencer retired the side in the ninth on hard outfield chances, when the Leafs bested Syracuse by 8 to 1.

Nineteen hits, including three homers, one of them by Cobb, gave the Tigers an easy win over the Athletics.

Howard Kirn has been taken on the strength of the Central League team, a move that will be popular with the fans.

By way of making their presence felt, the junior lacrosse talent went out and trimmed up the Intermediates in a practice game last evening.

The Examiner offers its congratualtions to the principal and vice-principal of the Queen Mary school upon the success attained by the two baseball teams representing the school.

GUN CLUB WILL HOLD AN OPEN SHOOT SOON

At the weekly shoot of the Gun Club held last Friday evening, some good trap shooting was done. Mr. Robert Parker, a visitor from Hamilton, running up 40 out of 50 with a strange gun. Mr. Roy Hutchinson and Mr. Chas. Mills got 22 out of 25, a very good score, considering the high wind.

The Club expects to hold an open shoot in the near future; when visitors are expected from Lakefield, Belleville, Stirling and Port Hope. There will be a shoot next Friday, after which the regular meetings will be held on the first and third Fridays of every month.

CRESSMAN'S WON FROM KEENE NINE

SNAPPY GAME RESULTED IN VICTORY FOR THE BIG STORE BY SCORE OF 5-3.

Cressman's Ball Team journeyed to Keene last night and in a snappy struggle, came home with the long end of a 5-3 score. The Keene players and a good crowd of fans showed their usual good sportsmanship. The features of the game were Paudash's two running catches and Cobb speared a couple of hard line drives. Last night was Wade's first appearance in the box for the store nine. He was in fine form.

LACROSSE SPREADING TO NORTHERN ONTARIO.

That lacrosse is booming in the far north is evidenced by the applications for membership in the O. A. L. A. from Sudbury, Copper Cliff, Sault Ste. Marie and Espanola.

As there are no teams operating within easy distance of that district it has been suggested that the clubs named play exhibition fixtures this season with a view to creating interest in lacrosse, and then take steps to form a northern section of the O. A. L. A. for 1922.

Some of the towns named have school leagues already operating, in addition to their own intermediate club.

Rule books are being sent out with the idea if having the towns in the north adopt the playing rules in vogue in this section.

Beaches complain of too heavy checking by Weston last Saturday, as a result of which several of their home fielders will have to rest up this week. They meet again at the Beach on Saturday. If the iron men of Weston can pull out a win, they will have a long lead in senior district No. 2.

CHICAGO MAYOR BADLY DEFEATED.

Has Been Much in Public Eye During Six Years in Office.

CHICAGO, June 7.—William Hale Thompson suffered his first reverse at the polls since his election as Mayor in 1915, when a coalition judicial ticket swept Chicago yesterday, carrying every Thompson candidate to defeat by unofficial pluralities ranging from 20,000 to 40,000.

The Thompson candidates, all Republicans, were opposed by the Bar Association and other civic bodies, and resulted in the selection of the coalition ticket made up of both Democrats and Republicans.

Since his election six years ago, Mayor Thompson has attracted nation-wide attention by his anti-Ally attitude. Following his refusal officially to invite Marshal Joffre of France to Chicago at the time of his visit to the United States, he has been almost constantly in the public eye.

WREATH ON SIR JOHN'S GRAVE.

30th Anniversary of the Death of Great Canadian Statesman.

KINGSTON, June 6. — To-day marked the thirtieth anniversary of the death of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, and to mark the event a number of prominent members of the Liberal-Conservative party here went to Cataraqui Cemetery and placed a wreath on the grave of the late chieftain.

Among those who attended the ceremonies were Brig.-General Ross, W. F. Nickle, W. R. Givens, Mayor Hugh C. Nickle, and H. W. Newman.

WALTZ IS COMING BACK, JAZZ DANCE IS DYING.

CHICAGO, June 7.—The dear old dreamy waltz is coming back, and the jazz dance is in death throes. This is the welcome new spread by delegates to the National Association of Sheet Music Dealers, who are holding a two-day convention here.

Also the "nut" songs are giving way to the old favorites, such as "After the Ball," "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," "The Rosary," "Love's Old Sweet Sing." Publishers say it costs about $50,000 to popularize one of the "nut" songs and that its average life is about six weeks.

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL WON JUNIOR PUBLIC SCHOOL FINAL GAME

BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT TO QUEEN ALEXANDRAS WHO HAS WON IT TWICE IN A ROW.

With several hundred juvenile voices cheering their favorites at bat and in the field, the final game in the junior series of the Public School Baseball League was played at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon. Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra nines, winners of their respective groups, battled for five innings, Queen Mary winning by the score of 8 to 7. It was keen disappointment for the Queen Alexandra school players and supporters as the team had won the junior shield for two successive years and a third win would have given the school permanent possession of the trophy.

The victory of the junior team brought a second championship to the Queen Mary school, the senior team having won senior honors without losing a game.

The final contest was wildly exciting. Queen Alexandras sent five runners across the plate in the second innings, and victory looked promising. Queen Mary boys, however, were good pluggers. They never stopped trying and as the game progressed their hitting improved. The winning run was scored when, with a runner at third, the Queen Alexandra catcher dropped the third strike on the batter and threw to first base.

Score by innings:

Queen Alexandra	05110—7
Queen Mary	11222—8

Batteries—Whitehouse and Ecobichon: McLeish and McCall.

Umpire, A. C. Kay.

There's a great race ahead in the Mercantile League. Cressman's have won the first half with three straight wins, but they will encounter harder opposition in the second half. The Mercantile loop is undergoing changes and the fans will see some good baseball. The end of the first half left the teams in the following positions:

	Won.	Lost.
Cressman's	3	0
Westclox	2	1
Lock Works	2	2
Barrie's	0	3

In the East Peterborough circuit, Keene is out in front with two wins and no losses. Both games have been at home. Norwood proved to be a good road team by holding Keene to a ninth innings victory, and Lakefield showed up well at Norwood. The standing is:

	Won.	Lost.
Keene	2	0
Norwood	1	1
Lakefield	1	1
Zion	0	1
Douro	0	1

BRITISH DOMINIONS MAY BORROW IN THE N.Y. MONEY MARKET

REPORT COMPETITION OF NEW YORK AGAINST LONDON.

NEW YORK, June 7.—(Canadian Press.)—"Recent reports of negotiations by the Union of South Africa for a loan in this country have attracted attention to the possibility of other British Dominions appearing here as borrowers," says the Wall Street Journal. "Canada and Newfoundland are already familiar names on the bond market but Australia and New Zealand no less than South Africa remain complete strangers. They all need funds and London is hard hit to provide them. But nevertheless prospects of thier entry into the New York money market is not considered by the bankers who have studied the situation as promising, at least for the time being.

"Before the war all the Dominions relied on London for their public financing, and for political and economic reasons they still do so. But during the war a precedent was set by Canada when in 1915 she raised a loan of $100,000,000 here, her example being followed by Newfoundland and being repeated several times since. Such appeals have invariably had a good reception here, where Canadain conditions are well known.

"Knowledge of financial and economic conditions in the other Dominions is confined to a few specialists in this country, and their distance has contributed to prevent resort here for funds. In the case of both South Africa and New South Wales, which is the only State in Australia retaining its right to borrow independently of the commonwealth, inquiries as to terms have been made, recently—but from inquiries to formal negotiations is a long step.

"At the present moment it is declared in Wall street that South Africa or Australasia would not expect to get funds at less than 8 per cent. London, on the other hand, offers them at 6 1-2 per cent., even if London has to borrow the money here to pass on to them. In January last the Commonwealth borrowed in England 5,000,000 pounds sterling at nearly 6 1-2 per cent., but only 45 per cent. of that total was taken up by subscriptions. Indirect inquiries in New York appear to have been made before that issue, eliciting the statement that probably 8 per cent. would be demanded.

"A similar state of things prevails regarding the proposed South African loan, London competing against New York. However, in this case the prospect seems more favorable for New York because South Africa exchange is at par while Australian, owing to heavy war expenditures, is at a discount as regards London.

"The latest loan isued in London —4,000,000 pounds sterling, for Norway—yielding a little over 6 3-4 per cent., and was an immediate success. The latest colonial issue, 1,000,000 pounds sterling for the city of Sydney, N.S.W., bears 6 1-2 per cent. interest and has just been oversubscribed."

A Real Bicycle For a Real Boy

"WHY don't you ride your bicycle to school any more, Bill?"

"Well, Dad, everybody laughs at it. The other boys ride rings round me, and call it the old boneshaker."

"Hmm! How long have you had it?"

"Why, it's three years, now. You got it second-hand, Dad —remember?"

"That's right! What kind of bicycles have the other boys?"

"They're nearly all C.C.M.'s. The best ones are, anyway."

"I see. What make would you like best?"

"Why, of course, a C. C. M., Dad, every time!"

Dad Offers Him One for Passing

"Well, now, look here, Bill. If you'll pitch in at school and pass your exams., I'll get you one of those C. C. M. Bicycles. How does that strike you?"

"Dad, I'd do almost anything for a C. C. M. You just watch me!"

"That's the stuff! I've heard C. C. M. Bicycles well spoken of, and one should be a prize worth winning."

"It sure is. C. C. M.'s look so snappy and ride so easy. Pewee Bowman has one of the new models and it has the C. C. M. Triplex Crank Hanger. He loaned it to me yesterday for five minutes. Gee, it was just like riding on air!"

"Why, what difference does the Triplex Hanger make?"

"Well, there's never any looseness or tightness when you're pedalling. You feel that every single bit of weight you put on the pedals counts for speed.

"And the C. C. M. doesn't tire a fellow out, either, Dad. Why young Mac Reynolds—he's only half as big as me—rides around all day on his C. C. M. It never tires him out.

"And there's a special bike that I won't outgrow, Dad. It's equally good for a lad of nine or a youth of twenty. It's called the C. C. M. 18-inch Curved Bar Model."

"That's a fine idea, Bill. Dig in, now, pass your exams., and that C. C. M. bike is yours."

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, June 7.—(Canadian Press).—Initial prices in the Stock Market to-day pointed to a continuance of yesterday's selling pressure. This was based in part on a further unsettlement of foreign exchange rates. High-grade Rails, Oils, Motors, Shippings and numerous unclassified shares were lower by liberal fractions to 1½ points. Especial heaviness was shown by Reading, Texas and Pacific, Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums, General Asphalt, Atlantic Gulf, American International, Cuba Cane Sugar, U. S. Rubber, International Paper and several Leather issues. The few nominal gains at the opening included Canadian Pacific and Houston Oils.

Closing out of speculative accounts and further calling of loans by banks provoked heavy liquidation during the morning. Sales in the first two hours approximated 500,000 shares, the entire list establishing lower prices. Losses of one to four points attended extensive offerings of Oils, Motors, Equipments, Sugars, Shippings and Rails. Among the latter were Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville and Nashville at recessions of 3½ and 4¼. New York Air Brake, International Paper, Famous Players and several of the express company shares were included among the weak specialties. Foreign exchange steadied slightly; but only a moderate supply of call money was obtainable at 7½ per cent.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, June 7.—(Canadian Press). — Practically every stock traded in on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning suffered severely in the general selling movement which developed, following continued liquidation on the New York market. No exceptions were made, and declines, ranging from small fractions to two points, were registered. Toronto Railway lost 1½ at 74½, and a similar decline occurred in Winnipeg Railway, which sold at 38. Canada Steamships Common was 1½ down at 21 3-4, the Preferred issue faring even worse, being 1 3-4 off at 53 3-4. The worst selling took place in Paper stocks, Spanish River losing 2½ at 64 3-4, and Abitibi pursued its downward course, reaching 34½, a loss of 1.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 7.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat declined in price to-day owing in a large degree to excellent weather conditions prevailing over the greater part of the winter crop belt. Reports that harvesting had commenced in Kansas tended also to give advantage to bears. Opening quotations, which varied from one cent lower to a ¼ advance, were followed by material set-backs all around.

Corn was easier in line with wheat, although rural offerings of corn remained small. After opening 1-8 to ½ cents lower, the market underwent a further sag.

Oats paralleled the action of other grains, starting at ¼ off to a like advance, and then showing a general decline. Higher quotations on hogs carried provisions up-grade.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, June 7.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange easy; demand, 3.74; Canadian dollars, 11 1-8 per cent. discount.

WEDDING BELLS

LOWES—WHITE.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Ebenezer Methodist Church at Cavan on Thursday, June 2nd, when Miss Laura May White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim White, was united in marriage to Mr. Donald Wesley Lowes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Lowes, Rev. W. T. Wicket, of Tyrone, assisted by the Rev. James E. Beckel, of Bethany, performing the ceremony.
The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in white silk with draperies of Imperial crepe, with large hat, and carried a sheaf of roses. Master Clifford Veals served as ring-bearer, while little Miss Rowena Veals acted as flower girl. The Wedding March was played by Mrs. A. Spencer, and during the signing of the register by Mr. Wm. White, of Cavan, and Miss Margaret Robertson, of Peterborough, Miss Verna Bell Lee, of Bethany, sang very sweetly, "O Promise Me."
After the ceremony the bride, who had been active in church work for many years, and had rendered efficient service as organist, was presented with a well-filled purse from the members of the congregation, Mrs. Stewart making the presentation, and the Rev. Mr. Beckel giving a short address.
The wedding party then proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding repast was served, after which the young couple left for Toronto, Guelph and western points, the bride travelling in a suit of navy tricotine, with hat to match, and marabou fur. On their return they will reside on the Lowes' Homestead in the Township of Cavan.
Many numerous and costly gifts were received by the young people. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the flower girl a pearl ring, and to the ring-bearer a pearl-handled knife.

ANOTHER COINCIDENCE.
A cub reporter was very anxious to make good, and though assigned to the "gloom" run, did his best to locate a sparkling feature in stories gleaned from the morgue. One day he turned in the following "copy" to the city editor:
"It has always been the ambition of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Smith that they might die together. One-half of this wish came true last night when Mr. Smith died at his home on North Greeley avenue."
When the C. E. saw it, he called the cub to his desk, and said sternly:
"My boy you've overlooked a most startling coincidence in this story."
"What could that be, sir?" groaned the reporter. "I thought I had covered everything."
"They were married on the same day," returned the editor, and resumed his copy reading.—Everybody's.

ROBBER IS LET GO ON RECORD

ADMITTED HIS GUILT

On the good record of Frank Melville before he went overseas, and on his promise to do better, Magistrate Dumble this morning allowed him to go on suspended sentence on the charge under Section 446 of the Criminal Code. "Being armed with an offensive weapon or instrument robs or assaults with intent to rob any person."

As reported a week ago, when he was remanded, Melville on Sunday night, May 29, held up Harold Underwood, a farm hand employed in North Monaghan, while driving home, accompanied by a young lady, just west of the Catholic cemetery, and with a gun stuck between Underwood's shoulder blades, went through his pockets, relieving him of $7 or $8 according to Underwood, but the prisoner declared he only got $4. Later in the week he was taken into custody on another charge of owing a board bill to Mrs. H. Johnston of the King Edward Hotel. He proved to be the man sought on the hold-up charge and admitted the facts, pleading guilty to the charge before Magistrate Dumble. J. F. Strickland appeared for Melville. Melville is a short, mild-looking fellow, 2? years of age, a returned soldier and not at all filling the popular conception of a wild and woolly knight of the road. The gun used was a very crude affair, would not shoot and cost only ten cents. Melville pleaded he was out of work since January and was desperate when he made the robbery.

Crown Attorney Hatton moved for a conviction in the case to-day, but after Robert Hooten, of North Monaghan, with whom the boy lived before going overseas, had told his story there seemed no indication of a conviction. Mr. Hooten said he got Melville when he was 7 or 8 years old from Dr. Barnardo's Home. Till he was 17 he lived with Mr. Hooten, joining the 93rd Battalion that year. "He was always a good boy when I knew him," said Mr. Hooten in the box. "He was industrious. He was not an ignorant boy. I sent him to school. I had nothing to lead me to believe he would turn out bad. He was a Methodist and went to church and Sunday school every Sunday."

Mr. Strickland stated that Melville was wounded twice. On the first occasion he was 11 months in hospital. "This man has gone through a lot," said the lawyer.

"Well he's gone though this man's pockets," added His Worship dryly.

"I know and it is very unfortunate and a serious ofience, but he did it without thinking. This boy can be placed on another farm if your Worship sees fit to allow that arrangement to be entered into."

"This is a young man and perhaps did not appreciate the enormity of the offence and perhaps the state is responsible for the condition many of these men are in, pampering them along from month to month instead of making them go straight to work. Mr. Strickland has a good place open for him and while I would not want to say he should not be punished, he is a young man and if he made up his mind to turn over a new leaf he might be treated leniently," said Mr. Hatton.

"There's no reason every man can't make an honest living. Laboring men are making more than professional men. It's a shame to lock a young man up with criminals who have done wrong. If he has pluck enough to buck up and be a man I would like to give him a chance."

"I'll try and do better your Worship," said Melville from the prisoner's box soto voce.

"You'll have to do a good deal better. Do you pledge yourself you'll be an honest, clean-living man?"

"I do, your Worship."

"I discharge you on suspended sentence."

Melville promised to make good the money to Underwood, and while he was charged with evading a board bill, Mr. Hooten finally agreed to settle this with Mrs. Johnston at $75, instead of the original $96, and Melville will likely return to agrarian pursuits and scenes of his childhood, and for the general good it may be hoped he'll forget about Dick Turpin.

WHAT IS PETERBORO'S GREATEST NEED?

Mr. Alex. Weddell would like to see an improvement in the roads of the city. In any direction that one may go, outside of the paved thoroughfares, the streets are in bad condition.

He would also recommend co-operation between the city officials and the Planning Commission and the Horticultural Society, pointing to the great improvement noticeable in various corners where either of these organisations have had a free hand and remarking on the numerous spots in Peterborough which might be converted into centres of attraction with small expenditure.

A war memorial, which would commemorate our fallen heroes in a living manner, instead of a monument of cement and stone, was another of Mr. Weddell's recommendations.

THREAT OF KEMALIST ADVANCE AND MOVEMENT OF WAR VESSELS CAUSE FEAR OF WAR IN EAST

COLLABORATION LACKING IN BRITISH OFFICIAL QUARTERS, BUT IT IS ADMITTED TWO DREADNAUGHTS ARE PROCEEDING TO CONSTANTINOPLE.

KEMAL GETS TROOPS

LONDON, June 8. — (Canadian Press.)— Large military reinforcements have been received by Mustapha Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish Nationalist government at Angora, and he is threatening to advance upon the Black Sea and the Sea of Marmora. The Angora government is said to have an arrogant attitude towards the Allies.

Despatches containing these statements were featured by London newspapers this morning. The situation in Asia Minor was declared to hold alarming possibilities.

Collaboration of these reports is lacking in official quarters, where it is stated the Britsh government has not reached any decision regarding the difficulties encountered in Asia Minor. While it is denied that orders have been given British warships, as indicated in despatches, the admission is made that the Iron Duke and the King George are due in Constantinople next week. The question of how Great Britain will act in view of the attitude assumed by the Angora government, is declared not to have been discussed by the Cabinet as yet.

DAN M'INTYRE HAS GONE TO ALBANY, N.Y

WAS EMPLOYED HERE ON THE NASSAU DAM AS FOREMAN.

Dan B. McIntyre, who has been foreman at the new power dam at Nassau left yesterday for Albany, N. Y., to accept a position as power superintendent. He had been engaged with R. Sheehy & Son for several months, and added his local experience to a long record of big undertakings all over the American continent. His contracts included that of divisional superintendent at America Falls, Idaho; general foreman of the Rogue River development, at Rogue River, Oregon; coffer dam chief and rigger at Kirkukerk, Ia., on the Mississippi; superintendent of the Quebec Harbour Board; superintendent of construction and maintenance for the Electric Commission, Montreal; superintendent of the Quebec Harbor Board. He was also a foreman at the Hog Island Shipyard.

Mr. McIntyre was born in Elgin County, near St. Thomas. One of his hobbies has been his association with the Philadelphia Highland Band, of which he was the drum major. For eight years he was American champion in all styles of wrestling, and even now holds the record for Michigan in putting the 16-pound shot.

Local Children Suffering From Mal-nutrition

"TOO MANY ICE-CREAM CONES," SAYS MR. PATTERSON, BUT OTHER BOARD OF EDUCATION MEMBERS DISAGREE.

Dr. McPherson's report on health conditions in the public schools ,to the Board of Education last night, brought out the information that quite a number of the pupils suffered from mal-nutrition; also that this was by no means confined to the children of the poorer families, but was manifested in many instances in boys and girls from well to do homes.

This statement caused a good deal of discussion from various members and the advancement of certain theories. Mrs. Morris considered faulty feeding and too late hours as being the cause for much of this trouble. Mr. Patterson said it was "too many ice-cream cones," and Mr. Denne thought that more consumption of Quaker Oats would help to solve the problem.

ENCOURAGED HIS BROTHER TO STEAL

SERIES OF THEFTS AT REGENT THEATRE ENDS IN POLICE COURT.

A bright-eyed little boy, 12 years of age was faced with six charges of theft in police court this morning and his brother Peter, 20 years old, had five charges against him of receiving. The thefts were made during the last few months from the Regent Theatre and the total amount taken was $182.30 according to the manager. Both charges were pleaded guilty to. The little fellow did the robberies, climbing in sometimes through the coal s ute and sometimes unbolting the side door, after the manager had bolted it in the afternoon when he was hanging around the theatre. In the box the irate parent blamed the manager for allowing the boy around the theatre After promising his sons a severe chastisement, even the eldest, whom he said he could easily whip, he agreed after many protestations to make restitution and he paid the costs of $20.20. The Magistrate adjourned sentence till to-morrow but practically assured the boys of suspended sentence.

D. B. McINTYRE.

Recently engaged as foreman on the Nassaw dam, he left yesterday for Albany to take a new position. Mr. McIntyre has had a varied and extensive experience in construction work.

SHIP THOUGHT SINKING SAFE

FREIGHTER MAKING FOR ST. JOHN'S AFTER STRIKING ICEBERG PROBABLY SENT MYSTERIOUS MESSAGE.

FIRST THOUGHT LINER

HALIFAX, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—The British freighter Seapool, 4,503 gross tons, struck an iceberg in mid-Atlantic and is making slowly for St. John's, Nfld., with her fore-foot broken and her forepeak full of water, according to advices received here late this morning by the Canadian Naval Staff. The messa- stated that the steamer was not in need of immediate assistance. The Seapool sailed from Montreal on June 2 for Dublin.

Mysterious S.O.S. Probably From Seapool.

BOSTON, June 8.—(Canadian Press). — Announcement that a steamer had struck an iceberg in the mid-Atlantic and was believed to be sinking was contained in a radio message received at the Navy Yard here to-day. The message did not name the steamer.

The message read:

"Just struck iceberg. Position, 48.30 west longitude. Some one near, please answer. Believe we are sinking."

The distress call was received in a continuous wave which requires a high power sending station. Because of this, radio operators ashore said they believed the vessel was a big one. Only the larger steamers and most of them passenger liners were equipped with a continuous wave apparatus, they said.

PARSONS RAPS PRES. GOMPERS

DECLARES A.F. OF L. HEAD MIGHT THROW MORE LIGHT ON AUTOCRACY OF UNIONISM THAN ON STEEL CORPORATION.

DENIES THERE IS UNREST

QUEBEC, June 8. — (Canadian Press).—Discussing the report of the Industrial Relations Committee at the session of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to-day, S. R. Parsons, Toronto, denied that there was any general industrial unrest in Canada. He observed that President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, instead of talking about the autocracy of the United States Steel Corporation, might throw more light on the autocracy of trade unionism and its tyranny. Only Greece had carried out the resolutions adopted by the Washington Labor Convention in 1919, he said.

The Transportation Committee urged the necessity of the revision of rail rates in order to revive business.

PROMISED DEPUTATION FROM SPRINGVILLE SERIOUS CONSIDERATION OF CHANGE IN THE PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY AT SCOTT'S CORNERS, ASKED FOR BY MUNICIPALITIES AND ASSOCIATIONS —AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION INCREASES ITS MEMBERSHIP.

MAY CHANGE ITS NAME

The sustained interest and enthusiasm in the Automobile Association was again demonstrated in the well attended meeting last evening, which was held in the Chamber of Commerve rooms, and presided over by Mr. R. S. Cotton.

The membership is well on the increase, and shows to date a total of 172, with a number to hear from. It is the particular objective of the Association to see that every automobile in Peterborough is supplied with one of their attractive badges, which of course cannot be used unless the owners thereof are members of the Association. Already there is a great demand for the badges, and the manufacturers have not been able to produce the badges in sufficient quantity to supply those desirous of them. Fifty more will be in the hands of the secretary Thursday morning.

Traffic Regulation.

The report submitted by the Traffic Regulation committee, as published in yesterday's paper, was unanimously adopted, and will be referred to the City Council as a recommendation.

Springville-Scott's Corner Highway.

The following resolution, forwarded to the Minister of Public Works and Highways, was confirmed:

"Whereas, the Department of Public Works and Highways are constructing a section of the Provincial Highway System from Peterborough to Port Hope,

"And whereas, we believe the initial expenditure should be made for this highway construction work with a view to the most economical future maintenance charges thereon.

"Therefore resolved, that we, the Peterborough Automobile Association Executive, would strongly recommend that the Department of Public Works and Highways investigate the desirability of eliminating the existing curve of that section of the Peterborough-Port Hope highway between Springville and Scott's Corners, and constructing it over the old right-of-way, being the shortest distance between these two points."

A reply from the Hon. F. C. Biggs, stated that careful consideration would be given to the recommendation.

Following a deputation to the Minister on this subject yesterday, information was received by the Association through Mr. Thos. Tooms, M.P.P., that the Minister had promised considertion to the change of these points, and would probably make a visit to the district during the first part of July.

Glare Lights.

On discussion the violation of the law regarding head-lights, a resolution was adopted to be forwarded to the Hydro-Electric Commission, requesting that alterations should be made to the present head-lights on street cars, so as to eliminate the present glare.

Outings.

Communications were received from the various charitable institutions in appreciation of the offer of the Association to take the inmates out for a drive in the near future, and a special committee of Adjt. Bunton, J. W. Brightman, and E. B. Fowler were appointed to make detailed arrangements.

Road Signs.

Additional information was received from the members present as to the necessity of changing present road signs and the addition of others at certain points, and will be referred to the Ontario Motor League for action.

Change of Name.

Owing to the acquaintance of motorists to the Ontario Motor League, it was sugested that the name of the Association should be changed to the Ontario Motor League, Peterborough branch, and that a sign be placed at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, showing the Peterborough headquarters. This matter was left in the hands of the president and secretary.

Chemong Drive.

Owing to the inability of the Hon. F. C. Biggs to visit this district during the present month, it was decided either to secure the presence of the Deputy Minisetr, Hon. McLean, or to defer the drive until the first part of July, when it is expected that the Hon. F. C. Biggs will be visiting this district.

Civic Holday.

A verbal request was received from the Exhibition Board requesting that the Association co-operate with the Exhibition Board and the City Council on the occasion of Civic Holiday, in the form of a motor parade. The suggestion was received favorably and will be brought up at a future meeting, when further details will be available.

PRESBYTERIAN ANTI-UNIONIST ELEMENT PROTESTS ACTION OF ASSEMBLY ON CHURCH UNION

S. R. PARSONS,

Of Toronto, president of the British-American Oil Company, who declared at the Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention in Quebec to-day that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, might talk less about the autocracy of the United States' Steel Corporation and throw more light on the autocracy of unionism.

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF ASSEMBLY DISBANDING CHURCH AND TRANSFERRING PROPERTY POINT RAISED.

REFERRED TO SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF CLERGY

TORONTO, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—The "Last Ditchers" of the anti-unionists made another attempt in the Presbyterian General Assembly to-day to have the church union issue referred again to the people for decision and, failing in this, they entered formal dissent from the action of the Assembly, holding that the Assembly had no constitutional Authority to disband the Presbyterian Church or Transfer its property. The dissent was referred to a special committee for a reply. A meeting of those joining in the protest has been called by Dr. E. Scott, Montreal, for this afternoon to decide on the course of action.

At the opening of this morning's Sederunt the moderator announced that the next step would be the formal adoption of action to proceed towards union as expeditiously as possible. Dr. Banks Nelson, Hamilton, immediately moved a new amendment calling for a referendum of our people at the earliest possible date on the question of union", supporters of Dr. Nelson endeavored to argue that the amendment was on a new issue but Dr. Gordon was adamant and the amendment was ruled out of order.

The balance of the union committee's report was then adopted by the Assembly with three minor amendments. This was followed by Dr. Scott making his formal dissent. Those opposed to union, he said, could not accept any responsibility for ignoring the wishes of the members of the various assemblies who had voted against union in the past and the wishes of the fifty thousand Church member who had voted against union in the past and .(.(. against it in 1911 and the seventy-three thousand who had voted "No" in 1915. It was their conviction also that the General Assembly had no constitutional right to disband the Presbyterian Church and transfer its property.

The protest will be considered by Principals Mackay of Winnipeg, Oliver of Saskatoon, McKinnon of Halifax and Gandier of Toronto.

BABE RUTH GETS DAY'S VACATION FROM KNOCKING FOUR BASE CLOUTS FOR SPEEDING.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth, home run king of the New York Yankees, will not be able to sample the delivery of the pitcher that Tris Speaker puts in the box for the Cleveland Indians here this afternoon. Babe is in jail and will stay there for 24 hours.

A few weeks ago the four base hit champion escaped with only a nominal fine on a charge of speeding, and promised to be good and observe the laws. Six days ago, however, he was caught speeding on Riverside Drive and arrested. To-day he came to court prepared to pay a heavy fine. He paid a fine of $100, but went to jail also.

Cooking Utensils used in the Stone Age, 50,000 Years Ago. Read this Story by the Wentworth Manufacturing Company, Hamilton:

From Cave Man to Super Man

—(Period—the Neolithic or Late Stone Age, 7,000 to 10,000 Years Ago)—

Conceivably amid the dancing and swaying circle of the simple natives of this day, the Chief prepared the treat of the banquet by mixing the most delicious viands obtainable in these plaited baskets. Like the simple dance of children of our day around their pies of mud—yet they were the forerunners of the elaborate feasts of a later day.

Of our marvellous present day knowledge there is, after all, very little original with us. It represents only small improvements to what has been built up by past generations extending back to the simple beginnings of the cave men and lake dwellers and basket weavers. Without their groundwork the wonders of to-day could not have been evolved. Without Aristotle, Copernicus, and Galileos advanced but yet faulty reasoning in the behaviour of matter and the universe, Newton's newer ideas would no doubt have remained unborn; and without Newton's clever but now toppling "Law of Gravity," the scientific world would not now be gaping in astonishment at Einstein's "New Conceptions of the Universe" and "Theory of Relativity." (Read Harrow's "From Newton to Einstein," and the $5,000.00 prize essay on 'Relativity in the Scientific American, February 5th, 1921.)

Archaeologists are not agreed as to whether pottery or basket cooking utensils were first used. To heat the contents hot stones were either placed inside with the food or underneath the basket. Saturated with grease, these baskets were quite watertight.

The above is a photographic picture of the original cooking utensil used in the Neolithic or Late Stone Age. These pictures or illustrations that are being shown with this series of stories may be seen in Turnbull's Simcoe Street Window.

There is a SEVEN-DAY SALE and DEMONSTRATION of WELLWORTH ALUMINUM UTENSILS now going on in this Store — "TURNBULL'S." The Economy Basement has been decorated in Wellworth colours and certainly exhibits a worth-while effect. All Wellworth Aluminum Utensils are 99% Aluminum, and will last a lifetime. The next number of this interesting series of Short Stories will appear on this page To-morrow Night.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY DECLARES FOR ORGANIC UNION WITH CONGREGATIONAL AND METHODIST CHURCHES BY 414 TO 107

WEST WAS SOLID FOR UNION AND VOTE FROM EAST WAS ALMOST AS STRONG AS THAT FROM THE WEST—229 MINISTERS AND 185 ELDERS FOR AND 61 MINISTERS AND 46 ELDERS AGAINST IT.

ENDS THREE DAYS' DEBATE

TORONTO, June 8 (Canadian Press).—After a debate extending over three days, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada yesterday carried by a vote of 414 to 107 a motion to consummate organic union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches as expeditiously as possible.

Analysis of the vote, which was taken by a call of the roll, showed that 229 ministers and 185 elders supported the motion, while 61 ministers and 46 elders voted for the amendment, which proposed cordial co-operation with other Christian communions.

The West voted almost solid for union. The entire representation from the Presbytery of Winnipeg, consisting of ten ministers and nine elders, were unanimous. The Presbytery of Ottawa, with the exception of one elder, voted for the motion. Toronto voted 17 to 6 for union. Hamilton voted 11 to 3. London voted 8 to 3. Kingston Presbytery voted 10 to 1.

Regina, Saskatoon, and Moosejaw were a block for union, and Edmonton had only one dissentient. The Presbytery of Westminster, B.C., voted 9 to 5 for union, but Victoria went 5 to 3 against it.

Voting in the East was almost as strong as that of the West in favour of the motion. Sydney and Halifax Presbyteries had only one vote against union. Montreal Presbytery voted 12 to 9 for the motion for union.

P. R. ADHERENTS SATISFIED WITH REPORT ON PLAN

SATISFACTION TINGED WITH REGRET, OF COURSE, SAYS HOOPER.

OTTAWA, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—Mr. Ronald Hooper, Hon. Secretary of the Proportional Representation Society of Canada, asked for an interview on the Proportional Representation Committee's recommendation, said:

"The report of the Parliamentary P. R. Committee is a distinct step forward in the campaign for electoral justice. Recognizing the fact that all reforms come slowly, we advocates of P. R. view the report with satisfaction tinged with a little regret. We are extremely glad that the committee was impressed with the arguments for P. R. and that it believes the system merits further study and investigation by the Canadian people. The best way, however, to study and understand P. R. is to see it in actual operation, and we regret that the creation of one or two Federal P. R. constituencies was not recommended for purposes of trial, and in order that we might prove that our claims are justified.

"The report, however, makes the important recommendation that the system of voting known as the "Alternative Vote" shall be used in all single-member constituencies where more than two candidates are running for election. This system will not, of course, give proportional representation, and the election results for the country as a whole might be just as disproportionate as under the present system of election; but the alternative note at least insures that no memeber can be elected unless he polls a majority of the votes in his constituency. Without this reform it would be possible, and extremely probable, that at the next general election, owing to the increasing occurence of three, four and five-cornered contests, many members in Parliament would represent a minority only of their constituents.

"There are two practical reasons why we are glad the alternative vote is recommended under such circumstances. In the first place, the method of marking the ballots is exactly the same as under true proportional representation. The voter marks the figures 1 2, 3 on the ballot paper against the names of the candidates in order of his preference for them. In the second place, the process of counting the ballots under the alternative vote is similar in many respects to the process of counting under the complete P. R. system. The use of the alternative vote, therefore, will prepare the voters and the returning officers and their staffs for the introduction of complete proportional representation, which we are confident will be adopted in course of time for Canadian Parliamentary elections. The use of the alternative vote, too, will direct people's minds towards electoral matters, and there can be little doubt that once popular opinion turns in this direction proportional representation will surely come."

Mr. Hooper declined to discuss the proposal that a plebiscite on the question of P. R. be taken at the next general election, but he gave some interesting information with respect to referenda on P. R. taken in Switzerland, which country incorporated the referendum in its Constitution in 1891. In 1910 a Swiss referendum on P. R. lost by about 25,000 votes, but in 1918 a similar referendum was won by 207,000 votes to 147,000; and in October, 1919, the Swiss Federal elections were conducted under the P. R. system. For a number of years before that, however, proportional representation had been used in the cantonal elections in ten of the twenty-two Swiss cantons.

FREEDOM OF CITY OF LONDON GIVEN TO EVERY LEADER

WITHIN RECENT YEARS ALL DOMINION PREMIERS HAVE RECEIVED THIS HONOR.

LONDON, June 8.—(Canadian Associated Press).—As already announced by cable, the corporation of the city of London has resolved, unanimously and with acclamation, to confer the freedom of the city upon Mr. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, during his visit.

This hall-mark of the esteem of the citizens of London has within recent years been conferred upon every Prime Minister from the Dominions who has visited London in his official capacity. Fourteen years ago, when the Imperial Conference had still an element of something novel, the corporation conferred the freedom simultaneously upon a group of the leading statesmen from overseas. Sir Robert Borden received the freedom by himself in 1915. Mr. Hughes and Mr. Massey were honored the following year and General Smuts and Lord Morris in 1917.

Perhaps the earliest conferment of the freedom upon a distinguished servant of the Empire in recognition of his services in Canada is to be found in the bestowal, exactly 80 years ago, of the honor upon Sir John Colborne, afterwards Lord Seaton, who was Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada from 1830 to 1835. The freedom was conferred upon him "more especially for the very able and wise manner in which he executed the high and important function of Governor-General and Commander of Her Majesty's forces in Canada." Addressing Lord Seaton, the Chamberlain of the city alluded to the difficulties which developed upon the recipient in governing "the Canadas," and to which he proved fully equal. "By undeviating impartiality and unbending firmness you inspired confidence in the peaceful inhabitants of those colonies, and for years kept in check the factious disturbers of their tranquility, and when at length designing agitators in concert with adventurers from a neighboring State succeeded in fanning into open revolt the dying embers of dissatisfaction, the enthusiastic loyalty of the volunteers and militia of those Provinces, rallying under the standard of your high military renown, enabled you under Providence speedily to extinguish the rebellion, and to become the honored instrument of preserving those valuable colonies to the British Crown."

Lord Seaton in reply said: "During the whole of my long residence in that colony I was firmly supported by a large portion of its inhabitants, and to the loyalty and exertions and determination of those inhabitants to uphold the institutions of the Mother Country is to be attributed, under Divine Providence, whatever benefit the Provinces have derived from my endeavors to promot their welfare and prosperity. I trust that the attention of the city of London will be directed to the value of those North American colonies, their vast resources, fertile soil, and commercial advantages."

Prior to the conferment of the freedom upon Sir Robert Borden, the last previous recipient of the honor in recognition of services rendered in Canada was Earl Grey, after his term as Governor-General.

BYNG COMING IN MIDDLE OF AUGUST

OTTAWA, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Meighen and Canada's new Governor-General, Lord Byng, are expected to return to Canada about the same time. Lord Byng now is not expected to arrive in Canada until the middle of August. He will see both Premier Meighen and the Duke of Devonshire in England before leaving.

SAYS IT MADE HER LIFE MISERABLE

TORONTO WOMAN COULD HARDLY EAT A THING BEFORE SHE STARTED ON TANLAC—FINE NOW.

'If I could only express in words what I feel in my heart then everybody would know how grand Tanlac is," said Mrs. Daniel Santimo, 366 Parliament Street, Toronto, Ont.

"It has been over two years since Tanlac relieved me of a bad case of indigestion that made life miserable for five long years. I didn't have much appetite, and nothing I ate seemed to do me any good. Frequently there was such a severe pressure of gas in my chest I almost collapsed, and had such weak spells I was unable to do my housework. I had dreadful headaches that lasted for days at a time, and frequently I became so dizzy I had to sit down for a half-hour at a time. I had lost so much weight and was so weak and run-down I was almost a wreck.

"The very first bottle of Tanlac helped me so much I shall never forget it. My appetite increased and my digestion improved so I could eat things I hadn't dared touch for a long time. By the time I had taken my fourth bottle all my aches and pains had disappeared and my strength and energy had returned, till I felt better than I did even before my trouble began. To-day I'm a well woman, thanks to Tanlac. People who suffer as I did can't make any mistake by giving Tanlac

CAMPBELLFORD PERSONAL AND SOCIAL EVENTS

CAMPBELLFORD, June 7. — Three strangers who were touring this part of the province in a big Hudson car, were arrested here on Monday by Chief Duncalfe, whose prompt work has probably put an end to a series of mean and petty thefts which have been traced to this trio. From their story, which may or may not be true, two of them came from Montreal and picked up a third man at Cobourg. At Castleton they went into Newman's general store and bought a package of cigarettes, giving in payment a $20 bill. When the change was made one of the men said that he believed he had the right sum and that it wasn't necessary to break the bill. He paid for the cigarettes out of his own silver, and received back the $20 bill.

At the same time he handed back the change he had received from the storekeeper, but when the man was gone it was found that he had short-changed the store by holding out the dollars. This was not the only theft of this kind reported along the main highway from Cobourg. Mrs. Newman telephoned to Campbellford. Chief Duncalfe noticed the big car shortly after getting the message, and took the two men into custody. He located the third stranger on one of the side streets shortly afterward. The three of them appeared before Magistrate Payne and were each fined ten dollars and costs.

Girl Guides Attend Divine Service.

On Sunday evening the Girl Guides with their efficient officers, Misses Payne and Taylor, attended divine service in a body at the Methodist church. Rev. H. B. Kenney, the pastor, preached a ver yable able sermon from the words found in Ruth, chap 1, verse 16, and Ruth said: "Intreat me not to leave thee or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, and wheer thou lodgest I will lodge, thy people shall be my people and thy God my God.' The speaker spoke of the noble young womanhood of Ruth, urging his young hearers to make her their ideal and success would not fail to attend them.

GOVERNMENT IS FORCED TO CUT EXPENDITURES

BRITISH MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE WILL CEASE CONTROL OF AGRICULTURE.

MAY RELINQUISH OTHERS

LONDON, June 8.— (Canadian Press.)—A further industrial dispute may be added to the existing controversies in the coal, cotton and engineering trades through the decision of the government as announced yesterday ,the Ministry of Agriculture to cease control of agriculture.

This decision is due to the financial crisis through which the country is passing. It has already been seen by the government that the protracted depression in trade which has been intensified by the continued suspension of work in the coal fields, involving the government in heavy expenditures for the maintenance of the unemployed and the heavy deficit of the railways, which still are under government control, will completely upset all budget estimates. Hence it seems that the government is hastening to do away with all control which involves financial liability.

The cessation of control of agriculture would mean the abolition of guaranteed prices for wheat and oats and of the powers possessed by county councils to enforce proper cultivation. It also would result in doing away with the Agricultural Wages Board which fixed minimum wage varying from 46 to 50 shillings weekly for agricultural laborers.

MANUFACTURERS ASK RENEWAL OF GRANT

QUEBEC, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—The imperative need for industrial research in Canada was debated at yesterday's session of the Canadian Manufacturers Association assembled in annual convention at the Chateau Frontenac. The question arose after the report of the Executive Committee, in which the necessity of a research institute was urged had been presented.

At the conclusion of the debate chairman J. S. McKinnin announced that a resolution was to be prepared urging the Dominion Government to pass once more the grant of half a million dollars allowed for industrial research which grant was negatived by the Senate at the last session of parliament.

A New Gospel of Health is Coming to Us

OUT OF THE MIDDLE EAST COMES A GREEK TARTAR WITH TEACHINGS TO BE SPREAD IN AMERICA.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 8.—A new gospel of health, that man is not one but three, and that he cannot function fully until his three personalities are in harmony, has come here from the Middle East on the tide of Russian and other refugees from far countries.

This gospel is proclaimed by a small, dark man of mystery, a Greek Tartar, G. I. Gurdjieff. He has contributed to the meager intellectual life of the city a new throb.

The outward and primary form of his teachings begins with dances borrowed from the Mosques of Persia and the temples of India. He puts some of his patients on bread and water for months at a time but requires them, all the while, to carry on the most violent exercises which conform to the music of a piano.

Gurdjieff's teachings have some similarity with the ancient Greek conceptions of the development of mental force and bodily grace and activity.

He is persuaded that his teachings will change the art of living. He has gathered about him a group of concerts, who say they are going to spread his theories westward, some going to the United States. He says that he was taught by Russian physicians and psychologists.

"In harmony there is health," declared Gurdjieff. "The western world of medicine and psychology has never grasped the truth that man is not controlled by one personality, but by three, and when these three are not in harmony a man says he is 'sick.' A sick man, a man with that tired feeling, is like a horse and carriage without a driver. The man is not master of himself.

"Civilization has led man away from himself, physically and spiritually. Too much use of the head has deharmonized him. Man is composed of three parts, just like a machine. One part thinks, one feels and one eats and sleeps. If man thinks too much, or eats too much, or sleeps too much, he falls ill.

"My plan is to first put the three back into a common unity, and then gradually develop a fourth personality, which controls the other three. If this fourth personality or dominating consciousness is not developed, the three men in the same body never establish contact with each other, and the anarchy we call sickness destroys him."

PROBABILITIES.

DON'T REALIZE RESOURCES OF NORTH CANADA

RICH IN OILS AND MINERALS BUT NORTHERNERS FIND ATTITUDE OF REST OF COUNTRY DISCOURAGING.

$1,000,000 EXPENDED

WINNIPEG, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—Different companies and individuals interested in the oil fields of the north have expended close to $1,000,000 on development work, according to Col. J. K. Cornwall, who has been mentioned as a possible administrator of the Fort Norman oil district. Col. Cornwall was a recent visitor here on his way to Edmonton from New York and Montreal, where he had gone in connection with oil development work.

The people of the north do not find the attitude of other parts of Canada very encouraging in view of their great faith in the possibilities of their northern oil fields, he said. On his visit east he found very little interest was shown in the development of the latest resources of the great Canadian north.

"The initial cost of finding oil is considerable," Col. Cornwall stated. "Once it is discovered and transportation is arranged, the cost of production is the lowest of any known resource with the exception of water power. Transportation in the north is not difficult. From the present end of steel at Peace River to Pine Point on Slave Lake, the southern edge of the oil field is a very fertile country. The character of the soil warrants railway construction in itself and the possible productiveness of the area would support a railway. Settlement is pushing out in that direction.

"The eastern portion of Great Slave Lake, which is practically an inland sea, is very rich in mineral prospects," Col. Cornwall said. "Gold mining machinery is going in this year. Vast copper areas lie between Great Bear Lake and Bathurst Inlet. Iron deposits were discovered last season on both sides of the Mackenzie River, about latitude 63 north. There is sufficient timber for all requirements of the country. Vegetables and all hardy cereals are easily grown as far as the Arctic circle. It is a healthy country and a very beautiful country. The people are happy and contented and are looking forward to seeing their country developed.

"Ninety-eight per cent. of the oil used in Canada at present is imported. The north looks forward to being able to stop this importation and to put Canada on the map as one of the great oil exporting countries of the world," the Colonel concluded.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

In the suggestion that members of the Automobile Association act as a sort of vigilant committee to watch for evasions of the traffic regulations and speeding on the part of motorists in order that the offenders may be officially warned by the Association of the danger that lies in such carelessness, there is much that deserves commendation. Members of the Automobile Association should have no hesitation in reporting reckless driving, for in so doing they will be helping to make motoring less dangerous for themselves and for the public. It is impossible for the police to observe more than a fraction of the violations of the regulations that take place in Peterborough, but the Association members must necessarily be in a better position to detect infractions of the traffic by-laws and a warning letter to those who are guilty of carelessness would undoubtedly have a beneficial effect. At least the experiment is well worth trying.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.

Ald. Phelan deserves the thanks of the hundreds of citizens who patronize the baseball and other athletic games at Riverside park, for his endeavour to have the city council build a board walk across the city gravel pit to the entrance of the park and it is hoped that his effort may be successful. It has been suggested that this work should be done by the owners of Riverside park, but as the park is in any case to be shortly expropriated by the Council, and as the approach to it lies across city property, there should be no quibbling over the question of responsibility. A sidewalk is badly needed, and in the interests of the many citizens who visit Riverside park, the conditions should be improved as soon as possible. On Saturday, with important baseball and football fixtures scheduled at the park, several thousand people will have to make their way as best they can across the gravel pit, and as there will be scores of visitors from out-of-town, the city will get some doubtful advertising as a result. The expense of building a sidewalk would be trifling compared to the service it would provide the citizens.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

The City Council has decided to submit the question of contributing $5,000 to the Red Cross Society's war memorial fund to the ratepayers for their approval. The submitting of such a by-laws seems a mere matter of form, for surely no opposition to the proposal is to be anticipated. Peterborough owes a debt to her soldier dead, and in the erection of a suitable monument to their memory a portion at least of that debt can be discharged. The matter has been delayed too long; other municipalities have already done their duty in that respect and Peterborough can not further postpone its carrying out of a memorial project without being left open to the charge of being careless and neglectful of its obligations to the memory of the soldiers from this city who made the supreme sacrifice overseas. If there is any objection to the by-law that is to be voted upon, it lies in the fact that the amount may not be considered large enough; in fact many citizens would be in favour of at least doubling that sum. However, the action of the Council, coupled with the contribution of $1,500 from the funds of the old 57th Regiment, will do much to bring the memorial campaign to a successful completion.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

The Manufacturers' Association advocate the holding over of public works wherever possible until the arrival of a period of industrial depression, whereupon the opening out of government work would to a considerable extent relieve the unemployment problem. The proposal is not a new one, in theory at least, but no government has ever tried out the idea. Public works in Canada have usually been carried on to the fullest extent in times of general prosperity and curtailed to the minimum in periods of depression. This has been regarded as the soundest policy from the viewpoint of economy, but there is an element of doubt in the matter. Possibly it would prove cheaper in the long run if enough government work were kept in reserve for the time of industrial slackness, to take care of a large portion of those out of work and thus save the unemployment funds that have been found necessary during the past months. Many of the undertakings entered into by the government are of such a nature that there is no great need of haste in their commencement. It is a work of this kind that the Manufacturers' Association believe should be kept in reserve to serve as a buffer against the ill effects of a period of abnormal unemployment, and their recommendation has many strong points in its favour.

"THE HUN" REAPPEARS.

German justice acquits a man who confesses—or, perhaps, we ought to say "boasts" — that he deliberately sank a hospital ship in clear weather. He did not do it by mistake. He knew that it was a hospital ship, and he torpedoed it twice. He did this inhuman deed under specific orders from his superiors.

There is really nothing much more to be said. We may be sorry that so fish-blooded a human machine is left at liberty; but this sorrow is mitigated by the fact that he will be pretty well confined to Germany. We rather fancy that any German by the name of "Carl Neumann" will find it uncomfortable travelling in Christian countries.

"Killing the wounded" is not permitted to civilised soldiers. That is an exclusive attribute of savagery. Rudyard Kipling laid a rough hand on the nerve of horror when he wrote his grim advice to the British Tommy when he should "lie wounded on the Afghan plains and the women come out to carve up the remains," to "crawl to his rifle and blow out his brains, and go to his God like a soldier." But these were the wild races who infest the mountain boundaries of India—not the highly "kultured" savants who hold high court in the Kaiserhalle of Leipzic.

Germany has cleared Lieutenant Neumann, but has indelibly damned herself. The specious pleading of the prosecutor that hospital ships were employed for puroses contrary to The Hague agreement if they were used for transportation of soldiers wounded in the course of land warfare, is only worthy of Beelzebub at the court of Heaven. Whatever The Hague agreement may be twisted to mean, the Sermon on the Mount gives no such fiendish permission.

In war-time, we were quite accustomed to the belief that the Germans were savages thinly veneered by modern civilisation; but we have been hoping recently to find a more charitable version in the softening days of peace. This verdict, however, will long postpone that benevolent anticipation. All that Germany can do now to regain her chance of recovering to some extent the good opinion of the world, is to prosecute and sternly punish "the men higher up who gave Lieutenant Neumann his ferocious orders. — Montreal Star.

POLISH FLYER EXECUTED AS A SPY FOR BRITISH

WARSAW, June 6.—Lieutenant Henry Iwanicki, of the Polish Flying Corps, convicted by a court martial of high treason in disposing of military secrets to British agents, was executed Friday by a firing squad at the famous Warsaw citadel.

Lieutenant Iwanicki, who was employed at the War Office, was accused of stealing mobilization and other military plans for English representatives. The court martial lasted three days.

Soon after the speech delivered in the House of Commons by Mr. Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, in which he criticized Poland for not presenting the Upper Silesian resurrection, several Poles accused of being employed by British intelligence agents were arrested by the Polish military authorities, Lieutenant Iwanicki being one of these. The others are now being held for trial.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

I AM AROUSED

Chapter 69.

Mrs. Russell's visit had so completely roused my spirits that I immediately threw off the old dejection and indifference, and started forth again with new incentives.

I could understand a little better why such people were in the world. It requires friction to light the spark. The cold bath and the rough towel are healthful and invigorating.

I went straight up to Leonard's room while the desire was strongest. I was such a swaying reed these days.

I picked things up and tidied around his room. Then I sorted over all his underwear and stockings, and made a pile on the bed of those that needed mending. It was remarkable how a civilized man could tear off buttons, and rip out button holes, and apparently shove his heels and toes right through his socks. Men were such a queer species after all, so different from women. To be a successful wife, a woman should, before marriage, make an intensive study of the masculine variety just as she would expect to take a course in cooking. Someone ought to tell her. It would save a lot of heartaches and divorce proceedings.

I took the mending in my room and piled it up on the sewing table. It looked like an all-day job. I wanted to scold Leonard and hug him, all at the same instant. I was terribly chicken-hearted. Mending his clothes always seemed to put me in a more susceptible state of mind. I knew lots of strong minded women would hate me and think me very weak, but it wasn't human to be too immovable.

So I sewed and darned, and laughed a little and cried a little.

"There! That was a terrible hole," I remarked aloud, pulling the darner out of a black silk sock and viewing my handy work. "And I do believe that is one of the new lot he just bought a little while ago," I mused. "That's pretty flat," I said, pressing the darn with my thumb and forefinger. "Maybe it'll hurt a little—and maybe it'll be a little punishment," I thought, and a smile spread over my face as I pressed the sock to my breast.

That night I was not in bed when Leonard came home.

That night I was not in bed when Leonard came home.

It had been a rainy day and the house seemed cold and cheerless. So I kindled a small fire in the living room fireplace and sat and waited there for him.

When he finally came in he looked surprised to find me up, but he came and threw himself down in a chair by the fire.

I felt a tightening around my heart as I looked at his pale, hollow cheeks. He did not look well at all. And I was powerless to do anything for him.

I wondered afterward if he felt a touch of the rush of love that welled up in my heart and surged about him.

Apparently there was nothing different in that evening from dozens of others so much like it, and yet my feelings registered just the slightest perceptable change.

We talked very little. Finally, Leonard said he was very tired, and he certainly looked it. He half pulled himself out of the chair and drew himself up with an effort. I wondered if he was going to be ill. The thought frightened me horribly.

"I'm going on up, Noreen," he said, and I heard his weary feet mount slowly up the stairs.

He had forgotten to bank the hot coals with ashes, so I knelt down in front of the open fireplace and fixed it myself. Leonard was not like his old self. I could see it in so many ways. He used to be so thoughtful.

I started to get up from my knees—but just then something surged up in my soul. My hands clasped together and dropped slowly in front of me. My face turned upward and my thoughts like the sparks that crackled and rushed up the chimney, eager for release, turned and mounted with them toward Heaven.

CHILD MOTHER SOON ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

13-Year-Old Shot Step-Daughter, But Not A-Purpose.

FARMINGTON, Vt., June 7. — "Honest, I didn't do it on purpose, Jedge."

This is the plaintive defence of little 13-year-old Mrs. Letta Parsons (the "Cinderella of Iron Mountain,") charged with shooting to death of her 6-year-old stepdaughter.

She will be arraigned in the Juvenile Court on the less serious accusation of manslaughter.

Behind the hectic cycle of events that have crowded the last two months of the life of this unfortunate miss of the mountains, are thirteen eyars of intolerable solitude.

Locked up alone in the dreary fastnesses of the Ozark Mountains, little Letta was condemned to an unnatural existence.

She had never a playmate and like the fabled Cinderella, her heritage consisted largely of work.

Hewing a log, building a shack or driving a well were tasks that Letta could accomplish with the dexterity of a veteran mountaineer.

From early morning until late at night the myriad duties in and about the cabin kept Letta constantly at work. She became a drudge. She knew no holiday.

No one can remember when Letta had even laughed. Though only 13 years of age, those 13 years have been lonesome years, absolutely devoid of the normal amenities of childhood. And they have left indelible traces on the plastic features of Cinderella of Iron Mountain.

Fewer Calves Being Raised

Live Stock Prices Discourage Farmers. Buying Lightly of Farm Implements.

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, up to June 7:

Early sown spring grains, where not put in on heavy clay, are looking well. Field sown later are not so promising, although recent rains are helping them along.

Fall whea is coming nicely into head in a number of counties, and is looking more thrifty than it did during the dry period in May, as timely rains have been very helpful. Rye has headed out and is filling well.

Clover is rather patchy in places, and somewhat short in stand, and is not likely to give an average yield. However, it is probable that there will be more in pasture this year than last.

Grey is of opinion that sweet clover is not up to the average in growth and general appearance. Waterloo says it will be ready to cut within a week.

Renfrew speaks of pease as looking exceedingly well.

Corn is now coming along nicely, with the good rains and somewhat warmer weather. Essex reports the cutworm as doing some injury to the crop. This insect has also been damaging other crops in various part sof the province.

Sugar beets are doing well in Essex. Kent reports some re-seeding of beets on account of dry weather at the time of the first sowing.

A fair acreage of potatoes is being planted considering the discouraging prices now prevailing. Some of the early sorts are looking promising.

Essex reports considerable tobacco being planted, notwithstanding the slow and unsatisfatcory market for last year's local production.

Orchard fruits, with the exception of cherries, are promising fairly good yields. Strawberry growers are finding that many of the first blossoms were affected by the frost, although a fair yield is yet assured. Norfolk estimates yields as averaging 4,000 boxes per acre as compared with 7,000 last year.

Live stock are in fine condition, generally speaking, but prices are low, and marketing comparatively slow. Lanark says that fewer calves are being raised.

Milk is in generous flow, but prices are away down compared with the figures for several years. The price per cwt., is as low as $1.30 at an Elgin condensory. Peel notes sales at $1.90 per 8-gallon can. Butter-fat is bringing only 25c. a lb. in Huron and Dufferin, and 27c. in Renfrew. Grey reports that creameries in that county are at present working up to full capacity.

The latest cheese sales in the boards ranged from 15 3-8c. a lb. to 16 3-8c. a lb. One representative says that some makers find difficulty in disposing of their surplus whey on account of the scarcity of hogs.

Bacon hogs are selling at from $8 to $8.50 a cwt. f.o.b. Small pigs, however, are in remarkably good demand.

Peel quotes wool as selling as low as 5c. a lb.

Dufferin describes farmers as being dissatisfied with prices now offered for farm produce, and adds that as a result they are doing little in the way of buying agricultural implements, etc.

NEW YORK PREACHER SCORES SUNDAY GOLFERS.

WOODSTOCK, June 6.—Rev. Dr. Edgar P. Hill, of New York, who is visiting his son, E. R. Hill, spoke in Knox Church on Sunday, taking for his text, "Meditation," which he described as one of the lost arts of modern life. He scored the Sunday golfer who pretended to be worshipping God in nature. "That is not what he goes to the links for—it is to play golf." Dr. Hill is general secretary of the General Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

TAX-FREE LAW SPUR TO HOUSE BUILDING

NEW YORK, June 8.—Plans have been filed for houses to accommmodate 13,279 families in the five boroughs since Feb. 25, when the Tax Exemption Ordinance went into effect, according to reports compiled by the Building Bureau and made public yesterday by Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan. He said the plans had been filed at a rate of prospective accommodations for 1,000 families a week.

The increase was 157 per cent. over the corresponding period in 1920, when plans were filed for buildings to house 5,171 families.

"While the number of apartments planned has taken a sudden jump," Mr. Curran said, "the most encouraging feature, to me, of the building that is going on all over town is the great number of one and two family houses that are under way.

"Of the 13,279 families provided for in the last three months, 7,559 families will live in the little houses and 5,720 in apartments. That means a substantial increase in the number of New York families who own their own homes. The more we can have of these little houses, where people can go upstairs to bed and downstairs to breakfast, and begin to live like human beings instead of cliff-dwellers the better off we shall be.

"The only way to stop rents from going up again is to keep on building. Rents will stop going up when enough new houses have gone up, but not before. The pace that tax exemption has set—1,000 families a week—must be not only maintained, but increased. This means more money, at reasonable rates of interest. The estimated cost of these 13,000 new homes is a little over $61,000,000. Such a total means that, while there has been profiteering in some quarters, there must be somebody around town who is lending money for new homes at decent rates. The housing shortage is not yet over."

Grapes that are grown in the Black sea region are especially fine for making wine.

JOHN ROBINSON'S CIRCUS COMING.

Again the Glad Word in Boyland.

"John Robinson's circus is coming."

For ninety-eight years that statement, spoken by your great grandfather, your grandfather and your father in the days when they looked on the world through youthful eyes, has stood for much in the way of eager anticipation. And now John Robinson's circus is coming to you—coming on—Thursday, June 16th., for parade that forenoon and matinee and night performances.

John Robinson's circus is on its ninety-eighth annual tour of the United States and Canada, and this year four long railroad trains will steam into the city on the dawn of circus day—four trains of elephants jungle beasts, horses, ponies, tents, curious folk, clowns, spangled celebrities, calliopes, bands and innumerable big show wonders. Under the John Robinson seven pole big top, seating 12,000 people, will be three rings, two stages, a hippodrome track and an aerial maze filled with the foremost arenic troupes of at least a half dozen lands. And for the kiddies there will be clowns and clowns and clowns— fat clowns lean clowns, tall clowns, squat clowns and assorted clowns—fifty of 'em. Of course.

The John Robinson street parade, twenty-two city blocks in length, has many novelty sections this year, for a determined effort has been made to make this huge open air spectacle refreshing as well as impressive. There are seven bands, three calliopes, five hundred and fifty horses and four hundred zoo animals in the "march past."

Mrs. SELCHERT'S DAUGHTER

Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Horicon, Wis. — "My young daughter had been troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. She did not want to eat anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her meals. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help her. One day I was reading a little book of yours and it reminded me that when I was a young girl I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. She goes to school and on Saturdays helps with the housework. She is a normal, healthy girl now and we recommend your medicine. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound." —Mrs. FRANK SELCHERT, 150 Larabee St., Horicon Wisconsin.

Mothers all over the country have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to be a most reliable remedy for such conditions.

FOUR GRADUATES OF NICHOLLS HOSPITAL RECEIVED DIPLOMAS

TRIBUTE PAID TO THE NURSING PROFESSION AT THE ANNUAL CONVOCATION OF NICHOLLS HOSPITAL STAFF AND CITIZENS

JOHN CRANE PRESIDED

Afte rmany experiences furnishing many happy recollections, with a spirit of service and a will to do good in the world and maintain the highest traditions of the nursing profesion, four nurses were graduated from Nicholls Hospital last night at the exercises held in the G.W.V.A. Hall.

The four graduates are: Miss Gwendolyn L. Peat, Toronto, Miss Olive J. Beatty, Port Hope, Miss Marion I. McCallum, Garden Hill, and Miss Annie Long, Peterborough.

To these four young ladies, last evening must have been one of the most important of their lives, the time when dreams came true, and they found themselves on the threshold of a career that is next to the ministry in service to mankind, and the realisation that all considerations are subservient to their great mission of healing, unquestionably possessed the graduating nurses last night.

The graduating ceremony was brief, and took place before a crowded hall of relatives and friends of the nurses, all rejoicing in the successful conclusion of their training. The platform, around which the nursing staff of the hospital sat in uniform, was a mass of fragrant and colourful blossom, with a background of palms; and the significance of the ungarnished flowers to the beautiful Christlike conception of the nurse going among the sick and needy, healing and brihgtening with touch and smile, was not lost to many in the audience.

John Crane, secretary-treasurer of the Board of Management of the Hospital, who was chairman, in his remarks outlined the history of the institution, and spoke of its record of service since its inception. He eulogised the citizenship and generosity of Mrs. Nicholls, and in a determined speech said that the people of this city should regard the hospital as theirs, and show more pride and take more interest in it. He declaimed the peddling of malicious tales of negligence and ill-treatment and the good name of the hospital being knocked about on all sides. If co-operation was given where there is criticism, the citizens would be animated by the same ideals as was Mrs. Nicholls, and the hospital's sphere of service would be that much wider.

Mr. Crane spoke highly of the graduating nurses, and referred to the consecration to all that is highest and best that is necessary for a nurse to accomplish the utmost good.

Rev. Harold W. Young, of George Street Methodist Church, paid a glowing tribute to the nursing profesion. The nurses felt the world's needs, he said. Enthroned in them were the ideal values of service to humanity. "Consecration to the best, to the highest, has made the nursing profession what it is, and made nurses what they are," he said. Instead of the philosophy in life of getting, the nurses' philosophy is giving, and for this they should be blessed, as Rev. Mr. Young declared this to be the supreme thing in life.

Carrying large bouquets of roses and wearing the spotless insignia of their profession, the four young ladies went to the flower-set platform where, without any preliminaries, Richard Hall, chairman of the Board of Management, presented to each her diploma, following their affirmation.

Miss E. M. Beamish, superintendent, presented the hospital medals to the graduates, following which

Dr. G. S. Cameron addressed the graduates. He spoke in term of praise of the young ladies' hospital work, and went on to bespeak a more sympathetic attitude towards the nurse by the patient who when sick is all too liable to misjudge a nurse as he is to misjudge a doctor.

Dr. Cameron spoke to young women contemplating a nursing career, of the unlimited opportunities in nursing now that were not thought of ten or fifteen years ago. Some mentioned were industrial and public health nursing, social service work, insurance companies health services, institutional employment; and in view of these openings he predicted that more rigid standards of education or ability would be required to admittance to the training hospitals.

In concluding, Dr. Cameron extended every good wish to the graduates, with the hope also expressed that they would locate in this city.

Dr. J. A. Morgan presented to Miss Annie Long and Miss Olive J. Beatty first and second bandaging prizes respectively. "I can assure you it is no small honour to win the bandaging prizes. Neatness and practicability is required in the nurse's work," he said.

To Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Park, tenor and soprano, Miss Hazel Davidson, reader, and Mrs. Harold W. Young accompanist the large audience are indebted for a number of musical and reading numbers of the calibre that Peterborough associates with these artistes' performances.

REV. ISAAC COUCH LEAVING QUEBEC

FORMER PASTOR OF GEORGE STREET CHURCH GOES TO STRATHROY.

QUEBEC, June 7.—With the annual session of the Montreal Methodist Conference, just closing, the Rev. Isaac Couch, M.A., B.D., pastor of the Methodist Church of this city, and former pastor of George Street Church, Peterborough, having completed the full pastoral term of four years, is about to leave Quebec.

Rev. Mr. Couch assumed the pastorate of the Quebec church in June, 1917, and during his term has made a host of friends. Prior to coming to Quebec he held charges in Toronto, Hamilton, Peterborough and Ottawa. He holds a high reputation, a close student, is a gifted speaker and is recognized as one of the ablest preachers in the Methodist denomination.

Mr. Couch's departure is keenly felt by the Board of Management and the members of the Methodist Church in Quebec. At their annual meeting held last month a complimentary resolution, expressive of their pastor's worth, was unanimously passed, and ordered to be inscribed in the church books. While at the annual meeting of the Quebec district, when Mr. Church was asked to preach before the session, a similar resolution was adopted.

As one prominent church official aptly remarked: "He has broadened our horizon, enlarged our conceptions, enriched our life, and every right thinking person must view with regret the approaching departure of Rev. Mr. Couch from our city." There are other organizations however, that share in this regret. In the Masonic fraternity he has taken a keen interest and has given unsparingly of his time and talent. He was honored by the Grand Lodge of Quebec, by being elected two years in succession as Grand Chaplain for the District of Quebec and Three Rivers. His influence has also been felt for good in the Quebec Curling Club, where he was held in high esteem. His addresses have been marked with breadth of vision and depth of thought, and never has an audience listened to him without receiving helpful instruction. He emphasizes essentials and feels that mankind is one great brotherhood. All who knew him realize that he is a lover of humanity and hence his friends are to be found among all creeds and classes.

With the departure of Rev. Mr. Couch for Strathroy, Ont., to assume the pastorate of the Methodist Church there, Quebec will lose a good citizen, a scholarly preacher, a man of tender heart and a friend of the people.

The United States has more than one third of the swine in the whole world.

ANTI-DUMPING BILL AT SECOND READING APPROVED BY 220

LONDON, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—The House of Commons last night by a vote of 312 to 92 passed the second reading of the bill for the protection of Key industries and for the prevention of dumping.

Dear Marie,
Cheers, old dear, for I can play golf now! And oh, Jack is such a marvellous teacher. I only lost three balls for keeps, and just said two really very bad words. But I can't remember the names of all those funny old sticks you use. I always got the "mashie" and "putty" mixed up, but thank goodness I have them thoroughly straightened out now.
The sun was terrifically hot that day though, and I was so engrossed I didn't notice how red my arms and neck were getting. However, my ever-ready bottle of Campana's Italian Balm saved the situation once again. It is so soothing when rubbed on gently, and takes all the pain and redness away. Love, Peggy

Huycke-Cressman Nuptials

Trinity church, which was beautifully decorated with ferns, and high standards filled with peonies, was the scene of a very pretty wedding this afternoon, when Jessie Lillavette, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cressman, was married to Mr. Edward Douglas Huycke, son of Judge and Mrs. E. C. S. Huycke, Rev. E. A. Pearson was the officiating clergyman, assisted by Rev. F. E. Mallot.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of pearl grey moon-glo satin crepe and rose point lace with court train of crepe lined with pink georgette, and bridal veil of embroidered net and orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was a shower of sweetheart roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. H. W. Cressman, matron of honor, and other bridal attendants, Mrs. Kenneth Harrison and Miss Rosamond Huycke, wore gowns of pink, mauve and blue organdie, with hats of grey organdie, and carried nosegays of mauve and pink sweet peas bordered with forget-me-nots. Little Miss Mary Adelaide Acton was flower girl, wearing a petalled frock of pink organdie and hat to match, and carried a basket of roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

During the signing of the register, Miss Florence Scott, gowned in rose shot taffeta, sang "All Mine Alone."

Mr. Wilfrid Huycke, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Douglas Lawrie, Meredith Huycke, Robin Haultain and James Blaiklock.

SKIN DISEASE AND CONSTIPATION

What G. Prouton, Gordan street, Ottawa, says:

Gentlemen,—It is a great pleasure for me to recommend Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment for constipation, having received great benefit from them in that respect, also your Hou-Tan Ointment. Ten months ago my youngest child which was then eight months old, had her head all covered with oils. We purchased a box and in a short time they all disappeared and she now has a beautiful head of hair which convinces me that it is a splendid preparation for the hair, as well as curing the disease. No family should be without out a preparation of that kind in their home.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment are two excellen preparations for all forms of skin diseases. Don't fail to give them a trial, and you like others, would not be without them in your home. They are for sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough. The Herb Tablets are 25c. 50c. and $1 per box. The Hou-Tan Ointment 50c per box. THE HENDERSON HERB CO., TORONTO.

COLLEGIATE COMMERCIAL CLASSES WILL BE TRANSFERRED TO SOUTH CENTRAL WHEN SCHOOL RE-OPENS

BOARD OF EDUCATION ARRANGES FOR USUAL MID-SUMMER REPAIRS—NEW SCHOOL IS RAPIDLY APPROACHING COMPLETION—DR. M'PHERSON PRESENTS AN ALARMING REPORT.

THE END OF THE SEASON

The Board of Education met last evening, with Mr. A. A. Fowler in the chair, in the absence of Dr. Neal from the city. Mrs. W. R. Morris, Messrs. J. M. Greene, E. G. Patterson, R. Denne, G. O. Cameron, G. H. Thompson, J W. Worth, J. A. McKone and Mr. A. Mowat were present.

As it will be necessary in September, on account of the restricted accommodation in the Collegiate Institute, to transfer the commercial classes with their teachers to the South Central School for the time being, thus necessitating extra help at the Collegiate, it was decided to transfer Miss H. Moffat, who has been instructor of Domestic Science in the public schools of the city, to the staff of the Collegiate Institute, where she will conduct classes in Domestic Science, and on account of her superior qualifications will be able to supplement the work in other classes also. A great deal of favorable comment was heard regarding Miss Moffat's excellent work in the city schools.

A communication from Dr. Moir, asking for further leave of absence for Miss Esme Thomlinson, on account of ill health, was referred to the Supervision Committee.

Moved by Mr. Worth and seconded by Mr. McKone, that the Property Committee be authorized to make the necessary repairs at the various schools during the summer vacation; also that the W. Scott Co., be paid for coal supplied as same is delivered and the accounts certified.

Moved by Mr. Cameron and seconded by Mr. Denne that the matter of filling any vacancies that may occur at the end of the term be referred to the Committee on Appointments, with power to act.

When Holidays Begin.

It was decided to close the Collegiate Institute on June 10th on account of the examinations, and the public schools of the city will close for the season on Friday, June 24th.

Dr. McPherson's Report.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, who was present, read a very interesting and illuminating report of his work in connection with the physical examination of the children in the public schools of the city, three of which have already been completed—the Queen Mary, the King George, and the Queen Alexandra—showing a large number of children in need of examination and attention with regard to teeth, eyes, tonsils and adenoid growths. Recommendations were made as to the necessity of instruction in the care of the teeth, in the evils of eye-strain, and in the care of parents as to height, weight and proper nutrition for the growing child.

Mental Defectives.

An inquiry from Mrs. Morris elicited the information that there are quite a number of mental defectives in the schools, whose case has not been considered in taking up this health census of the children, the report of Dr. McPherson, as Mr. Greene remarked, being both compehensive and alarming.

New School Nearing Completion.

Mr. Patterson gave a brief report on the progress being made at the new Prince of Wales School, which is in the last stages of completion, everything being in readiness with the exception of the curtains and electric light fixtures.

AMEND OLYMPIC PROGRAMME, RADICAL CHANGES ADOPTED

SEVERAL EVENTS ELIMINATED—IN EVENT OF PARIS NOT BEING ABLE TO HOLD GAMES, THEY COME TO LOS ANGELES.

LAUSANNE, June 7.—Four entrants and four starters will be the maximum limit allowed any one nation in any event in future Olympic games. This and other radical alterations in the programme for the 1924 international meet at Paris and succeeding Olympic games were announced here following a protracted session of the Olympic Congress. The Congress consisted af about 90 delegates.

The amateur status of the entrant will be guaranteed by the national member of the federation and certified by the Olympic committee of the country from which the athlete is entered.

Radical Changes

Radical changes were made in the programme for future Olympic meets. The tug-of-war, the 3,000 metre walk, and throwing the 56-pound weight were eliminated. All contests, including preliminary heats will be held in the afternoon, doing away with all-day sessions.

The foil team fencing event was retained and horse riding and polo will be open to civilian entrants in the future. The bicycle and track events also were continued. In the yachting division, provision was made for a one-man crew in the five meter class race, a three-man crew in the six metre class race, and a five-man crew in the eight metre class races, all crews to be composed of amateurs.

Further Details

The tennis and shooting events have been continued and two new weight classes added to the wrestling programme. In the swimming contests, 100 metre back stroke and 200 metre breast stroke races were added for women competitors, and the 300 metre free style race was lengthened to 400 metres. In the events for men swimmers, the 400 metre breast stroke was eliminated. Gymnastic competition will include combined team and individual contests, eight men to a team, on seven-piece apparatus.

Several Removed.

Rugby football, grass hockey, archery and golf were removed from the programme. The events for the winter section are still under consideration. All officials will be appointed by the International Federation and the detailed programme for the 1924 games completed and announced not later than January, 1922.

It was announced that in case conditions made it impossible to hold the 1924 meet in Paris, the games would be transferred to Los Angeles

C.G.E. AT THE TOP OF CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE LADDER

BEAT Y.M.C.A. IN EXCITING GAME AT RIVERSIDE PARK LAST NIGHT—LEGON AND FOLEY STARRED FOR WINNERS.

Catcher Lyons of the Y.M.C.A. team neglected to touch third base last night on his way home from second and his little omission cost the Y. outfit the ball game, and put C. G. E. at the top of the City League heap. The Electricians won 8 to 5 after an extra innings. Lyons' miss of third preventing the Red Triangle from winning 6 to 5. At that, however, the C.G.E. outfit earned the verdict for they outhit the losers, and were always dangerous.

The game was featured by the all-round good work of "Red" Legon, the C.G.E. outfielder, who made four nice catches, came through with two doubles and a single, ran wild on the bases, and scored three runs; and by the pitching of Foley, who relieving Johnston after the fourth innings held the Y without a hit or run for the balance of the game. Johnston was touched up for six hits and five runs in the four innings he worked, but the run getting stopped when Foley took up the pitching.

"Red" Sheehan made his debut as a pitcher for the Y and gave a good account of himself.

Y.M.C.A. got away to a great start by scoring three in the first. A. Butcher opened with a tap past Johnston, going to second on the pitcher's wild throw. Fitzgerald promptly singled over second, scoring Butcher. Herbison struck out, but McWilliams' single through the box sent Fitzgerald in. McWilliams stole second and went to third when Johnston mussed up Sheehan's smash. Pogue's tap into the infield scored McWiliams, Helson dropping the ball, and Hopkins died on a bunt to Johnston and Sheehan was doubled at the plate, Corrin to Helson, when he tried to score on the play.

The Red Triangle got another in the second. Lyons' failure to touch third, cutting them out of a second counter in this innings. George Butcher got a life when Helson dropped a third strike and then pulled Corrin off the bag. Butcher stole second. Lyons rapped one to Barrie, whose throw beat Butcher to third, but Foley dropped the ball, and everybody was safe. A. Butcher popped to Corrin, but Fitzgerald doubled down the first base line, G. Butcher and Lyons coming home. The latter was called out for cutting third. Herbison singled to centre and Fitzgerald was out at the plate on a fine peg by Frost.

The Electricians broke into the scoring column in the third. With one gone, Legon singled through short and stole second, riding home when Corrin rifled a single to right. Corrin went to second on the throw to the plate. Helson hit to Hopkins, who fumbled, but caught Corrin cold off third by bluffing a throw to first.

The Y. got it back in their half. McWilliams led off with a single past first, stole second, went to third on Sheehan's out, Johnston to Corrin, and came home while Barrie was tossing out Pogue.

That was the last counter for the losers and the C.G.E. started to climb up. They got one in the fourth. Frost started with a single to centre but was forced at second on Dugan's tap to third, Dugan stole second and went to third when Lyons dropped the third strike on Foley and had to throw him out at first. Franks hit to Hopkins, but McWilliams muffed the throw and Dugan registered. Johnston grounded to McWilliams.

On the fifth the Electricians closed the gap. With one down Legon doubled to right and stole third. Corrin scratched a hit to the box and Helson drove the pair home with a timely single past second. The next two were easy.

C. G. E. were blanked in the sixth. Foley led off with a single over third and stole second, going to third, while Alex. Butcher was throwing out Franks. Primeau grounded to Sheehan and was nailed, Foley at the plate. Barrie singled to centre but Legon rolled to Hopkins.

The winners tied the score in the seventh. With one down Helson was sent to first base for interference by the catcher. He stole second and when Frost rolled to Sheehan, McWilliams threw badly to third and Helson came home with the tieing run. Sheehan mussed up Dugan's tap but Foley fanned.

C. G. E. put over a win in the eighth. Franks singled to centre and was sacrified to second by Primeau. Barrie singled to right, scoring Franks and took second on the throw to the plate when Lyons made a wild heave to third to stop him stealing, Barrie registered. Legon doubled to left, stole third and crossed the counting station when Butcher was throwing out Corrin. Helson fanned to end the innings. Y.M.C.A. was blanked in their half and the game was over.

WILL BE A RECORD CROWD FOR SATURDAY'S BIG GAME

There will be a record crowd out at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon to see the Lindsay Graybirds and the Petes battle for the Central Ontario League leadership. The Lindsay team, not regarded as nearly as dangerous as Belleville or Oshawa, have suddenly loomed up as serious claimants for the Johnston Cup, and the fans are as much excited over Saturday's fixture as if it were the final game for the championship. Lindsay's win in Belleville have made them real contenders. The two teams are fighting it out in Lindsay to-day, and no matter which outfit wins, the decision in the game on Saturday is sure to be hard fought all the way. Peterborough fans are anxious to get a look at this Oulette person, for they realize that any bird who can whiff seventeen of the Port Hope Ontarios and outpitch Freddy Goyer right in Belleville, must have "something."

The game is called for 3 o'clock, and Jack Rosevear of Port Hope, will be in charge. It looks like one of the tid-bits of the ball season.

C.G.E. TEAM IS READY FOR ST. CATHARINES INVADERS

The St. Catharines-Peterborough Ontario Cup game will be played at Riverside Park at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, and all indications point to a large attendance and a memorable game. The C.G.E. team, winners of the local honours, are fit and ready for the invaders, and are hopeful of earning a clean-cut victory and the chance to meet the Ottawa-Brantford winners next week. Every soccer fan in Peterborough will be out for this match, and the hour at which it is called will be pleasing to many local people who wanted to see both the baseball and the football game. The St. Catharines team is said to be strong, but supporters of the local eleven are not worrying about that fact. They are counting on Henry Turner's crew to come through nicely. The G.W.V.A. band will be in attendance and it will be a great occasion for all lovers of football.

LINDSAY FORETASTES WIN FROM PETERBORO

(Lindsay Post.)

Peterboro is wagering money that they will trim the Greybirds, but their money will likely be scarce after the game.

It's the first half-holiday. Don't motor out of town, but remain and see a real classy ball game.

Pitcher Oulette lost his glove at the last game. Some person picked it up in mistake, but should return it at once. Be a sport.

Which ever team wins to-morrow will head the league.

Harry Keslick, a one-time noted pitcher in the Big 4 League, but now travelling out of Peterboro, stated this morning that the Greybirds will have to give Oulette good support in order to beat Peterboro to-morrow. The Petes have a number of left hand swatters, and good ones. However, the greybirds are going to give their pitcher the best of support. They are out to trim Peterboro.

The Greybirds are developing the batting eye, and will be in shape for to-morrow's game with Peterboro. There should be 2000 people on the grounds.

PETERBOROUGH RIFLE RANGERS

The Peterborough Rangers will hold their initial shoot next Saturday afternoon, June 11th. Transportation will be supplied by the regiment and will leave the Armouries at 1.30 sharp. Rifles will be drawn from company, Armouries, by those shooting.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

"The Shuttle," starring Constance Talmadge and adapted by Margaret Turnbull and Harvey Thew from the "best seller" novel of the same name by Frances Hodgson Burnett, will be shown at the Allen Theatre Thursday. This picture was directed by Rolin Sturgeon and distributed by Select; and it gives Miss Talmadge, as Bettina Vanderpoel an adequate opportunity for the display of her unique comedy talents.

After twelve years of separation, Bettina, the youngest daughter of the American multi-millionaire, Reuben Vanderpoel, goes to visit her sister Rosalie, now Lady Anstruthers, at her English estate. She finds her broken in health and spirit by the cruel treatment of Sir Nigel Anstruthers, who has left her and her young son in the ruins of the old castle and the neglected estate, to resume his old time dissipation abroad. Betty, high-spirited and resourceful, rehabilitates her sister, and refurnishes the castle and the grounds.

Society takes up Rosalie again, due to her young sister's efforts, and thus Betty meets Lord Mount Dunstan, a neighboring gentleman, impoverished by his spendthrift father and elder brother, and despite the ugly machinations of Sir Nigel, who has returned from abroad, their romance comes to a happy ending.

RICCA ALLEN MAKES MINOR ROLE UNUSUAL

Chaperon to a motherless girl as a role to play in a motion picture production is not obviously an opportunity for much acting, but when such a part is played by Ricca Allen its importance becomes enhanced through her talent. Before taking up her career she had a wide stage experience in America, England and Australia, and her observation of great actors and actresses with whom he was associated made clear to her possibilities in parts which would never occur to the tyro.

Her chaperon role is in "The Oath," the R. A. Walsh production for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre for the last time to-day. She plays but small part in the action, but her pose toward her charge, the leading character of the story, has much to do in explaining the complexity of the emotions which results in the dramatic climaxes with which the production abounds.

EVERY BOY SHOULD SEE HOW EDGAR RUNS HIS CIRCUS

Every boy who has ever staged his own circus will want to see the big show with Edgar Pomeroy, hero of Booth Tarkington's "Edgar" stories, gave in his backyard in a tent of his own making as one of the episodes of "Edgar Camps Out." Mr. Tarkington's story was filmed by Goldwyn and will be shown at the Allen Theatre for three days, commencing Thursday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

OUIJA BOARD AND SPOOKS IN THIS CROOK PICTURE

Excellent Satirical Comedy is Photoplay "Straight is the Way."

A ouija board and some very real flesh and blood "spooks" are the basis of "Straight is the Way," the new Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture drama based upon Ethel Watts Mumford's story, "The Manifestation of Henry Ort," which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow, Thursday night. And they, in turn, spring from very real spooks that seem to inhabit the locality of Mrs. Mumford's summer home, the old Sands Point Homestead—built 250 years ago—at Sands Point, Long Island.

Many romantic and exciting scenes have occurred about this ancient estate, particularly during the Revolutionary War, and Mrs. Mumford thinks the spooks may have come into being about that time. One she tells about is a ghost with a penchant for going to the attic and hauling furniture across the river. Another ghost sometimes signals across the salt meadow nearby with a lantern, and sometimes a third ghost waves a spectral lantern in reply from the box hedge of another house a quarter of a mile away. Just how and why these things happen, Mrs. Mumford does not attempt to guess.

Inasmuch as Mrs. Mumford located the scenes of her story in and about this old homestead, Director Robert G. Vignola took his actors out there and made his exteriors on the spot.

The principal roles are portrayed by Matt Moore, George Parsons, Gladys Leslie, Mabel Bert and Henry Sedley.

Besides this splendid feature production Jimmy Aubrey will be seen in "The Blizzard," one of the funniest two-reel comedies ever produced. The Capitol is always cool and comfortable. This is made possible only by the perfect ventilating system used, the most modern method in America.

Vaudeville Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Jean Pearson, Female Impersonator.

The Capitol management have secured a special vaudeville act for the last three days of the week, in the female impersonations of Jean Pearson, one of the best-known of this class of entertainers. Mr. Pearson sings and dresses in the very latest up-to-date feminine manner.

AT THE REGENT.

LOUISE LOVELY COMES IN SECOND STAR ROLE

Beautiful Louise Lovely is coming to town, in her second picture as a William Fox star. "Partners of Fate," is announced as the feature attraction for the Regent Theatre next Thursday.

In "Partners of Fate" Miss Lovely enacts the role of a young woman subjected to some of the queerest buffetings of fate that ever woman endured and triumphed over. The story, from the pen of Stephen Chambers, has to do with the trials of two young married couples, who discover shortly after marriage that they should have been mated the other way—and then, by a freakish twist of providence, find themselves paired as they should have been at the altar, and castaways on two lonely tropical islands; but with the barrier of marital obligations ever before them.

It is out of such a trying situation as this that Louise Lovely rises to what has been described as heights of dramatic power never afforded her in any previous role.

INTERMEDIATE LACROSSE TEAM GOES TO HAVELOCK THURSDAY

Peterborough intermediate lacrosse team plays its first scheduled game in Havelock to-morrow. The following players have been selected for the opener: Goal, F. Goodfellow; point, P. Wallace; cover-point, F. Scriver; 1st defence, J. Lawson; 2nd defence, J. Thirnbeck; centre, E. Brown; 2nd home, H. Tudhope; 1st home, C. Nattress; outside home, Grover Halpin; inside, B. Todd; spares, Donovan, Webb and Nolan.

The game is called for four o'clock and should draw a large attendance. Campellford fans will be well represented. They are curious to get a look at the Peterborough team, and from some reports that have come through, they won't root for the Havelock team. Jim Skinner, manager of the locals, has not been saying much about what his intermediates will do for the simple reason that they are an unknown quantity. The game with Oshawa is no criterion. Oshawa simply went out into the highways and byways and gathered in some of the best lacrosse material in the province to fill up their ranks. That is one to build up a winning team, and if it is tolerated by the O.A.L.A. very long there will soon be no O.A.L.A. A leaf out of the O.H.A. book is what is needed for the Ontario lacrosse executive when they are getting ready for next year.

The Peterborough team showed improved form against Hastings, and when they stack up with Havelock they will have a busy afternoon. In the rest of the district Peterborough has been discounted, and the battle is regarded as settling down to the Havelock-Campbellford games. A win to-morrow would spring a surprise on the eastern teams, and at that Peterborough has a good chance.

Havelock expect to have McGee, the centre man with the touring Toronto University team, which has recently played with the American college teams. He will certainly strengthen the team and add speed to a centre field that is already fast.

DUNK—In loving memory of Mrs. Stephen Dunk (Etta May Wildman) who died June 8, 1920.
The midnight stars are gleaming on

Beneath sleeps one we dearly love,
but who we could not save;
Her weary hours and days of pain,
Her troubled nights are past,
Her ever-patient worn-out frame has found sweet rest at last.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a vacant place
The world can never fill.

IN MEMORIAM
FREEMAN—In loving memory of our dear little girl, Eileen, who departed this life, June 8, 1920.

A smile of Heavenly birth
And when the angels called her home
She smiled farewell to earth.

MANY DEFECTIVE CHILDREN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS; INSPECTION DOING MUCH FOR CORRECTION

DR. M'PHERSON'S FIRST REPORT TO BOARD OF EDUCATION SHOWS BAD HEALTH CONDITIONS AND MUCH WORK DONE TOWARD CORRECTING THEM.

Evidences of neglect and ignorance in the care of children in this city and an alarming number of defective children are pointed out in the report of Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Inspector of Schools, to the Board of Education. Considerable corrective work on the part of the medical inspectorate is also shown.

The report follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Peterboro Board of Education

Madam and Gentlemen:

I beg to submit a short report of the work done in cannection with the medical inspection of the public school children. Circumstances will not permit me to give you information concerning the results that will obtain from the examinations, as a good deal of the work, especially in connection with the teeth and tonsils, is being put off until the summer holidays. It will therefore not be possibe to give this informaton until next year. However, a good deal of interesting information is available and should prove encouraging to those who had the energy and foresight to inaugurate the movement.

The work, as you likely knew, consists mainly of the examination of the children in accordance with the details as shown on the card that was adopted last year. The physical condition, as revealed by the examination, is recorded on the card and if any major defect is found a notice called a defect slip is sent to the parent, drawing attention to the defect. It is expected that the child will be taken to the family physician or dentisft who, after making an examination of the child, will make any necessary remarks on the slip and sign it. This should then be returned to the school within 10 days.

This part of the work has been completed, with the result that about 2,800 pupils have been examined and about 1280 defect slips sent out. Of these 490 have been returned with the signature of the physician or dentist. As time will not permit a second examination of all pupils before the end of the school term, it is my intention to examine only those in whom a major defect was found and follow up the cases that have received no attention.

So far, three schoos have been inspected for the second time in accordancewith this plan. The figures in connection with these examinations are interesting and are therefore included in the report.

Cases to be followed up by nurse; about 11%
Cases having 2nd defect slip; about 11%
Cases reviewed and no action taken; about 20%
Not examined; about 18%

Total 100%

In reviewing this report and also the records of examination for the 2,800 pupils, one notices some points that are worthy of consideration. Some of these I wish to bring to your attention.

1 Only about 40 per cent of cases received a defect slip and still over 90 per cent are found below par in some respect. I am proposing that a medcal report be sent home for each child each year.

2. A very large percentage of the primary grades, show evidence of neglect in regard to the care of their teeth. In this connection two ponts are suggested:

(a) the necessity for instruction in the care of the teeth;

(b) the consideration of dental treatment.

3. The large number of children who are under par in nutrition and color. This is not more common among the poorer families. The consideration of the causes and instruction to the public of the remedies to be applied would be profitable.

4.—Enlarged tonsils are found to be a very common defect. Eighty per cent. would not be too high an estimate of the number of cases in which an enlargement is found. The enlargement is classified into slight medium and large and defect slips are sent out in the last class. There are a large number of the small or medium that may be equally dangerous with those of the large class. In this condition, the value of a medical report for each child can be seen.

5. Defective vision is another common defect noted, as you can judge by the number that have been fitted with glasses. The results from this group are very gratifying.

6. Over 20 per cent. of cases require following up. Half of these were of such a nature that it was considered advisable to have the nurse make a personal visit and bring in a written report. In my opinion, this will form a very important part of the whole work.

Now what are the benefits that will result from this department? Some of them are as follows;

1 The improvement of the health of the children by correcting the defects which are retarding developing or causing disease. But to accrue the maximum amount of benefit, care must be taken that the children who are in need of medical treatment are not neglected on account of any condition, financial or otherwise.

2. The mental improvement which may be affected directly or indirectly by improvement in the physical condition.

3. The securing of information in regard to health, and health conditions of thechildren in respect to age sex, environment, etc.

4.—The dissemination of knowledge regarding health matter among the children, parents, teachers and in fact all classes of citizens, through the general work of the inspection by talks, pamphlets, etc.

5. The correction of, and prevention of spreading of certain types of uncleanly or diseased conditions, such as scabies and pediculi.

6. Assisting in the control of infectious diseases.

7. Training the children to submit to an examination by a doctor.

The few recommendations that I have to offer for your consideration at the present time are as follows:

1. The purchase of a pair of scales for each school.

2. The adoption of a medical inspection card for each pupil.

3. The consideratian of a plan for giving necessary medical and dental treatment, more especialy in regard to teeth, tonsils and fitting glasses.

I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

A. W. McPherson,

LIEUT.-COL. J. W. MILLER, President of Veterans' Association of '66.

TWO CARS CHARRED IN WARSAW BLAZE

HENDREN'S GARAGE DAMAGED TO THE EXTENT OF $1,000 IN MIDNIGHT FIRE.

WARSAW, June 11. — A new Gray Dort automobile and a used Ford were badly charred in a fire that broke out in Hendren's garage last night, shortly after 12 o'clock, and for nearly two hours gave the volunteer firemen a blistering fight.

Three chemical tanks were requisitioned, one from the garage, and the others were supplied by A. F. Choate and James McIlvena. The damage was estimated to-day at approximately $1000. The cement floor of the garage saved it from complete destruction, for the fire, which wos of unknown origin, was confined to the oil and grease and gasoline that had dripped to the floor in the course of business.

When the blaze was discovered, the alarm was sounded and the men of the village responded in full force. Their efforts were successful in savin gthe building from complete destruction.

A DESIRE TO EAT WHAT YOU WANT

STOMACHS CAN BE RESTORED TO A HEALTHY CONDITION.

Not to be limited in diet, but to eat whatever he pleases is the dream of every dyspeptic. No one can honestly promise to restore any stomach to this happy condition, because all people cannot eat the same things with equally satisfactory results. But it is possible to so tone up the digestive organs that a pleasing diet may be selected from articles of food that cause no discomfort.

When the stomach lacks tone there is no quicker way to restore it than to build up the blood. Good digestion without rich, red blood is impossible, and Dr. Williams Pink Pills offer the best way to enrich the blood. For this reason these pills are especially good in stomach trouble attended by thin blood, and in attacks of nervous dyspepsia. Proof of the value of Dr Williams Pink Pills in cases of indigeston is given by Mr. John A. McDonald, Tarbot, N.S., who says: "Every sufferer from indigestion has my heartfelt sympathy as I was once myself a bond slave to it. Eating at all became a trial and as time went on I became a mere skeleton of my former self. I took all sorts of recommended medicines, doctors' and advertised, but to no avail. Then a friend said to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I got a box and I thought before they were done I coud feel a change. Then I got six boxes more, and by the time they were used I was eating my meals with regularity and enjoyment. My general health is now good, and it is no wonder that I am an enthusiastic advocate of Dr. Williams Pink Pills."

You can procure Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SKIN DISEASE AND CONSTIPATION

What G. Prouton, Gordan street, Ottawa, says:

Gentlemen,—It is a great pleasure for me to recommend Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment for constipation, having received great benefit from them in that respect, also your Hou-Tan Ointment. Ten months ago my youngest child which was then eight months old, had her head all covered with oils. We purchased a box and in a short time they all disappeared and she now has a beautiful head of hair which convinces me that it is a splendid preparation for the hair, as well as curing the disease. No family should be without out a preparation of that kind in their home.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment are two excellen preparations for all forms of skin diseases. Don't fail to give them a trial, and you like others, would not be without them in your home. They are for sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough. The Herb Tablets are 25c. 50c, and $1 per box. The Hou-Tan Ointment 50c per box. THE HENDERSON HERB CO., TORONTO.

NEW WATER RATE

The revision of the water rates necessitated by the increased expense caused by the purification of the water, has been completed by the Utilities Commission, and the new rates will go into effect on July 1st next. The accounts will be sent out along with the electric light accounts every two months, instead of quarterly, and a discount of 10 per cent. off the tariff rates will be allowed for payment within ten days from the delivery or mailing of the accounts. These rates are approximately an increase of 80 per cent. over the present rates. Of this increase about 27 per cent. would have been required owing to increased costs in operation, and the balance of the increase is owing to the expenditures on the filtration plant.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, June 11.— (Canadian Press).—The week end session on the stock market opened with an extension of the recent general reaction. Steels, oils, equipments, shippings and Sugar again were most susceptible to pressure. Losses of one to three points were sustained in the early trading by Crucible, Steel, Pressed Steel Car, Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt and American Sugar. Other heavy to weak issues embraced United Fruit, American Can Preferred, Atlantic Gulf, Famous Players and Columbia Graphaphone preferred. The only railroad issue to show marked heavjness was Northern Pacific, which declined 1 3-8 points.

COFFEE SUPPLY EXCEEDS DEMAND.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—The supply of coffee in British Guiana at present exceeds the demand, and, as a consequence, the small growers have been forced to sell at very low prices. Coffee has been sold in the Colony for 7 cents a pound, which is claimed to be under the cost of production. In order to remedy this condition, a coffee growers' association is about to be formed to secure more remunerative markets abroad. It is proposed that the growers send their coffee to the association which will pay an advance of 7 cents a pound and will refund all that it receives in excess of this amount, except a commission of 5 per cent.

FORD OUTPUT 101,500 IN MAY.

DETROIT, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—Ford Motor Company output during May was approximately 101,500 cars, averaging 4,050 cars every working day. The total number of men employed was nearly 15,000 less than a year ago when the high mark output was reached.

G. T. R. SUBSIDIARY MAKES $100,000 GOLD BOND ISSUE.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—The Central Vermont Railway Company has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $100,000 of refunding mortgage, 5 per cent. gold bonds, and to pledge them as collateral security for notes which it may hereafter issue.

CANADIAN ZINC OUTPUT QUADRUPLED.

LONDON, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—A report issued by the Imperial Mineral Resources Bureau shows that the output of zinc from Canadian mines has more than quadrupled since 1916.

Previous to that year the output was negligible and the Bureau did not keep a record of it. According to figures given in the report, the output from Canadian mines in 1916 was 2,655. In 1919 production had jumped to 11,005 tons.

Reporting on the deposits within the Empire, the report attached special significance to the zinc-lead-silver ores in British Columbia and to the development of proper handling facilities at Trail, B. C. Much still remains to be done before the British Empire can be considered self-supporting in the matter of spelter production, the report stated. In this connection the construction of a successful electrlytic-treatment plant at Trail, with a capacity of 15,000 tons of spelter a year, was given as a hopeful indication.

CANADA-BRAZIL TRADE INCREASED

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(Canadian Press.)—A report, from the U. S. commercial attache at Rio de Janeiro, shows that Canadian trade, with Brazil, has increased considerably in the past four years.

Total imports from Canada in 1916 amounted to 5,504,000 milreis, and in 1920 to 11,360,0000 milreis. The milreis is quoted at the present time at $0.13. 1916 quotations were around $0.25.

RIORDAN FINANCING.

NEW YORK, June 11. —(Canadian Press.)— Discussing the Riordan company financing, in which an issue of $5,500,000 ten-year 8 per cent. moratgage bonds is being offered to shareholders at 90 with a bonus of $750 per value 7 per cent. preferred stock with every $1,000 par value bond, the Wall Street Journal says:

"The story of Riordan with its large expansive programme conceived when the paper boom was under way across the Canadian border, is typical of the industry. It can, however, be said that the interests which one time controlled it have not hesitated to demonstrate their faith in it by backing it with their personal fortunes.

'A two months delay has been asked of creditors, to enable the company to dispose of its bond issue. Present indications are that it will be disposed of, as more than half the amount required is in sight. If it can tide itself over the present crisis by obtaining the funds immediately necessary the company may yet work itself out of its difficulties."

SEES PRINTING FROM TYPE SUPERSEDED BY PHOTOGRAPHIC MEANS

METHOD WAS EMPLOYED BY LITERARY DIGEST DURING THE STRIKE IN 1919.

LONDON, July 11.—(Associated Press.) — Suggestion that printing from type is likely to be superseded was made by William Gamble at the recent World's Congress of Printers held here in connection with the International Printing and Allied Trades exhibtion. Mr. Gamble said that at least three inventors were trying to develop a photographic process to take the place of printing from type.

He predicted that the machines for printing by photographic process would hardly occupy more space than a typewriter nor be any more complicated.

He expressed the opinion that eventually the great printing presses in newspaper offices would give place to smaller, swiftrunning and comparatively noiseless machines which would turn out printed matter with almost the same facility as the moving picture operator reels off his film.

Printing by means of photographing the matter to be set was employed by the Literary Digest of New York during the printers' strike of 1919.

FEW SPEED BOATS COMING UP TRENT

ARE GOING TO THE INTERNATIONAL RACES—PLEASURE CRUISERS MAY BE NUMEROUS.

On account of the Bobcaygeon lock not being opened till July 15, and with international boat races at the Thousand Islands, Detroit, Chicago and Toronto early in July and other races coming off in August, speed boats contemplating a cruise in the Trent waterways this year, find it impossible to carry out their plans and the present indications are that there will be no speed boats in these waters this year. Mr. G. K. Fraser, president of the Trent Waterways Deelopment Association, advised the Examiner to this effect yesterday when he was in the city en route to Rice Lake with his lovely motor cruiser ,the 'Wanderer.'

Mr. Fraser stated that numerous speed boats had planned a trip up the lakes to work in a little pleasure between the races but they had expected the lock to be open sooner. The opening being now right in the heart of the racing season the speedsetrs have had to relinquish their plans. Fred Miller, of Toronto, had figured on bringing Heldina II, one of the fastest speed boats on the Great Lakes through the waterways this year, but has written the secretary that he cannot carry out his plans when the lock is not being opened till July 15. Mr. Fraser said that numbers of pleasure craft were expected about the first of the month when the kiddies get out of school. The Wacouta, in drydock at the canal mouth, is the first boat to come up from Trenton this year. Mr. Fraser's boat put in the winter at Burleigh and the owner has been running it since very early in the spring. Mr. Fraser takes a keen interest in the waterways. He practices what he preaches about the pleasure of a holiday at the Lakes for he has been there since April 12

The Trent Waterway Development Association meet in Orillia the end of this month and it is expected that much progress will be shown in the development of the tourist trade. The route from Trenton to Nassau has been mapped by the Trent Canal engineers and eleven large scale maps in continuity show the route in every detail as far as Nassau. It is hoped to induce the Department of Railways and Canals to further the mapping to link up with the Severn division. The set of eleven maps now in the hands of the secretary will sell to tourists at $3.50.

BERRIES AT THREE BOXES FOR QUARTER PREDICTED.

BRANTFORD, June 10.—County points report strawberries ripening very fast, with a probability of strawberries at three boxes for a quarter during the height of the season. The canners did not sign up contracts this year.

AT THE ALLEN

"A Tale of Two Worlds," the Goldwyn photoplay which comes to the Allen Theatre beginning Monday is a story of Chinese intrigue, in which the heroine, an American girl whose parents were killed in China during the Boxer uprising is kept in ignorance of her real nationality for several years. Through the machinations of a Tong leader, the beautiful girl is about to become his bride when an American finds her in San Francisco's Chinatown, rescues her, and in the end marries her.

This colorful story from the pen of Gouveneur Morris, one of Goldwyn's Eminent Auhtors, has been superbly staged and directed by Frank Lloyd. To maintain the artistic verities, the Goldwyn company built a reproduction of a street in San Francisco's Chinatown on the grounds of the Culver City, Cal., studios.

Leatrice Joy plays the role of the abducted American girl, and is supported by J. Frank Glendon, Wallace Berry, Dwight Crittenden, Jack Abbe and others.

"BAPTISTS AND CHURCH UNION"

To-morrow evening, Rev. J. R. Webb will speak on the relation of the Baptist Church to the subject of church union. The question so often asked this week as to why "Baptists" are not participating in the present negotiations, should be made clear to all who hear this address.

PROPOSED RE-ORGANIZATION OF CONSERVATIVES

general meeting for all the purposes aforesaid and for all purposes.
—Carried. Chairman.
Victoria Hall,
Peterborough, 10 June, 1921.

Wants 1911 Back Again.

Mr. Burnham stated taht the meeting was called to reive and reform the Liberaln-Conservative Association of West Peterborough. Going on, Mr. Burnham told of the executive's action in refusing to call a meeting before the by-election. They did not consider it wise he said he was informed. Meetings re-organizing the forces are taking place all over the country he said. Following the war no one doubted but that Sir Robert Borden wold return to Conservative politics. He let the union party go and Meighen and Calder picked up the fragments, so Mr. Burnhahm said. "No people worth their salt will stand for that sort of treatment; I for one won't." Referring to Calder he designated him as an ordinary behind-the-scenes wire-puller. Mr. Burnham sounded a message of hope from the west, even going so far as to say that the reverse in Saskatchewan was the begining of the end of the National Liberal-Conservative Party. While no wrecker, Mr. Burnham declared that the Conservatives must get back to their 1911 condition. Mr. Burnham denounced the Conservative leaders as betrayers of the country in his scalding attack upon their actions. Returning to the local situation, Mr. Burnham stated that "after the damage was done" in Marc hthe entire body decided to hold a meeting in early June. On the excuse that they had no money, no efforts were made to bring the Conservatives together. Otheri went ahead, though, to do the bett they could, and instead of rendering any assistance, Mr. Burnham pointed out that the executive published a statement that they had nothing to do with the meeting. It was important, he said, that something definite be done and the Association put in ship-shape order.

At this point Mr. Strickland addressed Mr. Burnham, after he and several others of ths Liberal-Conservative party had moved near the platform. "Mr. Burnham, in the evcent of the Liberal-Conservatives of East and West Peterborough having a convention after the re-arrangement of this riding, as seems probable, at the next session would you accept the choice of that convention and geet behind the nominee?"

"Certainly I would. If you had been in this riding a little longer you would have known I would."

not wish Mr. Burnham to misunderwish Mr. Burnham to misunderstand him. He was asking his view in all friendliness.

Mr. Burnham stated that he would support any man brought forward. He himself was willing to stand aside for another. "You can rely on me, I'll play no trickery," he said.

Mr. Strickland asked if it would not be advisable to wait to re-organize till after redistribution.

"That's what they said before the last election. That's not the way to treat these things. Go on," advised Mr. Burnham.

Mr. J. W. Wirth, who was sitting near the front, asked Mr. Croft to re-read the original motion to re-organize. After he had done this Mr. Worth spoke of the success Conservatives had met with in the past and the importance of the action they were about to take. "I submit that the meeting is not sufficient to elect an executive." (This was a bombshell into the meeting which had been so quiet until then). "I should suggest that this meeting is a failure and it be recalled. I would move an amendment to that motion that no action be taken this evening."

"I second that," said Frank Bradburn, with avidity. The chairman asked both men what their party was and both replied, "Liberal-Conservative."

Calling for a vote on the motion and the amendment, Mr. Croft hastily counted the show of hands and declared the motion carried. "Hear, hear. Call a standing vote," shouted one of the men from the other camp.

In agreeing with Mr. Worth, Mr. Burnham ended an awkard situation. Mr. Burnham thought it would be better to have a larger attendanec before the important action was taken. Mr. Worth, following up his success, suggested that the next meeting be called through the regular Liberal-Conservative executive, but no attention was paid by Mr. Burnham or Mr. Croft to this interjection.

With musical numbers by Miss Pearson, John Smith, Kenneth McCannan, and Harry Lauder impersonations by Mr. McKinley, the meeting was concluded.

MANY FIRMS CUT PRICES OF CARS.

Analysis of Reductions Shows Substantial Lessening.

NEW YORK, June 11.—In the five weeks since the Marmon Automobile Co. unexpectedly cut its prices, 24 other manufacturers have taken similar actiin. There are approximatey 90 passenger automobile companies in active production in the U. S. The 25 which have announced lower prices since April 30 represent about 27 per cent. of the passenger car manufacturing group of the automotive industry. It appears a foregone conclusion that a majority of thise makers who have not made a downward revision in prices will do so before the end of this year.

Analysis of the price reductions which have peen made recently shows that in the lower-priced cars the cuts are of more substantial proportions, on a percentage basis, than in the more expensive makes. Average reduction on four cars which listed at more than $3,000 is less than 14 per cent., while on three makes which sold under $1,000 the average cut is almost 20 per cent.

It is difficult to make a fair comparison of present motor car prices with those of pre-war days, because automobile development has taken such rapid strides that few companies are turning out cars which are comparable to their product of five years ago. Relatively speaking, however, current prices are not down to pre-war levels nor are they likely to be for some time. Should competition, which now appears to be more keen than in several years, become more intensified, there is bound to be a further drift tiward lower prices. On the other hand, if an automobile-buying movement of any substantial proportions should develop, next year prices probably would move upward.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY LINDSAY JEWELRY STORE

LINDSAY, June 11.—Nightwatchman Edwards disturbed two men trying to effect an entrance into the Silk Store and McCarty's jewellery store, near the corner of William and Kent streets, at 2 o'clock Friday morning. The burglars were busy at the rear of the premises, where several windows had recently been broken, and they hastily beat a retreat on the watchman's appearance. A car containing four men was seen hurrying over Lindsay street bridge at the time of the incident, while the driver of another car was interrogated by a citizen on suspicion. Constable Parks guaranteed this latter person's innocence; his car is said to have brought a party of Peterborough young men into town the previous night.

SPORT COMMENT

Hamilton will be well represented at the big fight. Fourteen have already booked for the special cars which Jimmy Anderson, of the Canadian National Railways, is arranging for, and he expects to have twice that many before the end of the week. The cars will be parked within a fw minutes' walk of the big arena.

The touring Scottish football players claimed that they would not lose a game in Canada unless they were affected by the climate. They defeated Saskatoon by 7 goals to 0 yesterday, which makes it look as though the air in Western Canada is just as balmy as in Scotland.

The pen may be mightier than the sword, but it cannot hold a candle to the gloved fist. Benny Leonard got over $49,000 for battling Rocky Kansas at Harrison on Monday night, or over $1,361 a minute! Show us a man who can wield a pen fast enough to make that many cents a minute.

Frankie Fleming, former featherweight champion of Canada, who, since his comeback a short time ago, has been doing very well in his bouts in Toronto, is preparing for his fight with Johnny Kinbane at Toronto on 25th June. His share of the purse is to be $5,000.00, and Kilbane will get $22,000. Fleming has to make 126 pounds at one o'clock the day of the fight. Kilbane will fight at catch weights. To carry a house sufficient to provide the purse of $27,000.00, the fight will take place in the open-air.

Three to One Against Georges.

Monday a bet of $10,000 against $3,500 was made at New York that Jack Dempsey would win by a knock-out or by newspaper decision from Georges Carpentier. A stakeholder received the money, and is to act as arbitrator in case of question. Short odds have been laid that Dempsey will win by a knock-out in from four to ten rounds. There is a reported feeling that should the fight last the ten rounds there will be enough difference between the men to make a decision apparent without argument or question. On what they base that impression is not said.

Race Horses Galore in Canada.

Entries for the Blue Bonnets this year are said to be larger than ever before. It is said also that there are more horses racing in Canada to-day than has been known in the past. The influx of United States owned horses is responsible, there being an extraordinary number coming across the border. The Canadian tracks are offering big money for stake races, which no doubt attracts many good horses. It is probable that the three Windsor tracks will have more horses of big class than in any previous year.

Rickard Has $650,000.00 Now in Hand.

Tex Rickard has made a killing in his promotion of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight for 2nd July. The ticket seat sale now amounts to over $650,000. Rickard says it is about that amount, and that he knows it is $150,000 more than has ever been taken in for a prize fight. There seems to be lots of money in the world that some people do not know about.

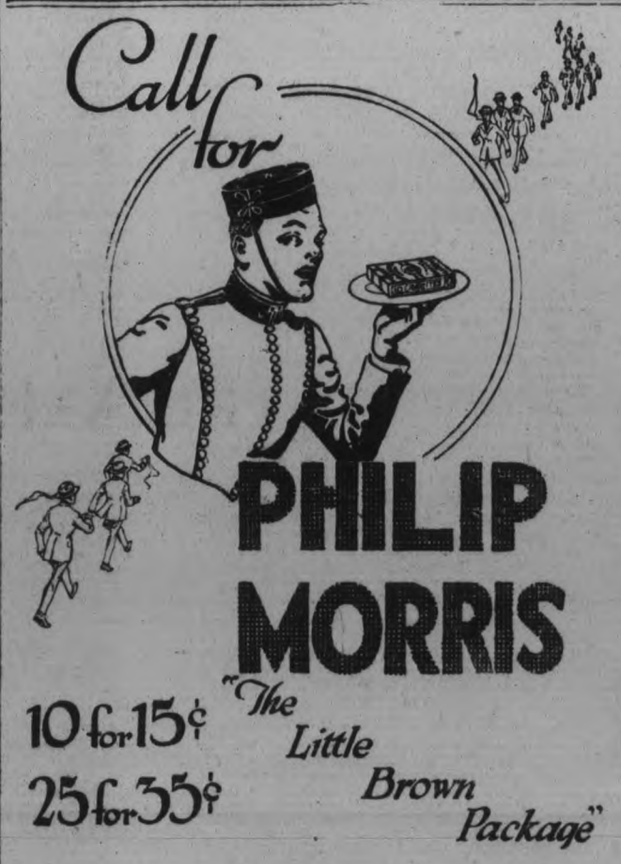
Ringside seats have sold rapidly at $50.00 each. There was a rush of applications from all over the North American continent. Special train parties are being made from the Pacific Coast and from the north. And it is a prize fight that may be a fizzle, and, in any event, can go only 36 minutes of actual fighting, and some of that may even be stalling. But whatever the result, those who go will have the happiness of saying, "I was there."

Horses Reaching Hamilton.

Although the opening of the spring meeting of the Hamilton Jockey Club is over two weeks away, there are already a number of horses quartered at the track. Al Austin got in from Toronto yesterday with his string, and Fred Musante is also in Hamilton with My Dear, King John, Joan of Arc, and the rest of his horses. Fred Schelke is expected this week with twelve of the J. K. L. Ross horses, and a number of owners still quartered at the Woodbine will ship to Hamilton this week, including John Nixon, Seagram Stable, Johnny Walker, J. C. Fletcher, James Arthur, Tom Elwood, J. Smallman, Charles Crew, and T. Riddell.

Looks Like a Riot of Clouting.

Sixty-five ta[illegible]es, including 15 home runs, made in the four-game series between the Detroit and Philadelphia. American League baseball clubs have left the official scorers in a daze. A peak was also reached in base hits, 106 being clouted for 174 bases. Detroit made a total of 33 runs and 61 hits, while the Athletics scored 32 times and made 45 hits. Ten of the home runs were achieved by Philadelphia and five by Detroit. The total bases show 92 for Detroit, and 82 for the home performers. Can anyone doubt, after these figures, that the game is now only a riot of continuous clouting, too much hitting.



DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER BOUT IS THIRD CONTEST UNDER NO-DECISION RULES

FIRST SUCH BOUT WAS WILLARD-MORAN FIGHT IN WHICH, AFTER GOING TO THE LIMIT, WILLARD WON THE POPULAR VERDICT—GREAT CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHTS OF PAST FORTY YEARS.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(Associated Press).—The third bout for the world's heavyweight championship under no decision rules at a limited number of rounds will be underway when Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier square off in the Jersey City ring, July 2. The only previous title contests held under similar conditions were the Willard-Moran 10-round battle at New York, March 25, 1916, and the Willard-Dempsey contest at Toledo, July 4, 1919. The first bout went the limit, Willard gaining the popular verdict. At Toledo Dempsey knocked out his ponderous opponent in the third of the scheduled 12-round bout.

Modern ring history in the heavyweight division is considered to have begun when John L. Sullivan knocked out Paddy Ryan in nine rounds at Mississippi City, Miss., Feb. 7, 1882. Including that contest and the one in which Marvin Hart defeated Jack Root to gain the title relinquished by Jim Jeffries, there have been 24 championship bouts. The longest was that in which John L. Sullivan knocked out Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richburg, Miss.; the shortest that in which Tommy Burns stopped Bill Squires in one round at Colma, Cal., July 4, 1907.

By the average duration of these championship contests, which is a trifle under 15 rounds, Dempsey and Carpentier, scheduled for only 12 sessions, would seem likely to go the prescribed route. The length of the Sullivan-Kilrain duel, however, stretches this average, and examination of the records shows that 11 of the 23 battles have stopped short of the 12-round mark, while the most recent championship fight, in New York last December, ended with the knockout of Bill Brennan by Dempsey in the twelfth round.

Persons who wager on an official result in the Jersey City bout, can win or lose only in two events, a knockout or a disqualification on a foul. To make possible a clean-cut decision, it has been suggested that Promoter "Tex" Rickard appoint three judges who shall sit at the ringside and announce a verdict after returning to New York following the bout.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

By Frank H. SPEARMAN.

"Do you remember now?" he asked, and she thought there was resentment in the question. "If you don't," he added, "we'll let it go."

"Why, I uppos I must have said something like hat. Anyway," she added, "we'll go see them to make sure I've kept m promise. Come, Mr. Van Horn," she suggested, turning sweetly to him; "don't you want to see the ponies?" To include Van Horn it was plain to be see would spoil the trip for Laramie, but she cared little for that. "Wait just a moment," she continued. "I must tell I hn Frying Pan before I go to give the Indians something to eat."

The feeling between the two men she lef together flared up at once. "Does this m an you're going to hitch up with the cattlemen, after all?" demanded Van Horn. Laramie, who had lighted his cigarette, stood looking after Kate.

"I hitch up with nobody."

"Then don't spend your time hanging around Kate Doubleday."

"So that's where the shoe pinches?" Laramie threw away his cigarette as he spoke. "I've taken a good deal from you, Van Horn."

Van Horn egged him on unabashed. "You've got your nerve with you to show up here at all."

Doubleday, passing near the two men at that moment, heard the last exchange. He called out in his heavy, rasping voice to Van Horn: "Look here, Harry." Laramie walked away and Doubleday took Van Horn in hand. "You messed up things once with Laramie, didn't you? And you didn't get him, did you?" continued Doubleday, choking off Van Horn's words. "Now we've got him here, let me run this thing."

"I can tell you right now you won't line him up," blurted out Van Horn, very angry.

Doubleday had a way of raising his chin to override objection, and his voice grew huskier with stubbornness. "Just et me run this thing will you?"

"Do as you please," retorted Van Horn, but with a stiff expletive that irritated Barb still further. Then swinging on his heel, Van Horn marched away. Barb was so incensed he could only keep his raised finger pointed after Van Horn, and as his eyes blazed he shouted through a very fog, his profane throat scraping: "I will."

On the level stretch between the ranch house and the creek the cowboys staged after dinner a Frontier Day show and a Fourth of July celebration combined. The fun began mildly with the three-legged races and the business of the greased pig. From these diversions it proceeded to foot races, in which Indians shone, and to keenly contested pony races between cowboys, Reservation bucks, and sports from Sleepy Cat. Money was staked with freedom and differences of opinion were intensified by victory and defeat.

While the spirit ran high, rodeo riding began with the master artists of the range and the pink of American horsemanship in the saddle. In each succeeding contest the Sleepy Cat visitors, headed by Sawdy and Lefever with big, loose bunches of currency, backed their favorites freely, and men that counted nothing of caution in their makeup took the other end of every exciting event. Flushed faces and loud voices added to the rapidly shifting excitement of the scene as one event followed another, and the betting fever keenly roused called, after every possible wager had been laid, for fresh material to work on.

It was at this juncture that the shooting matches began. In a line and in a country in which many excelled in perhaps the most important regard, rivalry ran high and critics were naturally fastidious. The temptation to belittle even excellent work with rifle and revolver was, in Sawdy and Carpy, partly due to temperament. Both men were bad gamesters because they bet on feeling rather than judgment They would back a man, or the horse of a man they liked best, against a man they did not like, and often knew what it was to close the day with empty pockets.

On this Fourth of July at Doubleday's both men, as well as Lefever, had been hit by hard luck. Their free criticism of the horse racing nd the sh oting did not pass unresented, and the fact that Tom Stone and his following had most of the Sleepy Cat money while the sun was still high did not tend to temper the acerbity of their remarks.

Nothing that the crack shots of the range could do would satisfy either Sawdy or Carpy. Van Horn, himself considered an expert with rifle and gun, was master of these ceremonies, and the belittling by the Sleepy Cat sports of the best the cowboys could show nettled him. "What've you got that'll beat it?" he demanded. "Before you knock this any mor put up some better shooting."

The taun went far enough home to stir the fault finders. Sawdy and Carpy took grumpy counsel together. Presently they hunted up Laramie, who, in front of the ranch house, was talking horses with Kitchen and Doubleday. T ey told him the situation and asked for help.

"Come over to the creek and show the bunch up, Jim," was Sawdy's appeal.

The response was cold. Laramie refused to take any part in the shooting. Sawdy could not move him. In revenge he borrowed what Money Laramie had —not much in all—and went back sore. With the peeve of defeated m n, the Sleepy Cat sports called fo more horses racing to retrieve their fortunes—only to lose what money they had left and suffer fresh jeering from Van Horn and his following.

But abating in defeat and with empty pockets nothing of their confident swagger, Carpy and Sawdy, reinforced this time by Lefever—McA'pin trailing along as a mourner—headed again for the ranch house after Laramie.

They found him on a bench where h could command the fron door, talkin idly to Bill Bradley and whittling. He was there intent on waylaving Nancy, who was inside. His friends descended on him for the second time in a body. They laid their discomfiture before him. They begged him to pull them out of the hole. It was too much in the circumstances to refuse the men he counted on when he himself needed friends, but he yielded with an ill grace.

"What do you want me to do?" he demanded, finally.

They told him. He would not stand up before a target, nor would he shoot in competition with anybody else.

"I've only got a few cartridges, anyway," he objected, "and suppose when they're shot away these fellows get a fight going on me?"

It was argued that there were enough gunmen in the Sleepy Cat crowd for defensive purposes and that there was no end of available ammunition. A way was found to meet Laramie's objections on every point, and it only remained to hatch up a scheme for lightening the cattlemen's pockets.

With Carpy, Lefever, and Sawdy, Laramie sat down apart. An exchange of views tobk place. Sawdy had something in mind he had once seen Laramie achieve, and on this—and the possibility of its success—the talk centered. The feat, it was conceded, would be a stiff one. It was put up to Laramie. He consented, after some wrangling and with misgivings, to try to pull the thing for the benefit of his misguided friends The minute consent was assured, his backers hurried away n a body—McAlpin as crier, Lefever and Sawdy to raise money, and Carpy to bully Van Horn and Stone and their following.

The news that Laramie would shoot caused a stir. Not every one present had seen him shoot. His reputed mastery of rifle and gun was often in question; and no more grueling test before friends and enemies could ever be given than what he was to attempt now.

Not every one got clearly, as the talk went on, just what the trial was to be. Sawdy having reinforced his resources, announced the event as Laramie against his record—to tie or to beat.

Laramie himself unmindfu' of the controversy, held to the bench. He was still sitting there, head down and still whittling, when Bradley came to say the crowd was waiting. He asked Bradley to bring up his horse.

Kate coming out of the house drew his attention. He threw away the stick in his hand and rose.

"I hear you are going to shoot," she said.

"Can't get out of it very well, I guess."

"You wouldn't shoot the time I asked you to."

'I didn't actually refuse, did I?"

"Pretty near it."

'It's a harder case today. Your men have got all the money. My friends are broke. And they've asked me to help them out somehow. That's the only reason. If you really want to see me shoot, all you've got to do is to tell me the next time you see me."

"Oh, I'm going to see you shoot now." She looked at the gun holster slung at his left hip. "They say you are left handed."

"They've got work enough lined up today for both my hands."

Bradley returned with the horse and climbed awkwardly down from the saddle Laramie tried the cinches and turned to Kate.

"Are you ready?" she asked.

"Just about."

"You try the cinches; I should think you'd want to try your gun."

"I tried that this morning before I left home. All I've got to do before I begin is to slip an extra cartridge into the cylinder."

Leading his pony, Laramie, clinging to the talk as long as he could, walked with Kate toward the creek.

Leaving her on a slight rise, where he told her he thought she could see, he got into the saddle and rode down to where the crowd had assembled.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT.

The Raid of the Falling Wall.

ON a stretch of the trail extending along the creek, John Frying Pan, under the direction of Sawdy and Van Horn, was placing at intervals of from fifty to one hundred and fifty yards a series of targets. These were ordinary potatoes, but selected with great care as to size and shape by the man whose money was up—Sawdy. Frying Pan's work was to impale them on low-growing scrub along the trail to serve as targets. Against these targets—six in number—Laramie was to undertake to r de and to split five out of six and no more bullets. The potatoes were up when Laramie joined Sawdy, and Lefever, with leather lungs, announced the terms of the tests. Accompanied by Sawdy, Van Horn, and Frying Pan, Laramie rode slowly down the course—a quarter of a mile long—examining the roadway and the targets. Here and there a loose stone was removed from the trail; one potato was moved from a dip in the course to a safer point; one was raised, and one placed more clearly in sight.

Having ridden to the end, Laramie expressed himself as satisfied with the conditions. Alone, he went back over the course and, starting down the creek, made a trial heat at full speed past the targets. One of these, at his request, was shifted again. While he watched this chance Sawdy and Lefever, surrounded by their followers, were crowding him as race touts crowds a favorite jockey with the final words of admonition and advice. When the target was adjusted Laramie, breaking away from everybody, returned alone to the starting point. Dismounting, and taking his time to everything, he again tested his cinches, drew his gun from its holster and, breaking it, slipped a sixth cartridge into the cylinder. Slipping the gun back into place, he pulled his hat a little lower, glanced down the course and up toward the little hill on which he had parted from Kate. She was standing where he left her. While she listened to him she watched the preparations below.

Laramie spoke to his pony, patted him on the neck, and mounted. Wheeling, he swung out into a wide circle across the level bench and, with gradually increasing speed, into a measured gallop. Molded into one flesh with his mount, Laramie, impressive in the saddle as a statue, watched and nursed to his liking the pony's gait. When the rhythm suited he urged the horse to a longer stride and, circling back into the course, drew his gun, held it high in the air and swinging it slowly like a lariat, bore dow full tilt on the first target.

Markers for both sides in the betting stood to watch each potato. No signal would mean the potato had been missed; for each hit a hat was to be thrown into the air. In a complete silence among the spectators every eye was fixed on the now speeding horseman. Those close at hand saw him, with his left arm still high in the air, sway slightly backward and slowly forward while, with the circling gun poised at arm's length, he shrank closer and lower into the saddle. When he neared the first target, throwing his left arm toward it like a bolt, he fired, sped on, and was again swinging his gun. He had hardly covered six more paces before a hat was tossed into the air behind him.

A yell went up from his friends. Horsemen wheeled into the course behind the flying marksmen. With five potatoes still to negotiate, they were afraid to cheer. But as one hat after another along the shooting line—the second, the third, and the fourth—was tossed up from the target behind the speeding horsemen the Sleepy Cat men bellowed with joyful confidence. The fifth target was of unusual distance—an hundred and fifty yards—from the fourth. Leaving the fourth Laramie's horse broke and the onlookers saw his ride was in trouble. He kept the swing of his gun without breaking the rhythm, but his efforts were in his bridle arm to steady his horse.

The hopes of his backers fell as they saw how stubborn the pony had become. The hundred and fifty yards were barely enough to bring him under control. Laramie, still circling his raised gun, did bring him under. But he was already nearing the fifth target. And, to the horror of his friends, he passed it without attempting to fire.

Of the two chances left him to tie—which meant to win—he had passed up one; the sixth and last meant life or death to the shaken hopes of his friends.

They saw him settled once more into the long, even stride he needed for the shot, and their breaths hung on each flying leap that brought the rider nearer his last chance. The sixth target was separated by barely fifty yards from the fifth. Laramie had covered half the distance when he completely reversed his form. He stretched gradually up in the saddle and, riding close in on the target itself, rose to his full height in the stirrups and smashed his fifth shot almost straight down on it; the potato split into a dozen fragments. Bill Bradley at the sixth was watching for Sawdy; his hat sailed twenty feet in the air. The yelling crowd rode Laramie down as he galloped in a long circle back, his lines swung on his forearm while he slipped four fresh cartridges into the warm cylinder of his revolver.

He dismounted to ease his cinches. "I guess I overdid it," he explained to the friends that crowded closest. "I got the cinches a little tight. The pony didn't like it. I couldn't get the gait in time for the Number Five. I knew I could make Number Six. That won for you, didn't it?"

Remounting, he made his way through the crowd back over the course. Kate was still on the hill. "You won, didn't you?" she cried as he rode toward her.

"If I hadn't I'd have had to head straight across the creek for home. Could you see?"

"I watched you the whole way. What a long arm you have!"

"While these tinhorns are counting their money would you like to show me the ponies?"

"You have a long memory, too."

"I was brought up a good deal with Indians. Shall I hunt up Van Horn to go with us?"

She darted a quick glance at him. "Why, yes, surely," she retorted, "if you want him."

Laramie was tearing out a cigarette paper. "I could look at them without him," he returned calmly.

"I don't see him, anyway," murmured Kate, professing to sweep the crowded course with her eyes.

"Don't look too hard," cautioned Laramie.

"I suppose we might save time," she suggested, ignoring his last remark, "by going without him."

Those closest to headquarters sometimes know least of what is going on. That the big celebration at the ranch could have been anything more or less than what it professed to be did not occur to Kate; nor could any one actually say that it was more or less. Hawk could contemptuously refuse its overtures; Laramie could, for reasons of his own, accept them; the Falling Wall rustlers were out for a good time or they would not have been rustling, and they would celebrate any time at anybody's expense—except their own; Carpy could believe it was to usher in a better feeling—every one to his taste.

But the suspicious, because they did not quite understand such a move, harbored their suspicions, and among the doubting was Belle Shockley—shrewd an and very much alive to the drift of things since her struggle with a cyclone. Had Belle, instead of Kate, been out at the ranch, things now coming along that Kate failed to see would have told volumes to her.

But Kate did not feel at liberty to make of Belle a confidante in everything—certainly not in wha ranspired at the ranch; so she neither said anything to Belle nor asked of her any explanation of things she did not unders and at home—such as guarded and more frequent consultations between her father, Van Horn, Pettigrew, and Ston ; and such as men riding up with a clatter to the ranch-house at night and calling Doubleday out and calling for Van Horn, who often now spent the night at the ranch and left before daybreak.

Whenever Kate was in Sleepy Cat Belle was inquisitive. She always wanted to know what Van Horn was doing, what her father was doing, and then fell back on vaguely general questions about ranches and the range and hrustlers. More than once she spoke of strangers in town, Texas men—cowboys and gunmen, she called them—who bothered her for meals and whom she scornefully sent packing.

And Henry Sawdy, too, one of her frequent visitors, was trying to court her, she complained; a'l this made her suspicious. Of whom? Of what? Kate asked. Belle could not tell exactly of whom—of what—she was just suspicious. "Why should that big fat man come courting me?" she demanded one day when Kate had come in for lunch.

"You don't think it possible he likes you?" suggested Kate, barely glancing Belle's way and taking care to make her tone very skeptical. Belle only snorted contemptuously and turned to the dinner she was cooking; but as she did so she gave her wig a punch.

By the merest chance John Lefever came in a few minutes later. Belle and Kate were at the table, and he had to be asked to share the lunch, which he did with relish, paying his way with his usual foolery of overflowing good nature. When the plates were emptied John turned his amiable face on Kate. "How are you all at the home?"

"Very well."

"What's the news up your way?"

"Not a thing since the Fourth of July."

"That's a good while ago. Father pretty well?"

"Quite."

"When did you see him last?"

It was an odd question. "Last night—why?" asked Kate in turn.

"He didn't come in town with you today?" countered John.

"He rarely does," said Kate.

John nodded soothing assent to her explanation. "How's Van Horn?" he ed with undiminished interest. "All well,' was his echo to her perfunctory answers. "Say, Belle, was Jim Laramie in town yesterday?"

Belle shook her head. "How about the day before?" he asked. Again she said "No," and went on with an impatient comment of her own: "You're always asking questions. What for? That's what I want to know."

John laid his cigarette on the rim of his plate and appealed to Kate. "Did you ever in your life see a more unreasonable woman than Belle? How am I to find things out without asking questions of my friends? And among them I number you both," he added.

Leaning forward, he spoke on: "Now, I'll tell you why I asked those harmless little questions—for I wouldn't ask either of you any other kind. This news will get to each of you about evening. By morning it will be all over Sleepy Cat, and by tomorrow noon across the Spanish Sinks. This morning, early, Van Horn, Tom Stone, Pettigrew, with Bradley and a bunch of Texas men and cowboys, rode over into the Falling Wall country and there's been hell to pay there every minute since daylight—that's the word I got about half an hour ago, by telephone, from a little ranch away up on the headwaters of the Crazy Woman."

He drew his handkerchief and wiped hi his brow. "The only man up there—Belle knows that—that I'm any ways interested in is Jim Laramie. According to what I can hear, Jim is home. That's worrying me just a little.

"What will Jim do? That's what I'm thinking of. How will he stack up if that bunch goes to his ranch on the Turkey? He hates 'em like poison. They've gone up there, you understand,' he added, speaking to Kate, as if some further explanation were due a comparative stranger, "to clean out the rustlers. You can imagine it'll be done—or at least attempted—without much talks I've known for some little time what' been going forward. They tried to get Jim to join them; offered him about anything he wanted; offered to see that the contsets on his preemption and homestead be withdrawn; offered him quite a bunch of cattle, I heard, and some money."

"And," John added, "that was hatched mostly right at your place. And they rode away from there about two o'clock this morning. That's why I was pumping you a little, till I see you didn't know a thing about it."

Why Kate had not asked before she could not tell, but the possibility never crossed her mind—until Lefever told her of their starting from the ranch that morning—that her father might have gone. The recollected now she had not seen him, as she usually saw him, the first thing when she came from her room. Her heart leaped into her throat. "Was my father with them?" she asked.

She must have shown her excitement and fear in her manner, as well as in her words, for Lefever looked at her considerately. "According to my reports," he answered carefully, "your father was with them."

"Godfrey!" muttered Belle. Kate could say nothing.

Against the alert the effective blow is a sudden blow. Secrecy and a surprise were the only hope of success in what the cattlemen were now attempting in the Falling Wall. Of the men whom they could count on to organize and carry through such a raid they had just one capable of energizing every detail—Harry Van Horn. Laramie, the man Doubleday and Pettigrew would have chosen, they had failed to enlist. But Doubleday in especial was not a man to lose time over failure. He knew that Van Horn had "go" enough in him to clean out a whole country if he were given the men and backing, and that he stood high in the councils of the range. When Van Horn spoke men listened. His eye flashed with his words and his long, straight hair shook defiance at opposition. When once started, mercy was not in him.

In the Falling Wall park there lived but a handful of men, and these widely scattered, but Van Horn was the last man to underestimate the handful he was after. He knew them every one, and knew that no better men ever rode the range than Stormy Gorman, Dutch Henry, Yankee Robinson, and Dave Hawk, and their associates—if, indeed, for a man who never mixed with other men, Hawk could be said to have associates.

But these four named were the men to whom the lesser rustlers of the park looked, the men whose exploits they imitated, and these were the men on whose heads a price had, in effect, been set.

Van Horn assembled his men earlier than Lefever had been told. An old trail from Doubleday's ranch to the Falling Wall crosses the road to the fort some miles north of Sleepy Cat. The party from the ranch—Tom Stone, with some of the most reckless cowboys and Doubleday—waited there for the Texans whom Van Horn was bringing from Pettigrew's. Both parties were at the rendezvous that night by twelve o'clock, and within thirty minutes were headed north by way of the Crazy Woman for Falling Wall park.

Dawn was whitening the eastern sky when the raiding party halted near a clump of trees on the south fork of the Turkey. The valley into which they had ridden during the night was very broken, but offered good grazing. Along the tortuous water course Stormy Gorman, the old prize fighter, and Dutch Henry, the ex-soldier, had preempted two of the very few pieces of land that did not stand directly on edge and built cabins for themselves. Gorman's cabin lay a mile above the fork where the raiders had halted; Henry's lay a few miles further up the creek.

During the long night ride it had been decided to strike at Gorman's ranch first; thence to follow the creek trail up to Dutch Henry's, dispatch him in turn, to cross rapidly a narrow rough divide beyond which they could reach Hawk's cabin on the east fork of the Turkey, and thence sweep into the northwest to clean out the smaller fry—the "chicken feed" rustlers, as Van Horn called them. But toward morning, following much wrangling between Stone and Van Horn, the tactics were changed. It was decided to go after Dutch Henry first—as the more alert and slippery of the two—and as quietly as possible the now silent invaders rode slowly along the creek past Gorman's place up to Henry's.

Day was breaking when the riders, dismounting and leaving their horses on the creek bottom, crept noiselessly, under Stone's guidance, up a wash to the bench on which Henry's cabin stood. Hiding just below the shallow bank at the head of a draw, they lay awaiting developments. Where Stone had posted them they commanded the cabin perfectly.

They had hardly disposed of themselves in this manner, and were beginning to distinguish, in the gray dusk, objects with some certainty, when the door of the distant cabin opened and a mongrel collie bounded out, followed by a man who left the door half open behind him. The man, carrying a water pail, set it down, yawned, stretched himself, and tucked his shirt slowly inside his trousers. Wild with joy, the dog danced, leaped, and barked about his master—only to be rewarded by a kick that sent him yelping to a little distance, where, turning, crouching with extended paws, whining and frantically wagging his tail, the poor beast tried to beg forgiveness for its half-starved happiness. The man giving this demonstration no heed, picked up the pail and started for the creek.

His path took him in a direction roughly parallel to the line which his hidden enemy lay.

"Don't fire at that man," muttered Van Horn to his companions under cover of the draw. "That's not Dutch Henry," he whispered the next moment. "Don't fire. I'll take care of him."

The rustler, quite unconscious of his deadly danger, tramped unevenly on. His dog, no longer repulsed, dashed joyously back and forth, scenting the trails of the night and barking wildly at his master by turns. The man was walking hardly 300 yards from where Stone, rifle in hand, lay, and had reached the footpath leading from the bench to the creek bottom when Stone, half rising covered him slowly with point blank sights. In the path ahead the dog had struck a fresh gopher hole, and, still yelping, was pawing madly into it when a rifle cracked. The man with the pail, swung violently half around by the shock of a spreading bullet, jerked convulsively, and the pail flew clattering from his hand. He struggled an instant to keep his footing, then, falling into the path, lay quite still.

SECOND ASSEMBLY OF LEAGUE MEETS IN SEPTEMBER; PROPOSED COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE ON AGENDA

CANADA'S AMENDMENT TO CONTENTIOUS ARTICLE TEN, REDUCTION OF ARMAMENTS, AND SOUTH AMERICAN MEDIATION ALSO ON PROGRAMME.

GENEVA, June 11.—(Associated Press.)—The most important single problem that will be considered at the Second Assembly of the League of Nations called for September 5, is the establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

The statutes of the court which were adopted by the First Assembly have been signed by 33 states and are in process of ratification by members of the League.

While this is regarded as the most important subject, the provincial programme of the meeting which has just been distributed to all governments which are members of the League, consists of 25 items. Among them are amendments to the Covenant, the reduction of armaments, the request of Bolivia for mediation in her dispute with Chili, and the appointment of four non-permanent members of the Council.

Reports will be received from technical organizations of the League such as those dealing with the suppression of the opium traffic, the traffic in women and children, communications and transit, international health, registration of treaties, the economic blockade and the allocation of expenditures of the League.

RUMOURS OF THE CENSUS

A WOMAN'S AGE IS NOT A FACT; IT IS MERELY A MATTER OF OPINION—TEN MILLION NAMES AN ESTIMATE OF THE NEW ROLL CALL.

(By J. C. PEARSON)

The census is a recurring decimal. It takes place every ten years. The census must not be confused with the censor. He takes plays every year. He also bans them, hence he may be described as freedom's banner. He has to face the music sometimes—that is when, in spite of his orders, the banned begins to play. This is a digression, but digression is necessary in connection with the census. You cannot take a census without wandering from one subject to another. It is estimated that there will be fully ten million subjects described in the volume of the census. The census returns are taken for reason of State; there are various reasons of States, and there are various states of reason. Therefore, let us return to the census.

The census papers are called schedules. This seems a hard name, but they are called worse by those who have to fill them up. The census is a game which is played with counters. They are called enumerators, which sounds less common and bigger, but they are only counters. Therefore, they need not be so proud, and they need not think they are the only people that count. They are all bound under great penalties, not to divulge the information they obtain. Hence, it is supposed that none of them will be "enumeratresses." It is rumoured that by way of protest several militant supporters of the "Votes for Women" movement will suffer themselves to be cast into dungeons rather than reveal, at the bidding of mere man, their ages and "conditions as to marriage."

It is not necessary to fill up your census papers correctly. If, for instance, you are a married man, you will nevertheless describe yourself as "head of the family" though perfectly aware you are only related to her by marriage.

If her mother happens to be staying with you, it will be your duty and pleasure, on this one occasion, to put her down. You will also have to ascertain her age. You may likewise, if you think fit, ask her advice as to what entry you shall make in regard to yourself, under the heading of "Conditions as to Marriage."

This is the portion of the census paper which offers most scope to a conscientious married man. But as the authorities allow the inadequate space of two inches by three-quarters of an inch under this heading, the particulars cannot be given with that fullness which so important an enquiry seems to deserve.

It is not only the married man who is injured by this thoughtlessness on the part of the officials, but there are also lady occupiers who are spinsters who may wish to insert many conditions. On the other hand, there are widows who may not wish to insert any conditions at all.

There are seven ages. They are pupilage, underage, overage, marriage, parentage, shrinkage and dotage. Shakespeare has described the seven ages of man. He did not attempt to enumerate the ages of women. He knew that his descriptive powers were unequal to such a task. The census enumerators have to do it. It is announced that the "sole end and purpose of the census is to obtain facts." A woman's age is not a fact—it is often the reverse. It is not a matter of arithmetic and calculation—it is merely a matter of opinion.

This will be the 6th census which has taken place in Canada. Few people survive more than ten. The effect of taking the census has not, however, been as injurious to the constitution as was originally contemplated. So far as a modern census is concerned, the more liberties people take with their papers, the more chance there is of profanity on the part of the enumerators. It is estimated that half of the papers will be filled up incorrectly(and that most of the rest will be filled up illegibly—people are very liable to get out of practice in the space of ten years.

But they might do better if they tried. There should be a spirit of give and take in this matter. Most people's idea on this subject is to give as much trouble as possible and to take as little.

And you won't be told that you need a new battery until all hope for the old one is gone. That's the Prest-O-Lite code of ethics on which the tremendous Prest-O-Lite business was built, and on which it will be maintained.

Go, therefore, with confidence that the Prest-O-Lite Service Man will give you his expert and honest opinion. If your battery is strong and healthy, he won't recommend medicine. Prest-O-Lite struck the "vice" out of "advice".

When you do need a new battery, you'll be glad to know that Prest-O-Lite is back to pre-war prices and that an allowance will be made on your old battery.

READ "THE EXAMINER"

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With your kind permission I would like to ask the vendors of several lines of food and other commodities, mentioned below, to explain to the public why it is that we have to pay nearly war-time prices for these commoditiss, while nearby towns are selling much cheaper—meats, bread, milk, butter, paints. As an example, wholesale beef and pork products are down to almost pre-war prices, but still the retail prices of these commodities have been reduced very little, if any.

It is a well-known fact that prices are a good deal less in the city of Toronto than in Peterborough. I think rents and taxes are as high there as here. Bread is selling in Belleville and Port Hope at 4 cents per loaf cheaper than in Peterborough. Wheat is about one-third the price it was during war-time, but bread has not been reduced correspondingly. Nearly every concern in trade and commerre has had to accept losses. The manufacturer reduced his prices, the wholesaler his, labor has taken a reduction in wages, and labor would certainly like to see the result followed up where it touches the hardest, namely, the buying power of the dollar.

It looks as if the retailers are not meeting the situtions fairly in order to bring about better conditions in trade and commerce. For instance, take paint. A Toronto firm can sell ready mixed paint at $2.69 per gal. delivered in Peterborough. The retailers here will deliver it at $5.75 per gal. Some difference!

I think it only needs a strike on the part of the buying public to bring prices down. Perhaps the vendors of bread and meat will explain to the public why they are charging such prices when the commodities are selling in other places at a good deal less. Why has not the retail prices been reduced same amount as the wholesale prices that the farmer has been forced to accept for his cattle, his pigs, his milk and his wheat? The farmer gets about from 15 to 18 cents for wool, but it would take a small drove of sheep to buy a suit of all-wool clothes. The farmer gets from 7 to 10 cents per lb. for his cowhides, but it would almost take the hide and carcass to buy a pair of boots. Thirty years ago I bought hides at 18 to 20 cents per lb. and we thought $3.00 a big price for a pair of boots.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am,

Yours truly,
W. FAIR.

GENERAL ELECTION HANGS ON OUTCOME

Six By-Elections This Year Will Have Serious Effect.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—After the rush of the Parliamentary session this week in Cabinet circles is being devoted to a clean-up of departmental matters prior to a vacation period for the Ministers. The Prime Minister and Hon. Dr. Tolmie are en route for England, while Messrs. Ballantyne and Guthrie will leave for there June 21. Several others are planning shorter trips.

It is now accepted that there will be no further bye-elections before the early autumn, apart from the one in Medicine Hat, where nominations take place next Monday with voting a fortnight later. Necessarily anything in the line of Cabinet reconstruction will be deferred till autumn.

Six Bye-Elections.

Political picnics will be the order of the day during the summer with special attention to the rural ridings. All the parties are arranging a number of them and also preparing the organization for the bye-elections. The six vacant seats are Leeds and Brockville, West York and Durham in Ontario; St. Antione's Division of Montreal; Maple Creek in Saskatchewan, and Medicine Hat in Alberta.

That their outcome will in large measure determine the question of another session or a general election is little doubted in political circles. Hon. T. A. Crerar has left for Winnipeg and Hon. Mackenzie King is in Ottawa.

Whether Athletics are Injurious To Girls Arouses Controversy In Britain; Start "Anti" Campaign

LONDON, June 9.— (Associated Press.)—A campaign in the interests of mother hood and against the ill-effects alleged to result from girls going in for athletics has been started here.

A resolution was passed at a meeting of managers of girls' schools and of women who claimed to have made a study of physical culture protesting against the present system of physical education for girls as injurious to future generations. A small committee was formed to draw up and circulate a manifesto on the subject.

Several letters favoring the movement were read. Sir James Crichton-Browne, author of books on mental and nervous diseases, wrote: "Physical exercise and training are as necessary to girls as to boys, but these must have regard to physiological and development considerations. To ignore sexual differences is to court disaster in the long run."

"Women who develop masculine instead of femine instincts," wrote Dr. Arabella Kenealy, "do this at the cost of the male potential which is transmitted by the father to the daughter in trust for the male line. Athletic women produce female offspring mainly and seldom have sons. When sons are born to them, they are apt to be puny and delicate, or generally emasculate or of inferior type. The cultured classes, who are mainly afflicted by athletic training, are failing to provide sons of the fine physique and the manly talents and initiative which have set our Anglo-Saxon race in the van of evolution."

Miss Cowdray, the principal of a girls' high school, who moved the resolution of protest, said that the girls who had been trained to play hockey, cricket and football suffered at childbirth. Sometimes the child suffered, sometimes the mother and sometimes one of them died. Eighty per cent. of the girls she had known who had been trained to become gymnastic mistresses had been incapacitated for motherhood.

A girl had a large store of vital and nervous energy which she could draw upon if normally developed at the great criss of motherhood. That strength was a deposit account, but if she used it a current account, as a boy could afford to do, her children would pay the bill. She believed that the Victorian girl was a better mother than the modern athletic girl.

Miss Radmar, director of the d-Egville Micheau School of Physical Development, said that the feet were the only part of a girl's body that need be made strong. A woman's body should be elastic and strong chests and big muscles meant inelastic chests and bodies. Drill apparatus should be done away with.

Mrs. Roger Watts pleaded for the teaching of poise. "Let us go back to the Greeks," she said, "to the system which was the most wonderful ever known."

Auxiliary Classes For Mental Defectives In Windsor Schools

Mrs. W. R. Morris, during her recent visit to Windsor and other cities, made a survey of some of the school conditions in these centres. In Windsor, a system which has had a six months' trial with great success, is that of auxiliary classes for mental defectives. The Board of Education there has bought a small cottage, where a class of girls is being taught, and intend to install a like system for the boys in September. Special training and summer courses in this class of work is supplied by the Department, and the teacher must possess certain personal characteristics, be of fine character, interested in the work and not easily discouraged at the necessarily slow progress, as it is possible to teach only one thing at a time to such children. The class is limited to 16, so that each one may get the individual attention required. Nothing it attempted with unteachable children, but selection is made of extreme cases in the teachable group, as these require the most help and also are most detrimental to the normal children of the class. This is what is called, in Departmental terms, the "educable" group. The object of these auxiliary classes is to remove the child from a class-room where they cannot help but feel unhappy on account of their marked mental inferiority to their compantons, and also to remove their influence from the normal children whose progress is retarded by their presence.

In this cottage, which is equipped with class-rooms and playgrounds, and a kitchen equipped for cooking, the children are drilled in desirable personal habits, they are fitted for association with normal people, and are given a certain foundation in reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic, with a knowledge of simple cooking and the care of utensils, they are taught to play with others in the proper way, instead of, as one little girl was in the habit of doing, always knocking her little playmates down, and they often become very proficient in weaving and darning, —Qfithvsetfipivp cse flu. aics .dc et useful work, carrying with it a certain mental development. These simple occupations, and the learning of how to live in a group, are of wonderful benefit to the befogged little minds, which perhaps may never go beyond the elementary work in any subject, and yet will find in this elementary work a simple happiness and contentment which would be impossible in the larger class-rooms, where the subjects necessarily taught are far beyond their ken, where their own time is often mis-spent and where their example is undoubtedly detrimental to the sensitive mind of the growing child of normal development.

Missionary Society Adopts New Plan

A well-attended meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held in Tuesday afternoon last, when a large gathering of the members assembled at St. Andrew's church at half-past two o'clock, where motors were waiting to take them to Mrs. Bert Sanderson's house on the Chemong road. Miss Craw had charge of the meeting, which was very successful from every point of view. Mrs. Harris, of London, gave an interesting, informative address on missionary work, and a delightful programme was rendered, with refreshments at the conclusion. The object of these country meetings is to stimulate further interest in missionary work in the rural districts, and they are made possible by the convenient travel afforded in late years by motor cars.

Thirteen Mistakes

Here are what Presiding Judge Paul J. McCormick, of San Francisco, has announced as "Thirteen Mistakes in Life":

To attempt to set up your own standard of right and wrong.

To expect uniformity of opinions in this world.

To fail to make allowance for inexperience.

To endeavour to mould all disposition alike.

Not to yield to unimportant trifles.

To look for perfection in our own actions.

To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.

Not to help everybody, wherever, however, and whenever we can.

To consider anything impossible that we cannot ourselves perform.

To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

Not to make allowance for the weaknesses of others.

To estimate by some outside quality when it is that within which makes the man.

BABY MOSS.

"Owes her robust health to Virol."

Cranfield,
50, St. Albans Road,
Moseley, Birmingham.
Gentlemen, Aug. 20, 1920.
Enclosed you will find photograph of my daughter at 17 months old. I think you will agree that she is a splendid testimony to the value of Virol as a body builder. From early days Virol has been added to her milk food, and I am quite sure that she owes her robust health to this addition.
I have many times recommended Virol and in every case there has been improvement in general health, rapid growth and easy assimilation of food.
Believe me to be,
Yours faithfully,
(Signed) GEO. MOSS.

Virol is used in large quantities in more than 2,000 Hospitals and Infant Clinics. It is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilising of milk; it is also a bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

Camp which is to be situated at Stoney Lake, near Burleigh Falls, from the 30th of June until the end of August.

On Sunday afternoon, June 12th, a short out-door service will be held at Jackson Park at 4.30 p.m.; on Monday evening, announcements will be made at the different churches to the young peoples' societys meeting that evening; on Tuesday afternoon and evening, a camp shower will be held at the Y.W.C.A. with a tea-room in connection, and a programme of music and fun; Wednesday evening will be 'stunt' night for girls and their mothers, when a very jolly time is anticipated; Thursday evening will be girls' swimming night, only those being able to swim and possessing a physician's certificate being admitted; and a picnic down the river will be held on Friday afternoon. Altogether, a very enjoyable Campers' Week is looked for, and the co-operation of all interested in the camp is requested.

City Barriers

"The civilisation of ancient Greece was nurtured within city walls. In fact, all the modern civilisations have their cradles of brick and mortar.

"These walls leave their mark deep in the minds of men. They set up a principle of 'divide and rule' in our mental outlook, which begets in us a habit of securing all our conquests by fortifying them and separating them from one another. We divide nation and nation, knowledge and knowledge, man and nature. It breeds in us a strong suspicion of whatever is beyond the barriers we have built, and everything has to fight hard for its entrance into our recognition."—Tagore.

FOUR CRIMINAL CASES, BELLEVILLE.

BELLEVILLE, June 10.—Four criminal cases have been entered for trial at the June sessions next week before County Judge Deroche.

James Alexander of Madoc is accused of assaulting a man named Carswell, causing him grevious bodily harm.

M. Cameron of Bancroft has been committed for trial on a serious charge.

Wm. McDonald and Harriet Leveck face a charge of assault.

Wm. Robinson is charged with breach of Section 223 of the Criminal Code.

The civil list will be heavy.

Stevenson's Last Prayer

"Behold us with favor, folk of many families and nations; gathered together in the peace of this room. Weak men and women, subsisting under the covert of Thy patience, be patient still. Suffer us yet a while longer, with our broken purposes of good, with our idle endeavor against evil.

"Bless to us our extraordinary mercies; if the day come when these must be taken, brace us to play the man under affliction. Call us up with morning faces and with morning hearts, eager to labor, eager to be happy, if happiness shall be our portion, and, if the day be marked for sorrow, strong to endure."

Practical Notes

Before making up a cotton dress, it's a simple matter to shrink the material and set the colour both at the same time.

Common table salt dissolved in cod water is quite capable of setting the colour in gingham or chambray or voile or any wash fabric. About a cupful of salt dissolved in enough water to thoroughly wet and cover the goods is the proportion to use. Let the cloth stand in the solution for several hours. Wring carefully to avoid wrinkles and dry in the shade.

This process at the same time shrinks the material.

When preparing hamburger steak add a cupful of cooked oatmeal to a pound of the meat; it does not lessen its attractiveness or its nourishment, but it does decrease the cost, as it goes much farther in serving. A little scraped onion and a pinch of cloves will vary the usual seasoning of salt and pepper.

In cleaning white enamelled frames or furniture, use a soft cloth wet with clear turpentine, then polish with a clean cloth. This will remove dirt and the spots without injuring the polish as soap and water does. Dark wooden frames, brackets, or furniture should be washed with lukewarm water and white soap, then dried, after which it may be polished with any of the reliable furniture polishes. A little camphor and oil mixed will restore table tops if not too badly defaced.

A fine shield from the hot sun when reading, working in the garden or resting, is a large umbrella tied to the handle of a pitchfork. The fork is stuck into the ground anywhere you wish, and you are left in the shade.

Judging from the divorce court records, even the holy bonds of matrimony are sadly below par.—Detroit Free Press.

Fashions In Sport Clothes

Flannel is one of the favourite materials for summer in the realm of sports clothes. Cream is most stylish of all, but stripes in tangerine and grey and white, lime yellow, grey and white, blue, grey and white, or plain colours in Belgique, hydroplane, and Saxe blue, amethyst, rose, and grey, are all good.

Luvisca, which hails from England and is made of artificial silk and cotton, is described as being ideal for golf skirts, for tailored blouses, for tub frocks, and comes in all manner of stripes, in blue, rose, orchid green, tan, and black and white.

Cream wool jersey, baronette satin, cotton gabardine, ratine, and something new in an uncrushable cotton chenille, both decorative and practical, which comes in plaid and block patterns, or clear blues, rose, and browns, are materials for the sports skirt.

Linen suits with long coats, which come in white, in rose, blue, grey, and natural, separate coats in wool jersey, in broadcloth, in satin and in velvet hats in felt, in ratine and in brocaded cotton chenille, in all sorts of bright and dark shades, are some of the items in the summer wardrobe of the sport lover.

"Swat the Fly"

"Swat the Fly" is the slogan for the summer months, and already these hateful little pests are making our acquaintance with their usual early-season vigour. Soon we will be fishing them out of the milk-jug shooing them away from the jam-pot, and making their lives miserable by our efforts to scare them from the sugar-basin. The majority of people do not realise the grave risks entailed in allowing flies to obtain access to their food. The little winged insects carry infection from stables, rubbish heaps, and slaughter-houses. Cholera, dysentery and typhoid fever may often be traced to the common house fly by its presence on our food, and thus to ourselves. Thousands of infants die annually from epidemic diarrhoea which may be traced back directly to the presence of flies in milk or other food.

Here are some recommendations which have been given tor anyone to put into practice:

Unearth those "swatters" which have lain idle since last October.

Buy flypapers and festoon them around the kitchen.

Fix gauze nets over the pantry windows.

Cover up all food, cooked or uncooked, liquid or solid, with muslin gauze.

Use any and every method of protection which your brain can devise.

THE PASSING OF AUTOCRACY

(By F. H. DOBBIN.)

One by one the ancient landmarks disappear. Such progress and improvement as the city makes in the business section must necessarily call for the demolition of buildings erected in the years that are past, or in making alterations in such as now standing, and so lend themselves to modification or enlargement. This has come about in the last thirty years. Very many of the store buildings along the frontages of George street have been radically altered. While, fortunately, there has not been a sweeping fire as would lay in wreckage a half block, as did come about in the days of the wooden structure, several have gone up in flames, to be replaced by much more commodious and suitable structures.

Lost Their Identity.

The Turnbull building, the fine store of the Neill Co., the Royal Theatre are examples of replacements. That of the Royal Bank premises shows an example where the identity of the building as it stood for many years has almost been lost, the alterations having changed in marked extent the appearance of the property. The Dominion Bank is another instance of the rejuvenation of the lower or ground floor for the better. Among the new structures, the Barrie building and the latest addition, the Capitol Theatre, are fully up to the best metropolitan ideas and arrangements. Now we have the changes being made, and watched with large interest, in the corner at George and Hunter streets, the premises occupied so long by the Bank of Toronto.

Mr. Chas. McClelland has kindly loaned use of the photographs from which the cuts accompanying this article were made. The first, in succession shows the old building, erected on the corner of George and Hunter streets by Thomas Harper in the early forties of the last century. The photograph is a very old one, and the year in which it was made, or taken, is marked on it as being 1866. The group of men on the sidewalk contains several who can be identified by aid of a strong glass.

The second cut shows the building afterwards erected on the site and which came later on into the hands of James Stevenson. The corner was at once (1870) occupied by John McClelland, so long one of our citizens and a prominent man in civic life. At the time of building the plate-glass windows were to be the largest in one sheet of any on the street, but Mr. McClelland, fearful of breakage, had the glass come in two pieces for watch window and a brass bar placed at the joint. The group about the door can easily be identified (1885). From right to left, Chas. Cameron, Mr. Sabine (who kept and carried on a boarding school for girls), John McCelland (standing in the doorway), George Payton (behind) and Mr. O'Brien (at the left). The store front shows as practically as it has appeared for the last fifty years.

Banks Have Advantage.

Banks have this advantage over the average builder of business properties. The bank can get its money at three per cent., using the cash of the depositors, while the merchant, if he borrow, has to pay double that rate. So banks generally erect substantial buildings, even in smaller centres. In larger cities the investment from contingent rentals pays a good revenue. But in a place like Peterborough there is one disadvantage, that at night the outlines of the interior are only dimly perceptible by one small electric light. The merchant plays up to the observer on the street, and a very good advertisement is. People coming to Peterborough make most energtic and favorable comment on the beauty of the window dressing and the brightness and brilliancy of our leading stores. No city in Canada excels in that respect, and mighty few equal, if at all. But the bank is sombre, secluded, and the gap in the general illumination is to be regretted. Let the suggestion be made, and if advisable have the official seal attached to give it the force of a by-law that when occupied the newly-equipped premises be lighted with much brilliancy at night, up to a reasonable strolling hour, and the general illumination be an example to other banks inside and outside the city. For in banking, as in other activities, we are advised on excellent authority to 'Let our light so shine before men that they may see, etc., etc.,"

Features of Corner.

As all buildings stand on sites, it may be of interest to note something of the features of this corner, now in the very heart of the business part of the city. During the first few years of the settlement property and town lots in the future town were a drug on the market. Hon. Peter Robinson had the disposal of these lots at an upset price of $30.00 each. The site now occupied by the Lock Works factory, from the creek to that occupied by the Knights of Columbus building, was sold for $30.00, and counted a good sale, for the creek was very irresolute as to keeping within bounds. In a similar way, lots along George street, on the east side, from about where the store of Jas. Connal stands, to Hooper's store, were comparatively valueless. The ground level was about seven feet below present grade, just a swampy section into which the neighborhood drained, to overflow and find an outlet to the creek flowing across the street and by way of the ground covered by the old Oriental Hotel.

Lots Given Away.

Many of these lots were given away, practically, or in lieu of services rendered, and presently changed hands for very trifling consideration. So among other property the ground on which the Bank of Toronto building now stands, together with the frontages on George street as far as Smith's store and on Hunter street to the Higgin's hardware store, were offered to Robert Reid of Douro as a gift. Mr. Reid declined to have any such keepsake foisted on him, regarding the lands as being worthless. In a few years after Thomas Harper took over the group of lots, engaging to pay for the same and tendering a fanning mill as good and sufficient recompense. The offer was accepted. He put up a small shop and in lived. This house fronted on the it made such mills, and one of which settled the bargain, and afterwards built a small cottage in which he lane that opens from Hunter street in the rear of the buildings on the east side of George street.

The Opposite Corner.

While we are at it, a note or two in reference to the opposite corner, across Hunter street, may be of interest. In 1827 a man named Fulvey, a Robinson immigrant, acquired the lot, but did nothing with it. In 1847 the editor of The Despatch, in a plaintive paragraph, calls attention to the deplorable state of the property. A sidewalk had been built around the corner and hoisted pretty well up, as the grade was being raised from time to time. The burden of the complaint is that the general public had found this corner a most convenient place to heave rubbish. Old waggons, broken-down sleighs, empty barrels, old ox yokes, fragments of trees, and all sorts of debris were immured on the spot. He pleads that the place be cleaned out, "that it may not remain the objectionable eye-score that it now is, and that the fair fame of the future town be not smirched by such an unseemly spectacle." Surely a Daniel came to judgment.

However, presently came on the scene James Trotter Henthorne, of pious and legal memory, the first Justice of the Peace to assume the functions of Police Magistrate, and Mr. Henthorne acquired the lot and built a small house, afterwards converted into an hotel, to be followed so soon as prosperity struck the town by the building that now stands at the corner.

Bought For $30.

To complete the record of properties, reference may be made to the south-east corner of the George street block and the ground now covered by the building occupied by Payne's drug store. This lot was purchased from Richard Birdsall (who made the survey of the town plot of Peterborough) for $30.00, to be paid by John Graves, an American, who had located at the town site. Graves was a wheel-wright and also made sleighs. He was to pay for the lot by mending a waggon and supplying four cart wheels, and so for a time the matter rested.

Presently John Crawford, who had tired of waiting for Smith's Creek (Port Hope) to give evidences of progress and prosperity, came to Peterborough and put up a small frame building on George street near the big wooden hotel run by Louis McGregor. In fact, on the ground now covered by the part of the building occupied by the Davis-Thompson Insurance Co. Crawford decided that his prospects for business were not so good as lower down the street, and in the winter he arranged with Graves to plant the house at the corner of George and Simcoe streets. This was done, the structure being moved on sleighs. Graves made out some sort of bill of sale for the lot, but it turned out that he had never completed his bargain with Mr. Birdsall, having repaired the waggon but supplied only two of the wheels. Crawford insisted on holding possession, and out of the dispute arose the first law suit that bothered the settlement, and Elias Burnham, who in the meantime had arrived and who was Peterborough's first lawyer, got his first retainer and law suit.

The photograph shows the old rough-cast store just as it had stood for very many years. It was one of the first shops to be adorned with plate glass, at a time when such was a rarity. On the George street side will be noticed the rack in which the store window shutters stood during the day. At night these were placed in the windows and secured by the iron bar that crosses the window diagonally, fastened by a bolt and swivel on the inside. These shutters were a real convenience in a public way. If a bibulous citizen was overcome with the ardent and fell down, he was considerately removed from public gaze by being stretched out on a shutter and kind hands carried him to the nearest hotel yard, leaving him in the shed to sleep off the potion. Occasionally he would be deposited in the box of some farmer's waggon, and when the agriculturist had finished business and was ready to depart for home would find a passenger snoring in his vehicle. To the right of the roof of the old store shows the corner of the brick building put up by J. W. Dunnett & Co., dry-goods, and in a part of the building a Mr. Bakewell carried on tailoring.

Fire of 1869.

The fire broke out on the morning of Wednesday, Dec. 8th, 1869. It started in Anthony's shoe shop in the rear of Winship's tobacco and cigar store. Quickly spread to the McKeller & Cameron store and made a merry blaze. On the alarm being given, willing hands wrenched at the town bell to rouse the population, and in haste the bell rope broke. Then St. Johns Church bell was made use of while repairs were being made.

Presently a violent explosion took place, knocking out the glass of the windows, followed by a second and a third explosion. Stored in the store was a quantity of gun-powder. Several persons who were assisting in saving the stock were injured. John Garvey, a prominent merchant, was burned and cut about the back. Edward Newton was struck by flying articles and injured internally. Samuel English, who had his arms full of goods, was hurled through one of the window openings and thrown to the sidewalk, escaping serious injury. Thomas Wilson, Edward Sullivan and David Mason were all more or less burned and bruised. Edward Newton never recovered from his injuries and afterwards death followed. The loss on stock was considerable, and the building a total loss.

The store of Mr. Lemay adjoining caught fire about the roof, and for a time was in much danger. The stock was hastily removed across the street. Fortunately, the fire wall, really the west wall of the brick building, headed off the fire from gaining access to the ground and second floors. The loss to the McKellar & Cameron firm was considerable, about $6,000.00 as given out. But a stock of that money in those days represented much more in goods than the sum would in 1921.

Suffered Three Years Until She Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

DAME PETER LAMARRE

Pointe St. Pierre, P. Q.

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of 'Soothe-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Soothe-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-tives.'

Would You Help a Blind Woman?

(1)

CAN you think of anything quite so pathetic as a blind woman? She cannot see the flowers or the trees, the fields or the sky,—!

You can help these women carry their burden of eternal darkness more easily.

There is a comfortable house at 331 Sherbourne Street in Toronto, where homeless Canadian blind women find a home. It is called "Clarkewood", and was purchased about a year ago by our organization—the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

During the day, the blind girls and women who live there make aprons, kimonas and night-dresses in our Blind Women's Workshops. They pay a part of the money they earn to help pay for their board and lodging. In the evenings they play games, read their specially printed books, knit, sew, sing, and listen to music.

Since "Clarkewood" became a realized fact, happiness and joy have come into the lives of these homeless girls and women who will never see again.

But "Clarkewood" must be maintained. We turn to you, in good hope, to-day to ask for your generous help. Subscribe liberally to the Institute and enable us to still further lighten the darkness of those girls and women whose only fault is their handicap.

SHAUGHNESSY'S PITCHING WAS TOO MUCH FOR THE GENERALS

STRIKES OUT TWELVE MEN AND LAKEVIEWS ADMINISTER A DOSE OF WHITEWASH IN CITY JUVENILE LEAGUE'S GAME AT RIVERSIDE PARK.

The Lakeviews, with Pitcher Shaughnessy going in great form, won a clear cut victory over the Generals in the City Juvenile League at the Riverside Park last night, beating Bob Chartren and Company by 4 runs to 0. Shaughnessy allowed only 5 batters by the ozone route, and his team mates played snappy ball behind him. Chartren was not hard hit but the fielding of his crew was wobbly and the boots were costly. The fielding features were furnished by the two catchers, Rogers and Davis, both of whom made nice running catches of foul flies, while Batten, the General's short stop, also pulled off a clever catch.

Lakeviews got away to a flying start by getting two runs in the first. With one down Fitzgerald started the trouble by singling to left. His steal of second, a wild throw by Batten on Rody's tap, a fumble by Edgar, and a bed throw by Wells to the plate, gave the winners two counters.

In the second Lebarr was hit and stole second. Petick fanned, Whitlow hit to short and when Lebarr collided with Batten the ball rolled through to left for a single, Lebarr scoring. Moore cracked a single of Allen's shins and Whitlow was out at the plate trying to score on the play. Fitzgerald wound up the innings by fanning.

The Lakeviews got their last counter in the fifth on singles by Moore and Fitzgerald, and Batten's high throw to first. Rogers' single and Edgar's fumble filled the bases but Chartren stopped further trouble by fanning Sharpe, while Wells tossed Lebarr out.

The Generals' best chances to score were in the third and fourth stanzas. With one gone in the third Davis bunted safely and Starr singled through the box. Shaughnessy fanned Allen and Wells, however getting out of the hole nicely. In the fourth the losers threw away a nice opportunity. Evans opened with a single to right and Allen followed with a double to centre, on which Evans after hesitating at second, tried to score. He was an easy out at the plate. The next two went out on unfilled taps.

MINUS STEVE O'NEIL THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS ARE EXPERIENCING SLUMP

NEW YORK, June 11.—Just at this present moment a few berries set on the ranks for No. 1 in the American League wouldn't brand one a nut.

In the present Yank-Indians series, which has developed into a battle for at least temporary possession of the league lead, the Yanks look all to the good.

Of course, Speaker's men have a terrible slump clutching their throats and the Yanks are showing one of their periodic flashes of good baseball. Speaker's pitching is all to the bad and the Huggins hurlers are producing.

What a difference one star player makes is showing by the way the world's champions are floundering around without the great Steve O'Neil. The star catcher, one of baseball's greatest, is out with a broken index finger and he will not be able to play for about three weeks. In that time the pennant can flit away. Without the great Steve, the Indians have lost infield balance and the pitchers are unsteady.

Wamby, who is really a star second baseman, is back in the game. He may help to get the club back to earth. Speaker had a big problem in deciding to bench Stephenson, a 3.50 hitter, but a mediocre fielder, and put Wamby back in the game, but he is trying it.

The Indians have only two pitchers working with any degree of reliability, and while a pennant can be won on two pitchers, it isn't done every year.

If the Yanks were anything but a funny ball club the pennant might be considered "in" now. But the Yanks are a funny ball club. They take the hardest clubs and fall before the second division occupants.

They have an in-and-out pitching staff and one of the worst outfields in the major leagues. They lack the balance and class that made the Indians champions.

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER BOUTS TEST OF TYPES; ACTIVE BLONDE VS. THOUGHTFUL BRUNETTE

Light or dark?

Which do you like? The blond Carpentier, or the brunette Dempsey?

The meeting between Dempsey and Carpentier will be a test of types. It will be a struggle between a dour, dark-eyed, black-haired and bronzed-skinned type of man, and a smiling, blue-eyed, straw-haired white-skinned man. These two men who meet for the physical supremacy of the world on July 2 are the exact opposite of each other. They are of a different country, race, language and ideas.

They are as different as night and day.

Which do you like?

Listen to the conclusions of famous scientists who have made special and exhaustive study of the subject.

Dr. John Beddoe, Dean of Anthropologists, and Havelock Ellis, the famous sexologist, both agree that fair-haired people tend to greater success than the dark—particularly in those vocations which most frequently lead to fame!

Havelock Ellis, who spent years in the portrait galleries of Europe examining the features of all the famous people of the last ten centuries, says:

"It is clear that an excess of fairness prevails among the men of restless and ambitious temperament, the sanguine, energetic men, the men who easily dominate their fellows and who get on in life.

"But it is significant that the dark man is most often found among the lower classes—artisans and peasants—and also among the men of religion, whose mission in life is to practise and preach resignation to a Higher Will. It is also significant that the highly intelligent tend to darkness.

"Men of action are fair, men of thought are dark. While the light-complexioned people are most often bold, warlike, energetic, restless and domineering, the dark-skinned people are resigned, religious, imitative, yet highly intellgent."

Statistics of these scientists show that blond hair and blue eyes predominate among political reformers and agitators by the ratio of three to one; among sailors, two to one; scientists, two to one, and among soldiers, lawyers and royalty, the light dispels the dark also.

On the other hand, actors, explorers, laborers, ministers, statesmen, literary men and thinkers are notably of dark complexion. The actors are the darkest of all. As a matter of fact, no really fair person has ever risen to high dramatic eminence. Strange, too, about the men who roam the earth—wanderers. The man who travels by water is more often fair—as seamen, while he who travels by land is most frequently dark—as are explorers.

And—most important of all—Ellis finds the blonds most warlike and pugnacious—and hungrier for money. The brunette is more peaceful and resigned.

Looks bad for Dempsey, doesn't it?

WHY OF HEAVY HITTING.

This Speaker Explains Plenitude of Clouts This Year.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Ineffective pitching, due to the elimination of freak deliveries, is responsible for the rattle of extra base hits off the fences of major league baseball parks, according to Manager Speaker of the Cleveland Americans.

"The emery ball, the shine ball and the other extremes to which pitchers resorted for many years kept down the batting," Speaker asserted. "Now they are illegal, and spitball pitching has been virtually done away with. The heavy batting of this season is only a natural consequence."

Every married woman will agree that the man is the bonehead of the house.—British Whig.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

THIS BOARDING HOUSE PLEASES EVERYBODY.

The ambitious country girl who goes to the great, wicked city to earn her living, and finds there bad, naughty men who are willing, nay, anxious, to pay all her bills, is no novelty to the screen. But the kind of girl that little Miss Constance Binney portrays in "39 East," which comes to the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week, is a novelty, and the plot development is novel, too, for this particular heroine did not go wrong, but plugged along doggedly, even after her purse was empty, her room rent overdue, and her courage fast oozing away.

"39 East" is a boarding house, shabbily genteel, and the scenes therein are about the best comedy we have seen in many a day. The inmates of the house include the usual types, the gushing lady who has seen better days, and won't let anybody forget it; the tart spinster, the jaunty salesman, the sentimental sisters, the star boarder, the ever-suspicious landlady—and the aforementioned girl, not the fast little "chicken" variety, nor yet the coyingly sweet, idiotically innocent girl, but a ladylike, demure, sensible, sweet, wholesome girl, a girl who is typical of thousands of clean-minded girls of America, with a fine sense of honor, no silly affectation, and a sturdy purpose to succeed.

No finer characterization of American girlhood has ever been shown than that which Miss Binney gives in the role of Penelope Penn, plucky, sedate, and independent little Yankee, as real and convincing as "Jo" in "Little Women," the sort of girl one wishes all American girls would be.

Miss Binney created this delightful role two years ago in the stage production, which ran for an entire season in New York, and for another whole season in Cleveland, Chicago and Boston, so the young Realart star had a long familiarity with the role to bring to the screen production, which was made under the capable direction of John S. Robertson, who directed Miss Binney in "Erstwhile Susan," her first Realart picture. Reginald Denny has the male lead, and with that exception the stage cast has been used in the screen version, so that the photoplay is an adequate sequel to the stage success.

The balance of the big programme will contain many excellent pictures, including the newest two-reel Larry Semon Comedy, The Snortsmanmite Up, Saturday, June 11th.

The Three O'Connor Sisters will be the vaudeville attraction at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. They come direct from Keith's circuit, where they have been a big headliner. Their act is gorgeously gowned and brilliantly staged. The Girls have glorious voices and are harmony singers of high-class songs.

AT THE ALLEN.

"DOUBLE PHOTOGRAPHY" LAUGH BASIS IN NEW TORCHY COMEDY.

In "Torchy's Double Triumph," which comes to the Allen Theatre on Monday, audiences will suspect the director of having some fun at the expense of the double photography stunts that have become so common in feature pictures.

This one of the two-reel comedies, starring Johnny Hines and made from the stories of the red-headed office boy, centres around the fact that Torchy and a society crook who attempts to rob the guests at a masquerade ball wear the same costume—Torchy quite by accident—and recovers the gems as fast as they are taken, much to the confusion of the crook's lady assistant and to the guests.

The particular scene occurs where the crook in costume is seen lighting a cigarette in front of a full-length mirror. The audience sees the "reflection," but after the crook walks away, it gets a good laugh when Torchy steps out of the mirror frame.

"Torchy's Double Triumph" depends more on action than any of the other pictures, for, wearing a mask, the audience gets few views of Johnny Hines' full face and consequently of his laugh-provoking expressions. But it is promised that the novelties of the situations are so great that there will be no lack of laughs.

AT THE REGENT.

'THE TOLLING OF THE BELL.'

The Story of a Will—At the Regent Theatre on Monday.

The strange will of Anthony Cole requires any relative who would be heir to his fortune to live for a year in his personal chamber in the mansion of the lone Cole plantation, with Cole's corpse in its casket in a cupola room above the bedroom. The tolling of the bell that hangs in the cupola is regarded by the superstitious folk of the neighborhood as the sign of death. Relatives whom it summons, even in their fear, when it tolls for the death of the master, include his grandson, Richard Steele, a young man, the son of a disinherited daughter. In the neighborhood is Lucy Cole (May McAvoy), another relative. The two young people, ignorant of one another's presence here, take up their abodes in different parts of the mansion. Steele wins the love of Lucy in the end by rescuing her from another designing relative, Jules La Roque, who seeks to marry her for the two to earn the fortune together. There is surprising conclusion in the discovery that Anthony Cole is not dead, after all, but planned the test of courage and directed it from the cupola room.

SPORT GOSSIP

The appointment of William Muldoon as chairman of the new State Athletic Commission may cause some of the professional pugilists and wrestlers to shiver. The great Muldoon knows their games. He was a wrestler when Hector as the classics have it, was a pup. He was the trainer and second of John L. as far back as 1889. More than that, Muldoon knows men. He has been teaching the young idea these many years how not to dissipate; and his pupils have included great statesmen and mere millionaires.

Nobody that we recall ever got gay with Muldoon, even when he was young, and his chief stock in trade was 220 pounds of muscle and bone. Now, at the age of 75 or so, he has most of the muscle and more of the brain. The sternness, the love of discipline and the will to conquer wickedness have not diminished since the days when Mr. Sullivan had to be ruled with an iron hand.

Indeed, in some quarters Mr. Muldoon undoubtedly is regarded as too Spartan. Nobody ever heard him say a kind word about a cocktail, a cigarette, or a second helping of pie. His professional heart is hard. He will stand no monkey business, we imagine, from boxers who have not trained. He will never countenance wrestlers who are not doing their best, for he can tell at a glance what they ought to do. No profane seconds will be permitted in the corners, for Muldoon dislikes cuss words.

Muldoon! Resounding name of a majestic and determined citizen. May he see to it that the sports of the ring are kept up to his own ascetic standard.—New York Herald.

OBITUARY

The death took place this morning of an old resident of Ashburnham, in the person of Patrick Gorham, who died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. G. M. Wilson, 302 Pearl avenue, at the age of 74 years.

The late Mr. Gorham came to Canada in 1882, and on his arrival made Peterborough his home. All during that time he has been a faithful employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was a man of very kindly disposition and was much liked by those who knew him. His wife predeceased him some years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Mattie Gorham, at home; and four sons, John of Ottawa, Patrick Michael and Markham.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. J. G. M. Wilson, on Monday morning, at nine o'clock, proceeding to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

NEW COMPANY FORMED TO ASSIST IN RELIEF OF HOUSING SITUATION

Announcement is made of the incorporation of the Greater Canada Security Corp. Lt. ,of Toronto, a company formed to purchase second mortgages on improved real estate.

After a careful investigation of the housing situation, it was discovered that the shortage of funds available for mortgage investment is due to a combination of circumstances, chiefly the curtailment of English funds, the large investment of private funds in Vitory Loans, and the higher rate of interest obtained in recent years on bonds and debentures.

The company has a capitulation of 50,000 preferred shares, par value $100, and 75,000 ordinary shares, no par value.

The directors of the company are well known Canadian business men.

WEDDING BELLS

BALLARD—NICHOLLS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St .John's church at 12 o'clock noon on Thursday, June 9th, when Miss Nellie Nicholls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Nicholls, of Peterborough, was married to Mr. Stanley L. Ballard, of Peterborough, formerly of England, Rev. Canon Fornoret performing the ceremony. The charming bride was becomingly gowned in embroidered white crepe de chine with lace garniture, veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaids, her two sisters, the Misses Grace and Julia Nicholls, were dressed in white and pale green organdie, with pale pink roses. Mr. R. J. Devey was in charge of the musical service, and, during the signing of the register, Miss Ruby Quartermaine sang "O Promise Me." The chimes rang out in honor of the pretty bride.

After the ceremony, a lunch was served to about forty guests at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple leaving on the 3.50 C. P. train for Toronto and Niagara Falls. The bride's travelling costume was of navy taffeta, embroidered with henna, and hat to match.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard will reside in Peterborough.

CRISP COMMENT.

MANY GUESTS AT HUYCKE-CRESSMAN WEDDING

The interior of Trinity Methodist Church was converted into a bower of loveliness on Wednesday last, on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Jessie Lillavette Cressman, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cresman, to Mr. Edward Douglas Huycke, of Toronto, son of His Honor Judge and Mrs. E. C. S. Huycke, of Peterboro. Draperies of the softest grey velours covered the entire organ loft, the choir stalls, the pulpit and the screen, banked by tall ferns. Triple arches of festooned pearl-grey tulle, bearing huge bowls of white and pink peonies, with long ribbon streamers, and trailing lacey smilex, appeared in either aisle. Flowers in high standards were everywhere, and an ornamental aisle led up the church steps from the pavement outside ,to finish a truly decorative effect.

At twelve o'clock noon, the pretty bride appeared, on the arm of her father, who gave her away. Her gown was of lustrous, pearl grey moon-glo satin crepe, with sleeves and bodice of rose point lace. Her full court train was of embroidered tulle ,of the same soft shade, lined with pink georgette and caught with orange blossoms. Her shoes were of grey satin ,and her shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. H. W. Cressman was matron of honor and Mrs. Kenneth Harrison of Toronto, and Miss Rosamond Huycke of Peterboro, the bridesmaids, attired in rainbow hues of pink, mauve and blue organdie, trimmed with grey, with grey shoes. Their flowers were quaint nosegays of mauve and pink sweet peas, bordered with forget-me-nots. The cunning little flower girl, Miss Mary Adelaide Acton of Toronto, wore a petalled frock of ping organdie, with hat to match and carried a basket of roses and valley lilies.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Wilfred Huycke, and the ushers were Messrs. Douglas Lawrie, Meredith Huycke, James Blaiklock and Robin Haultain, of Toronto.

Rev. E. A. Pearson of Guelph was the officiating clergyman, assisted by the Rev. F. E. Malott, pastor of Trinity Church. Mr. George H. King presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register, Miss Florence Scott, gowned in rose shot taffeta sang very sweetly, "All Mine Alone." The church was packed to the doors with interested friends and spectators.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. A. W. Cressman, wearing mauve satin and black lace, and Mrs. E. C. S. Huycke grey satin with black filet.

The beautiful grounds were filled for some hours with a merry throng. Beside the fountain on the lawn, a marquee was erected where light refreshments were dispensed, and where the company gathered to hear the toast to the bride proposed by Rev. Mr. Pearson and responded to by the groom ,and the toast to the bridesmaids, by Rev. Mr. Mallott, to which Judge Huycke replied. Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., was one of the speakers of the occasion.

The bride, whose bouquet was caught by one of her bridesmaids, Miss Rosamond Huycke, slipped away to don her travelling suit of navy tricotine embroidered in grey, with hat to match, and amid showers of confetti, and accompanied by a gay escort of nearly thirty crowded cars, the young couple motored to the C. P. R. station to take the 3:50 C. P. R. train en route to Quebec, where the honeymoon will be spent. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

The gifts to the bride were many and varied, including quantities of beautiful cut-glass and silver, and a silver service from the staff of the Cressman Co., Limited, consisting of sugar and cream, electric teapot and percolator. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond and platinum pin, to the bridesmaid gold lockets; to the groomsmen and the ushers, pipes; and to the vocal soloist, Miss Florence Scott, a ring.

A pleasing feature of the affair was the fact that the entire arrangements were carried out by local people. The decorations were the work of a Peterboro resident, Mr. Chalmers Nicholls, the flowers were supplied by the Peterboro Floral Co., the refreshments by Mr. Thos. Hooper, and the photos of the bridal party were taken by the Roy Studio.

Some of the guests present were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McBain, Mrs. John Wood and the Misses Wood, Miss E. Morrow, Mr. W. G. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Walker, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Switzer, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Dear. Editor,— You say in your editorial the Port Hope to Peterborough road is in fine shape because it has been made over by the province. I fancy the only thing that has made it over is the auto and the log drag. I travelled over it quite a bit last summer and I never saw much work done on it so far, although I believe there is going to be something done pretty soon. But that log drag, although so simple, is certainly a wonder worker, and it is only that that keeps the roads in such good shape wherever used. It is just like the laundress ironing a shirt after it has been washed, it takes out the wrinkles, and I am sure if it was used around Peterborough and suburbs a little more there would be a whole lot less kicking about bad roads. Let the city try it on Armour road back of the Oval. All it needs is a couple of heavy logs and a team of horses.

Yours for good roads.

J. W. BOORMAN.

Someone has said that June brides are no longer in evidence, but it doesn't seem to be so in Peterborough. We have had a constant succession of these ornamental summer affairs since the beginning of the month, with several very pretty weddings up to date, and some more to follow. The wedding of Miss Esme Aylmer takes place on Wednesday of next week. St. John's church was the scene of a lovely wedding on Thursday, when Miss Nellie Nicholls was married to Mr. Stanley Ballard, and one of the prettiest weddings was solemnized in the Huycke-Cressman nuptials.

The Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O. D.E. dance at Chemong Park pavilion last evening was very successful. There was a good attendance, and the music provided was excellent. SENTIMENT AMONG MINERS FOR ACCEPTING OWNERS' PROPOSALS GROWS IN MANY DISTRICTS

SOME LEADERS STILL REMAIN IRRECONCILIABLE BUT TWO-THIRDS VOTE WILL BE NECESSARY TO CONTINUE STRIKE.

COTTON MILL WORKERS' OFFER BEEN REFUSED

LONDON, June 13. — Canadian Press. — Reports from various mining centres indicate a growing feeling among the men in favor of accepting the coal owners' latest offer. Meetings to explain the details of the offer will be held in many districts before the ballot of the miners on Wednesday.

A few of the miners' leaders remain irreconciliable, declaring that the owners' terms are surrender pure and simple for the miners, and the longer the men stay out the greater will be the pressure brought to bear upon the government to force the owners to make concessions.

Against these sentiments is the definite declaration of the acting President of the Union that a two-thirds majority against the owners' proposals will be considered necessary to continue the strike.

Negotioations between masters and men in the cotton industry have been adjourned until Thursday and meanwhile the half a million idle operatives have been enabled to discuss the position in their respective districts. The workers have offered to submit the case to independent arbitration, but this offer has so far been refused by the employers.

DRUG SMUGGLER FUED LEADS TO NEGRO'S DEATH

AUTOPSY SHOWS COCAINE

MONTREAL, June 13. — Canadian Press.--The reports of the of the autpsists and detectives indicate that Budder Harris, colored, believed to have been murdered as a result of a feud among the international drug smugglers, was first drugged with cocaine, bound with wire, his pockets filled with stones, and was then thrown into the river St. Lawrence. His almost naked body was found on the bank of the river near here, and a postmortem revealed cocaine in the stomach.

Harris' coat, from which the body had worked loose on account of the stones in the pockets, was brought to the surface from the river bed on the hooks of a blind fisherman's line on the other shore.

ROTARIANS HEAR GRAVENHURST NEED

PETERBORO WILL SHORTLY BE ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE TO FUND FOR NEW HOSPITAL.

The weekly lunch of the Rotary Club at the Empress, brought to the gathering a full quota of members and several visitors. The meeting was only too glad to welcome Mr. T. F. Matthews, who just dropped in to meet old friends and hear the latest of the several progresses that the city is making. There was a cordial greeting for the ex-chairman of the City Utilities Commission, and jocular enquiries as to when he would come back to the Old Home town.

Mr. R. E. Ives, organizer for the National Sanitarium Association of Ontario, took advantage, as suggested by the chair, to briefly speak of the movement now on foot to rebuild the institution, the Consumptive Hospital in Muskoka, destroyed by fire last winter. He intimated that in a couple of weeks a campaign would be set on foot in Peterborough in aid of the building fund. About $600,000 would be required. He gave a brief outline of the conditions under which the remedial work of the institution had been conducted and of the routine of admission, and provisions made for assistance to those who might not be able to pay.

Mr. Breyfogle, endorsing to the fullest extent all the efforts that could be made to combat the White Plague, hoped that the day was not far away in which the City and County of Peterborough would get together and build and establish such a hospital for the district.

Dr. McPherson concurred and suggested that in view of the erection of a monument to our fallen soldiers,that the erecting and bringing into use such an institution would be most laudable and would ensure in its function and purpose our appreciation of the service of the men who had died in the field. A memorial sanitarium, as suggested, would be the most fitting and abundantly useful testimonial we could erect.

A visiting brother Mr. Conn, of Buffalo, extended his personal greeting to the club. Mr. McElderry gave a brief outline of what had been done in the Boys' Work Section of the Club's endeavours. And the gathering broke up with the usual Rotary songs and expressions of interest and fellowship.

COUNTY ROADS ADD 4 1-2 MILLS TO RATE

LINDSAY, June 13.—Four and a half mills is the rate struck by the Victoria County Counci for general purposes, and four and a half mills also for the county roads system. Municipalities in the county road system will therefore have to pay a levy of nine mills (two mills higher than ast year), while those not affected by the county road system will pay four and a half mills only. The estimates do not include the proposed Omemee improvement.

WHAT IS PETERBORO'S GREATEST NEED?

D. R. WRENN, Sales Manager, De Laval Company: "Noting that various and sundry citizens are advising the world what Peterborough needs, I am just going to suggest that what Peterborough needs is a new viewpoint.

"We haven't anything in this country to be pessimistic about. The sun shines every day, even though it may not penetrate through the clouds; public health is good and the future looks mighty bright. There is absolutely no excuse for pessimism in anyone, and the sooner the man in the street takes that attitude the sooner we will get on the right basis."

FEDERATION OF LABOR CLAIMS VICTORY OVER THE OPEN SHOP MOVEMENT IN ANNUAL REPORT

SAYS PAST YEAR ONE OF UNEXAMPLED STRUGGLE AND DIFFICULTY FOR ORGANIZED LABOR—DECLARES "ONE BIG UNION" IN CANADA SMASHED—ASKS EXTENSION OF "INDUSTRIAL DEMOCRACY."

COST OF LIVING NOT WAGE BASIS, IT AVERS

DENVER, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Unemployment, open shop, wage reductions, relations with European labour federations, disarmament question, recognition of the Russian Soviet Government, and more than a score of other major issues were before the forty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labour, which opened its first two weeks session here today.

More than five hundred delegates from all portions of the United States and Canada headed by President S. Gompers and the Executive Council of the Federation marched to the Municipal Auditorium, where the meeting opened with addresses of welcome by State and municipal officials.

DENVER, Col., June 13.—(Canadian Press).—The trade union movement in America "has successfully defended its position against the organised effort of anti-union employers," the Executive Council of the American ederation of Labour declares in its annual report submitted to-day to the Federation convention here. It adds that "the outlook is for a continuance of not only successful defence, but steady and consistent progress."

"It is true," says the report, "that the organised employers are still making strenuous efforts to destroy trade unionism and that in many directions the campaign to reduce wages continues. What is equally true is, that these movements continue with constantly decreasing vigour and effect and that their momentum of three months ago has been dissipated

"There is need for the utmost vigilance, and labour cannot relax in any single effort but must on the contrary, continue its strugge with all possible energy, intelligence, and solidarity . It may, however, find satisfaction and cause for congratulation in the fact that the employers, united as never before, aggressive as never before, and financed as never before have failed so signally and so completely in the purpose they sought to accomplish."

The Council's report covers a wide range of subjects and includes nearly a score of specific recommendations.

The report gives the present strength of the Federation of Labour at 3,906,528, as against 4,078,740 in 1920, and says that the slight decrease in members is 'naturally due to the large numbers of workers unemployed." It points to the membership enrollment as proof that the campaign against organised labour has failed.

Year of Unexampled Struggle.

"The American Trade Union movement" the report declares, "has just gone through a year of unexampled struggle and difficulty The enemies of labour and human progress have assailed from every side. The movement for the reduction of wages, the movement to crush our organisation, masquerading under the fictitious 'open shop' slogan, the wave of unemployment and perhaps the most sinister of all, the revival as a part of the general anti-labour campaign of the vicious, enslaving individual contract by which workers are bound to their employers in unwilling servitude, have been massed and concentrated against the most potential voluntary movement of the wage-earners of the country. Added to these have been legislative assaults and court decisions most destructive in character.

"We have checked the progress of those who have sought to destroy freedom through the annihilation of the organisations of labour.

"We all for a great rallying, a great unity, a great movement forward for humanity. The message of Trade Unionism must be carried to every corner."

Favours Industrial Democracy.

Under the heading of "Constructive Demands,' the Council's report reitcrates and reaffirms that "those contributing to production, should have a part in its control," and to this end it urges 'the setting up of conference boards of organised workres and employrs, thoroughly voluntary in character and in thorough accord with our trade union oragnisations as a means of promoting the democracy of industry through co-operative effort."

"Control of credit capital by those whose chief interest is the accumulation of profits results inevitably in the open door for profiteering. We repeat and emphasise the demands of organised labour that control of capital be taken from the hends of private financiers and placed in the hands of a public agency to be administered by voluntary and co-operative methods."

Ratio of Wages to Living Costs.

Regarding wages and the cost of living, the Council says the practice of fixing wages solely on the basis of cost of living is a violation of the whole philosophy in progress and civilisation, and, furthermore, is a violation of sound economic theory, and utterly without logic or scientific support."

The practice, it is added, "results in a tendency to classify human beings and to standardise classes, right to a given quantity of various each class having a presumptive commodities."

Charges of Profiteering.

The Council declares that profiteering in food continues "While wholesale prices decreased, retailers continued to charge unreasonable prices Of all the remedies proposed none is more to be recommended that those submitted to President Harding by the Federal Trade Commission that there was no justification for a reduction of wages. The Commissoin held that the first object should be to increase, rather than lessen, the purchasing power of the ordinary consumer."

"One Big Union" Smashed.

A considerable portion of the Councils report is devoted to a discussion of America and the Russian Soviets, and the Council says that "America during the year has fully endorsed the stand of the American Federation of Labour at the Montreal convention" in resolving that the Federation "is not justified in taking any action which could be construed as an assistance to, or approval of, the Soviet Government of Russia as long as that Government is based upon authority which has not been vested in it by a popular representative national assemblage of the Russian people."

The report also says that "as a factor in the industrial life of both Canada and the United States the so-called One Big Union has practically ceased to exist."

"This movement, which has been on the decline since the Winnipeg strike, is no longer considered an active movement of any consequence," the report declared

The report also deals with recent Court decisions relating to labour; international labour relations; legislation in the various States affecting labour and various matters pertaining to the internal affairs of the Federation.

PETERBORO INDUSTRIES CRIPPLED WHEN POWER SHUT OFF TO-DAY AS RESULT OF DISABLEMENT OF HEALEY FALLS PLANT

TO-DAY'S EDITIONS CURTAILED BECAUSE OF POWER SHUT OFF

Like many other plants in the city The Examiner was without power for two hours to-day as a result of the shortage of power caused by the disablement of the Hydro generating station at Healey Falls. Consequently to-day's issue is somewhat curtailed. As the power was shut off from eleven o'clock this morning until one this afternoon, the noon edition could not be published in time to catch the noon trains. The fact that this is the time when the peak lead is on the linotype machines caused considerable difficulty in handling copy for the afternoon edition.

SUDDEN CUT OFF AT 11 O'CLOCK RESULTED SERIOUSLY IN MANY CASES---WATER FORTY FEET DEEP IN POWER HOUSE AT HEALEY FALLS---TWO MEN HAD NARROW ESCAPE WHEN WATER BURST THROUGH OPEN MAN-HOLE AFTER BREAKING OF STOP LOGS.

WILL TAKE FOUR DAPS TO REPAIR DAMAGE

Peterborough's industry was temporarily crippled to-day by the power shortage resulting from the accident in the Healey Falls generating station on Saturday night.

The first news of the power plant came through to The Examiner early this morning, but the effect of the inundation was manifested at eleven o'clock, when the power was suddenly shut off.

One more Peterborough's helpless dependence on the Hydro was brought home to manufacturers throughout the city, with answering complaints impatiently crowding the telephone lines to reach the manager of the local system.

Bake shops were held up with batches of dougn in the mixing; the Peterborough Milk Products shouted for power to carry the morning's milk through its pasteurising and condensing processes. ocal mills that have just begun to pick up activity were doubly insistent that their new lease of manufacturing life should be kept alive instead of being shut off from its vital stream.

"Everybody wanted power at once," H. O. Fisk, the power manager for the Peterborough Utilities Commission, told The Examiner. "You would have thought that we had it right here on tap and were refusing to give it to our customers. The Quaker Oats Company were very good to us. They let us have from 1,200 to 1,500 horse-power, and the C. G. E. were also willing to lend a hand. But the C. G. E. were themselves hit during last night's storm, and a generator or two put out of commisison. Mr. R. Cotton expected to have the machines repaired early this afternoon, So we will possibly get help there.

"The cause of the shortage to-day was that the Central Ontario system was deprived of 10,000 horse-power cut off by the accident."

Mr. Fisk wasn't certain about the exact details of the accident at the Healey Falls power station. It seems that some examination of the turbine was begun when stop logs gave way letting a flood of water through the flume. Two employees, L. Richardson and Hoyle, the operator, barely escaped drowning so rapidly did the spacious room fill with water.

Just how they managed to elude the flood is not known, but it is reported that Hoyle raced across the generating room, jumped out of a window into the tail-race, and swam ashore in the turbulent water.

The accident happened about 5.30 p.m. on Saturday, and as the water filled up in the room the big generating machines continued to rotate at high speed, swirling the water to the ceiling like noisy fountains.

The machinery will not be fully operable until they are dried out, and it is understood that the Commission will be lucky if the generators do not depreciate considerably as a further result of the accident.

Mr. Fisk could not give any information as to how long the shortage of power will continue.

The Hydro informed him that it would be four days and Campbellford rumours fixed the time at a month.

It will probably be a week at least before the plant recovers from the inundation that converted the big power house into a sort of swimming tank, in which the water is reported to have reached a depth of forty feet.

JOINED FORCES IN ANNUAL PARADE HELD LAST NIGHT TO ALL SAINTS—SERMON BY REV. R. B. GROBB.

The annual church parade of the Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F. and in the event. The parade was head-Woodmen of the World, took place last evening to All Saints' church, with members of the feminine branches of both orders taking part ed by the Salvation Army band, with Grobb's advice, which, if carried Marshal Bro. E. C. Styles for the I. O.F. and Marshal Sov. E Lebarr for the W.O.W. Excellent music was rendered by the choir of All Saints' church, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Grobb, preached an eloquent sermon on the parable of the Good Samaritan, on the modern habit of looking more to temporal things than to the spiritual good of man, and to the modern corruption of the Bible word of "charity."

An after meeting was held by the two societies, at which Bro. J. W. Buyers, recording secretary for the I.O.F. was chairman, and spoke a few apt words on the fine turnout of the members, referring to Mr. Grobb's advice, which, if carried out, would be of great benefit to the orders. The meeting was also addressed by Bros. McCann, Ridpath and Conley for the I.O.F. and Sovs. Dummitt, Haskell and Waldie for the W.O.W. Mrs Scholey spoke for the lady Foresters and Mrs. Carr for the lady Woodmen A vote of thanks was tendered to the church, the minister and the wardens, to the choir, the two marshals, and the Salvation Army band, and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

SACRIFICE OF HUMAN CAUSES SERIOUS RIOT

SEVEN KILLED AND TEN WOUNDED WHEN SEPOYS ATTEMPTED TO RESCUE AN INDIAN WOMAN BEING CREMATED.

SIMLA, India, June 13. (Canadian Press.) The Government report on the serious riot which took place recently in a Sirohi village in the Rajputana Agency, states that it was caused by the offering of a human sacrifice.

During the disorder seven persons were killed and ten were wounded.

The village, which is the home of many members of the ancient sect of Charays, became greatly excited over the refusal of the Charays to pay the usual contribution. Sepoys were sent to enforce the collection, the reports say, and found the Charays had followed the traditional methods of bringing the vengeance of heaven upon the state by burning an old woman alive. She had been placed upon a pyre which was lighted by her nearest relatives.

When the troops attempted to rescue the victim the villagers opposed them with knives and swords, and wounding several of the soldiers, whereupon the Sepoys fired a volley into the crowd, which scattered, but the attempt at rescue came too late to save the woman.

A RUSTIC'S REQUEST.

When softly, silently, life's sunset gate,
Wide open swings, with hospitable cheer,
To admit this pilgrim, who has journeyed late,
Faint, worn and weary, through the desert drear;
If some, (there are such), we all know full well,
Who for the meed of relished gossip come,
To curious gaze upon my corse, and tell
The faults of one, in self defence now, dumb.

To my Creator, all my sins are known,
(And which of you has broken no command)
But each must answer, only for his own,
When at His Judgment Seat, arraigned, we stand.
But, if of mine, some kindly word or deed,
Relieved one moment's pain and misery,
Let common justice, for rememberance plead,
If ye deny sweet Christ-like charity.

One boon, the last, of my true friends I crave
If ye would wish me calm and peaceful rest,
No mercenary hand, let make my grave,
Nor frivolous fashion's wreath disturb my breast;
Just bear me to the little church below the hill
Where erst I worshipped in bright days gone by,
And in those hallowed courts, so hushed and still
A few brief moments let my body lie.

The while the soul in sunny Paradise
At rest, and freed from all the pangs of yore
Awaits the day, when from the dust shall rise
This mortal part—immortal, evermore;
Death's dormant ear may own not the blest sway.
Of silvery bells, nor hymns, my heart delight,
But, Oh, their sweet refrain, may melt away
In angel strains, and cheer my upward flight.

Then lay me where the sun's first rising beam,
O'er old St. Mark's white pillared churchyard glows,
And the warm wish, no idle fancy deem,
That in that sacred soil, would seek repose;
Dummer's green hills, and sheltered vales I roved
When in my bosom youth and hope beat high,
With cherished friends so true, and fondly loved,
Who neath the cold sod now, unheeding, lie.

All, all, are gone, and passed the portal, o'er,
Of myriad mansioned home, beyond the sky,
How pain's barbed arrow, pierced, my heart's core deep,
That bled afresh at every sundered tie.
For me no garb of gloomy mourning done,
Life's transient span, joy, to rudely blight,
Why sable robes, when we who hence have gone
Are wearing blood-washed robes of spotless white?

Still for the living leave, unculled, all flowers,
To cheer the careworn heart, and tear-dimmed eye,
We need them not, where Amaranthine bowers
Are bright with bloom, that ne'er can fade or die.
No marble monument or graven stone,
Must point the careless stranger to a name
On the fair page of history unknown,
And owes no favors, to the hand of Fame.

Only green, waving grass to deck the sod,
The blue sky o'er me, and the free, fresh air,
Safe in that hallowed acre of our God,
Leave me in trust, to His strong angel's care.
But, yet I would when in the church, is o'er
The sacred service, Summer, smiling here,
If happily friends should wander, as of yore,
They drop, for auld Lang Syne, a loving tear.

(MRS.) A. F. CALDER.

THE CURFEW DATES TO ANCIENT DAYS.

Established in England in Time of Alfred.

Ontario towns have at various times considered the advisability of a curfew law to keep children off the streets after a certain hour at night, and many think that such an ordinance would not be out of place in Peterborough.

The name "Curfew", however, mostly suggests William the Conqueror to the Canadian mind, or else that once popular school recitation depicting the young lady, who in old New England clung to the bell which was to have signaled her lover's doom, and muffling its clapper with her hands, swung to and fro exclaiming "The curfew shall not ring to-night", and so saved her swain. But once again, after centuries of disuse, the curfew is a very real incident. It is tolling nightly in certain Irish cities of the Sinn Fein belt, and in the old towns of occupied Germany, where the tramp of soldiers' iron-shod boots resounds and the clang of arms rings out in the streets as in medieval times. And at the summons of the curfew not merely children must obey, but grown-ups too, unless furnished with passes, are obliged to seek their homes.

The reasons for the curfew's resurrection in the disturbed areas overseas are pretty much those for which William the Conqueror imposed it so drastically in England 855 years ago. The curfew law tends to stop secret meetings and plottings in the hours of darkness. During the Irish rebellion of Easter week, 1916, martial law made the curfew law operative in Dublin. A Canadian newspaperman returning through the deserted streets one night was stopped at Dublin castle just after sunset and warned that despite his pass he was liable to death from British sentries as well as rebels. In fact, he was shot at a few minutes later, ere he reached his quarters at the North Wall hotel

Commonly supposed to have had its origin with the conqueror ,ancient records prove that a curfew was rung at Carfex, Oxfordshire, England, in the time of Alfred the Great, which would seem to indicate that the Norman merely enforced an old law with increased severity. In 1066 William I ordained that the curfew be rung at sunset in summer and at 8 o'clock in winter, at which notice all lights and fires were extinguished under dire penalties. This must have made the long English winter nights doubly cold and cheerless. However, Henry I, in 1100, mitigated the severity of the law by abolishing the clause which forbade the use of lights in houses Canadians who lived in London during the war when streets were in pitch darkness and severe penalties were in force for those who allowed the least gleam to shine through their blinded windows, can have some idea of how grateful the populace must have been for ald Beauclerk's magnanimity.

Ancient Rome is said to have had a curfew to squelch secret meetings inimical to the state, but historians incline to think that the curfew which was common all over medieval Europe had its origin not so much in the prevention of plotting as in the preventing of fire in the wooden cties. In early times the household fire was usually made in a hole in the center of the floor, the smoke escaping through a hole in the ceiling. In the fourtenth century the barbers in Venice were the only members of the commonalty in that city permitted to use lights after dark, for the barbers in those days were also surgeons and their services might be required during the night.

In 1468 the curfew was still rung at Hastings, Sussex — where the Conqueror landed—from Michaelmas (September 29) to Lady day (March 23) and the old custom obtained at Wrexham, in North Wales To-day the ringing of certain secular and ecclesiastical bells in various Protestant and Roman Catholic countries is a survival of the ancient custom. The familiar opening lines of Gray's Elegy: "The curfew tolls the knell of parting day," shows plainly that the custom endured a long time in rural England.

ACCIDENT AT HEALEY FALLS PLANT TO NECESITATE ITS CLOSING FOR ABOUT A MONTH

HEAD OF WATER BROKE THROUGH MAN-HOLE IN TURBINE, WHICH WAS OPEN—MEN HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

DAMAGE IS EXTENSIVE

What might have been a most serious accident to life, as well as loss of property, happened Saturday night about 5.30 p.m. at Healey Falls, about 6 miles north of town, at the hydro power house, one of the largest in the Central Ontario system. The manhole to the turbine was left open and the head water broke loose, a stream larger than a barrel flooding the turbine and power house. A couple of men in the building were carried out with the stream and their escape is a miracle. The generators were flooded and after working all night, it was Sunday morning before one generator was stopped. Extensive damage was done and the plant will be shut down for at least a month for repairs. Yesterday hundreds of people from town and surrounding country motored out to view the damage.

Anniversary Services at St. Andrew's Church.

Anniversary services were held in St. Andrew's church yesterday, and the congregation were very fortunate in securing Rev. F. H. McIntosh, M.A., of Lindsay, as the speaker for the day. Special music was provided by the choir under the efficient leadership of Miss Hawley, and a duet, "Hark, Hark My Soul," by Mrs. (Rev.) J. T. Glover and Miss Emma Meiklejohn was much enjoyed. The subject of the morning service was "Faithfulness," and the text was Rev., chap. 2, verse 10 (either part), 'Be thou faithful unto death.' Of all the stones making up character, the loveliest stone is faithfulness, loyalty, or fidelity. It is a gem of purest ray serene. Faithfulness is beautiful even in an animal, but it is still more beautiful and wonderful in man. When Napoleon on a long march came to a stream over which there was no bridge. The first men stepped into the water and when the order was given to move not one man moved because soldiers at the bridge were frozen. Napoleon was moved to tears as he saw their loyalty. But there is loyalty to a better cause, and that is the cause of Christ himself. The fidelity of the Christian is free, not forced. Christ exhibited fidelity in the highest degree himself. Christ swore eternal enmity against evil. At 12 years of age, He said: "Wist ye not that I must be about by Father's business," and for this was I born.. The cross ought to remind us of the worth and beauty of fidelity to a cause. Fidelity implies certain things. It is a grand thing to think of the pioneers. Scripture does not tell us to be successful, but it does tell us to be faithful. A new thing heard in our day is that loyalty and patriotism is selfishness. If that be true, certain men of the past must be torn from their seats. Our Master was full of patroitism. "Oh Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how oft would I have gathered you under my wings and yet would not," and our Saviour wept over Jerusalem.

Loyalty to Church.

We must be loyal to our church. There are those who like to criticize the church. Do you suppose the manager of a firm would allow members to critcize the firm. The church is a firm of God and sons. The church is built upon Christ, who is the architect. If things in the church go wrong, the best thing is to talk it over constructively. Loyalty to country and loyalty to the church. One is the area in which church is supreme and one in which the nation is supreme. There is another in which conscience is supreme. After all what is more splendid in religion than to keep the commandments of God. Conscience tells us what kind of lives we should live. We must emphasize loyalty to the Christian cause. Not everyone that saith unto me, "Lord, Lord,' shall enter in, but he that doeth the will of God. Blessed is he that heareth the word of God and doeth it. That must be expressed in helfulness to the Christian cause. "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all other things shall be added unto you." If we are to do great things for Christ, we must love him supremely and we shall not become weary in well doing.

Be faithful unto death. It meant a Christian had to be so faithful, that if necessary he should be willing to die as the martyrs who were just as sensitive to pain. When we think of the martyrs and the easy-going age, in which we lived when (when it is to warm or when it is raining many remain at home), we need more fidelity and loyalty that will do more than is being done. There is of course, no chance for us to be martyrs, but we must interpret the text. Faithful until death comes. Faithfulness all the way through life. There is a necessity for constantly renewing our vows. Every decade has its new temptations. Job fell at the very point where he was strong although he was loyal to David all his life. With the hymn we should say, "High heaven that heard the vow, will hear the vow renewed."

A Word of Reward.

If we are faithful unto death we shall receive a crown of life. There is a crown for all. The crown of life is life itself. Truthfulness and serviceableness is love. The day will come if we are continually faithful that we will love Him so, we will hate a lie and we will be serviceable to God's creatures around us. Fidelity or loyalty to our state, our church, our country, our Christ who died for us. The things we often neglect are of supreme importance. There is no test of life like death. Our forefathers were not carried away with love of power, but stood for things eternal. Let us be faithful like them, that we may receive a crown of life.

Garden Party.

St. Andrews are holding their annual garden party on the church grounds. The band will provide music and as well there will be vocal numbers, May-pole dance, fireworks and a nationalistic contest which promises to be most interesting. The advocate of the English, Rev. H. S. Bennett of town; advocate of Irish, Rev. Simpson of Stirling, and Rev. Thomson of Hastings will be advocate for the Scotch. There will be lots to eat and all may expect a jolly good time.

The Board of Managers are anxious to raise $1,000, and after the thank offerings of the anniversary services and the proceeds of the garden party have been included, they will have far passed their objective.

COALITION TO TEST STRENGTH

EVEN QUARTERS FAVORABLY DISPOSED TO GOVERNMENT SPECULATE ON POSSIBILITY OF ELECTION.

RUMOR SAYS DATE NEAR

LONDON, June 13. — (Canadian Press.) — Even in quarters not unfavorably disposed towards the coalition government, the result of last week's by-elections and the general industrial and economic situation, has aroused wide speculations concerning the possibility of an appeal to the country.

Lloyd George is rumoured as contemplating a general election at least before the introduction of the next budget.

GARY ATTACKS RED THEORIES OF ECONOMICS

SAYS CAPITAL NECESSARY—ONLY ALTERNATIVE ANARCHISM OF RUSSIA, WHICH LEADS TO DESTRUCTION.

IS FOR "OPEN SHOP"

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 13. — (Canadian Press). — E. H. Gary, chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, told Syracuse University students in a commencement address to-day that capital is necessary to the progress and prosperity of every country and any people. The only alternative to it, he declared, was the anarchy or Sovietism now gnawing at the vitals of Russia. This Russian system he described as a poison in the natural system of national and individual life which would eventuate in destruction.

If the people of America would study the facts about this vital question, he said, there would be no epidemic of Sovietism here. Capital and the rights of all people would be conserved.

In this country the door of opportunity is open to both capital and labor, and neither, he said, should be permitted to abuse it.

He expressed the opinion that there might be no objection to a fair and reasonable law subjecting organized capital, exceeding certain amounts, to governmental inquiry and restriction in its uses, "provided organized labor should also be subjected to the same statute."

Speaking on the relations of capital and labor, Mr. Gary said that these two interests recognize their interdependence but that outsiders often seek to antagonize them. He declared, however, that the majority of employers or managers of business are more solicitous for the welfare of the workmen and do more to promote their comfort and happiness than outsiders ever have done or were disposed to do. Labor was never in the world's history more highly respected nor treated as liberally as to-day, he declared. It had been demonstrated to be profitable to the employer to treat the workmen fairly, and this would insure the latter full justice.

Laying stress on the necessity of capital, he said: "Money is essential to provide facilities for preparing one to accomplish the best results in any profession or calling. The material progress and prosperity of any and every country are, to an enormous extent, the result of large capital. Without these the inhabitants would be neither happy nor comfortable.

"Accumulated capital provides the facilities for development, improvement, extension and application of natural resources. This could not be done by small contributions of money." In times of war, Mr. Gary declared, it would have been impossible to have fully supplied the needs of the country without recourse, to contributions by large capital.

"Except for the accumulated capital invested in business enterprises and the working capital to maintain and extend them, Mr. Gary continued, "millions of men and women who work for wages or salaries would be without a chance to earn a decent living. To the extent a nation is without capital in a corresponding degree are its industries in a state of decay and its people impoverished and despondent.

"In short, for a desirable and proper degree of comfort, contentment, hapoiness, advancement in any direction, protection against disease and destruction, every inhabitant of every land is dependent upon individually accumulated capital.

"The only alternative which has been suggested is that the government shall forcibly take possession and control of all capital and distribute the income derived from it amongst the people per capita. This would inject into the natural system of national and individual life a poison which would eventuate in destruction. It would smother ambition, enervate the body, remove competition for legitimate success in every line of activity, destroy incentive for development and progress and create a nation of laggards, wekklings and paupers. Slight motive for succeeding in any natural and honest direction would exist if the final results were to be applied for the equal benefit of others.

"Growing out of the illogical and condemnatory doctrine above described, is another even worse. It is, and for some months past has been, in practice at places outside of the United States. It rejects the right of an individual to enjoy the fruits of natural ability and integrity, of study and mental effort, thrift and economy and it substitutes the law of physical force which permits the strong and powerful to forcibly appropriate all that belongs to another, including property and family.

"This virulent and abhorrent disease, masquerading under different names, has been gnawing at the vitals of Russia. Anarchy is a generic term for it. Sovietism is most commonly used at present. It has spread and destroyed. Its germs purposely have been secretly carried to America and efforts made to inoculate our splendid citizenship.

DRURY GOVERNMENT TOO PATERNAL SAYS SIMCOE COUNTY COUNCILLOR

TOO MANY OFFICIALS APPOINTED ALREADY AND PROPOSAL TO ADD WOMEN TO AGRICULTURAL BRANCH IS NOT SUPPORTED.

SIMCOE, June 10. — A few minutes before adjournment Wednesday noon ,the county council indulged in a number of choice verbal epithets not at all conmplimentary to the Drury Government or any other government, that is seeking to add to the host of officials, minor and major, which the council believes the government wishes to employ in the county.

The verbal athletics followed the reading of a communication from the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, asking the County Council to endorse a memorial to be sent to Hon. Manning Doherty, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and Premier Drury, asking that women assistants be appointed in the offices of the county agricultural representatives. The letter stated that these women would be experts in home-nursing, household science, medical inspection, and would lecture at the various Womens Institutes.

"If we appointed a new official every time that the government at Toronto wanted one, this county would soon be full of officials," said Reeve Alex. L. Hutchinson of Charlotteville, evidently believing that the letter, in the first place, was inspired by the government.

"We don't want any more officials. We've got enough now and salary increases that are being asked by the officials that we already have, will make us count every dollar," commented Warden Taylor.

"The work that is outlined for this woman assistant to do would take an army of women," said Reeve Langford of Simcoe rising to his feet. "The Church and the Y.M.C.A. are draining the home of all its influence and now somebody wants the County Council to step in and complete the work. What do the agricultural representatives usually do? In times past the agricultural representative has occupied much of his time carting around a Y.M.C.A. representative to distribute bats and balls and sporting paraphernalia instead of disseminating the learning that was grafted into him at college. I tell you this idea of a woman assistant is a fad."

"Lately Governments have come to be very paternal," said Reeve J. L. Buck of Port Rowan. "In the old days their purpose was to legislate; but since labour has organized and has the custom of coming to the government for everything they want, the government has come to think that we are helpless, and that they must do everything for us. They have an official for every conceivable manner of work. Owing to the influence of labour, thousands of people are on the government's sick list, drawing compensation, just because they are too lazy to work. Of course the whole cost comes back to the people. Compensation was 55 per cent, now it is 65 per cent. Civilization is becoming very exepnsive because all these things come back to the consumer to pay."

Reeve H. H. Hawley, of North Walsingham, criticized the government's system of medical inspection in the schools, where the work is triplicated, the cost of which much must be borne by the township at the instance of the Government.

Deputy Reeve W. A. Mason, of Townsend, who will shortly bring in the educational committee's report, stated that he agreed entirely with Reeve Langford in that the Government is usurping the power of the parents in the home. "I shall have something to say about this when the educational report is brought in," he promised.

Reeve W. J. Schuyler of Towsend, was the only councillor who had anything to say in favour of the appointment of a woman assistant to the agricultural representative. "I am surprised at the Warden's remarks about this matter," he said. "I've heard a great deal of talk about Port Dover" (the Warden lives in Port Dover), "but if it is, it must be a wonderful place. it is, it must be a wonderful place. A woman assistant to do the duties outlined here would be of more value than the agricultural representative himself."

When the Warden called for a mover to either pass favorably on or throw out the suggestion there were so many willing to accompany it to the ashheap that it was unanimously given the go-by.

SAVAGE RIOTS OVER WEEK-END TAKE BIG TOLL

CLERGYMAN AND MANY OTHERS MURDERED IN BELFAST—ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND POUNDS DAMAGE IN CLARE.

ECLIPSES OTHER RIOTS

BELFAST, June 13. Canadian Press. A series of tragedies during the week end eclipsed in savagery any previous shootings. The victims included an aged clergyman, and three young business men, the latter being found in the northern section of the city.

Very Rev. James Finlay, of Bawnbay, County Cavan, 80 years old, and former Dean of Leightin, who had been a clergyman since 1867, on answering a knock at his door on Saturday night, was confronted by a number of masked men.

Without any parley they took him outside, and shot him dead. They then battered his head to pulp, and burned his residence.

William Kerr, barber, Malachy Halpenny, postman, and Alexander McBride, a saloon keeper (all residents of Belfast), were also slain.

Sharp rioting occurred in the York street area, 14 being wounded. Three men were found shot to death in various parts of the city.

An outbreak of arson in the Scariff district, County Clare, resulted in damage estimated at a hundred thousand pounds. Three persons were killed in County Cork.

STIFF BATTLE FOR SCOTSMEN

LOCALS LED AT THE HALF

CALGARY, June 13. (Canadjan Press.) — One of the hardest games of the tour to date, was the concensus of opinion versed by the touring Scottish professional footballers, at the conclusion of Saturday's match against the hand-picked Calgary eleven.

Despite the fact that the locals went down to a 5 to 1 defeat they forced the visitors to display their prowess, both as defensive and offensive organization, and accomplished what all their predecessors had failed to do by turning the round at half time in the possession of a lead over their opponents.

CENTRALIZED EXECUTIONS.

The Oxford County Council has started a campaign for the establishment of a central place for the detention and execution of convicted murderers, moved to that end by the recent hanging of Norman Garfield in the county town, Woodstock. A resolution passed by the Council, points out that the great nerve strain upon the inhabitants of small places and upon those living in the neighborhood of county jails would be spared by having the death sentence carried out in a central place and that vulgar curiosity would be reduced to a minimum. The various county councils of the province are to be asked to endorse this resolution, and undoubtedly the majority of the county bodies will be glad to do so. The matter should be strongly pressed, for it is thoroughly in the public interest, and the arguments in favour of centralized executions are so many and so potent that the authorities must surely make the change if they are satisfied that there is a strong public demand for a different system than the one now in vogue.

ENTERTAINING OUR VISITORS.

On Saturday Peterborough enjoyed a visit from a clever football club in the Merritton team, winners of the St. Catharines and District title and from a large number of Merritton residents who were enthusiastic enough to come all the way to Peterborough to see their favourites play. The team and their supporters gave the town they represented some worth while advertising, and it is hoped they carried away a good impression of Peterborough, although it must be admitted that in the entertainment of such visitors this city falls far behind the mark established in some centres. When the Peterborough baseball club visited Guelph last autumn they were royally entertained by the city officials and the Board of Trade, and the members of the team will never fail to recall the splendid treatment received. Peterborough might well take a leaf out of Guelph's book in this respect, and when a team from the other end of the province visits us, we should see that they are well looked after. It is an act of courtesy that costs very little and that carries its own reward.

A DIFFERENT ATTITUDE.

The meeting called by the "committee of one hundred" with a view to reorganizing the West Peterborough Conservative Association the other night, succeeded in demonstrating one thing, if nothing more. It showed that the old time interest in politics has to a considerable extext died away. Here apparently was a meeting destined to provide some political fireworks, and it was to be expected that there would be a large attendance of men anxious to be in close touch with developments. And yet fewer than one hundred people were there and definite action had to be postponed until a future meeting. The beating of the political war drum does not seem to arouse enthusiasm in these days, nor do the old slogans carry the appeal or the lure they did a decade ago. The public attitude has changed and no longer does everybody grow excited when there is a hint of an election campaign in the air. The indifference of most people to the political situation is scarcely a healthy sign, for it is idle to expect good government, either in the Dominion parliament, the Ontario legislature, or in the municipality, unless the voters show a proper interest in the selection of the men who are candidates for office.

DR. McPHERSON'S REPORT.

The first report of Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Inspector of Schools, to the Board of Education, furnishes ample justification for the decision of the Board to appoint an inspector and to maintain a closer watch upon the health of the Peterborough school children. The figures given by Dr. McPherson are somewhat startling. It is a shock to find that over ninety per cent. of the school children are below par in some respect and that forty per cent. of them have major defects, requiring treatment by physician or dent-ist. A very large percentage have bad teeth, many others have defective tonsils, there are numerous cases of children under par in nutrition and defective vision is frequently found. The system that Dr. McPherson is following is to inspect the children and in the case of major defects to notify the parents of the necessity of remedying the defect if possible. In this way it is hoped to remove many of the conditions that are injuring the health of the children or retarding their development. The importance of this not only from a healthy standpoint, but from its effect upon the education of the children, cannot be overestimated. The chief obstacle in the way of the success of Dr. McPherson's plan lies in the indifference of many parents or in their inability for financial reasons to carry out the recommendations of the Medical Inspector or the School Nurse. In his report Dr. McPherson draws attention to this feature of the work. "To accrue the maximum amount of benefit care must be taken that the children who are in need of medical treatment are not neglected on account of any condition, financial or otherwise."

This seems to be the crux of the whole matter and if the medical inspection of the school is to be made really effective some way will have to be found to overcome this obstacle.

THE OBSERVANCE OF MAGNA CHARTA DAY.

One of the most significant movements of the times is the effort of some of the most influential educators and publicists in the United States to establish what is called Magna Charta Day among the Seven Nations of the English-speaking world. The purpose of the movement is to inaugurate an annual commemoration of the signing of the Magna Charta as the great foundation of the liberties of the English-speaking peoples, and to use this Anglo-American unity as the greatest single factor in the world to-day for the establishment of peace.

The Seven Nations designated are the United States, Great Britain and Ireland, Canada, Newfoundland, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa. The lesser dependencies of the British Empire would also be included. The commemoration would perpetuate anually the centenary celebrations of peace between the United States and Great Britain, interrupted by the World War. The day selected is 5th June, the aniversary of the signing of the Magna Charta, which is the common political heritage of all the English-speaking peoples.

This celebration would commemorate the progressive steps in the achievements of freedom and constitutional government. These would include the moot, the assembly of the Anglo-Saxons, afterwards the witena gemot, the assembly of the wise, which contained the germ of Parliament; trial by jury; habeas corpus ;the right of petition to the Crown, culminating in the granting of this privilege to the Commons in the reign of Henry IV.; the Petition of Right, granted by Charles I. to the Commons in 1628; the death of the divine right of kings in the revolution under Cromwell; the Bill of Rights, 1689; and the development of the Cabinet from 1693 onward. This Parliamentary system of government, with a Cabinet as an executive council at its head, has won for the House of Commons the title "The Mother of Parliaments."

If to this bare recital of achievements in constitutional government there is added the gradual extension of the franchise, representation by population and pioneer leadership in labour legislation, one gets a brief survey of the vast political heritage which the English-speaking nations owe to Great Britain. It is felt by the committee that a proper commemoration of this great political heritage together with those of language literature and democratic deals is the greatest foundation on which to build an enduring peace for the world.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Lindsay and Merritton seem to have a poor idea of the proper conduct of guests, abusing Peterborough's prosperity by beating the city's baseball and football teams.

Strawberries at three boxes for a quarter are predicted. The public can stand a lot of announcements like that without feeling hurt.

With a circus and two military camps in Peterborough this week, the small boy will be satisfied that this is a happy old world after all.

Admiral Sims' leave of absence in Europe has been cancelled, which shows that the United States' government has more regard for the feelings of a certain section of the voters than has the Admiral.

The Wilson-Biggs controersy is growing warmer. We're neutral down this way, for we don't know much about Mr. Biggs and less about provincial roads.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The number of verses in popular songs is being reduced. Another sign of returning normalcy.

The Anti-Everything Society is becoming active. But cheer up, the first hundred years are the worst.

Although this city is well past the village state there are a number of pedestrians loose on the main streets who seem to think they're strolling in a hayfield.

A woman who sued her husband for divorce recently alleged that he had terrorized her. A number of husbands would pay well for his formula.

That time-worn reply of governments to deputations promising "serious consideration," is equivalent to the phrase fathers so often fall back on, "We'll see when the time comes."

You were so fair,
So fair your hair;
So fair your hair;
You laughed in glee
The meadows there.

You gave us joy,
Joy without cloy;
You made us once
Again a boy.

You died so young,
Young and unsung;
Gone like the breeze—
Let knell be rung.

You were so fine—
Fine to make wine,
You died too young,
O, dandelion!

CIRCUS DAY IS TOPIC OF HOUR

For Both Small Boys and Grown-Ups.

It's the John Robinson circus that's the topic of the hour for small boys of six as well as those of sixty. The bill-boards, barns and dead walls are announcing with all the fluency of pictorial art its coming. And already preparations are being made for the one big holiday event of the year, acknowledged to be better than Christmas and the Fourth of July put together, circus day with its manifold promises. About the time the milkman is making his rounds on the morning of Thursday, June 16th, the first of the four long trains will be slowly pulling into the railroad yards.

Much is promised by the management of the John Robinson Circus this season. The show has reached such a size that it is causing the railroads considerable uneasiness to handle the trains, and, if short, if they were any longer it would be impossible. European agents have sacked the Old World in quest for novelty acts.

There are nearly 400 performers who takee part in the big show programme. Every artist was selected because of some especial merit. New acts and faces will tend to eradicate the fallacy that "all circuses are ailke."

The riding displays will be headed by such equestrian notables as Cecil Lowanda, Joe Hodgini, Madame Hodgini, Nettie Dill and Irene Montgomery. The famous Nelson family of acrobats—the fourth generation of this celebrated act—will top the scores of stage and ring offerings, while the Nelson Sisters will captivate all with their aerial wire ballet—a series of whirlwind dances on the swaying steel thread. Fifty clowns, headed by Johnny Lowlow, Jr., will win chuckles and howls of glee from the children and those of us who still cherish youth in our hearts. The parade, twenty-two blocks long and all new, will leave the show grounds p.m. at 10 a.m. Performances at 2 and 8

MISSISSIPPI PROBLEM.

United States Geological Survey Answers River Question for Pupils.

"Does the Mississippi River flow uphill?" is frequently the subject of school debates, and such debates usually arise from inaccurate or indefinite uses af the term "uphill" and "downhill."

In answer to a correspondent who recently made this inquiry, the United States Geological Survey sent the following reply:

'Some people describe 'down' or 'at a lower elevation', when referring to two localities as the one nearer the center of the earth, and consider the 'upper' of the two as the one farther from the center. If only a small area is considered this is practically true, but in referring to widely separated localities, such as the source and the mouth of the Mississippi River, such a definition would lead to an absuridity and must therefore be incorrect.

"The surface of water at rest is a level surface, as that phrase is usually understood. Any particle of matter above such a surface will be at a higher elevation and if acted on by natural forces alone will tend to go down toward the water. Mean sea level is the surface generally accepted as the datum or reference plane for all toeographic elevations.

The river about 1,500 ft., above mean level. Therefore, the unrestrained water at the source of the river, under the action of natural forces, tends to go down to sea level at the river's mouth.

"As the equatorial radius of the earth is about 13 miles greater than the polar radius, and as the intermediate radii differ in length between these limits, and as the source of the Mississippi is nearly 19 degrees of latitude farther north than its mouth, it follows that the mouth of the river is about 4 miles farther from the center of the earth than its source. The combined effect of gravity and centrifugal force makes the water of the river run downhill although actually the water moves away from the center of the earth in so doing."

THE WEATHER

A number of good showers during the last few days have gladdened the heart of the farmer, as well as the owner of a vegetable garden in the city. The amount on Saturday was .26 of an inch, and that of Sunday night or Monday morning, .28 of an inch. These showers will do much good as they were greatly needed.—W. ?.

WITH banners, with drums they marched away, their eyes lit with the love of country, and reflecting the far gleam of adventure—

Stumbling, led by the hand, with no drums and no banners, they returned—sightless!

For you, for love of their country, they entered the street of everlasting darkness.

But they were not left to gloomy thoughts and self-pity. In Pearson Hall, a fine old-fashioned house on Beverley Street, Toronto, our blinded Canadian heroes have been taught a new usefulness. STAGE HANDS STRIKE.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A strike of theatrical stage hands, whose wage demands are creating a difficult situation for Broadway managers, was forecast here to-day.

Following the dramatic action of George M. Cohan in threatening to close all his shows, announcement was made that officials of the Stage Hands' Union have projected new wage scales which will probably be adopted by affiliated unions throughout the country.

One of New York's largest theatres will answer the new demands by laying off all its scene shifters and hands and turning to the moving pictures.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

RECONCILIATION.

Chapter 74.

"Noreen? You mean to tell me that you have known—known all the time?" Leonard's hands clutched my shoulders, and his breathing came jerky and between sobs as he gasped out the questions. "You don't mean that you really care—have cared in spite of this?"

His big shoulders slid from the couch and leaned toward me where I knelt there by his side in the darkness. I gathered his head against my breast and held him tightly. I felt his left arm slip my shoulder and encircle my waist.

"Yes, I have known—known for a very long time. It has been hard—so hard waiting. But I knew that you would surely come to yourself again—your best self. You have not been your true self, not the real man I love."

I had to stop speaking. Hot tears welled up and choked me. So I just let my head drop forward and rest against his thick black hair.

The clock in the hall ticked on and on. Once I remember hearing its chimes strike the hour. I think it was 12 o'clock.

Leonard's arms tightened around me and I could feel his heart pounding against my side.

He had come to me with the strong resolve that he would release me, give me up—now he was clinging to me, holding me tightly to him.

And in spite of all this terrible anguish, I was happy, happy for the first time in many months.

"I can't understand—I can't understand it!" he said, raising his head from my arms and trying to look into my face through the darkness. A few rays from the open window disclosed the haggard expression on his own countenance. "I did not know you would care like this. My heart has never really stopped loving you, but my God you have taught me what real love is! And to think I might have lost it—killed it forever."

He threw back his head and drew the back of his hand across his eyes as if to shut out some hideous sight.

He went on speaking without looking at me.

"I have been as a sick man—ill mentally. A disease of malignant, overwhelming power weakened me, took my strength, the strength to do right—to resist. It has not been because I did not want to resist. Don't think I have been happy. I have been miserable. I had the conscience and I had the temptation and they have been in deadly combat. I want you to know that. It has been the one bit of gold that has come out of the dross, that I have despised myself—that I despise myself now, and the hate has killed the weakness," as he finished speaking his arms dropped listlessly against his sides.

"Can't you see, dear? Can't you see that that is why I have been able to keep on loving you, because I did understand all that. I knew you were ill. I knew you were unhappy. I knew it was not like you, not really you. And it was because I believed in the real you that I was able to wait—had the strength to. I have suffered. We have suffered, both of us." The tears rushed from my eyes and fell moist and warm against my hands as they rested in my lap.

Leonard caught them almost roughly and pressed his hot lips against them again and again. He did not try to speak. We sat for a long time in silence.

How silent the summer night was! And how silent the house save for the ceaseless ticking of the hall clock.

Leonard slipped his arm across my shoulder and drew me towards him. Words were inadequate now. Far into the small hours of the night we sat there huddled together on the floor by the couch.

Tomorrow—Benediction.

GARY ATTACKS RED THEORIES

"If our people study the facts about this vital question, as they should do concerning every important matter, there will be no epidemic here; they will learn and act accordingly. Homes will not be robbed and desecrated here through anarchy and brute force.

"Capital, whether invested in charitable, religious, educational institutions, or commercial or industrial enterprises, will be protected and, as a corollary, the rights of the people without discrimination will be conserved.

"If it should be urged that accumulated wealth exceeding certain amounts and possessed by organized capital should be subjected to governmental inquiry and restriction in its use, there might be no objection to a fair and reasonable enactment covering this question, provided organized labor should also be subjected to the same statute.

"The door of opportunity for legitimate advancement is open to both capital and labor. Both should be grateful for the privilege. Neither should be permitted to abuse it."

Mr. Gary declared that the platform of labor union leaders is the antithesis of the principle of equal opportunity. He asserted that, in dustrially, the individual can realize the full advantage of the opportunities which this country offers only through the principles of the open shop as distinguished from the dominance and arbitrary control of the union labor leaders. He added:

"The open shop means freedom to the employee to engage in any line of employment, at any place and time, upon terms and conditions voluntarily agreed upon between the employee and the employer.

"The closed shop means that one desiring employment can secure a place only on terms approved by the union labor leaders or leaders having jurisdiction over the particular closed shop.

"The great majority of the people of this country stand for the open sea, open ports of all countries, open covenants with other nations, open discussion of all proper questions and the open shop; and with this freedom and justice to all."

is scheduled to exhibit in Peterborough Thursday, June 16th, announces an aerial butterfly ballet as one of its many features. Superficially, this doesn't seem to mean much. It is only when the declaration is made that there are over twenty pretty and shapely girls in the display, and that their entire performance is given while swinging by their teeth in the dome of the vast canvas pavilion, that the remarkable character of the exhibition is realized.

At a given signal, and with a fanfare from the band, the aerial dancers, exquisite of figure and diaphanously-draped, are drawn to the top of the amphitheatre. Suspended solely by their teeth, the arms and legs of the pretty figurants are absolutely free; and for five minutes they go through the measures of a fascinating dance, using their limbs with a freedom and grace that is as beautiful as it is surprising. When, finally, they descend to the arena, they appear as composed and smiling as though they had just come from a swanky reception.

How many young women were able to learn the difficult feat of performing in the air while suspended by the teeth is one of the features of this daringly beautiful act that makes it so surprising. This, however, is only one of the scores of acts in the John Robinson circus that, it is declared, gives the oldest big show its distinction.

AERIAL BALLET WITH ROBINSON.

Circus Feature Which Delights and Startles.

Did you ever hang by your teeth? And, while you were in that startling position, did you ever try to do a skirt dance or twist yourself into a kroot? It's dollars to doughnuts that if you are not circus folks you never did. And, as a matter of fact, it isn't every circus performer who can accomplish the feat. It takes a peculiar kind of dexterity, a strength in the muscles of the jaw that is phenomenal and a daring that is quite oblivious to fear or "nerves."

PLAYGROUNDS OF QUEBEC

To the summer vacationist weary of the conventional summer resorts, the Province of Quebec makes an especially strong appea. The old and the new are here found side by side. The visitor may tread where some of the great pages of history have been written in blood. The lover of the quaint and curious may search out places which are in the twentieth century but are not of it. The artist may revel in the sight of the grandest of scenery amid the mountains, in the valleys and on the Gaspe Peninsula — by the sea. For the sportsman there are unrivalled forests and streams, lakes and shores. Within a day's journey of the cities are regions as yet so little disturbed that the moose, caribou and deer occasionally visit the farmyards of the settlers. Among the cities are the commercial capital of Canada, Montreal, a happy combination of New York and Paris, with a dash of New Orleans giving it spice and flavor" —and the oldest city on the American continent, Quebec. The Canadian National Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome booklet descriptive of many of the attractive summer resorts in Quebec. It is profusely illustrated and contains a splendid four color map of the Province of Quebec. A free copy for the asking from Canadian National-Grand Trunk Agents or from C. E. MANY CHILDREN AT TRINITY FOR FLOWER SUNDAY

REV. DR. WILSON DREW LESSONS FROM GOD'S CARE OF FLOWERS—BEAUTIFUL SERVICE

Trinity Church yesterday held its annual Flower Sunday, and both services were aesthetically ebautiful. Fragrant flowers this year, unlike the custom in otner years of having a flower-filled design, simply adorned the dull oak of the pulpit and choir, and two huge baskets containing the tributes brought by the school children were placed before the pulpit. The Sunday School marched to the morning service and filled the body of the church which had been reserved for them. Practically every student, from the youngest tot in the Primary to the grown-ups in the Bible Classes, had a bouquet and the baskets were abundantly filled and contained flowers suffice to brighten many sick rooms in this city. Several hundred students took part in the service. The splendid choir, under Mr. G. H. King and the well-developed Sunday school orchestra, directed by Mr. Rupert Gliddon, took a conspicuous part in the morning service. The first appearance of the orchestra in the church at full strength was pleasing to all members of the congregation, and its rendition of several difficult numbers was complimentary to its leader and each individual player. The united Sunday School sang suitably to the flower service.

Dr. J. P. Wilson, former and first pastor of the church, and who was largely responsible for the consummation of its building, preached at the morning service with special reference to the Sunday School. He referred to Matthew 6, Christ's Sermon on the Mount, in which he speaks of flowers in these words: "And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they toil not neither, neither do they spin: And yet I say Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." This passage, quoted and re-quoted down the centuries, remains as pure and beautiful to-day as twenty centuries ago.

Flowers Are From God.

Dr. Wilson, with infinite tenderness, compared the flowers to the little child. "Jesus loves everything He ever made, and that's why He loves you," Dr. Wilson told the children. He loves the flowers and they're everywhere even in Greenland and in the desert. You can never get away from God, for the flowers are everywhere, and that is God. God cares for flowers." Continuing, he told how every need of the flowers was met by Him. No one can form the colors of the flowers, he said. The delicate hues refuse to be copied. In olden times they tried to reproduce them, but always failed. "How do they grow? Who knows? Nobody knows. We do not know how a little earth, a little water, a little sun and a little seed will produce one of these beautiful flowers."

As God produces beautiful flowers, so He produces beautiful characters. In the dank and ooze of a river bottom may grow the pure and stainless water lily, and no matter what may be the surroundings, no matter whence the roots may reach boys and girls can be as pure and sweet and clean as the lily. As flowers are useful to the bee, Dr. Wilson's message to the children was to be useful to fathers and mothers, and he also told the little folk to be kind and polite to parents, brothers and sisters. Dr. Wilson spoke of the death of flowers, making the comparison to a child closer and purity and beauty of soul all the more obliging.

Dr. Wilson's words were particularly meant for the children, but the older people who crowded every pew to capacity did not miss an expression from the minister to whom they became so endeared during his pastorate.

Rev. F. E. Malott expressed the congregation's appreciation of the sermon. The affection in which he was held was not only because of his kind, straightforward manner, but because of the conduct of his pastorate during the trying war years. He assisted every cause, and his Sunday sermons were full of hope even when the hours were darkest, and it is for his confidence in the outcome of his uplifting and inspiring words of condolence to those of the congregation who lost dear ones at the front that he will always be remembered.

The flowers given by the students were distributed to the sick and to the hospitals following the services.

GHOST GUARDS WOMAN'S STORY.

Stormy Life of Mrs. Ann Palmer, Strangled a Century Ago.

Very little ever happens at Montego Bay, writes Marion Ryan in the London Daily Mail. It is a quiet, dreamy corner of Jamaica, where tropical verdure edges the blue caribbean, where the weather is always warm and the air fragrant with the scents of growing things, and beauty fills the soul with peace.

But something has happened recently which has stirred everyone out of the habitual somnolence. The negroes declare there is a "hant" wandering round the fields and plantations. It comes from Rose Hall, and it is the "hant" of Mrs. Ann Palmer, who lived her stormy life there over a century ago.

It was such a stormy life that she has never been forgotten, and while many people have declared that they saw her ghost wandering about the ruins of Rose Hall, she has never wandered elsewhere till recently.

When she was mistress of Rose Hall—then the greatest estate on the island of Jamaica — her power was unlimited. She killed and tortured her slaves, murdered three husbands, and would probably have made away with the fourth, for her "slogan" a few months after marriage is said to have run: "If I survive I will have five."

But Number Four did not await developments. He disappeared; and shortly after this a group of slaves entered her bedroom at night and strangled her. No one was ever punished for it, and so superstitious were the negroes about her that none of them could be persuaded to bury her, and her body was finally carried to the grave by neighboring planters.

No one cared to live in Rose Hall, nothing prospered there, and finally it fell into ruins, undisturbed by all save the wraith of Mrs. Ann Palmer, who was sometimes seen by a frightened negro chancing to linger there after the shadows fell.

For years the ghost has seemed to be at peace or else the negroes have forgotten to invent stories of seeing it, but recently Ann Palmer has taken to disturbing Montego Bay by an occasional stroll.

More than one negro has come with trembling lips to his white employer to say that he has seen a woman clad in a long white night dress, her black hair floating in the breeze, her hands clasped as if begging for mercy. It is the beautiful, wicked Ann Palmer—or rather her "hant"—and to see the "hant" of such a woman must mean trouble for the luckless negro upon whom her glance may fall.

"But why has she appeared again?" I asked.

It seems that she is resentful of the fact that there is a novelist in the neighborhood looking up details of her life and career. He intends to write her story in full, and he spends much time at Rose Hall. He, however, has never seen the "hant." She has not appeared to him—only to distracted negroes who have been telling tales of her their fathers or grandfathers told them.

It is difficult since her wraith has been seen to get any more of these stories, so the novelist told me.

CONSTELLATIONS.

The nearest star is 25,000,000,000 miles away. Don't laugh, it's a good bet. Looks like a Liberty Loan without the dollar sign or a Naval Appropriation, eh? And, speaking of figures, it would take a man nine months to count from one to ninety million. If you don't believe me try it.

Which brings me to the question of constellations. These are groups of stars. In Latin con means together and stella is the word for star, thus providing Noah Webster an alibi for his definition.

I too need an alibi for discussing anything so trivial in bloody war time. It's this: in the last analysis (quoting the authorities) 'tis a naval war. But it won't be a naval war if our navigators are not up to snuff on constellations. The whole blooming bunch of battleships will be high and dry on the beach.

The Ancients, J. Caesar and beyond, had names for constellations. Each name grew out of a sailor's yarn about that particular group of twinklers. But all real seagoing yarns are lies, so it is not surprising that the names are blackheads on the rosy countenance of Truth.

Take the Great Bear. Holy Scuttlebuts! It's no more like a bear than Bill Bryan is. The British call it a plow. We Americans, thirsty souls, speak of it as the Big Dipper.

Follow the curve of the Dipper's handle and you come to magnificent Arcturus surrounded by a choke-bore splatter of minor glints. "Bootes" (the Herdsman), say the silly Ancients. Christopher!—but then their wine was better than ours.

Not far from this pair we have Cassiopea's Chair. Really it might be a chair such as your five year old boy would draw. But Cassie must have got an awful backache and needed some Peruna after sitting in it.

Corvus means crow but it's stars make a perfect cutter's mainsail. Leo, constellation of the lion, has it in six bright stars forming a sickle. However a sailor is not supposed to know anything about such things. Cygnus (the Swan) is marked by Vega. The drug which would make a star-gazer see a Swan in that arrangement would mean a fortune to its discoverer. We could live in third-floor-backs and count roses red and arbors where only garbage cans and alleys stood before.

Ye Futurists bear with me: Pegasus, winged horse of the heavens, is square as a brick. Orion, mighty hunter, has three diamonds for studs and a couple outboards for cuff-links. Mighty Hunter in the Music Halls, no doubt was meant.

Irreverence, you exclaim? Ah, perhaps. But these are bitter times, forsooth, and we naval navigators must leave our peace-time Stars for cold and matter-of-fact constellations as seen from the flying bridge.

MILLBROOK MAN SAYS PRAYER AND FAITH CURED HIM

HAD TRIED DOCTORS' TREATMENT TO NO AVAIL—A RECENT HAPPENING.

(From Kingston Standard)

The following remarkable testimony of a cure, written by the person who was cured, and amplified by the witness of a person who claims to be conversant with the facts, has been received by The Standard from the persons concerned.It is submitted in the same form in which it has been received, and will make very interesting reading at this time, when healing by faith and prayer has become a live subject of discussion among many sincere churchgoers:

Mr. Luxon's Statement

"It is a pleasure to make known to other sufferers the power of prayer. For five months I suffered terribly with a pain in my jaw. I took medicine for over a year, but got worse. I even called in the dentist to see if he could find the trouble, but he failed as my teeth are all out. My physician and also the dentist advised X-rays, so I got out of bed and went to Peterboro and had five X-rays taken. The doctor advised me to go to the hospital, as it would require severe treatment to kill the pain. I got very weak, being unable to eat with the pain of my jaw. I had no blood, the doctor said I had anaemia. Miss M. R. Brown called and told Mrs. Luxon and I about God healing people of all kinds of diseases and sicknesses, as she is in the work of divine healing and had witnessed wonderful miracles, so I asked Miss Brown if she would pray for the pain to leave my jaw. She said "Certainly, I will ask Jesus to heal your law," and in a very short time the pain was gone.

Being afflicted with anaemia, I was still very weak, then on Monday, May 9th., I collapsed. The doctor was called in and left medicine, but I kept getting worse, vomiting everything I would take. On Friday May 13th, my friends thought I was dying, was colorless, I had no blood, then on Saturday, May 14th we called in Miss Brown to have her pray the prayer of faith for the healing of my body and when the prayer of faith was offered I was instantly helped to such an extent that Mrs. Luxon and my daughter, and a gentleman friend who was in my home at the time, instantly perceived the change for the better. My eyes got brighter and color came to my lips. That night I had a good sleep, and have been improving and gaining every day and have never vomited since May 14th., retaining all my food.

Miss Brown claims no honor, but gives Jesus all the praise, and claims the man or woman who says the days of miracles are over is just ignorant of history, and she also teaches that anyone in need of healing for soul or body if they meet the conditions, Jesus will make them "perfectly whole."

This being my first opportunity to hear of the wonderful power of God made known to us through divine healing, so I certainly praise God for what He has done for me.

THOMAS LUXON.

Millbrook, Ont.

Miss Brown's Statement.

"I wish to mention that this testimony of Mr. T. Luxon is true. I have witnessed many people who have been cured by God's power when dectors had given them up. Any sick persons wishing to learn of God's power of healing, write me enclosing a three-cent stamp for reply.

INCARCERATED CONSTABLE DID THE GARFIELD ACT.

Broke Out of Cobourg Jail, But Was Soon Recaptured.

PORT HOPE, June 11. — Woodstock is not to have all the sensation. Yesterday the spotlight was turned on Cobourg, when Provincial Constable Andrews, being held on a charge of burglary and also an offence under the O.T.A., climbed the jail wall and escaped. A large motor truck which had been seized, was standing in the jail yard. Climbing up on the truck, Andrews had no trouble in climbing over the wall. He followed the lake shore road, and when he reached the turn to the main gravel road he climbed one of the large willow trees, there intending, no doubt, to remain until darkness came on.

A couple of ladies happened to pass, and noticed Andrews in hiding, and reported the same to Chief Ruse. In company with the night constable, they motored out and had no difficulty in finding the prisoner. He was returned to the jail after he had enjoyed his liberty for about four hours.

It is to be hoped that this escape will have the effect of having the officials hurry along the trial. It would appear that a good deal of time is wasted in disposing of this case. Further, Andrews should keep in mind that the last prisoner to escape from jail was punished by hanging.

Silken Fabrics

All White and Glistening in the Summer Sunlight

Have you succumbed to the enchantment of the bright June skies? Have you yet stood before the mirror and viewed yourself in summer garb, or have you just visualized yourself in some cool, airy costume and given little attention to the fabric or the details of its make-up? If you have not decided then take our advice

And Let It Be White—ALL WHITE

We can submit a fine range of beautiful fabrics that will be cool, and moreover, cool-looking. They have style and a rich sheen, and they have washing qualities that will stand a rigid test.

There is a Wash Satin in an extra heavy weight —sixteen mumme, in fact—when made up it will hang as a Skirt should; not clinging to the figure or kicking in at the bottom. It is 36 inches wide and $3.00 a yard.

Then there is a Pussy Willow Silk that washes. It is a delightful fabric, both in weight and appearance. It is 40 inches wide, and sells at $3.75 yard.

Other grades of Wash Satins and Silk Skirtings range from $2.35.

FINALLY WE COME TO MIGEL SILKS—They are the final word in the art of weaving and designing. It would be difficult to picture anything more distinctive or unusual. Their texture is wonderful, and their patterns compel your admiration. We suggest that you inspect them and come to know the beauty of "Moon Glo" and "Tally-Ho"—two of the most favoured Migel fabrics.

Cream Flannel for Skirts

It is surprising how many Cream Flannel Skirts there will be this season providing all the Cream Flannel we have sold goes into Skirts. We have a nice quality that is underpriced at $1.48 yard. It is 31 inches wide.

The Summer's Corset Modes

A Corset that gives the look of being uncorseted—that is the secret. Our Corset Department is showing a wealth of modes fundamentally correct. For ease of motion, for freedom in outdoor sports, and for the straight, slender, supple look so much to be desired, we recommend WARNER RUST-PROOF or NEMO CORSETS.

Little Feet Demand Extra Care

The policy of this Store regarding Children's Shoes is a matter for thought. So many Men and Women go dragging their sick feet about for years because as Children their Shoes were misfits. Little growing feet demand Shoes that will work with nature — not take toll from future years. We will not sell your Child an imperfectly made or improperly fitted Shoe. Leave this grave matter in our hands. The wearing quality of our Children's Shoes will quite as efficiently meet your demands.

We Dare Say That Dish Washing

to most women is the most disagreeable household task of all. It can be avoided, however, at mid-day, for a 50c Lunch is served in our Tea Room from 11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Something New in Baby Ribbon

It is double-faced Satin, with a contrasting colour on the reverse side. We can imagine the good use that women with original minds will put it to. At 25c a yard there is Grey and Lavender and Pink and Light Pink. A narrower width at 15c a yard comes in Pink and Grey, Mauve and Grey, and Pink and Pale Pink.

Four New Shades in Ribbon

It is a 6½ inch width and a rare quality of Satin. The maker's names for them are Guinette, Bayadere Colibri, and orchid. They are worthy of such uncommon names for their tones are distinctive. However, only the last name is comprehensible, so we will have to give you as near as we can, in ordinary language, their true colours: Guinette is like Burnt Orange. Bayadere a deep, rich Blue, and Colibri like Turquoise. Price, $1.15 yard.

The Charm of a Touch of Lace on Collar and Cuffs is doubled by the use of one of these new arrivals. One is in petals, and their shape and pattern describe a butterfly. It is $1.25 yard. Many others in novel patterns, some Filet and others less open in pattern are priced at 50c, 75c and 95c a yard.

Pretty Vestees

To form the front of the Sweater or the Blouse of the Dress. There is a wide variety, from the fine Net Laces to the heavier and popular varieties in Ecru. We have them as low as 94c a Vestee, and others up to $1.50.

"Monarch Dove" and Floss, 25c Ball

Both of these lines have come down in price. As soon as we received notification from the mill we dropped our price too, even though we purchased our stock on the higher market.

Now selling at 25c ball.

Harum-Scarum Frocks for Little Girls

They are made in Bloomer style, with elastic knees—otherwise they resemble a one-piece Dress. At $4.50 they are made of Gingham and Chambray combined, and at $4.95 are plain Chambray. Practical little garments for warm weather. Sizes 4 to 10.

Armfuls of New Shirts For Men

No one Man will need armfuls, but we want him to have at least that many to select from. For then we know he will be able to choose the patern and fabric he likes. We make sure to always have lots, and right now we have more than ever before.

There is one range we want to speak about. The material is a fine Madras, and the stripes are in clusters of four. Obtainable in Pink, Lavender, Blue, or Black. A soft collar to match goes with each Shirt. Priced at $3.50.

At $4.75 there is a series made of French Shirtings in Jacquard patterns, with fine stripes. The textures are very fine, and the patterns are woven in, not stamped.

SCARLET FEVER CASES INCREASE DUE TO CONCEALMENT, SAYS M.O.H.

TWENTY-FOUR SCARLET FEVER PATIENTS UNDER TREATMENT AT QUEEN MARY HOSPITAL DURING MAY—MAINTENANCE COST HIGHER.

Of the 29 patients who were cared for in the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital during May 24 were scarlet fever cases. These were only the patients admitted to the hospital. According to Dr. T. W. H. Young, M. O.H., there have been other cases which were concealed from the health authorities. He believed that this was the cause of the recrudescence of this disease last month. Some householders left home as soon as they learned that they were to be quarantined, and had to be rounded up by Sanitary Inspector Stapleton. Dr. Young intimated that some citizens had manifestly failed to co-operate with the Health Department, with the result that there had been a considerable increase in the number of cases which were reported.

The number of patients in the Queen Mary hospital on May 1st was 9; during the month 20 were admitted, and on June 1st 20 were still under care..

This outbreak of scarlet fever accounted for the increased expenditures at the hospital during May, Dr. Young stated, but this was partly offset by increased receipts from the patients.

A communication was received from North Monaghan Council offering to pay $4 a day to cover all charges for each patient from the township admitted to the Queen Mary hospital.

Mr. Mason contended that the per diem cost at the Isolation hospital was $4.15 for each patient. "Why should we pay their 15 cents?" he added.

Mr. Lynch replied that it was only a matter of fifteen cents the city would forego. He considered that it might "look small" if the township was required to pay the last cent.

Mr. Mason said that the cost today might be $4.50 and that as a simple matter of business North Monaghan should pay the full charges for the care of their patients.

The Board decided to withhold a reply to the North Monaghan Council until the present daily cost of caring for a patient is ascertained from the matron of the hospital.

Statement of Expenditures.

The financial report from the Isolation hospital showed that $3,970.31 had been expended to April 30 and $786.47 during May, making a total of $4,756.78 to the 1st of June.

The itemized statement for May was as follows:

Drugs and medicine	$ 35.75
Fuel	13.00
Furniture	16.02
Groceries	301.17
Light	5.17
Salaries	351.66
Incidentals	63.70
	$786.47

Need Water Service.

At the reques tof James Pammet and other residents of Euclid avenue the Board recommended to the Council that a water main be laid on that street from Concession street to Erskine street. The wells on Euclid avenue are fed from a swail to the north-east and the water has been condemned. Last year typhoid fever was epidemic in that neighborhood. The residents are unable to use well water and the city water is not yet available to them. A petition for a main was fully signed, but some of the signatories afterwards withdrew their names.

Mr. Lynch said that no person had the right to prevent the improvement of conditions making for the health of the community.

Want More Cream.

Because of the fact that the milk supply is enriched during the summer months Mr. Mason moved, seconded by Mr. Lynch, that the Council be requested to pass a by-law raising the content percentage of butter fat from the present standard of 3 to 3.25 for the period from June 1 to September 30.

Nuisance in West End

Liquid seepage from the cess pool at Mount St. Joseph is creating a nuisance in the north-west end of the city and a menace to public health, according to reports to the Board this summer. It was freely admitted that the condition is becoming intolerable and that some action should be taken as soon as possible to provide proper drainage.

Mr. Mason moved, seconded by Mr. Lynch that the Council be requested to endeavour to make a sewer connection to the Mount.

SAYS THE CITY POLICE FAILED TO NOTIFY HIM PROMPTLY OF ABSENCE OF T. MOLONEY, REPORTED MISSING

PROVINCIAL CONSTABLE STRATTON INTIMATES THAT ASSISTANCE OF PRESS WOULD HAVE BEEN SOUGHT AT ONCE HAD HE BEEN GIVEN INFORMATION.

DISAPPEARED ON FRIDAY

Only one clue to the whereabouts of Thomas Moloney who disappeared mysteriously at Nassau on Friday morning has been given the police to work on. At 11 a.m. today Mr. Moloney's daughter called the police station and informed Sergeant Deannard that she had received word that her father was seen in Norwood on Saturday. This information will be followed up by the Provincial Officer T. Y. Stratton and A. Moore, High County Constable who was also called in on the search to-day.

Thomas Moloney disappeared while on his way to his brother-in-law's, Michael Leahy, Lot 4, Concession 11 of Douro on Friday morning. He was 60 years of age, a retired farmer and lived at 469 iGlmour street. He had been melancholy for some time but when he left his home to take the 8.20 train for Lakefield nothing unusual in his appearance was noticed by his family. He had been working for his brother-in-law putting in fences and he expected to complete the job in one or two days. At 8.45 he got off the train at Nassua and stood talking to the lady school teacher, who, also got off the train, for a few minutes. According to her he was quite rational and started off down the road for Leahy's which is about two miles from Nassua. He was not seen again and enumerators, who came up the road fifteen minutes later, advised P. C. Stratton they did not pass man walking down the road.

Mr. Moloney stood five feet ten inches, was slim and of fair complexion. He has fair hair and fair moustache turning grey. He was wearing a dark grey coat and vest and grey striped trousers, a white straw hat with black ribbon and fine black laced boots. He can be identified by a noticeable limp in his left leg when walking.

For some time the missing man had complained of severe pains in the ears and he had been despondent in spirits.

P. C. Stratton complains that he was not given any information by the local police until Sunday afternoon. He is Provincial officer looking after the county and claims he should have been notified immediately the police were advised Friday afternoon. In not notifying him they failed to show a spirit of co-operation, he declares. As soon as he was advised, he gave the description and circumstances of the disappearance to the Examiner, which the police failed to do, thereby delaying the discovery of the man and showing a callous disregard of the assistance the press has been in clearing up disappearances in the past. Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Moloney offered a reward of $50 for the discovery of Thomas Moloney dead or alive. Since the disappearance the canal has been dragged without any success and the woods and countryside for miles has been scoured by dozens of searchers without a single clue.

PIANO FOR THE SMALLER PARLOR

The construction of the present day home is such that makes necessary in many cases a piano of smaller dimensions than the usual sixed upright piano. Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter street, Peterboro, meets this need in most complete fasion in their new miniature upright model. This piano is possessed of all the sweetness of tone and delicacy of touch that is common to all their makes of pianos, while in size it covers the other requirements. The price is also moderate for so high-class an instrument, namely, $600.

NEEDED THINGS.

By George Matthew Adams.

The more complex does life become, in its extra-ordinary paces ahead, the more is there a demand—rather, a necessity—that the simple essentials do not become starved.

The baby smiles—and waxes fat—on its single food—milk. But as it grows and becomes more intelligent, it takes into its stomach dozens of foods that only cause rebellion there.

So that God starts the muman being out right—with a perfect food. Suggestive of what he ought to think out as his growth in knowledge tells himabout other foods that better sustain the man. But men forget so!

It is the same with the building of character. The essential things—the needed things—like sympathy, kindness, helpfulness, honesty, understandableness sweetness of spirit, courage, forebearance, control—these things can never be replaced by their opposites without loss of power and of happiness.

I consider the teaching of these things in our public schools of vastly greater importance than how to divide iron or paper, or some other whatnot into its constituent parts.

Hilaire Belloc, the noted English writer, once wrote a very beautiful couplet. Here it is:

There's nothing worth the wear of winning
But laughter and the love of friends!

When money and fame and comfortable ways come round, still there is sure to remain the call and longing for the —needed things. Ever—throughout the winding and rolling on of Time and its agents—must the heart be fed—that the mind may live!

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, June 13 (Canadian Press). — Extreme weakness was shown by prominent issues at the opening of to-day's stock market.

The lowest records for the year or more were made by U. S. Steel, Crucible Steel, and Mexican Petroleum. The latter suffered most severely the initial decline of 2 3-4 points soon being extended to 4 3-4 points. Pan-American Petroleum, Houston Oil, Royal Dutch, General Electric, Chandler Motor, Baldwin Locomotive and American Woollen, comprised other reactionary stocks.

Nominal gains among rails and specialties were cancelled within the first half-hour.

Liquidation broadening during the morning, selling embraced the largest variety of issues for any similar period since the reaction began.

American Car, General Electric, and Pullman lost 1 3- 4to 3 5-8, Pacific mail fell 4 points. United States Steel at 75 1-2 was the lowest since 1920, and Republic and Bethlehem Steels broke 2 and 2 3-4 points. Sugars and other good specialties made further concessions to unfavourable trade conditions. Junior rails lost 1 to almost 2 points, but a few of the dividend-paying transportations, notably Louisville and Nashville were firm.

Call money opened at 6 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Hot weather and black rust made the wheat market soar to-day. July and September deliveries both went to a new high price record for the season. There was a general rush to buy, and despite considerable profit-taking on the part of holders, reactions were only transient.

Opening quotations, which ranged from 1 to 4 1-4 cents higher, were followed by further gains.

Corn advanced with wheat. After opening at 1-8 to 1 3-4 cents higher, the market scored additional upturns.

Oats were lifted by the strength of other cereals opening 3- 4to 1 3-8 cents higher, and then continuing to harder.

Weakness in hog values had a depressing effect on provisions.

TORONTO.

TORONTO June 13 (Canadian Press). — The bear element again had matters all their own way in this morning's trading on Toronto Stock Exchange and aided by drastic recessions in the price of leading issues on the New York Exchange, succeeded in forcing stocks generally to low levels for the current movement.

Canada Steamships Preferred declined 1 3-4 to 47 while C. P. R. lost 1 1-2 at 123 1-2 Riordon and Spanish River were both down one point at 14 and 62 respectively, and Abitibi was extremely weak at 32 3-4.

Resumption of selling in Dominion Steel Corporation sent that stock to a new low market at 25 1-2. The rally, however, brought about a slight recovery with the close at 26 3-4, a net loss of 1-4.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange steady. Demand $3.73 7-8; Canadian dollars, 10 15-16 per cent. discount.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts medium, trade steady. Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $8.50 to $9.00; butcher, choice, $8.50 to $9.00; butcher cows, medium, $4.00 to $6.00; calves, $10.00 to $12.50; lambs, $14.00 to $17.00; hogs, selects, $9.75 to $10.00.

BURNS.

Injuries of this kind are not due to the action of heat alone, they may be produced by intense cold, by electricity, or by chemicals of various kinds.

Their severity depends upon the duration of contact, as well as the intensity of heat of the burning agent.

Some tissues also offer greater resistance than others to burning agencies.

The horny hand of a blacksmith resists heat better than the delicate skin of a little child.

Burns are frequently classified as of the first, second or third degree, according to their extent and severity, but the results in the different degrees of burning are not the same; a first degree burn in some individuals might be fatal, especially if a large area were involved, while in others it would not be at all serious.

In the simplest burns from any source, no matter how extensive or how limited in area there are redness, irritation, and even inflammation of the skin, but the skin is not blistered and destroyed.

In deeper burns or burns of the second degree, there are blistering and extensive inflammation.

In burns of the third detgree the tissues are charred and destroyed and the constitutional effects are very profound

The result or outcome depends on the depth and extent of the injury the susceptibility of the skin to the action of heat and the general powers of resistance of the patient; it also depends upon individual characteristics, on the par or organ burned, and on the age, sex and temperament of the patient

If as much as one third or one half of the skin is burned, even to a slight degree death within 24 or 48 hours would not be unusual.

In the burns of the first degree in addition to the conditions above mentioned, there are also swelling and pain, in some cases there are shock and fever and at length the dead skin peels off.

In burns of the second degree pain, redness, and swelling are more decided and there are large or small blisters which may suppurate and cause very bad sores and sometimes heal very slowly with great contraction of tissue and extensive scarring.

The shock in burns of this character may be profound and attended with ulceration of the mucous membrane of the stomach and intestines and with congestion of other viscera.

In the burns of the third degree not only is there more or less destruction of tissue by charring but the constitutional symptoms are severe, all the internal organs are intensely congested, and unconsciousness and death are the usual result.

In burns of any degree brain irritation and convulsions are not unusual consequences, and they also are frequently followed by pneumonia, bronchitis, and larnygitis.

TWO SETS OF CHILDREN.

Is it possible to treat children with a grown-up consideration, to try to get their viewpoint, to respect their individuality,—and still not make them bumptious and overbearing?

I once had very decided notions on that subject. I am not quite so sure now.

I am thinking of two sets of children

One set are the best behaved I ever saw, never intrude, absolutely obedient, yet full of life and individuality, perfectly normal, wholesome happy boys and girls.

Obedience Like That of a Trained Dog.

I have seen something of their parent's methods with these children. They demand not only obedience but an instant obedience that is almost like that of a trained dog. When they want an errand of any sort done they never say "please" or "thank you" to the children. They do not tolerate "whys." They often give emphatic and apparently unnecessary negatives to schemes the youngsters have set their hearts upon.

All of which is entirely contrary to my theories.

The other set of children are treated with courtesy by their father (I have not met their mother). He says "pardon" if he interrupts them, never forgets his "please" and "thank you" and tries not to interfere with their schemes. Nevertheless he does make the children mind. That is exactly my theory of the way a child should be treated. And yet his children though bright and amusing, are very fresh, noisy, intrusive children.

What Would Have Happened?

Is it merely a matter of the child's temperament? If the two sets of children had been swapped about would the two kinds of discipline still have had the same results?

I started to write praising the second man's way because that is the way I believe in and because I like to hear him talk to his children, whereas I often feel a distaste when I hear the other parents issue their royal commands in their "do this and he doeth it" way. (A fine way for a centurion to speak to those under him no doubt, but not the way to speak to one's own children.)

Not Honest.

And then I thought of the result and I knew it was not honest to praise the theory without telling the whole story. So instead I am passing it along to you. Tell me from your experience, pater and mater familias, must one be stern and impersonal with children to keep them within bounds? Or can it be done in a more friendly, courteous way?

THE DEAD RETURN.

Hear us, oh, glorious dead!
Come from the valleys of pain!
Rise from the fields of the slain!
Come, share in the feast that we spread.
For you died not in vain.
The doubt of your last hours is past,
The tyrant is vanquished at last!
We have broken and shattered his line;
We have silenced each cannon and mine;
And now as war's thundering dies,
Our anthems of victory rise.

Join us, oh, glorious dead
In all our exulting today!
Come share in our laughter and play!
'Twas for thi: that you suffered and bled.
'Twas for this that you gave life away!
By your lance and your sword as you fell,
In those mad days of shrapnel and shell,
We pledged to be true to the end.
We swore that your cause we'd defend.
Now come from your fields of the slain
And know that you died not in vain.

Send us our glorious dead
Oh, God, for an hour, for a day!
Let them come that were taken away,
The paths of the living to tread—
To hear what the living would say.
Open their eyes; let them see
This world from the tyrant set free,
Let them know, as in silence they slept,
That our pledges to them have been kept.
Lord, send them to us once again
Just to know what they died not in vain.

Lakefield's first three wickets fell for two runs, but after Massie came to bat things brightened considerably. He went out L.B.W. with 52 runs to his credit. While Gray II was still batting the game was called on account of rain.

Massie and Barnard bowled for Lakefield, while Spragge was the chief bowler for the other team.

The Grove batting order was:

PETE'S FUMBLES ARE FATAL AND LINDSAY WINS SATURDAY'S FIXTURE

ERRORS AT CRITICAL MOMENTS ALLOWED VISITORS TO OUT-SCORE SOLOMON'S GANG—LINDSAY 7, PETERBORO 3, AND TWO TEAMS ARE ONCE MORE TIED FOR LEAGUE LEADERSHIP.

The Lindsay Greybirds pulled the unexpected on Saturday afternoon by beating Peterborough 7 runs to 3 in a Central Ontario League game at Riverside Park, and as a consequence of their win the Scugog crew are once more on even terms with the Petes for the League leadership, while Oshawa is only half a game behind. The result of the game was an unpleasant shock to Peterborough fandom, coming as it did on top of the win of the Solomon gang in Lindsay on Wednesday, but when a ball club makes errors, when errors mean runs for the enemy, and fails to make hits when hits mean runs for itself, it is likely to be a beaten club.

That is what happened to the Petes Saturday. Their defence wobbled just when it should have been airtight and their attack lacked the final punch with men on bases. Of the six misplays chalked up against last year's champs, four of the boots were directly responsible for six of the Lindsay runs, the first run, in the first innings, being the only enemy counter that was earned. But bad as was their fielding, the Petes' could have overcome their weakness on the defence if they had been able to interject a couple of solid safeties into the game when they were needed. They had chances enough, for Oulette walked five men and hit two more, and every man that got on stole second on Logan, but the old base hits were not forthcoming when they were needed—a weak exhibition with the willow for the Petes or fine pitching by Oulette, whichever way you care to look at it.

Kirn was on the rubber for the home crew and only allowed the visitors six hits and one earned run, which should have been good enough to win the decision. Kirn's style of pitching requires a steady defence, and the defence fell down when it hurt the most, allowing the visitors to score three runs in the fifth without a hit and giving them a pair in the sixth after the side should have been retired. On top of that "Kirnie" helped to lose his own game by some erratic base-running that killed off promising rallies.

Oulette, whom the Petes nicked for thirteen hits in Lindsay, held the home outfit to five on Saturday, and although he was generous with his passes he was, after the first innings, invincible in the pinches. And back of him his team mates played much steadier ball than the Petes. The three errors charged against the Lindsay team, two of them made on the one play by the way, did no damage, while when boots would have meant Peterborough counters, the visitors were very steady.

Lindsay started off strong with two runs in the first on a pass to McMahon, singles by Workman and Coombs and Carew's sacrifice fly to Jackson, on which Workman scored when Swanston let the left fielder's perfect peg get away. The Petes saw them and raised them one in their half. Murray was hit and stole second, to score on Ross's single. Then Swanston was hit and after Harrison had flied out, Lowe came through with a timely triple.

After the big first innings the teams settled down and there was no scoring until the fifth. With Lindsay at bat in this stanza, one out and Oulette the recipient of a pass, a sudden shower held up the game and the diamond was greasy when play was resumed. It was a break against the Petes, for the wet ball was hard to handle. McMahon, the next batter, rolled to Holyman, who let the ball get away, losing an easy double, and the blow up came. Kirn passed Williamson, and after Workman had flied to Holyman, Coombs was hit, forcing Oulette in with the tieing run and then Lowe dropped Carew's fly and two more counters were registered.

In the next innings with two out and Lindsay men on first and second, Murray fumbled Williamson's easy roller, although he recovered and threw to Cherrett to force out Oulette. Umpire Phelan called the runner safe. That play cost two more runs, for Workman doubled to right immediately after.

The story of the game by innings follows:

First Innings.

Lindsay— MsMahon walked and was sacrificed to second by Williamson. Workman dropped a Texas Leaguer into left. Coombs singled to left, scoring McMahon and sending Workman to third. Carew flied to Jackson in left and Workman scored when Swanston fumbled Jackson's perfect throw. McDonald rolled to Holyman. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Peterborough—Cherrett rolled to Workman. Murray was hit and stole second, going to third on a wild pitch. Ross singled to right centre, scoring Murray. Ross stole second. Swanston was hit, Harrison drove a long fly to McMahon in left centre. Lowe tripled down the left field foul line, scoring Ross and Swanston. Jackson walked and stole second. Holyman rolled to McDonald. Three runs, two hits, no errors.

Second Innings.

Lindsay—Richman was hit. Logan lined to Cherrett and Richman was doubled up on the play. Oulette rolled to Holyman. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Kirn drove a liner over Carew's head for a single. Cherrett sacrificed, Logan to Coombs, and when Kirn over-ran second, Coombs' quick throw to McDonald nailed him. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

Lindsay — McMahon rolled to Kirn. Williamson got a life when Cherrett missed his roller. Workman fouled to Swanston. Coombs hit to Holyman, who fumbled but nailed Williamson on a perfect peg to Murray when the Lindsay right fielder tried to go to third on the play. No runs or hits, two errors.

Peterborough—Ross flied to McMahon. Williamson grabbed Swanston's fly to right. Harrison walked and stole second. Lowe popped to Oulette. No runs, hits or errors.

Fourth Innings.

Lindsay—Ross made a great catch of Carew's hard smash to right centre. McDonald hoisted to Harrison. Murray grabbed Richman's high one. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterorough—Jackson was called out on strikes. Holyman popped to Carew. Kirn rolled to the same player. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Innings.

Lindsay—Logan rolled to Murray. Oulette was passed. A sudden shower drenched the diamond and delayed proceedings for a couple of minutes. When play was resumed McMahon hit to Holyman, who let the ball get away and lost an easy double. Williamson was passed, filling the bases. Workman popped to Holyman. Coombs was hit, forcing in Oulette. Carew drove a fly to right which Lowe dropped after a run. McMahon and Williamson scoring. McDonald fanned. Three runs, no hits, two errors.

Peterborough —Cherrett flied to Williamson. Murray doubled to deep left. Ross flied to Williamson, Murray going to third after the catch. Swanston rolled to Carew. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Lindsay—Richman was tossed out by Cherrett. Logan fanned. Oulette singled to right. McMahon dropped a single into centre. Williamson rolled one down the third base line which Murray lost. He made a quick recovery, however, and his throw to Cherrett apparently forced Oulette, but Umpire Phelan did not see it that way. Workman doubled down the right field line, scoring Oulette and McMahon. Williamson was caught between third and home on the play. Two runs, three hits, one error.

Peterborough—Harrison was safe when Oulette missed his roller, and went on to second when McDonald recovered and threw wide to first. Lowe popped to Coombs. Jackson walked. Holyman was called out on strikes. Kirn walked, filling the bases and then started to steal second. Cherrett was at the plate and made a quick slash at the ball, driving a liner into McDonald's hands. No runs or hits, two errors.

Seventh Innings

Lindsay—Coombs struck out. Carew rolled to Harrison, a nice stop by the first baseman. Harrison made a fine grab of McDonald's hot one, retiring the side. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Murray struck out. Ross flied to Coombs. Swanston was sae on McDonald's error and stole second. Harrison fanned. No runs, or hits, one error.

Eighth Innings.

Lindsay— Richman singled past third, but died stealing. Swanston to Holyman. Logan walked. Oulette fanned. McMahon rolled to Harrison. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough—Lowe walked and stole second. Ray Rose, batting for Jackson, flied to centre. McElroy, batting for Holyman, beat out a roller to Coombs and stole second. Kirn fanned. Cherrett was tossed out by Oulette. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Lindsay — Williamson rolled to Kirn. Workman popped to Murray. Coombs flied to Lowe. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough — Murray fanned. Ross grounded to Carew. Swanston repeated the play and the game was over.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Oulette allowed five hits on Saturday for a total of eight bases. Kirn allowed six for a total of seven bases. Oulette gave five passes and hit two men. Kirn gave four bases on balls and also hit two. Yet Lindsay scored seven runs and Peterborough only three. The difference is found in the error column. The Petes' errors were responsible for six runs; fielding misplays did not enter at all in the Petes three counters. In other words, Oulette allowed three earned runs, while Kirn gave only one. And yet there are people of otherwise ordinary intelligence who will lay all the blame for Saturday's defeat on the pitching.

The Petes play in Port Hope on Wednesday and Oshawa on Saturday, a tough week's programme, and Saturday's loss means that the Solomon gang will have to get away with both of these fixtures to stay up at the top.

The Oshawa-Port Hope game, scheduled for Saturday at Port Hope, has been postponed until June 25th.

Saturday's game was the first Central Ontario League fixture the Petes have lost since May 24th of last year. They won nine games in a row last season and their first three this year, Saturday's being their thirteenth Central League start since their defeat in Belleville at the beginning of last season. That mark of twelve straight wins will take some shooting at. During the string the Petes beat Oshawa three times. Lindsay three times, Cobourg three times, Port Hope twice and Belleville once.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

FARNUM COMES IN BIG EMOTIONAL PHOTOPLAY.

The popular William Farnum will be here again next Thursday, in a big emotional photoplay called "His Greatest Sacrifice." This will be shown at the Regent Theatre.

The dramatic art as exemplified on the screen by Mr. Farnum, has been a joy to all motion picture followers, and according to advance reports, "His Greatest Sacrifice" is a picture that gives the star an opportunity to lay all of his great screen powers at the feet of the photodramatic public.

The story has to do with the lives of husband and wife who both have ambitions to gather the applause of the public—she as an opera singer, and he as a writer. He feels that his work will redound to the credit and the enjoyment of his wife and child, while she is selfish and vain, and seeks only the personal joy and position her voice will bring to her. She achieves fame, but she loses what she later learns to be her greatest joy—the love of her husband and her child.

Alice Fleming plays the wife and Evelyn Greely the daughter, in this William Fox production.

AT THE ALLEN.

HINES, DARING AUTO DRIVER PERFORMS FEAT IN NEW FILM.

There is a thrilling scene towards the end of "Torchy's Double Triumph's," latest of the comedies starring Johnny Hines and made from the stories by Sewell Ford, which comes to the Allen theatre to-day, were Torchy, driving with Vee in a machine, leaps an obstruction. Incidentally the scene wrecked the car.

Hines himself is a daring auto driver. For his own pleasure he uses an almost completely stripped roadater, which is known by the police on the outskirts of New York as "the ghost car," partly because of its color and partly because of the uncanny speed with which it whizzes by them—some of the time, for Hines' criminal record is confined to speeding cases.

AT THE ALLEN.

"A Tale of Two Worlds," which is being shown at the Allen Theatre this week, reveals much for the photo play goes to be thankful for. In the first place, it has a story, a really gripping story of love and intrique, in which a young American is given the opportunity of his life to exercise his intelligence and his physical courage. The spur for all his efforts is an American girl who has been brought to San Francisco's Chinatown after her parents were killed in the Boxer uprising of 1899. This exciting tale is by Gouverneur Morris, one of the Eminent Authors, whose productions are being made at the Goldwyn studios, It was directed by Frank Lloyd.

A second point of satisfaction is the acting of beautiful Beatrice Joy as the American girl. Miss Joy, it will be remembered, played the role of "Bunty Pulls the Strings." Not only is the acting in "A Tale of Two Worlds" excellent, but the production itself equals any that has yet come from the Goldwyn workshop, and this is no small praise.

One of the scenic features of the pioture is the faithful reproduction of a Chinese street in San Francisco. It is real enough for the natives to recognize the shops. All in all this picture not only tells a good story in a splendid manner, but also reveals a page of history beautifully and dramatically.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol offers a splendid show to-night—pretty little Constance Binney in "39 East," a comedy drama of love, romance and laughter, also Larry Semon in his newest comedy, "The Sportsman."

To-night the Capitol has as its feature:

Constance Binney, winsome star of stage and screen, starring in "39 East," the Rachel Crothers' play in which she made the biggest triumph of her stage career, and is said to repeat her success on the screen.

Miss Binney opened in "39 East" early in the spring of 1919 at the Broadhurst Theatre in New York. She carried off the honors of the opening performance and became in truth a star over night. After a long run in New York, "39 East" was sent on a tour of the principal cities, finally winding up in the early summer of 1920 in a brief return engagement on Broadway.

"39 East" gives Miss Binney the best role of her screen career, permitting her to give full reign to her girlish charm, her unsophisticated air her dramatic and comic ability. It also permits her to do some of the dancing for which she first won the admiration of theatrical audiences.

Miss Binney has the role of Penelope Penn, a sweet daughter of a poverty-stricken minister. She goes to New York to remedy the family's financial affairs, and there she takes a room at a boarding house, located at "39 East." She makes the acquaintance of Napoleon Gibbs, another boarder, who falls in love with her at first sight.

After failing to obtain employment of her choice, Penelope is driven to accept an engagement in the chorus. She doesn't let the boarders know what she is doing for a living, and because they know so little about her, their suspicions are aroused. Finally, when she hasn't enough money to pay her board bill and her landlady threatens to put her out, she has "a piece of luck" and is asked to replace the prima donna, who has resigned from the show. Returning to the boarding house with plenty of money, she is welcomed with open arms—especially those of Napoleon Gibbs.

Miss Binney is surrounded by the same cast that supported her in the stage production with the exception of Henry Hull, who had the role of Napoleon Gibbs and is replaced in the picture by Reginald Denny. John S. Robertson was the director and Kathryne Stuart did the continuity.

Balance of this big program is of the same high-class standard and quality always found at this popular resort.

Big time vaudeville attraction, "The O'Connor Sisters," dainty trio, direct from Keith's circuit, where they have been a big headliner, will open a three days' engagement at the Capitol to-night with a big special matinee Wednesday. The girls have glorious voices and are harmony singers of high-class songs.

MERRITON TEAM WERE TOO CLEVER FOR THE C.G.E. IN CUP FIXTURE

ST. CATHARINES WINNERS EASILY WIN ONTARIO CUP GAME, BEATING PETERBORO'S REPRESENTATIVES 2 GOALS TO NIL—A FAST, WELL-SCIENCED OUTFIT.

The speed, stamina and science of the Merritton eleven winners of the St. Catharines and District Association title proved altogether too much for the C. G. E. team the Peterboro district representatives, and the clever team from the fruit belt easily won the Ontario Cup fixture at Riverside Park on Saturday evening. One thousand fans including a jovial and enthusiastic delegation from Merritton saw the C.G.E. team succumb to the visitors by 2 goals to nil.

The better team won beyond the shadow of a doubt and a two goal margin does not do justice to their superiority. Only a magnificent exhibition by Griffin the C.G.E. goalie and to a lesser degree the work of the local defence saved Peterboro's representatives from a much worse beating. The Merritton team displayed a knowledge of the fine points of football, and the speed and cleverness to put that knowledge to best advantage that won the admiration of every Peterboro lover of foot ball and no one begrudged the visitors their clean cut and thoroughly merited victory. There was no "kick and rush" tactics about the St. Kitts winners From goal out to centre and across to both wings they were a perfect unit working together in a style that at times seemed to have the C.G.E. outfit bewildered. Backs, half-back and forwards were linked up together in that cohesiveness and co-operation that marks a well scienced team. No wild kicking, no skying the ball, or dodging a couple of men and then passing to an opponent. Always the different divisions of the team were working in unison and on the attack they had eight forwards—for the half backs were up with nearly every raid. Rapid accurate passing with a definite plan of attack always before them distinguished the forwards, who were individually and as an attacking force far too fast and clever for the C. G.E. The halves fed their forwards skilfully and cooperated with them in attack after attack while the backs especially J. Downs at left gave a clever exhibition of defence work. Scott, the goalie had little chance to show what he could do but that little served to indicate he would be of great assistance in a hard struggle. Of the forwards Jackson the elusive little centre was perhaps the star although his mates were not far behind.

Griffin was the bright shining light for the C. G. E. The tall goalie pulled off save after save at one period in the first half making half a dozen brilliant stops in rapid succession. Once he jumped, far to one side and tipped a rocket shot from Jackson over the cross bar when a goal seemed certain and other saves were nearly as spectacular. The two that beat him, he had no chance with. The first a corner kick by Craig should have been stopped before it reached him, but the C.G.E. got mixed up on the play and the ball grazed Mason's leg and was into the net before Griffin could move. The second was on a rebound from the cross bar which Jackson took at close range and gave Griffin no opportunity to block.

Next to Griffin the work of McDonald was prominent. The left back never worked harder or to better effect and he was of great assistance Williams gave a good account of himself at right half. Manders was the best of the forwards.

The C.G.E. were unlucky in the matter of casualities for at different periods they were without the services of Mason, Mann and Gash but making allowances for the fact there is no doubt that on the play Merritton should have had a much bigger margin than two goals. C.G.E. need feel no shame over their defeat. They gave the best they had and no Peterboro team could have defeated the visitors, in fact a picked team from all the local clubs could hardly hope to do so.

Capt. Dunn of Ottawa, was referee and the linesmen were J. White for Merritton and J. L. Howarth for the C.G.E.

The teams were as follows:—

C. G. E. —Goal, Griffin. Backs, Mason. McDonald. Half-backs, Mann, Turner, Williams. Outside right, Manders, inside right Hotston centre Parkins, inside left Gash, outside left Bartlev.

Headed by the G.W.V.A. band the teams reached Riverside Park shortly after 6 o'clock and little time was lost in getting the game under way. C.G.E. won the toss and elected to kick south.

Jackson put the ball in motion for the visitors and Turner securing possession passed nicely to Gash and the C.G.E. left wing got away in good style. Bartley kicking past. It was only a flash in the pan, however, for Merritton put on the pressure early. Rutherford and Craig got away nicely to be brought up by Mason. But the visitors kept working down in Griffin's direction. Miller blocked a kick from McDonald but Mason cleared nicely. The C. G. E. took a turn at the attack then and Manders forced a corner, which was easily cleared and the visitors assumed the aggressive again. Craig kicking wide after a nice bit of combination. McDonald relieved and Manders got away and swung over a perfect cross which Hotston failed to take advantage of. Back came the visitors and after a fine run Craig beat Mason but Williams came to the rescue and kicked out. From a throw in Rutherford got away but Griffin took care of his long easy shot. He savod another a few moments later from Jackson. Merritton came very close to scoring soon after this play when Miller swung the ball over and R. Downs the visitors right wing came in at full speed and ripped in a shot that crashed into the side of the nets. It was a wicked drive that would have been almost impossible to save had it been on the target Mason was hurt soon after and had to get a few minutes for repairs. Merritton continued to press and Griffin had several hard drives to handle clearing nicely. Mason came back and shortly afterwards Gash retired. C. G. E. got away and Manders and Hotston combined to no avail and once more the C.G.E. were back on the defensive. Merritton faced several corners which were cleared. Jackson ripped a beauty at Griffin but the C.G.E. goalie saved sensationally. Then Rutherford drove in another wicked one which Griffin saved at the expense of a corner. The ball was nicey centred by Downs and Jackson headed over the cross bar. Merrittons were doing all the attacking an only Griffin's work was saving the C. G. E. He jumped far to one side and saved from Jackson, a corner resulting which Rutherford headed over.

Mann was hurt in a collision and limped off for repairs and once more C. G. E. were a man short.

The next few minutes saw Griffith tested two or three times, but he was master of the situation. Occassionally C.G.E. broke away bu they were rarely dangerous. Manders on one of these raids shot dead on but Scott cleared easily. Parkins and Hotston got away nicely but were pulled up for offside.

Merritton resumed the attack and Griffin was called upon to handle close range shot from Jackson and Miller. Finally on a corner kick Craig's shot grazed Mason and rolled between the uprights giving the visitors their first counter. There were no other features until half time.

The second half was a close imitation of the first. Merritton dominated the play and although C.G.E. worked hard they found it almost impossible to get within scoring range while the visitors playing beautiful combinaton were continually pressing and the C.G.E. defence were hard put to it to keep them out, Griffin's work was a big factor in keeping the score down, the goalie saving cleverely half a dozen times in the early stages of the half. The Peterboro team occasionally broke away and Scott had to rush out to clear from Manders on one of these raids. A foul against Merritton out side of the penalty area was taken by Turner but nothing came of it and Bartley had a chance, kicking wide. Then the visitors resumed the attack and finally Cummings lifted a long shot, the ball striking the cross bar and rebounding in front Jackson flashed in and before Griffin could get set for the shot, the ball had crashed into the netting and Merritton were two goals in front.

For the balance of the game the visitors took things more or less easy contenting themselves with perfecting their combination and trying out new systems of attack. C. G. E. were a tired outfit at this stage and the final whistle although it meant good bye to the Ontario Cup series, must have been sweet music in their ears.

FORTY-FIVE HOME RUNS WITHIN WEEK

CHICAGO June 12 (Canadian Press).—The "lively ball" was responsible for 45 home runs in the major leagues during the past week, according to figures released to-day, and which includes games of last Wednesday. The American League is credited with 32 of these, while National League batters bagged thirteen.

Babe Ruth, of the Yankees, made two four-base blows during the week and brought his total for the season to 17, half the total credited to his club, which is at the top of the list for home-run honors in both circuits. The Yankees, near the top, have bagged 34 circuit drives.

The New York Giants top all the clubs in the National League and are tied with the American League tailenders, at 32. George Kelly, the Giants' slugger, has been passed by Meusel, of the Phillies, who has a total of ten home runs.

Leslie Mann, of the Cardinals, made the best showing of the week among the batters in the National League. Mann boosted his mark from .320 to .362, a gain of 42 points.

Tris Speaker, manager of the world's champions, pulled away from Tyrus Cobb, the Detroit manager, for the runner-up honors among the batters of the American League. Speaker boosted his mark from .408, at which he was tied with Cobb a week ago, to .417, while the Detroit star slumped seven points and dropped to third place with an average of .401.

Harris and Rice, the Washington duet, are having a merry race for stolen base honors. Each has pilfered a dozen sacks, but Sisler is right on their heels with eleven thefts.

HEYWOOD BROUN SUMMARIZES THE CHANCES OF GEORGES "CARPNSHAY"

By HEYWOOD BROUN.

The one conspicuous advantage which rests with Georges Carpentier is that he is a long shot. Dempsey must not only carry the weight of the title into the ring, but the hopes and the money of the majority.

He is expected to win. Defeat will be downfall. From this country at least not very much is expected from the Frenchman. Therefore, he can afford to take chances. Dempsey being already at the top of the heap is under the inevitable temptation of being a little too cautious to remain there.

His psychological position is entirely different from that on the day when he rushed after Jess Willard and all but put him out in the first round. Against Carpentier he may prove to be overcautious, and the cautious Dempsey is not the best role of the champion.

That was shown in the fight against Brennan. Whatever the reason, it was quite obvious that Jack was not forcing the issue in early rounds. He boxed and made a most indifferent showing until he was stung hard enough to tear in and mix it.

Carpentier a Dark Horse.

In addition to being the long shot, Carpentier is also a dark horse. In spite of his long ring experience, it is difficult to get an accurate line on his powers, because he has fought, in recent years, only one man who also appears on the record of Dempsey. Both fighters have knocked out Battling Levinsky and both in short order, but Dempsey's was the more significant achievement, since he did it first.

Deschamps has been very careful to take every advantage of the fact that Carpentier is something of an unknown quantity. Not only are the visiting days of the newspaper men restricted, but there seems to be some reason to believe that the challenger holds back a good deal even when he appears in public.

It was noticeable, for instance, on Friday that Journee had not the slightest difficulty in hitting Carpentier with his left. The big sparring partner landed with jabs and he landed with swings. "Ah," said all observers, "isn't that just what we've been saying all along. Carpentier will be a mark for Jack's left hook."

Whenever a thing seems obvious it is well to pause and consider whether it is also true. It is entirely possible that Carpentier's last public trial was designed to encourage a belief in a weakness which does not exist. Certainly it was not apparent in the Levinsky fight.

The Battler may not have been at his best, but his left jab was always a thing of beauty, and even at below par Levinsky should have been able to land it on a man wide open. Nevertheless, it was not conspicuously successful in that fight.

Dempsey the More Durable.

In indicating some of the hopeful things which may be said about Carpentier's chances, we do not mean to express the belief that he will win. It does not seem likely. Dempsey has an advantage in weight, and he seems to have a still greater advantage in durability.

According to all indications, he can take more punishment than Carpentier. This might be neutralized if the challenger were a wonderfully clever boxer. He is less than that. His footwork is fine and he hits with great precision and speed, but his blocking seems quite ordinary.

Unless Carpentier makes a good deal of a race of it, Dempsey can hit him. In hitting power we don't think there is as much difference in favor of Dempsey as many of the American critics seem to think. His left is better, but Carpentier's right, particularly his fast, straight right, is a fine punch, as good as that of any man.

It is well within the realm of physical possibility for Carpentier to land a blow hard enough to bring Dempsey down. Keeping him down is a different matter. Dempsey's thick, solid neck makes him seem a man well fortified against the jarring force of blows to the jaw.

Probably Dempsey will let his opponent do as little long range boxing as possible. In the close work the American ought to be better. Here he can give more and probably take more, too, for it is in rib structure and stomach muscles that Dempsey picks up most of his advantage in weight.

An Edge for the Frenchman.

On the basis of the two fights which we have seen Carpentier makes a better showing than Dempsey. The Frenchman was far more impressive against Levinsky than was Dempsey against Brennan. While we are not willing to accept the theory that Dempsey purposely carried Brennan along we do share it to the extent of believing that the champion was below his best condition and took things easily in the early rounds of the fight.

If by any chance he fights the same sort of battle against Carpentier that he did against Brennan the Frenchman will win, but all the fight critics are one in the belief that the champion can do better.

One possibility which seldom comes into consideration, although it is not altogether remote, is that the fight may go the full distance. Carpentier might make a definite attempt to stay away. The title, of course, would not change hands in such a battle, but a newspaper decision in favor of Carpentier would be almost as good as a victory.

From some angles such a course as to stay away and make Dempsey do the chasing might seem to be the shrewdest thing possible for Carpentier, but it would be foreign to his tradition. Whatever else he is or is not, the Frenchman is one of the most romantic figures who ever stepped into a ring.

He will probably gamble for everything. To a good gambler anything is possible. Carpentier might win. Romance does come through sometimes, but most of the money which is won in betting goes to the realists.

AIM OF MODERN SERVICE STATION

Is to Be More Than a Port in Time of Storm.

Because in one service station the owner happens to be taken advan age of, he stands ready to condemn the others. The purpose of a service station is to care for the wants of the owner beyond his fondest hopes. The better class of service stations endeavor to meet the requirements of the individual to the last detail. Unfortunately in a measure the conscientious dealer is handicapped.

The average owner comes to a service station in a suspicious frame of mind. He never calls upon the service department until he needs it and that is when his car is working improperly. This in itself is an annoyance and disturbs his usual tranquility. He is ready without reason to condemn the machine and every one connected with it, through no fault of theirs. Second, some one has told him that the main purpose of service stations is to extort money in charges for work that it is possible to do on a car, but which is not necessary.

To Advise Owner.

Both premises are wrong. The purpose of a service station is to be more than a port in time of a storm. Its real function is to advise the owner as to how best he can get maximum service from his car. If some day the average owner would but stop and have a talk with the service salesman he would find that he had spent a most profitable few minutes without any more outlay on his part than his time.

Automobiles are simply pieces of machinery that perform wonderful work in the hands of the inexperienced, but they must have attention in order to continue to function properly. This attention is such as any intelligent man can give, it does not require an expert. In the making charges for work done they are as reasonable as the nature of the work will permit.

Repeat Order.

The more it costs an owner to operate a machine the less apt he is to buy another of the same make, and it is the repeat order that every dealer is after. The mechanic who works on the car is not interested in putting in any more time than is absolutely necessary on the job. His position depends upon the speed and efficiency with which he performs his task. The clerk who makes out the bill has nothing to gain by adding to the costs, and the firm certainly does not want to collect any more money than it is justly entitled to. In fact, were the owner to receive a bill for the number of times that he has stopped by to have minor details looked after and corrected, he would be amazed at the amount of gratuitious work that has been given him.

When a charge is made for work the overhead must be taken into consideration. It is for the convenience of this very customer that the service department is located in a section of the city accessible from all directions and where realty values are high. If the dealer only suited himself he would build his service department somewhere in the outskirts of the city where property was cheap and he could spread over a lot of ground instead of having to build in the air. To be sure all service stations are not models nor are all owners model customers. If dissatisfied with the service treatment secured, tell the proprietor first, if that does not do any good, then sell the car and buy some make where you feel that the service treatment will be to your liking.

THE OLD, OLD DIALOGUE.

I was much amused to hear a man and a woman behind me in the trolley, the other day, conducting what I am sure was an age-old dialogue between the sexes.

The woman was making comments upon some people whom they had spoken to when they got in, and who were now separated from them by about half a car-length. She knew the time, she said, when Mrs. Russell didn't wear a fur coat. In fact, she could remember the time when she was thankful to have some of her rich relations pass on a shabby second-hand coat. But since Mr. Russell had gone into that contracting business she'd forgotten all about those times, especially since that failure of his that seemed to leave him so much better off.

"Don't Speak so Loud, They'll Hear You."

The husband, who had been moving uneasily in his seat, became vocal at this. "Don't speak so loud," he urged. "They'll hear you."

"Nonsense!" said the woman. "They can't hear me." And she went on with some more comments upon their life and habits, while the man squirmed about and put in occasional protests.

Now perhaps my women readers will be wondering why I call this an age-old dialogue between the sexes. Somehow, I do not feel that the men will be similarly puzzled.

My reason is that it seems to me that the habit of thinking people will not hear anything you do not wish them to hear is a distinctly feminine trait, and that men are always reasoning with their women folks about their carelessness in this respect.

The Woman Who Makes Audible Comments.

Haven't you seen women picking out people in a gathering and making comments or explanations about them while their mascuine companion urges them to modulate their voices?

Haven't you seen women who are dissatisfied with service or purchases, walk through a shop or restaurant commenting freely and sonorously on their dissatisfaction while some unhappy male trails behind, wishing the floor would open and swallow him up?

The Sins of the Tongue Feminine.

I hold no brief for the faultlessness of men. Quite the contrary. But I do think that sins of the tongue are more apt to be feminine offences; and this is no exception.

Perhaps one explanation of the carelessness of women about what they say, is that they are not held to account as men are. While Mr. Russell might rise up and offer to fight any man who said his failure left him better off than he was before, he couldn't very well fight a woman.

I wonder if an age in which women will unquestionably pay for greater rights by greater responsibilities and accountabilities, will change this particular trait at all.

BEGS WITH PHONOGRAPH.

Berlin War Cripple Takes Life Easy in His "Profession."

BERLIN, June 14.— Begging is being reduced to a fine art in Germany. Having unsightly amputated limbs or war disfigurements and unable to sing or play the violin, one Berlin professional beggar who found competition getting too keen has adopted a new device. It is a small modern phonograph which he places on a table beside a comfortable arm chair.

It is easier operated than a grind organ and had the additional advantage of being strictly up to date. So far his business is booming.

REQUEST PUBLIC TO WITHHOLD OPINION

The prominence given the case of Helson vs. the Dominion Dustless Sweepers Company Limited in the summary of the County Court docket in Saturday's Examiner caused the management some apprehension that an erroneous opinion may have been created in the minds of the public. They hope that opinion will be reserved until the facts of the case are brought out in court.

UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN

LONDON, June 11.— (Canadian Press.)—Interest in the contest for the International Polo Challenge Cup between England and the United States, reevived this year for the first time since 1914, is probably greater than for any previous years meeting of the polo players of the two continents. The games will be played at the Hurlington club grounds June 18 and 22 and should a third game be necessary to decide the fate of the cup, it will be played June 25.

The United States team came over this year with high hopes, but a series of accidents has dampened the enthusiasm of their supporters to some extent, and the odds just prior to the contest favor the British team strongly.

The International Challenge Cup was presented by the Weschester Polo Club of Newport, R.I. in 1886, for international competition, and has a value of $1,000. It is emblematic of the world's polo championship, and was won for the fourth time by Great Britain in 1914. The conditions of the meet provide that the winning team must take two games out of three. The match will be played in eight periods of 7 1-2 minutes each.

EMPLOY 250 MEN.

TRENTON, June 13.—Within the next two months the Chemical Products will start operations here with the employment of 250 men, which number will gradually increase, it is expected, until 2,000 employes are engaged. Burning sulphur for the manufacture of the acids and the mineral used for this purpose is found in abundance in the district between Trenton and Pancroft. In burning rock for the sulphuric acid a by-product of iron is available which can be saved and sold to great advantage and profit. To this end a smelting plant is necessary and this will be erected on a plot which is being secured from the Dominion government at the canal edge.

CHINESE BEGGARS ARE NUMEROUS.

Cause is Overcrowded Population.

Beggars are numerous in China; there is no city or town of size in which they are not found in considerable numbers.

Many of these beggars are in real poverty, not because of shiftlessness and a distaste for labor, but because of an overcrowded population and the widespread destitution caused by the frequent floods which sweep away the crops and leave the people to starve by the thousands.

The Chinese as a race are far from being a lazy people, having proved beyond question that they are both industrious and frugal. No labor is too hard and the average Chinese will work all day at the most laborious task for a mere pittance in order to sustain life.

Ranks as Royalty.

On the other hand, there are many beggars in China, who have grown well-to-do by preying upon others. In some sections there are regular organizations of beggars. Committees are appointed to see to the revenues. These committees are usually squads of itinerant beggars who go out at stated times through certain districts, demanding their fees, a specified amount placed upon the head of each householder, like a tax.

The person taxed dare not refuse the fee, for the very strong reason that if he should do so it would result in bringing down upon him a swarm of beggars to be fed and housed so long as they chose to remain.

Some cities, noticeably Pekin and Shanghai, have either a prince or king of the beggars. He ranks as royalty, not only with his followers but with others of the people, who dare not resist his mandates. When he issues a command it must be obeyed. When he levies a tax it has to be paid. The king of Shanghai beggars is attired in full royal robes, his crown a bedecked turban or bonnet of several colors, while in his hand is his sceptre twisted about with gay stripes of cloth.

These organized beggars have considerable ingenuity in planning devices for the tricking of the public, especially the many Europeans who either reside in or are visitors to Pekin and Shanghai.

This story of a beggar is told by a missionary:

"A man came to me pointing to his wrist, where was a fearful gash extending through the tendons and blood vessels. My suspicions were aroused, and I grasped the beggar's arm. He grappled with me, struggling hard to get away. In the struggle a casing of flesh-colored wax, with red paint to represent blood, fell from his wrist, which was in as good condition as that of his other arm."

Horrible Self-Torture.

There are even schools for beggars in some of the cities and towns over which the prince or king resides. It is his part and that of his assistants to devise tricks with which to impose upon the charitably inclined.

Some of these tricks bring horrible results to the beggars themselves. In one of the beggars' schools in Shanghai they put lime in the eyes in order to the foot above the ankle and let it cut into the flesh until the foot becomes dead and drops off, so that the raw stump and bone can be exhibited as the beggar sits by the roadside; cram dirt and mud into the ears until deafness ensues, the ears inflame and bec me a mass of sores, and reduce the frame by starvation to a skeleton-like appearance.—London Tit-Bits.

Pinning Piston Rods.

R. G. asks: Would it no be better if all piston rings were anchored from turning in their grooves, by means of pins, instead of being left free to turn? After an engine has been taken apart and the rings not replaced in the positions that they have been running in, if often takes a long time for them to wear in in their new positions. Would not pinning prevent this trouble?

Answer: The rings of the early vehicle engines were always pinned, mainly for the purpose of preventing their turning so that all the joints would come into line and leak, but the practice of pinning has been given up, partly because it is a delicate job to pin rings reliably in a thin walled piston and partly because less importance is now accorded to leakage at joints than formerly. It is generally believed that the likelihood of all joints lining up is very slight. It is our impression that, if rings are replaced in their proper slots and right side up, they tend to rotate into the positions in which they fit the bore the best.

WM. HAMILTON PICNIC WAS MUCH ENJOYED

The William Hamilton Athletic Association held an old-time basket picnic to Rice Lake on Saturday. The Stoney Lake was comfortable crowded with the employees and their families in spite of the threatening weather in the morning. Rain fell during the trip to Harwood, but the rest of the day was entirely satisfactory.

After dinner at Harwood the boat put across the lake to Hiawatha, where a programme of sports filled in the afternoon. An interesting baseball game between the married and the single men went to the bachelors by the score of 3 to 2.

Mr. P. P. Westbye, general manager, and Mr. H. C. Norley, superintendent of the company, were present and helped materially in making the outfit a fine success.

COST OF LUXURIES.

During the single year 1919 the people of Canada spent $300,000,000 more for luxuries than was spent in the country for education since Confederation, according to a statistician employed by the Government at Ottawa. Startling figures!

RIOT TO KEEP THE KING OUT OF THE CITY

OUTBREAK OF REVOLVER AND RIFLE FIRING RENEWED IN BELFAST BY REPUBLICAN ELEMENT.

MANY NARROW ESCAPES

BELFAST, June 14. (Canadian Press.) Rioting, accompanied by heavy revolver and rifle firing, was renewed in the Clifton Street area of the city early to-day.

In authoritative circles it was asserted that the rioting was organized by the Republicans for the purpose of preventing the visit of King George to Belfast next week for the purpose of attending the state opening of the Ulster Parliament.

Policemen were hurried from the barracks near by, but the rioting continued for some time, although at a much more subdued pace.

North street, joining Royal Avenue with the Shankhill district, was swept by bullets from Carrick Hill and Millfield.

Several thousand shipyard workers are reported to have been kept from thei rposts by the riot.

Business men going to the city from their posts by the riot, o'clock found themselves in the midst of the riot. The centre of the disorder was adjacent to the Ulster military head quarters, which is flanked by North Queen Street, and the Carrick Hill Republican areas.

The denizens of these districts waited for the ship yard workers, and opened fire.

Staid top-hatted merchants dodged about amid flying bullets, and one newspaperman had a narrow escape, as the lamp post behind which he had sought shelter was struck by bullets.

Stenographers fled, screaming, from the battle area, and tramcars, with their passengers lying flat on the floors, dashed past at record speed.

WHAT IS PETERBORO'S GREATEST NEED?

F. H. Dobbin: Peterborough wants what it wants when it needs it.

Just now Peterborough needs, above and before anything else, two hundred five-room houses.

Just now the taxes on a ten-room house, of which there are many, is the price of an average rental. Not because anybody should pay less taxes, but because rents are growing up and out of proportion to the working man's income.

Don't blame the landlord. He's only a man who has one or possibly two houses to rent. In the main he's not rolling in wealth. It is only in the last three years that he has realised from his rentals anything reasonable for the money invested in the houses.

If you don't believe this, just go and put a little of your own good money into building a house. Tah twill be to you a convincer.

Try to buy one. You'll be offered houses too large for your means. That is the reason they are for sale.

We may not realise it but the time is here when the workman cannot afford to live in a house of more than five rooms. The rent heat, light, water (taxes, if the owner), etc., eat into his income too sturdily. For all these essentials of life can't be dodged.

The labouring man has even a less chance at his wage, and no one is going to give him more. So he will have to cut his overalls according to the Brown Derry he has in sight, in a manner of speaking.

No owrking man should live, or be asked to survive and live, in a shack. Possibly to bring up children in poor surroundings. The parents may stand it, but the children rebel.

Just step into the new West Ward School, and see what is prepared for the children to enjoy, for four hours each day. Then follow some of them to their homes, where they take meals, and note the contrast. Is it any wonder that young people walk the streets of evenings for diversion and relief?

People are crowding into the top storeys of the business buildings on the business streets, where, on hot nights, their feet stick out of the windows. That may afford relief, but as a decoration along the facade of the building, the effect is punk.

Peterborough should lay aside, at this juncture, all projects of civic improvement that crop up, street railway extension, soldiers' monument, reviving Riverside Park, things to which we are not already committed, and attend to this one detail of more small houses. No other thing will bring so much in satisfaction, real help, and a cheerful willingness to assist in carrying further burdens, if such be thrust on us, as giving a man a neat, small, decently equipped dwelling. If he owns it, so much the better. But, for the love of Mike, let him get into one.

True, it needs money. In the language of the man from Ennismore, who come into town day before election, "Who have it."

A Peterborough man sold out his business a few weeks ago. He now enjoys what he had not before—a safety box in the bank vault. He serenely salted down $15,000.00 in Ontario Government Bonds as an investment. Did he build four or five small houses to rent? He did not. Less trouble to him. Private enterprise will never prove a public benefactor. The public must helf itself.

How? Revive your housing proposition, in the light of experience gained by other places the last three years. We know now what to avoid. We can see what we might do.

Conversation will not get us very far along the road that leads up to the door of the five-room house. It is now believable that a small house can be built for a not immoderate amount.

Suppose a trail be made. Who will start the movement?

The far-reaching results of the Lambeth conference last year were also dealt with.

The showers on Saturday and early Monday morning were of united value to the country. Growth was practically at a standstill and the farmers were in despair. Fields and gardens alike seem to lift up their heads and grow. The prospect now is for a good crop of all vegetables. Potatoes are making wonderful progress and promise a bumper crop.

Preparing For Holiday.

A parade of all the organizations in the village on July is one more feature of the day's programme which will be a decided novelty in the village. There is not going to be a dull moment in the day and out-of-town visitors will not have time to get bored if all the plans of the committee are carried out. With unequalled advantages for water sports it is a matter of regret that the regattas have been allowed to lapse. However this year will establish a precedent for years to come.

AWAIT DEFINITE WORD

CALGARY, June 14.—(Canadian Press). — Justice J. D. Hyndman, chairman of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission, stated last night that he had received telegraphic advice that an interim injunction had been granted suspending the meetings of the Commission, but declared that he would hold a sitting in Moose Jaw as previously arranged, as he inferred that the injunction would only apply to Manitoba.

"We will respect the order in Manitoba," he said, "but I am unable to make any definite statement until I see the full text of the injunction."

CHIEF DEFENDS POLICE FORCE

SAYS USUAL FACILITIES OF INFORMATION WERE OPEN TO PROVINCIAL CONSTABLE STRATTON.

FOLLOWS MOLONEY CASE

Chief Samuel Newhall, in high incense, declared to the Examiner today that Thomas Y. Stratton, the Provincial Officer, had been given every support in his work by the local police. He has used the offices, the telephone, and had every access to the reports and informations. The full report of the Moloney case was in the report book, and Chief Newhall could not explain why Stratton had not got it. He usually came in and asked if there was anything for him, the Chief said. There had been no lack of cooperation on their part, Chief Newhall said.

The Provincial Officer was even more angered than the Chief of Police over the report in last evening's paper and even went so far as to threaten to lay a hand on the reporter.

DEPUTY MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE EXPECTS ONE OF THE BEST CROPS IN HISTORY.

OTTAWA, June 14. Canadian Press. — Unless sustained and extraordinary bad weather intrevenes one of the best crops in Canada's history is assured this year, according to a statement made this morning by the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Dr. Grisdale.

He added that conditions in the East are slightly better than in the West.

"GRANDEST DAYS OF CHURCH," THE WHITBY FEELING

WHITBY, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—Race track gambling will undoubtedy receive heartly discussion at the sessions of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference which opened here this afternoon at the Ontario Ladies College. Ministerial and lay delegates from various points in this conference, are present. Rev. W. P. Rogers, of Napanee, president, conducted the opening devotional exercises this afternoon after which the Laymen's organization met for organization. Rev. J. F. Chapman, Peterboro, is secretary of the conference. Rev. Ernest Thomas assistant secretary of Evangelism, will address the gathering to-night.

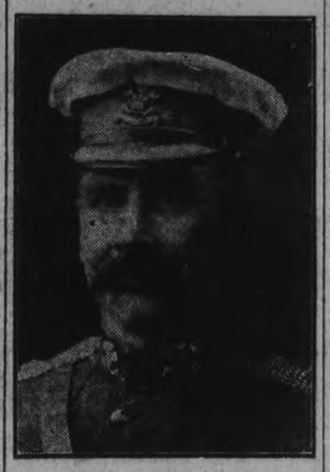
There is a great spirit of optimism among the members of the conference. One of the officers said this morning in regard to race track gambing and other vital questions "those who think the church is dead are themselves asleep. We are coming to the grandest days the church has ever seen."

MILITARY CAMP IS UNDER WAY

DRAGOONS WENT UNDER CANVAS TO-DAY---EVERYTHING EXPECTED TO RUN SMOOTHLY.

ATTENDANCE IS LARGE

Getting a military camp established is no easy task. Any old soldier will tell you that, and Col. Johnston, commandant of the Exhibition grounds camp for the 4th Battery and the 3rd Dragoons has had a world of work to do in the last few days. With him has rested the final responsibility for the success of the camp. For weeks he, with the officers of the dragoons and the battery, have been arranging every detail and it is believed that after today, which is settling day, everything will run smoothly.



LT. CO. T. J. JOHNSTON, Officer Commanding the Camp and also the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons.

The battery were all shipshape this morning. Practically all their tents are up and the men slept under canvas last night. Ten marquee tents, pitched in an avenue running from the big mess tent and supply tent near the gate, to the Manufacturers' building, broke a good many of the men into the strange sensation of sleeping under canvas last night. The officers sleep in similar tents pitched north of the men and officers and men all report a good night's rest. However, to all of the officers and many of the battery boys who served overseas seleping in a tent is old stuff. The artillery camp was fairly well established to-day. A capable cook is serving meals in the mess tent. Two camp ranges have been set up in the open, back of the remains of the caretaker's residence, and when the Examiner was leaving the camp at noon to-day, tempting odours of roast beef were escaping from both stoves. Mos tof the men were uptown, but several were standin garound the cook's palace watching preparations for dinner with rapt attention. The cook was the cynosure of a good many eyes.

A company of dragoons began putting up the tents for their men early this morning. The site chosen by the dragoons is a splendid one for a camp. There is a fine turf between the Poultry and Main buildings and here the tents were being pitched to-day. Most of the Dragoons are returned men and the marque went up expeditiously. All of the two squadrons will be under canvas to-night, Col. Johnston, the camp commandant, said to-day. Special permission has been granted by General King allowing 149 men, 10 more than originally allowed, to be on the strength. Of this number 97 are from Pontypool, Bethany and Millbrook and this detachment will arrive in the city at 5 p.m. to-day. The men are riding in in true cavalry fashion and the quiet country roads will be stirred up with dust to-day and the countryside resound with the tramp of horses' feet. Such a body of cavalry will provide a martial scene for Cavan and North Monaghan townships and every dragoon's heart will beat with pride as he sees the proud glances of parents, brothers and sisters—and sweethearts. Most of the farmers are using their own special horses and have them in good condition and with the harness vieing in lustre with their uniforms, the ninety-seven men will present a fine appearance, albeit somewhat marred with the dust of travel when they reach Peterborough after a long day's march.

Three officers of "A" squadron, which was cut off so the unit would not be over strength, arrived in the city to-day to take part in the camp. Col. McCullough, of Wellington, will command the unit. Capt. Burlingham, of Wellington and Lieut. Miller, of Trenton, came in to-day to take their posts.

Col Johnston intends to start drilling tomorrow and cavalry muster will be held to-morrow afternoon. The men of the local squadron, about fifty in number, have obtained their horses from farmers and liverymen. The government pays $2 a day rental and men of both units in camp say they have had no difficulty getting chargers.

CITY AND OWNERS AGAIN OPEN NEGOTIATIONS FOR PURCHASING OF RIVERSIDE PARK PROPERTY

BOTH PARTIES MAKE OFFERS IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF $11,000—COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS PURCHASE IF CITY'S TERMS ACCEPTABLE.

BRINGS COUNCIL BACK TO ORIGINAL POSITION

The City Clerk reported to the Railway Committee last night that E. H. D. Hall had told him without prejudice that J. J. Howden and Mrs. Wightman would accept $11,000 for the Riverside Park Property, the city to pay the taxes for this year, and for the tools and implements valued at $115, and the cost of a fence, between $50 and $55, Mr. Howden and Mrs. Wightman to have the revenue for this year and the city to pay for the property on Oct. 1, 1921.

It was moved by Ald. Turner, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that Mr. Hall be asked without prejudice if the owners of the Riverside Park property will accept $11,000 for the property plus the value of the tools and implements used in the park, as listed, and the cost of the fence, they to have the revenue of the Park this year, and to pay the taxes this year, and the city to pay for the property on Jan. 2 next, and that they be requested to give a reply by Thursday next; also that if this is agreed to by them, this committee recommends the acceptance of these terms by the City Council.

STRAWBERRIES MAY DROP TO 10 CENTS

TORONTO, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—Quotations on strawberries slumped badly on the local fruit market this morning. Receipts over-night were very heavy, and old-timers claim that they were the heaviest on record for any one day. Opening quotations were 17 cents per box, as compared with 22 cents yesterday afternoon, and the price soon broke to 14 cents, with the possibility of touching 10 cents before the close of the day.

THOS. MOLONEY STILL MISSING

SEARCH PARTIES HAVE COMBED COUNTRY IN VAIN---PARTIES AVERAGED 15 TO 20 A DAY.

150 OUT ON SUNDAY

AT 3.15 THIS AFTERNOON THE BODY OF THOMAS MOLONEY WAS FOUND IN THE CANAL AT NASSAU BY JOHN CONLEY.

Searching parties varying in number from 20 to 150, have combed the country around Nassau for a trace of Thomas Moloney, 469 Gilmour street, missing since last Friday, without turning up the slightest trace of him. Several of the men came in to the city this morning to enquire from the police whether they had heard anything of him. On Sunday there were more than 150 men beating the country around Nassau, and the average for the other days has been between fifteen and twenty. The woods in that section have been thoroughly examined, the men going through them carefully six feet apart. Even the canal near by has been dragged in the possibility that Mr. Moloney's disappearance might find explanation there.

NO ACTION ON PROPOSALS RE TRACK BETTING

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PASSES OVER RANEY'S ATTACKS.

OTTAWA, June 14.—(Canadian Press)—The government is not considering further curtailment of race track betting along the line of the proposals put forward by Hon. W. E. Raney, Ontario Attorney General according to Acting Premier Sir George Foster he intimated this morning that no action was contemplated.

OTTAWA, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—There will be no change in the percentages allowed Racing Associations from the monies taken in by Pari-Mutuels. This was announced this morning by the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, who has written Commander Ross, president of the Montreal Jockey Club to this effect.

BLACK HAND BUSY AGAIN IN HAMILTON

HAMILTON, June 14.—Threats have again been received by I. Lombardo Ferrie street west, the Italian whose doorstep was wrecked by dynamite about two weeks ago. Monday a letter was placed in the hands of the police, in which it was stated that unless the receiver "came across" something would happen. Lombardo was the second local Italian to be dynamited, but for several weeks the threats ceased, and no more was heard of the trouble. The Black Hand artists evidently decided that they need lay low no longer, and have resumed operations.

LIQUOR EXPORT MEN WILL TAKE CASE TO COURT

INTERIM INJUNCTION RESTRAINS POLICE FROM SEIZING WAREHOUSE LIQUOR STOCKS IN OTTAWA.

TO TEST VALIDITY

OTTAWA, June 14.— (Canadian Press.)—The validity of liquor exporters doing business in Ontario is to be tested in the courts. An interim injunction restraining the Provincial and local police officers from seizing warehouse liquor stocks in Ottawa was granted this morning by Judge Gunn on the application of W. G. McIntyre, liquor exporter from Ontario and the Great West Wine Company, Ottawa. The injunction holds until Saturday, when a motion will be made before the Supreme Court Judge to continue it and make it permanent. The injunction shortly after being issued, was served on the local officers while in the act of seizing the stock of the Great West Wine Company.

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., June 14.—The increase in the number of buffaloes in Buffalo Park, Wainwright, Alta., has now reached such proportions that it is proposed to slaughter one thousand of the animals this year. U.S. INTERESTS IN THE GREAT INLAND ROUTE

INCREASED ATTENTION TO THE INLAND WATER ROUTES IN U.S. HOUSE BRINGS UP ST. LAWRENCE QUESTION.

PRESSURE IS GROWING

WASHINGTON, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Increased attention is going to be given by Congress to inland water transportation from this time forth. This is the word that comes from prominent members of both houses who have been giving thought to the general transportation problem of the United States. The sentiment for intelligent consideration of the inland water transportation is especially marked among some members of the House and Senate Interstate Commerce Committees, the committees that have jurisdiction of railroad matters, and which have, therefore, been obliged to give study to the shortcomings of the existing rail system.

For some years in Congress it has been the fashion to criticise the river and harbour bill as a "pork barrel" measure. This criticism in the case of some appropriations has been well founded, but at the same time it has operated to prevent waterway improvements that have deserved to be carried ahead. Likewise, the criticism has been exactly what the railroads wanted, in view of the hostility of the roads to waterway development.

But the high rail rates, the seeming inability of the railroads to give the service the public demands, and the very evident fact that with the development of the country there will be traffic for both the rails and the waterways, in plenty, are serving to bring about a different attitude in Congress toward river and harbour appropriations. Many indications are given that Congress and the administration are going to try to develop water transportation and co-relate it with the railroad transportation.

Such projects as the development of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence water route the development of the Mississippi to the Gulf and a number of others that might be mentioned, according to all signs, are going to be given serious consideration by this Congress, and efforts made to get them under way and to the stage where they are not merely subects for stump speeches and after-dinner oratory. The development of the Erie Canal, though this is a New York State waterway, is going ahead according to information here, and efforts are to be made to make effective use of it as a channel for a large volume of traffic, including coal and grain.

The whole country about the Great Lakes and throughout the Mississippi valley is interested in seeing a large amount of boat traffic go over the Lakes and get to the eastern coast by the Erie or St. Lawrence routes. The pressure for this from Chambers of Commerce and business organisations is growing. This pressure is felt in Congress. Representative Sweet, a prominent member of the House Interstate Commission said recently that it was imperative that Congress give close and intelligent attention to inland waterway transportation from now on. He holds that meritorious water route projects must be encouraged by Congress and not condemned without consideration simply because of the criticism of some things the rivers and harbour bill has been loaded down with in the past.

AMERICAN SUGAR PRICES LOWER THAN IN 4 YEARS

NEW YORK, June 13.—A new low for the last four years was established in the refined sugar market to-day, when several local refiners quoted fine granulated at 6 cents a pound because of the weakness in raws.

REAFFIRM THAT WAGES WILL BE CUT ON JULY 1

CONFERENCE BETWEEN RAILWAY EMPLOYEES AND OFFICIALS FRIDAY TO COVER SUBJECT GENERALLY.

CUT OF 12 PER CENT.

MONTREAL, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—On the authority of high officials of the Railway Companies with head offices in Montreal, the statement made Friday that Rail way wages will be reduced by an average of twelve per cent. on July 1, was reaffirmed yesterday. The conference to be held Friday between the employees and officials of all lines will be of a purely informal character and is expected to cover general discussion of wages and working conditions.

DANCE AT TRENT BRIDGE ATTRACTED A BUMPER CROWD

TRENT RIVER, June 13.—Immense crowds motored from surrounding towns to this popular dancing pavillion on the above night. The augmented orchestra was the chief attraction. Mr. Oleto Nicholas Cast, the famous boy violinist from Toronto, who has been here for the past week played for the last time and delighted everyone. Mr. Townsend also secured Mr. Herb. Leonard of Campbellford, with saxaphone to help with the orchestra.

Messrs. F. Ga'n and Jack Christie of Toronto, were week end visitors at the Christie cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Dafoe returned to their cottage last week to reiman the summer.

Mr. Bradford of Toronto, spent over Sunday at "Rockwyn".

Mr. E. Howse had his up-to-date canoe shipped from Toronto last week.

A heavy rain accompanied by h'gh winds visited here Saturday. The rain was very much needed as the soil has been very dry and the strawberry crop will be greatly benefitted.

The Ladies Sewing Circle met at Mrs. J. Garneau's Friday afternoon last. The time was spent in making useful articles of clothing for sale. The Society decided not to have a bazaar for the present. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, July 19th at Mrs. Fred Scott's.

Mrs. Roscoe Dingman of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. D. Davidson.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church are holding a garden party June 24th., on Mrs. John Scott's lawn.

Mrs. Ira Cook who has spent some time visiting her daughter in Minnesota, U.S. has taken up her residence here again in the Armour cottage at the north end of Main street

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL REFUSES SCHOOL BOARD'S REQUEST FOR $25,000

AND RECOMMEND THAT CONSTRUCTION OF PROPOSED NEW HIGH SCHOOL BE DEFERRED INDEFINITELY.

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM

CAMPBELLFORD, June 14.—The worst electrical storm of the season passed over the town on Sunday night or early on Monday morning. A large transformer at the Trent Valley Woollen Mill was put out of commission. For this the fire bell rang for some time. The telephone and meter at the Trent Valley Creamery were put out of commission but the building did not take fire, no doubt due to the rainfall.

Mr. Sam Gordon of Toronto, is visiting at his home here.

Mr. J. A. Humphries was in Cobourg yesterday.

Miss Eva Martin, who has been in New York for the past few months has returned home.

Mrs. A. H. McKeel and son Ernest are already at their summer cottage at Trent River.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, is being held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Moore, Grand Road.

At a special meeting of the council held last week it was was decided not to grant the additional $25,000 asked by the Board of Education for the proposed high school. The council recommended that the building of the new high school be delayed six months or a year when perhaps it might be constructed for less than the present tenders called for.

The tax collector, Mr. J. D. Cumming, is making his annual rounds this week delivering the tax bills. The first instalment of taxes are payable on or before July 1st.

The census enumerators have their work well under way and they report they are being received most courteously which of course expedites the completion of their work.

GROWERS HALT GRAIN INQUIRY BY INJUNCTION

DECLARATION SOUGHT THAT GRAIN ACT IS ULTRA VIRES AND BEYOND POWERS OF PARLIAMENT.

HEAR CASE NEXT WEEK

WINNIPEG, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—An interim injunction restraining the Royal Grain Inquiry Commisson from holding further sessions until the case is called in court here on June 22, was granted late yesterday by Justice Galt. The commission was sitting in Calgary. The interim injunction was granted at a private hearing, on application of the United Grain Growers, Limited, and of about forty companies operating on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The statement of claim sets out the history of the commission and claims that the order in Council by which it was appointed is "wholly illegal, unlawful and void," and was issued without any lawful authority. A declaration is sought that the Canada Grain Act and its Amendments are ultra vires and beyond the powers of the Parliament of Canada to enact.

The vote was 305 to 61 with many Democrats supporting the measure.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW

BRANTFORD, June 14 (Canadian Press).—While hunting near Apps Mills last night, O. B. Ellis, a former Preston hotel man, accidentally shot and killed his brother-in-law, Archie B. Smith, who recently owned the Queen's Hotel at Hespeler.

The two men, who are old hunters, were on a small cattle ranch, owned by Travis Stewart, another brother-in-law of Ellis and were shooting ground hogs.

GOMPERS URGES DISARMING THE ENTIRE WORLD

DECLARES RANKS OF TRADE UNION MOVEMENT INTACT IN FACE OF ASSAULTS BY OPEN SHOP ADVOCATES.

SEES A.F.L. INCREASE

DENVER, Colo., June 14.— Canadian Press). — President Samuel Gompers, addressing the opening session of the 41st Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor here yesterday, declared that the enemies of Labor and the advocates of the "open shop" had failed to crush organized labor, and the ranks of the trades union movement held intact. Similar sentiments were expressed in the report of the Executive Council of the Federation.

A years of progress was predicted for President Gompers declaring that before the next snow falls we shall have passed the five million mark in the American Federation of Labor.

The President urged world-wide disarmament.

QUICK DISTRIBUTION OF OIL ON ROADS

PORT HOPE, June 14.—The large auto oil distributor of the Provincial Highway did the work of distributing the oil, and it is some worker. WOMEN'S DRESS BALKS EFFORTS OF METHODISTS

COMMENDED BAN ON RACE TRACK GAMBLING, RAPPED IMMORAL FILMS, LISTENED TO SIMPSON, BUT DRESS BEYOND THEM.

LET QUESTION PASS

ORILLIA, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—The striking printers, race track gambling, moving pictures and the shortness of women's skirts, were a few of the vexing questions of "This present evil world" with which the Toronto Methodist conference concerned itself yesterday. It was without a murmur of dissent that the conference heard "Jimmie" Simpson present his case for the Printers. With vociferous applause they passed a resolution commending Hon. W. E. Raney's attempts to put race track gambling under the ban, unanimously agreed that many of the films shown in the movies "were highly detrimental to morals," but when it came to the prescribing of feminine apparel and of setting the perpendicular dimensions of a skirt, half of the conference felt they were getting a little beyond their depth and balked.

STRAWBERRIES DOWN TO 13 CENTS PER BOX

Growers Will Have Men on Markets to See No Glut Occurs.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 13.—Niagara Fruit Growers' Association will have representatives at all important points to look after their fruit this year and see it is properly distributed. If a glut occurs on one market the representative will be there to rush it on to some other centre where fruit is scarce. This will keep prices on even basis. Whether they will have their own salesmen on Toronto market could not be ascertained by The Star this morning.

Prospects for cheaper fruit, the growers say, are favorable. Strawberries have already got down to 13 cents a box and will be to likely.

Cherries will not be down much, as they are not nearly the crop of last year.

Plums and pears will also be scarce.

JOHN ROBINSON CIRCUS, THURSDAY

Five Herds of Elephant Actors in New Stuff.

You've seen many elephant acts under the big top, of course. We all have, and no matter what they do, the big pachyderms are always interesting. Circus men aren't so sure about all the world loving a lover, but they do know that all the world loves an elephant.

With the John Robinson circus, coming to Peterborough Thursday, June 16, there are over a score of the elephants in the three rings and on the two stages. They do a world of new stunts, or, if they do old stuff, they do it so well, so differently, that you'll think it entirely new and entirely delectable.

There is a barber shop scene in which one of the largest of the herds combs the hair of a five-ton customer with the utmost precision, and the dancing of these oriental monsters is a riot — it is nothing short of cyclonic art. The "buck and wing" is good, the fox-trot is better, and the waltz is apparently the last word in heavyweight terpsichore — but when the audience rests its eyes upon "Lizzie" doing the shimmie for all she is worth all restraints are broken and she is unanimously proclaimed the hit of the bill. Nothing approaching this feat has ever been seen, according to all reports from points at which the show has exhibited and citizens of Peterborough may well look forward to a treat when the John Robinson Circus visits here.

In addition to the elephants the circus is presenting what is said to be the finest array of menage horses ever gathered together, groups of well-trained ponies trained dogs and many other educated creatures from jungle and plain.

TUESDAY, JUNE 14TH, 1921.

A MOMENTOUS VOTE.

To-morrow the coal miners of Great Britain will vote upon the question of accepting or refusing the latest offer made by the mine owners. To the people of the Mother country, and to a lesser degree to all citizens of the Empire, the balloting is of premier importance and the result will be awaited with anxiety. A decision to continue the strike would be a most unpleasant development and a staggering blow to British industry and trade. Fortunately it has been ruled that a two-thirds vote against accepting the proposals of the owners will be necessary to continue the strike. Such an expression of opinion in favour of "carrying on" is not to be expected despite the fact that some of the leaders of the miners are deaf to the proposal of the owners and want the fight maintained until thier proposals are adopted To offset this feeling on the part of the leaders there is the belief that many of the miners are realizing that their present course is impossible, and the best possible thing to be done is to terminate the strike and get back to work. It is hoped that Wednesday's vote will terminate the whole matter.

CONFIDENCE.

A Peterborough firm has for some time used the slogan in its advertising, 'It is confidence that does it." That seems a splendid motto for everybody in Canada at the present time. Confidence in this great country, in its natural resources, in its financial strength, in its unlimited possibilities, in its power of recovery from depression, in its future—that is our great need just now. The Dominion is, it is true, suffering to some extent an industrial depression, and the agricultural interests are feeling the effects of a sudden and large decrease in prices. But, compared to other countries of the world, Canada is in a most favourable condition. There is no other nation with brighter prospects; few that are escaping so lightly the effect of the post-war readjustment. Canadians have no reason to be downhearted and pessimistic, for, as Mr. D. R. Wrenn pointed out in his message to the Examiner last evening, "We haven't anything in this country to be pessimistic about." Don't talk blue ruin, hard times, depression, but instead have confidence in this splendid country of ours, and in our ability to weather any storms of depression. Truly it is confidencee that does it.

FOR THE BLIND.

The appeal made on behalf of the fund for the blinded soldiers which is amalgamated with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, is one that should receive more general and more generous support than it has hitherto done. During 1919 the total subscriptions amounted to $13,853, and in 1920 the figure was $13,550, while so far this year $4,100 has been received. This result falls a long way behind what could be accomplished if only a few more would realize the inestimable benefits these sightless ones derive from the support given.

The fund for the blind and blinded soldiers was established soon after the Armistice, when the prisoners' bread fund was happily no longer necessary. The same spirit pervades the whole undertaking, that of relieving the suffering and distress caused by the war, and generally to encourage those deprived of one of the greatest blessings, to "carry on," making themselves self-reliant and useful members of the community. Thus, for two and a half years, this fund has proved a very valuable auxiliary to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind which from one end of the Dominion to the other has brought within its parental fold many men and women who, otherwise, had experienced but little relief from the daily disappointments and vicissitudes of life inseparable to their handicap. Light has been shed around them and depression has given place to joyous contentment, in short, they are happy and grateful for your aid.

But more aid is needed, and Peterborough people who are in a position to help should do their share in this splendid work.

THE SALARIES OF MINISTERS.

The most underpaid workers in the world, in proportion to the unescapable calls made upon them, are Christian pastors. Therefore, it was a commendable thing that in the recent General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, a resolution was passed to increase the minimum salary of ministers. The resolution fixed the lowest salary to be paid to a married minister at $1,600. That is far too low, but is an advance. Therefore, also, the overwhelming sentiment shown in the General Assembly in favour of Presbyterian union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches should be a gratification to decent people, apart altogether from religious considerations, for such union will facilitate a greater measure of justice to ministers in the matter of salary than anything else in the world could. Union will mean one congregation and one minister in a great many places, where now are two or three of each, with a proportionately better opportunity to treat ministers fairly.

A man engaged in the Christian ministry may be indifferent himself to the scale of compensation; but he would not be much of a man, let alone much of a pastor, if he were indifferent to the comfort and welfare of wife and children. These he must wish to have home comfort, decent food, decent clothing, decent education. The scale of salaries paid to pastors has been low, too low to permit of a minister being sure of how he will be able to provide for his family, and this undoubtedly accounts in part for the fact that the number of candidates for the ministry in all the Protestant Churches has been falling off recently to an ominous extent. Six thousand pulpits are stated to be vacant in the United States; and thousands of ministers besides are compelled to undertake more or less work outside their ministerial duties to secure a decent living for their families, a condition which of course interferes with their full ministerial usefulness.

A significant light on the subject is shed by the United States income tax returns, which require all citizens to state their income, whether they come into the taxable class or not. This has enabled a compilation of the incomes of ministers by The Christian Work, which brings out the fact that of the 170,000 active pastors of the United States, 1,671 receive or earn from all sources $4,000 per year or more. The complete tabulation is as follows:

1 per cent. of ministers receive $4,000 or more.
1.4 per cent. receive $3,000 to $4,000.
4.6 per cent. receive $2,000 to $3,000.
9.3 per cent. receive $1,500 to $2,000.
32.6 per cent. receive $1,000 to $1,500.
38.6 per cent. receive $500 to $1,000.
12.7 per cent. receive $500 or less.

Not only are the ministers boycotted by the refusal of the church members to pay adequate salaries, they must look forward to the boycott being continued after they retire from the active ministry. No demnomination, says the writer, pays an adequate pension to its retired or disabled ministers, as the following revised table of 1919 shows:

4,152 beneficiaries received less than $100.
3,658 beneficiaries received from $100 to $200.
2,653 beneficiaries received from $200 to $300.
1,370 beneficiaries received from $300 to $400.
427 beneficiaries received from $400 to $500.
103 beneficiaries received from $500 to $600.
37 beneficiaries received from $600 to $700.
8 beneficiaries received from $700 to $800.
5 beneficiaries received from $800 to $900.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Lloyd George government facing a crisis," says a London cable. It seems as if we have read similar reports before.

Bread has taken a drop in Toronto. It is hoped the downward movement will spread as far as Peterborough.

With the season of the strawberry short cake at hand, even the most pronounced pessimist must admit that there is still joy in life.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

One of the chief qualifications for holding a position on a paper as conductor of an "Answers to Correspondents" department is being the father of at least six children.

Another thing that will make this city and others more beautiful is to induce Charlie Chaplin to patent his moustache.

Now that the Ontario strawberry crop has had its annual destruction, the consumer's nervous tension is over for another year.

A woman in Los Angeles has started dividing "movie" films into two classes, those fit for adults and those fit for everybody. We would suggest that someone divide "movie" theatres into two classes, those for nuisances who read the sub-titles out loud and those for normal humans.

Here's another damli: Once there was a man who wrote sub-titles for "movies" who had an average knowledge of English.

Billy—I always feel sorry for a spinster.

Milly—You needn't. Even an old maid has something to be thankful for. She doesn't need to worry about where her husband is when he telephones that he is detained at the office.

When fishing for a husband
In the matrimonial brook,
A maiden often wonders how
She'll get him off the hook.

A certain section of the population is wrathy over made-in-Peterborough hootch being sold in Scotch bottles.

Apropos of the foregoing reference to the Los Angeles woman who is classifying the films, the following suggests itself as rather suitable classification for adults:

Virtue.
Harry the Homespun Hero.
The Story of the Honey Bee.
Her Golden Wedding.

But, of course, for the young people we must have something in line with their knowledge of the world and advanced thinking, for instance:

Her Purple Sin.
Life Story of a Lounge Lizard
A Married Woman's Intrigue.
The Double Life.

Now, send along your suggestions and we may be able to publish further lists in the cause of crime.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, June 14.—The Social Club held a jolly picnic on Thursday afternoon and evening to Hogue's Point in honor of Mrs. Nelson Ford (nee Marion Hunter), who is leaving town to join her husband in Oshawa. Time Draws Nigh.

The time draws near for the regatta and Old Home Day, which has been planned for July 1st. An untiring committee are at work and have received a great deal of encouragement from local citizens and Peterborough business men; and last, but not least, from old boys and girls of the village. Every day one hears of still another who is going to visit the old haunts on this day of days. The Reeve and Council are co-operating with the Regatta Committee, and a full day's programme is promised. Several prizes have already been donated and more have been promised for the various events. It is practically arranged to have the Salvation Army Band of Peterborough for the day.

Messrs. R. B. Hirsch and R. L. Mason have been working very hard to make the affair successful, and there is no doubt that there will be a big day for the village.

Dairy Prices.

Creamery butter is 33c per lb. in Lakefield and dairy butter is 30c. Eggs are 31c per doz. Prices seem to be on the decline.

ANCIENT SCOTTISH CASTLE DESTROYED.

Fire Wiped Out Landmark Famous in Song and Story.

EDINBURGH (by mail).—Drummond Castle, famous in Scottish warfare and poetry, has been completely destroyed by fire.

Romantically situated not far from the Trossachs, the ancient stronghold is now a smouldering heap, and the loss is estimated at about £100,000. Many of the treasures of the castle were disposed of recently by the last of the Drummonds.

The fire originated in a chimney, and the flames first burst from the front of the castle.

Nobody was injured, and the estate workers saved some of the rarer pieces of furniture.

Drummond Castle was built in 1401, and is now owned by the Earl of Ancaster. It contained, prior to sale by the last member of the family, portraits by famous painters of James V. and VI., Mary, Queen of Scots, and Charles I.

LOUVAIN LIBRARY TO REGAIN FAME.

Germany Already Has Collected 50,000 Volumes and Shipped to the University.

BERLIN, June 14.—The university library at Louvain which will be rebuilt by American contributions will regain a part at least of its old fame through the collection of ancient manuscripts, fare books, etc., which the German Government is making in accordance with the peace treaty to replace the priceless treasures destroyed by the burning of Louvain. The Government is working on the task on a business basis and has intrusted this feature of reparations to a commission of university experts which has incorporated the Louvain Purchasing Co. to pick up library material for Germany abroad, in accordance with lists furnished by the Louvain University.

About 50,000 volumes, including fifteenth and sixteenth century first editions, and a number of manuscripts have already been shipped to Louvain, partly purchased in France and Belgium, partly acquired in Germany, some through levying upon German University libraries.

Some of the acquisitions have an intimate connection with Belgan history. A number of German collectors and university professors have sacrificed their private libraries on special subjects toward replacing the books destroyed by German troops at Louvain.

Approachable and Considerate

The so-called dignity of banking carries with it, to the minds of some people, an impression of reserve, which has, at times, actually prevented them from becoming depositors. As a matter of fact, a Bank is a business institution, conducted on business lines by practical, successful business men who are both approachable and considerate. It is a pleasure to do your banking at The Merchants Bank.

Help the Blind to Read

(3)

IF you were blind, and unable to read—imagine the prospect!

Only a few years ago the blind of Canada had to ask kind-hearted relatives and friends to read to them. At other times they sat in their darkness, brooding over their helplessness.

To-day the blind can read! There are books with raised letters to make this possible. From reading these books they obtain pleasure that is simply immeasurable.

Our Library and Publishing Department has collected a library of about 9,000 volumes, all printed in the Braille embossed type, which the blind people have been taught to read with their fingers. From this library blind Canadians from all parts of Canada and Newfoundland get books. They await the arrival of these volumes with an eagerness that would be an inspiration to you to behold.

To date this invaluable library has cost $8,000 per year. The books are expensive to purchase in the first place and there is no income from the subscribers. Help us buy new books for the blind. Contribute to this noble cause.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

BENEDICTION

Chapter 75.

A satisfying peace like a benediction crept through the room and into every nerve and atom of my grief worn body.

Long ruddy shafts of early dawn slanted through the window and lengthened little by little across the floor. I could see Leonard's profile now and I turned my head ever so little against his shoulder so I could scan his face.

"You are tired, dear," I told him, softly. He roused quickly as if I had awakened him, but his eyes had not been closed. They looked far, far off, into space, and I knew he still found it difficult to efface the pain and regret of those ill spent months.

"Noreen, oh Noreen!" he said, his voice overwhelmed with emotion. Regret, pain and sudden, unexpected happiness were all summed up in those words.

"It must be very late, dear. Don't you think you can sleep now?" I coaxed. My feelings then were compassionate with deep maternal emotions. Leonard seemed like an erring boy, and my heart longed to heal his wounds and keep him safely always in my understanding arms.

"It's the torment of it, dearest," he said, pressing his hand to his temples. "I don't believe I could sleep—yet."

"Does talking make it easier?" I asked. I thought perhaps if he uncovered the pain it would heal more quickly. There were things I might have told him, things that would help to mollify the anguish of hi own heart, but they were things that is best for a woman not to tell a man.

It is not always well for a man to know that he can break a woman's heart and not lose her love—that a woman can more easily forgive an injury than forget a slight.

"Judge me for what I did; but—judge me also for what I did not want to do—for what I have been able to overcome," he said, speaking as much to his own soul as to me. "Remember that I believed you to be ignorant of what I was doing and yet I did not take advantage of your ignorance. Oh, I am thankful, so very thankful that I risked losing your love in order to make my own love honest and worthy of you again."

I understood that his spirit was trying to shake off the weight of dejection, trying to find faith in itself again, and I was glad. I wanted to help him, but I knew it would have to come through his own soul. Without faith, even faith in ourselves, it is impossible to please God. That was Leonard's strongest religion, faith in his own soul, and it was because I had believed that even through his temptation he had not entirely broken faith with his own conscience that it had been possible for me to love him, and wait for him.

Silence covered him again, and I sat and waited. It was useless to suggest sleep until he had been able to cast out the poison that sickened his thoughts.

A man may lose a woman's love, and think he has thrown away the most precious gift of God—but far more vital to him, far more deadly in its power to destroy, is the loss of his own self-respect. Without love he can rise, though he suffer agony, but the agony of a soul engulfed means ruination and death.

I touched his cheek and forehead with my hand, pushing back the thick hair and stroking his broad high brow ever so gently. Maybe touch could bring my love and faith in him more vividly to his troubled conscience. I saw the lines of agony relax a little and a faint, happy smile creep over his dear face.

Finally the sun's red glow burst magnificently over the eastern horizon and rushed in at the window. We stirred ourselves a little from the blessed peace that immersed us and seemed at last to have come to stay, and rose happily to our feet. The fountain of Leonard's superb physical strength seemed to rise again as he stooped and lifted me bodily from the floor, enfolding me against his broad chest.

Tomorrow—Realization.

KIDD BYRNE SAYS WILL KEPT SECRET

HEIR TO ELUSIVE MILLIONS FEARS FIRE OR THEFT.

(From New York Herald.)

The Rev. David S. K. Byrne of Montreal, whose protracted effort to collect a large legacy which he says is due him under the will of Wellington B. Byrne has been described in The New York Herald, has sent a letter to this newspaper intimating that the original will, whose whereabouts has not been disclosed, is in a safe deposit box

Explaining why the will on file in the County Court at Jasper, Fla., is a certified copy, Mr. Byrne writes: "The late Chief Justice White, before his death, advised me to have an exemplified copy of the will placed on record for protection against theft and fire and to place the original will in a safe deposit. You are aware that no judge will probate a will on a certified copy. Judge Johnson, County Judge of Jasper, recorded the contents of the original will in his records, placed his certificate thereon and forwarded it to Tallahassee for Hon. Clay Crawford's exemplication as Secretary of State. He also recorded the contents of a package of original documents. The said package and original will were sealed up in a box, which was opened in Judge Johns presence and in the court, before witnesses, so that he could vouch for the original documents. The late Chief Justice White's advice to me was to have Judge Johnson make certified copies of all documents, after seeing the originals."

With his letter Mr. Byrne sent a certified copy of an affidavit made in Jasper on April 22, 1919, by Sydney J. Hewitt, M. P. Hunter and T. A. Taylor, who said they had witnessed the opening, on a date not specified, of a sealed package containing, among other things, "original will and original documents."

Mr. Byrne also enclosed with his letter an affidavit from Anna Rose Hard, a New York notary public, dated June 6, 1921, in which she said she had seen 'the original will and testator's signature, including witnesses' signatures, properly attested by Hon. B. B. Johnson, County Judge, Jasper, Fla., exemplified by Clay Crawford, Secretary of State." Among the other originals inspected by the notary, according to her affidavit, were certificates from official records "showing location and valuation of the various holdings of W. G. Byrne, valued at approximately $28,000,000."

SOVIET SPLITS FORMER EMPIRE

MOSCOW GOVERNMENT DIVIDING RUSSIA INTO "REPUBLICS" ON PAPER.

RIGA, LATVIA, June 14.—(The Associated Press).— The Bolshevik government is rapidly dividing the old Russian Empire into a large number of tiny Soviet republics, each having some autonomous authority. In addition to those ethnological units, such as Poland, Latvia, etc., which broke away from Russia on their own accord, there are now at least 20 so-called autonomous republics within the borders of the old Empire.

Ranging in size from little communes, including only a few thousand population, to the great district of the Ukraine, these "republics" occupy, it is estimated, more than one third of the area of the old Russia in Europe, while the various Siberian and Asiatic states occupy so much of the old Empire beyond the Urals and south of the Caucasus that very little of the old Russia in Asia remains directly under control of Moscow—on paper.

The complete text of the Bolshevik decree, granting "autonomy" to the republic of Turkestan, recently published in the Moscow Izvestia, shows, however, that at least in one of these republics, the autonomy is extremely limited. The decree reserves to the Central government at Moscow all matters of foreign relations, foreign trade and military matters in Turkestan.

To some of these "autonomous" districts or nations the Moscow newspapers give names so different from those appearing in gazetteers and atlases that their exact location is extremely difficult to ascertain. They are as follows:

Karelian Labor Commune, including a small territory north of Petrograd and west of Finland inhabited by the Karelians. The capital is Petrosavodsk, on Lake Ladoga.

The autonomius territory of the Mariisk nation, taking in the districts of the Viatka and Nizhegorodsk governments inhabited by the Mariisks, a semi-Mongolian tribe of fishermen and hunters in the Arctic North Russia.

Autonomous territory of the Votsk nation, bordering on the Mariisk territory and including the town of Glasov and other parishes in the Viatka government inhabited by the Voitsaks.

The Autonomous Tshuvashs Commune, including several parishes in the Kazan and Simbirsk governments south of the Mariisk nation. Its capital is Tcheboksari.

The Tartar Socialistic Soviet Republic including the capital Kazan, eight districts of the old Kazan government and some parishes of the Ufa, Samara, Viatka and Simbisk governments.

The Bashkir Soviet Republic, including 14 cantons of the province of Ufa, inhabited by the Bashkirs, who have as their capital Sterlitamak.

The commune of the Volga Germans, including a small territory on the river Volga long ago settled by German immigrants.

The autonomous Kirgise and Cossacks north of the Caspian Sea and taking in parts of the old Astrakan, Ural and Trans-Caspian districts, together with the little known district extending into Southern Asiatic Russia. Is capital is given as Semipalatinsk, in the old district of the same name.

Autonomous Kalmuk Labor Commune, including a number of districts in Astrakan bordering on the Caspian, Cossacks settlements in the Zaryzin government, and a small part of the Don territory.

The Autonomous Republic of Mountain Tribes, a commune on the northern slope of the Caucasus, including Vladikavkask.

The Daghesta Republic, including the Caspian sea coast territory to the west of the Mountain Republic.

The Georgian Socialistic Soviet Republic, which enjoyed some measure of automony even under the Czar and which coincides practically with the old government of Georgia. Its capital is Tiflis. The Georgians once freed themselves from Bolshevik rule, but later were put under Moscow's control again.

The Soviet Republic of Armenia, including practically all of the ethnological district of Armenia. The exact status of this republic under Soviet control is not at present known to the outside world.

The Republic of Azerbaijan, to the west of Georgia and north of Armenia. This includes Baku and the most productive oil fields in Russia, along the Caspian.

The Ukrainian Soviet Republic, with its vast territory of fertile grain fields, along the Volga and including three of the most important Russian cities, Odessa, Kiev and Kharkov. While probably more strictly autonomous than any of the other republic in the Russian Federation, the Ukraine maintains such close relations with Moscow that it is difficult to ascertain where its authority begins and Moscow's leaves off. Its population is, probably as large as Poland, its eastern neighbor.

The White Russian Republic, a sort of theoretical buffer state sandwiched in between Great Russia and the Polish frontier, in habited by the "White Russians" and including the cities of Minsk and Pinsk.

The Abhask Socialistic Soviet Republic, including certain territories in southern Asiastic Russia about which little is known.

The Republic of Turkestan, which coincides practically with those territories marked on old maps of Russia, as the government of Turkestan.

The Republic of Khiva in Asiastic Russia, including the city of the same name.

The Republic of Bokhara, also in Asiatic Russia, about the old city of Bokhara, a trading center since ancient times.

The Far Eastern Republic, which is only more or less under Moscow's control, its fate fluctuating with the military successes and failures in Siberia. Its territory includes most ofwe stern Siberia.

HASTINGS VISITED BY SEVERE STORM

BARN BURNED IN SEYMOUR TOWNSHIP—COURT CASE DISMISSED.

HASTINGS, June 13. — Another aged resident of Asphodel has passed away in the person of Mr. Wm. Hore, who had reached the advanced age of 91 years, and had been in failing health for some years. Mr. and Mrs. Hore were at one time residents of Hastings, but after the death of his partner in life, deceased went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Fred Warner, of Asphodel, where he spent the few last remaining years of his life, and where he passed away to his reward on Saturday, June 11th. Mr. and Mrs. Hore were beloved by their neighbors, being always ready to lend a helping hand in the hours of sickness and bereavement. A number of sons and daughters are left to mourn the loss of a beloved father. The funeral will be held on Tuesday (14th), from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Fred Warner, place of interment being Trent Valley Cemetery.

Barn Burned.

What was generally acknowledged by some of the older residents, as being the worst electrical storm for years, passed over this district on Sunday night. A barn belonging to Mr. J. Beamish of Percy, was struck by the lightning and burned to the ground.

Case Dismissed.

Several of our citizens were in Cobourg to-day ,being called as witnesses on the Dodds-Ketchum case. After hearing some of the evidence the judge dismissed the case, each paying his own costs .

Sunday was generally observed as children's day in the local churches. Good programmes were rendered by the Sunday school children. The floral decorations were in keeping with the occasion.

In the evening service in the Methodist church was withdrawn to allow all who so desired to attend the anniversary service held in the Presbyterian Church. The pulpit was taken by Captain (Rev.) F. Anderson of Port Hope, who gave an excellent address from the text — "Behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it" and made the subject of personal responsibility in regard to our individual oportunities very interesting and helpful. The Rev. gentleman is a forceful speaker and held the rapt attention of his hearers throughout. The collection for the day was in aid of the church funds.

Next Sunday will be observed as Sacrament Sunday, preparatory services being held the previous Friday.

Mr. Earl Hinton of Wooler spent the week end with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Hinton, at the parsonage.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large obttle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everyobdy uses this preparation now ,because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gary hair disappears, and after another application or two, you hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Watch Your Gums— Bleeding a Sign of Trouble

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the forerunners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. These poisons often cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia, and other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately for special treatment.

USEFUL HINTS ON BUILDING GARAGE.

The Doors Offer a Little Problem of Their Own.

A finicky car-buyer often hesitates for days over some little point when deciding on what machine to purchase. Perhaps the steering-apparatus doesn't exactly suit him, or he finds fault with the varnish, or the color scheme of the upholstery offends his aesthetic sense. Whatever it is, it gives him pause until he can decide the momentous matter. When after long consideration and mature deliberation, he finally acquires a car that just meets all his requirements, paying a fancy price therefor, it happens not infrequently that that same critical buyer is perfectly content to house his prize in a building that is not much more than a shack. It reveals a peculiar kink in human nature that a man will play a large sum for an ornate car and then allow it to be impaired by improper housing, but abundant experience has shown that such is the case—just as a farmer will go and invest in a costly piece of farm machinery and then leave it in the field until the next season for using it rolls around.

It should be perfectly feasible to enter the motor-house easily by night as well as by day, either direct from the entrance gate or from the front door itself. There should be no need to have to reverse in a narrow drive, nor should the approach be on a steep gradient.

But assuming that the garage is well placed and not too near the dwelling-house, we have next to consider the building itself. Is to be a garage merely, or is it advisable, on the one hand, to include some sort of workshop and stores, and, on the other, accommodation for the driver? The last-mentioned point is obviously one for the motorist personally to determine, nor is it vital to the subject of this article. If, however, the owner is at a loss for accommodation for his man he would do well to give thought to the very attractive little bungalows and similar tenements that are now so readily obtained. For there are certain advantages in keeping a car all to itself in a building.

It is important that the garage should be adequately spacious. Whether there is one or more vehicles there should be room enough about them for a man to pass easily—indeed, sufficient space to work at ease from all sides is essential since even the best of cars needs occasional adiustments or repairs.

Good overhead clearance is another requisite. Concrete, preferably sloping slightly toward a drainage gutter makes a durable floor, and strips of asbestos material or wooden gangways, easy to remove, can be laid alongside the car to keep one's feet warm and dry.

Weather-proof qualities go without saying and the building should be well lighted and ventilated. Moreover, it is advisable to have a pipe inserted in the wall in a position so that it can be connected to the car's exhaust by a length of rubber tubing. Cases have occurred where persons have been overcome by the noxious fumes that collect in a closed building when the engine is running.

Adequate artificial lights another sine qua non. For this purpose electricity is by far the best illuminant. Acetylene and town gas are, of course, useful enough, but they bring with them great risks of fire. If electricity can be obtained neither from the main or from a private installation, either of the alternatives can be used so long as the naked flame is enclosed in sconces or glass globes let into the garage walls and open only to the outer air. In this case, however, one can get not very well have the very essential portable light; and an electric torch is the only safe substitute for inspecting the car's interior. On the other hand, it would, in many cases, be feasible to make use of the car's storage-batteries for this purpose.

Buckets filled with dry sand, handily disposed, are essential also a water-supply and drainage that does not communicate with the house or other sewers. We should be inclined to recommend also that the motor-house doors carry an exterior light in case of failure of the car's lamps on a dark night. These might even be capable of being switched on from the entrance gate.

By the way, the garage doors offer a little problem of their own, the solution of which must be left to suit individual circumstances. In one case it may be possible for the doors to be in two halves, capable of sliding sideways. In other cases they may have to open inward or outward, while it may even be necessary to make each half fold back on itself.

A garage should be so arranged that repairs to the machine can readily be made in it. To that end special appliances are needed.

BABE RUTH MAKES DEBUT AS PITCHER

NEW YORK, June 14 (Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees continued their terrific hitting, and made it three straight from Detroit yesterday —13 to 8.

Ruth, in his first game of the season as a pitcher held the Tigers to one scratch hit in the first four innings, but was relieved by Mays in the sixth

Ruth also hit two homers, bringing his season's total to 21.

9,311 BISON IN THE WORLD

Of This Number 3, 527 Are in the United States.

The total number of pure-blood bison throughout the world is now only 9,311 ,of which one-third are to be found in the United States, according to a summary of the thirteenth census of living American bison as of Jan. 31, just made public by the American Bison Society. Of this number there are in the United States 3,427 captive and 100 wild bison. In Canada there are 4,916 captive and 800 wild; in North America, 900 wild, making a total of 9,243. In South America and foreign countries there are 68 bison in captivity ,making a total of 9,311. In 1920, 1,700 calves were born.

Police court reports show that, at some weddings in Montreal, the best man has to prove it with fists and feet.

Sightless Seamster of Sixty Helped By Institute for Blind

GREAT HUMANTARIAN WORK QUIETLY CARRIED ON BY THE CANADIAN NATIONAL INSTITUTE DESERVES THE SYMPATHETIC SUPPORT OF PUBLIC.

Can you run a straight seam on a sewing machine with your eyes shut?

You can walk downstairs in the dark. With practice you could do many other things without light. If you want proof call with us for a moment at the Industrial Dept. for Women of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

If it is a fine day you'll find the place flooded with spring sunhine from the south, north and west windows. In a breeze from off the lake horse chestnut buds print sticky kisses on the window panes and when the west wind blows elm tree branches sweep caressingly towards the wall.

In that big upper room power machines stitching, hemming and tirmming four hundred and eighty niht gowns a day hum like swarming bees.

The workers at the wheels are blind, though they have the same kind of machines as used in other whitewear factories with shafts revolving at the same high speed.

Sixty—But She Learned.

None of these workers ever touched a power machine before this Industrial Department for Women was opened by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in December of 1918.

Two years ago many of them had never stitched on even an ordinary sewing machine.

There is an old lady of sixty among the sigthless seamstresses. It is four years since she became blinded. A husband's care guided her through the first two years of darkness, then death took that help away.

Her youth, her sight, hero slace gone, she apnealed to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. They laced her in their then newly established Industrial Department for Women. Like the others, she was given $9 a week during her apprenticeship. Now she is on piece work, earning from $10 to $15.

Neither Idle Nor Alone.

Even better than remuneration is occupation for the sightless. With something to do and companions to work with ninety per cent. of the horror of blindness is removed. It then assumes the proportions of a handicap, a big handicap, but one that brings out the bigness in a man or a woman and makes them successful despite it.

Put You to the Blush.

You may have forgotten how to blush, but you will remember shamefully your unsuccessful spearings at a needle's eye when you watch these sigthless people thread their machines. They use a crochet hook to get the cotton through some holes, and utilize a patent threader for the needle. fi

With hent tin and much ingenuity their supervisor has contrived a guiding device whereby they can trim whitewear with lace, and the attachment is being manufactured of steel so that it may be placed on any of the machines.

Manicured For Work.

Many of the workers are handicapped by more than blindness. Some are deaf, too. One, pointed out as doing the most beautiful hemming of the lot, had to soak her hands in soda and water and rub cream into her finger tips night after night before she could get them sensitized enough to take lessons on an ordinary machine. Her hands had been hardened by heavy housework, and worse than her hands was the condition of her nerves.

They Like the Flappers.

In ordinary factories managers want the workers "young and nervy." In less than two years' time this woman of advanced years has controlled her nervousness, sensitized her fingers and overcame the tremendous handicap of blindness. She is a piceworker on a power machine, earns a good wage, and does fine work that no young girl could surpass.

TAMPICO'S PLAGUE RECORD.

Thirty-seven Deaths in May and One a Day This Month.

HAVANA, Cuba, June 14.—Thirty-seven deaths from bubonic plague occurred in Tampico during May, according to the bill of health issued by the Cuban Consul at Tampico to the American tanker Albert E. Watts, which arrived here yesterday.

One death a day marked the first week in June, but the number of cases last month and the first week this month were not mentioned in the documents.

CARE OF ALL-METAL UNIVERSAL JOINT.

Must Be Oiled and Fabric Ones Inspected Often.

The universal joint is one of the most inconspicuous items in the mechanism of the modern motor car Many car owners do not even realize that there is such a part, and yet its function is vitally important, its service is severe and continuous. One result of the self-effacing character of the universal is that it seldom receives the small amount of care that it needs to keep on performing its important and different function. And thereby hangs our present tale.

Every car owner knows that in the mechanism of his vehicle there is a propeller shaft which carries the drive from the engine to the rear wheels. Here it is that the universal joint comes in. If the propeller shaft were a solid piece it would snap off the first time that the rear axle passed over a bump in the road. The universal joint is so constructed that it can move inalf directions, not only revolving with the propeller shaft, but moving up and down and sideways. In this way when the rear axle bounces up and down, the universal compensates for that movement, even while it is revolving with the shaft.

Obviously then there is constant movement in the universal joint and movement in several directions at once. Pretty strenuous service, as anyone will agree. It follows that some sort of care must be needed to keep the joint up to performing its allotted difficult task. In most cases this is lubrication and, regretfully be it said, the average car owner generally forgets all about it until the hard-working universal finally fails, not so much through hard work as lack of ordinary care.

From the nature of the universal lubrication is somewhat of a problem. Because of the type of motion in this part the lubricant is likely to be thrown off to the side by the centrifugal force that is present. In other cases the lubricant is squeezed out from between the rubbing surfaces, where it is needed, because of the twist of torque at the joint.

The original universal joints were simply a cross-shaped piece, the ends of which acted as bearings for a U-shaped part. The present type of universal is of what is known as the ball-socket type. This is simply a ball resting in a socket, permitting the universal movement that is needed. In some cases the universal joint also provides for front and back movement, but in most cases this thrust movement is taken care of elsewhere.

Within the past few years a new type of universal joint has come into use, in the shape of fabric, leather or combinations of fabric and leather. The prime advantage of this non-metal point is that it does not need lubrication. Obviously it also eliminates noise from this part. The only care that is necessary for this latter type of joint is a monthly inspection and a tightening up of the retaining members as the need it.

The fabric or leather joint cannot be used in all designs. The angle of operation of the propeller governs this. If the shaft is nearly level the fabric joint serves very well, but where the shaft has a considerable angle of operation the metal joint must be used because of its greater range of action. These flexible joints, as the fabric type is also called, are much used where the transmission is placed amidships, the joint being located between the clutch and the transmission.

In the case of the metal universal, the car owner should make a practice of renewing the lubricant at stated intervals. Once a month in some cases and in others once in three months will be ample. In some cases a metal housing is used and in others a leather boot protects the universal. This should be taken off, the part should be flushed with kerosene and the housing should be repacked with grease, graphite or some of the non-fluid lubricants recommended for the purpose. That is all there is to it. Not a very difficult task and one that should be religiously performed in the interest of efficient operation.

When the car develops a tendency to jerk when it is running slowly in high gear it is reasonable to suspect a badly worn universal. The wear is probably due to the failure of lubrication or positive neglect of it.

Finely Built to the Least Detail

There is so much enthusiastic comment on the fine Chalmers motor, that other excellent Chalmers features seem to be taken for granted.

But they are worthy the careful consideration of all motor car buyers. For here is a car that is finely built to the least detail. Engineering and car building experience have applied themselves in masterly fashion.

Design and Finish Beautiful

Every element of beauty and style is incorporated in the Chalmers.

The wonderful motor is satin-smooth in its pickup, starts easily, and warms up at once. The car rides with remarkable ease and comfort.

Thus the Chalmers has earned a name enviable among really fine cars.

The Fuel is Pre-Heated

The Chalmers motor has played its important part in winning this reputation. Fuel is pre-heated by the hot-spot. This means greater mileage on gasoline; and very much better motor performance for longer periods without overhauling.

We invite you to investigate the Chalmers and permit us to demonstrate superiority.

GIANT LOCOMOTIVE READY FOR TRIAL.

New Reading Engines Have Speed of Ninety Miles an Hour.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14—One of the five giant high-speed locomotives being built in the Reading shops of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway has been completed, and is ready for its trial trip, according to a statement issued from the local offices yesterday. It is expected the other four will be in operation shortly.

The new locomotives are of the type used on the Pacific Coast passenger trains. They have a speed of ninety miles an hour. The Reading will operate them to seashore points, and between here and New York. Engine No. 120, the first completed engine, is similar in design to the engine No. 119, of the Philadelphia and Reading, which recently broke the record between here and New York by covering a distance of ninety miles in eighty minutes.

The new locomoitve has six driving wheels, an over-all length of seventy-nine feet seven inches, a height of fifteen feet. It has a tractive power of 39,046 pounds, and a total weight, exclusive of tender, of 273,600 pounds.

The tender is of a new type, now being used with the Reading's high-speed engines. Its weight when empty is 75,600 pounds; loaded it weighs 183,700 opunds. It has a capacity of 9,000 gallons of water and fifteen tons of coal. Its over-all length is thirty-one feet ten and one-quarter inches; its width ten feet and its height twelve feet one inch. The measurements of the four engines and tenders now under construction will be virtually the same.

Every detail of the construction, finishing and equipping of these new engines is being done in the Reading shops.

This year the National University in Peking, China, received women students for the first time.

Ancient Rome Was City Built Entirely of Cement

By JAMES W. ALKER
Of Pennsylvania Cement Company.

Builders of ancient Rome knew a lot about concrete, and used it extensively in civic and private undertakings. It was well that they knew so much about this building material and were so generous in the use of it. Had they used less durable substance in the building of the monumental structures that were features of Rome the remains of these great projects would not be dotting all southern Europe, serving to emphasize the advancement of the people who lived for centuries in these parts before the coming of Christ.

Preserved Records of Romans.

The discovery of cement by these early people was fortunate, for otherwise nothing much would have been known about this wonderful race. They would have been obliterated and nothing of their history, intelligence, character or enterprise would have come down through the years to posterity. They told their story on slabs of cement and built their homes, their government buildings, waterworks and the like of concrete, which has resisted the wear of thousands of years.

Slabs almost as perfect as when made have been discovered by archæologists who have deciphered the chiseled characters which tell many wonderful stories about this race, which was vanquished by the advance of Christianity. The ruins of the buildings they erected are among the great sights of the world and are continually furnishing investigstors, students of the Roman period, with new sources of research into this really wonderful era in the progress of the world.

Cement Passed With Rome.

The making of cement seems to have passed with the Romans. They were the only people living along the Mediterranean who used concrete. Others used brick or mud, or some other clay substance. In the great evolution that followed the death of Christ, which eventually destroyed the great Roman Empire and changed the ways of many nations, the secret of cement making was one of the many arts of these early people that was lost.

It was not until eighty years ago that it was rediscovered. The engineer building the Eddystone lighthouse was the man who reintroduced this material to the modern world. Portland cement was made some time after by Joseph Aspdin, of Leeds, England, another engineer. It was a big step in the return march of this material into construction work.

Cement did not jump to the fore as quickly as it should have because of its cost. There were no railroads, or very few, serving sections where the stone for making cement was to be had, nor was there heavy machinery for grinding the stone.

Labor was not costly when the ancient builders were using cement. Thousands of men, all the vassals of a master, captives of war many of them, were put to work making the cement which was used in the construction of the Panthelon, the Pont du Gard, the Pons Fabricius, Appian Way, Amphitheater of Pompeii and other great structures of the Romans.

Impressed World With Building.

The first extensive use of concrete construction and its extraordinary development by the Romans from the first century B. C. came in direct response to a demand for building construction as a means to an end. That is, construction of a nature as much utilitarian as ornamental. Practically all of the world, as known in those days, paid tribute to Rome. Its conquests were many. Triumphal arches, temples, theaters, aqueducts, bridges and roads were constructed on a vast scale to indicate to the newly acquired provinces, which were naturally restive, the power and administrative energy of the Romans. It was the most intensive building period the world had known and, according to some opinions, has gone without, parallel for twenty centuries—until the introduction of present-day methods of building.

Building Record for 20 Centuries.

The Romans' discoveries in concrete mixing made it possible for them to make such prodigious strides in engineering and architecture.

At the foot of Vesuvius were immense deposits of reddish sand or volcanic ash called puzzuolana, which when added to lime mortar made hydraulic cement. This gave to the Romans a concrete of extraordinary strength and permanence, which hardened under water as well as in the air, and became the basis of their entire system of building.

In spite of the practical and extensive demonstration which the builders of Rome had given to the world, concrete gradually fell into disuse. French and English writers as late as the eighteenth century speak of the Roman method of mixing cement as a lost secret, a formula buried in the darkness of the Middle Ages.

Although Portland cement was patented by Mr. Aspdin, an English engineer, and reinforced concrete is credited to a Frenchman, America has made the most use of them. The manufacturers of Portland cement has been brought to the highest state of perfection in this country, and our use of concrete now ranges from the watering trough to the Panama Canal.

Use of cement has made possible the impressive architectural effect of vast and lofty interiors unencumbered by piers and columns.

MAMMOTH LOAD OF HAY BROUGHT $68

CAVAN FARMER SOLD AT PRICE OF $30 A TON.

Who says hay prices have alll gone smash? Who says there is no money in growing clover and timothy? And persons who saw Russell Earl of Cavan, weigh up his load at the market yesterday and collect a cheque from Ed. Cooney, must have got an eye opener. For 4,560 lbs. of hay, the expresman paid Earl $68.40, figured at $30 a ton. This is the price that has prevailed for some months. No slump in hay prices has occurred and the farmers have enjoyed a steady sale; in fact most of them have their hay sold before they bring it into the city, as Earl had.

This load is the largest the market clerk has weighed this year, and he believed it is one of the largest loads that has ever come into Peterborough. The average load of hay citizens see travelling through the streets weighs about 2,200 or 2,500 lbs. The size of Earl's load can be gathered when an average load of hay is mentally doubled.

Russell Earl lives about 10 miles from the city, three miles west of Springville.

PROOF EX-CONVICTS CAN MAKE GOOD.

There is one news story in New York that the newspapers kindly suppress each year. At least they do not mention any names. In one of the big hotels there is an annual dinner in a private banquet hall. Well dressed men in evening clothes to the number of 40 attend. There is nothing about them to indicate that they are anything but what they are—successful business men. They discuss over their meal the topics of the day and all know each other by first names. But when cigars are lighted, waiters and bus boys are driven out and the doors are locked. Then they discuss the past. They are ex-convicts who have served terms in Sing Sing. Two or three former wardens are usually the guests of honor. They have proved that an ex-convict can make good.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

IMAGINATION STAGGERED BY DEBT GERMANY OWES

Eleven thousand three hundred million pounds is the total of the indemnity Germany is called upon to pay the Allies over a period of forty-two years, says Tit-Bits,

More than £188 for every man, woman and child living in Germany; a guinea for every shilling Great Britain owed in 1914.

So stupendous a sum that, if all the Mints in the British Empire started to-day to coin gold at their average rate of production in normal times, the last sovereign would not be struck until the year 2,298.

The unaided mind cannot grasp figures so colossal—figures which represent little short of the entire wealth of Germany to-day, if she were put up to auction and sold "lock, stock and barrel."

Immense Weight.

Let us in fancy reduce the thousands of millions of pounds of peace-gold to sovereigns, and pour our avalanche of coins on to one pan of a giant pair of scales. On the other pan let us place every man, woman, and child living in Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmorland, Durham, and Lincolnshire. We shall find that these three millions or so of human beings cannot raise the mountain of gold the smallest fraction of an inch from the ground.

To carry it away we should have to recruit an army of 1,700,000 brawny porters—as many as the combined population of Liverpool, Manchester and Plymouth. Let us give to each man a burden of a hundredweight.

A Long Parade.

We shall then find that if we arrange them four abreast, with an interval of a yard between successive ranks, our column would be so long that, before the rear rank had passed our office, the leaders would be marching through Durham.

Let us now try the experiment of conveying our mountain of golden sovereigns in wagons, each holding two tons and drawn by a couple of horses. Before the last driver had lost sight of London, his fellow at the other end would be within sight of Sheffield.

By Railway.

Such methods of transporting so enormous a weight are too laborious. So we will try the railway. For this purpose we shall require 8,878 trucks, each holding ten tons of gold; and our train, drawn by thirty powerful locomotives will be so long that the foremost engine will be steaming into Waterloo Station before the last truck has cleared Guilford.

Now let us take our thousands of millions of sovereigns and set to work to form them into one far-spreading carpet of gold. So enormous will be this carpet that with it we shall be able to cover every square inch of five of London's great open spaces—Hyde, St. James', Regent's, Battersea and Victoria Parks. We shall have a remnant so long that every man, woman and child in Cornwall could find standroom on it.

If we could fashion our sovereigns into a roadway, we should have a glittering path thirty-six feet wide, along which twenty men could walk abreast from Ramsgate to Land's End. Or we could link London with Berlin by a golden railway so wide that eleven men could walk along it shoulder to shoulder.

By reducing the width of our path to a little under six inches we could fashion a gold belt long enough to girdle the earth at the Equator.

So many are these sovereigns that if a nimble-fingered cashier dowered with perpetual youth were to start to-day to count them at the rate of a 100 a minute for ten hours a day, he would not reach the last coin until the year 2437.

LONDON PAPER 185 YEARS OLD.

Copy is in Possession of Kingston Citizen.

A newspaper published in 1736, nearly two hundred years ago, is the unique relic in the possession of a local citizen. This antique of journalism, published in the days when "s's" looked life "f's," is called "The Daily Advertifer," printed in London, England, on Wednesday, June 16th, 1736. It consists of one sheet of heavy paper, now brown with age, one side of which is given over entirely to advertisements. The news consists of items concerning London and its neighborhood, telegraphs and press bureaus being unknown quantities in the days of King George II.

The leading column is almost entirely taken up with a letter from Joseph Danvers, Esq., member of Parliament for Totness, to Joshua Ward, Esq., commending to the public the latter's sack drops and pills for rheumatism. Next follows four lines of marine news from the seaport town of Deal. The Priscilla, Ford, "came down and sail'd through" for Lisbon, the Molly Gray for South Carolina. A number of deaths are reported, the Lady Capel, daughter of the Right hon. the Earl of Essex, is recovering from smallpox, the Lord Conway, a minor, was introduced to His Majesty at Kensington by the Right Hon. Sir Robert Walpole, and had the honor to kiss Her Majesty's hand on his taking leave of the court, and the day before the corps of Edward Turner, Esq., was carried from his house in Bloomsbury Square, in a grand manner, to be interr'd in Harlow."

Some odd advertisements appear on page two. A lost or stolen "ad" advertises the loss of two spoons and a nutmeg grater; a notice warns the public against entertaining John Day, apprentice to Mr. Hubbard, "as they will answer the same at their peril," while a reward of "five shillings and reasonable charges is offered for the return of another apprentice who has left his master; there is "to be sold very cheap at the Two Lamps in Bury street a house of clean furniture, free from bugs," while another house which is for sale has "very good conveniences to brew and bake."

$60,000 SERVICE GRATUITY FOR C.N.R. SOLDIERS.

WINNIPEG, June 14.—Gratuity for war service, approximating between $40,000 and $60,000, will be forthcoming soon to 19 returned soldiers in Winnipeg who were employed on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway prior to its amalgamation with the Canadian National Railway, and who enlisted before that date. Information to this effect is contained in a communication received by E. J. McMurray, who acted for the men, from his agents in Ottawa.

On April 1 Mr. McMurray went to Ottawa and laid the case of the men before the Special Parliamentary Committee dealing with matters affecting returned soldiers. It was asked that the gratuity, representing the difference in pay which the men received in the army and what they would have received had they been employed steadily on the railway, be made retroactive from May, 1915.

The matter was referred to the Department of Railways and Canals by the committee. Mr. McMurray's agents advise him that an appropriation of $80,000 will be made for this department. The purpose of this appropriation was not disclosed, but it was confidently expected that it would be used along the lines suggested to the committee by Mr. McMurray, and that the Winnipeg men would receive their just share at an early date.

SOVIETS IGNORED MACHINIST LEADER.

William H. Johnston Vainly Waited Two Weeks in Riga.

RIGA, June 13.— William H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists, after waiting vainly a fortnight here for permission to enter Soviet Russia for the purpose of investigating the labor situation and trade possibilities, left here Saturday for Berlin from which place he will return to the United States. The Bolsheviki gave no reply to Mr. Johnston's repeated requests for permission to enter Russia to learn how the International Association of Machinists could co-operate with the Soviet Government in establishing trade relations with the United States.

"A month before I left the United States, Soviet representatives cabled to Moscow for permission for me to enter." Mr. Johnston said before leaving here. "I came to Riga fully expecting the Soviets to welcome me, for I came with the desire to help them to establish trade relations with the United States. In Berlin I made a further application to the Soviet Legation there, which agreed to wire Moscow and have the answer sent to Riga. The Riga Legation also wired, and I wired personally to Martens (Ludwig Martens, so-called Soviet Ambassador to the United States, who was ordered deported from that country). I have received no answer at all, although other Americans have been admitted to Russia or refused permission since I have been in Riga. It is very surprising that I have had no answer, and I am too busy to stay any longer, as they have had ample time."

CHURCH SERVICES AT MARK STREET.

The congregations were larger than usual, and the music was well received.

"The Ambassador of God and His Message" was the subject of the morning sermon, and was based on the text found in Judges III., 20, "I have a message from God to thee."

The following is a synopsis of the sermon:

A Strange Message to the Oppressor.

Eglon, the oppressor of Israel, is seated in his summer parlor. He is the King of Moab, and has poured out cruelty on God's people. Ehud, whom the Lord has chosen to set his people free from tyranny, enters Eglon's summer bower, and saying, "I have a message from God to thee," plunges a dagger into Eglon's body. This was sharp and stern justice, but while God permitted the bloody deed, He did not direct or sanction or order murder or assassination. We have not a God who delights in the shedding of blood, but rather finds pleasure in showing mercy. The message of which we will speak this morning is not carried on the point of a dagger, but issues from the very heart of Christ.

The Ambassador With His Living Message.

Jesus, just before he went away into heaven, spoke the message to the disciples on the Mount of Olives The Holy Spirit breathed the same commission at Pentecost, as He crowned the head of early church fire, and touched her lips with living fire, and touched her lips with living flame. The same burning message was proclaimed by the apostles through the Roman world, and they sealed the message with their blood. Augustine carried the same communication into early England; St. Patrick, Columba and Columban into the British Isles, Wesley to America, Livingston to Africa, and a hundred others whose names will never die, sounded in the ears of a dying world the message of God's love to men.

The Message as Received From God.

On every corner you find a man with a "message." One man wants to tell us how to cure disease without medicine or a doctor. They seem to forget that God's great world, organic and inorganic, is full of remedies for human disease and suffering. All healing is "divine healing." Another man wants to tell us when Jesus is "coming again," and the mode of His coming. This ambassador seems to forget that, according to what Jesus said, not even the angels in heaven know when Christ will appear. Would it not be more profitable for this dear brother to get ready for His coming. It matters not to us when He shall come if we are ready with our lamps burning.

Let Us Be Sure Our Message Is From God.

Did God call you to be His ambassador? Remember the "needs of the work" may not be a suffieient call. It is an eternal pity of a man who comes before the people with a message of his own. A young man coming home in the darkness of the night imagines he sees the letters "P. C." shining in the sky. He concludes that this means "Preach Christ." In relating his experience to an old Scotchman, however, he is reminded that "P. C." may mean "Plant Corn." Yes, if God wants us to preach Christ He is not likely to write our commission in letters of fire along the heavens, but will impress it upon our mind and soul by the Holy Ghost Remember, all work is honorable so let us be sure we have our own task and that our message is from God. People are asking why the church is failing in her task? She is failing and will continue to fail until her pulpits proclaim God's own message, and her pews are willing to accept the divine communication and live and act accordingly. But we must not be discouraged—Christ will guard His church. There will always be found seven thousand who have not "bowed the knee to Baal."

What is This Message Which We Receive From God?

It is not a product of science; man had God's message before science was born. Science has discovered healing for the body, but never for the soul. Ten thousand facts have been discovered by science, but she has never discovered the means of changing the human heart from sin, to righteousness and peace, and she never can. Nor was it in the power of philosophy to discover a remedy for human sin. From Thales to Plato all the old philosophers failed to find a way of salvation for the race. Then comes the message, "God is light." Now we cannot see light and we cannot see God. But by the aid of the light we discern objects, and God reveals spiritual objects to the human soul. God is light and Christ is God, so Jesus is the "Light of the World." The light of the eternal spirit reveals to the awakened sinner the corruption of his own heart. By the same spirit the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world is revealed." The same light reveals life's duties and responsibilities. It drives the darkness from our path as the sun dispels the world's night. It pierces the mists that hang around the solitary habitations of the dead so that in death we cry out, "Oh, grave where is thy victory."

Where There is a Shadow There is a Light.

An old Scotch shepherd was dying, and sending for his pastor, he said: "I am afraid of the dark valley." "Then, you are afraid of a shadow," said the faithful pastor. "Did you ever know a Cameron to be afraid of either shadow or substance?" said the old chief as his eyes flashed fire. "The Psalm says 'the valley of the shadow'," replied the minister. Then the light that shines from behind the sun illumined the shepherd's face as he said: "It's only a shadow; there's a light in the valley for me."

And once more the lowly freckle covers a multitude of skins.

INCREASED WATER RATES AROUSE CURIOSITY, PERHAPS ACTION

SOME CITIZENS ARE PLANNING TO HOLD PUBLIC MEETING TO ENQUIRE INTO COSTS AND ASK INDEPENDENT ACTION.

MR. HICKS WELCOMES IT

Both information and objection appear to be the purposes of a mooted public meeting to be held in the near future at which the approaching increases in the water rates will be discussed. The plans of the Utilities Commission were unfolding smoothly and without question until recent rumours inflated by the Commission's published statement began to create an impression that the charges for the filtration plant construction were to be about on a part with or even higher than the tax rate for the Hunter street bridge. Information coming indirectly from the promoters of the meeting indicates that their first concern to find out from the Commission the reason for an increase in water rates which it is believed will range all the way from sixty to eighty per cent. and in many cases one hundred per cent. These property holders, it is reported, understood that when the Council authorized the issuance of debentures to cover the cost of the filtration plant that a direct heavy charge would be avoided. Now, with the prospects of the rates being doubled, they have become sharply curious. Not only do they want an explanation and something more than that, but they will petition the Council to have an independent audit made of the books of the waterworks department of the Utilities Commission.

Welcomes Public Interest.

Mr. R. Hicks, chairman of the Commission, told the Examiner this morning that he had heard something of the proposed meeting. He welcomed the interest some citizens were evidently showing in their own and the city's affairs, but owing to a business appointment he hadn't time to discuss the mater at length this morning. He declared that there would be no change in the basis or rather method of charging for water, and he emphasized the statement that an increase of at least 27 per cent would have applied this year whether or not the filtration plant had been undertaken. This increase was necessary to bring the system up to a paying level.

The notice of this incoming new tariff reads that "of this 80 per cent. over the present water rates, about 27 per cent. would have been required owing to increased costs in operation"; and some surprise is here expressed that the waterworks system is to cost more to operate in a year when the general trend of operations is downward and not upward. But, perhaps, the commissioners can explain this satisfactorily; the ratepayers just now are in a mood to ask it.

All classes of water users are resenting this 80 per cent. addition to their water charges, including men of proved business acumen, and some are planning ways and means for substantially curtailing their present dependence on the waterworks. For instance there is ground floor authority for the statement that, so far, two manufacturing concerns contemplate sinking wells for the water needed in their actual producing operations; their plants are so situated as to render such a plan feasible, and the increase foreshadowed in their water accounts after July first would certainly justify the initial expense to them in procuring water from such sources.

EXTRAORDINARY COMMITTEE

Of Soviet Extents its Power—Can Imprison Without Trial and Order Executions Easily.

RIGA, Latvia, June 14.—(Associated Press.) — Newspapers in the Baltic states says that, regardless of reforms recently made in Russia by the Bolshevik regime, the power of the "Tchezvechaika," or Extraordinary committee to combat counter revolution, continues to grow until it has become a menace even to the foreign trade relations of Russia.

This organization, commonly known as the "Cheka," acting independently of all other government departments, is credited by the papers here with the power to throw suspected persons into jail without preliminary trial, and even to order their excution with little or no hearing.

"In regard to the relations between the Soviet government and foreign countries," says the Riga Rundschau, "we must understand that as long as the Extraordinary Commission continues to act with supreme power and even with the right to oppose the plans of Soviet Russian government institutions, all trade and other treaties concluded between Russia and the west can lead to no definite or regular results.

"If the Extraordinary Commission would confine its arbitrary activity to internal affairs only, we might overcome the existing difficulties, but it is exactly in regard to the fulfillment of peace treaties and other agreements, that this almighty institution interferes with impunty. It is not necessary to enumerate here the various cases which justify this assertion. Hundreds of war prisoners, who by virtue of peace treaties should be released, are kept prisoners, by order of that body. Dozens who are eligible for repatriation, cannot leave Russia. Trains with refugees are held up by order of this institution, revisions are made and many persons ordered to leave the train."

In April in Canada there were 19 strikes, involving 3,687 people and with a loss of 57,071 working days.

TRUCK PROBLEM THE REAR TIRE.

Durability and Cushioning Required.

Each end of the motor truck presents its own problem in the matter of tires, but it is the rear end which must receive chief attention. The front tires support the engine, and the selection of the type of tires to be used involves mainly the question of providing adequate cushioning for the engine. The wear on the front tires is so much less than on rear tires that for ordinary purposes it is computed front tires gives twice the mileage of tires on the rear wheels.

But the choice of rear tires is a matter for the attention of experts and nearly every truck presents a special problem. The rear wheels are the driving wheels and in addition carry the greater part of the load.

A combination of durability and cushioning is required, and it depends upon the proper selection of the type of tire, whether the truck may be operated satisfactorily and at a minimum expense.

There are a few general principles which may be laid down with considerable definiteness regarding the rear tires. First, on most trucks of less than two tons capacity the pneumatic tire is the proper one to use. On most trucks of more than two and one-half tons capacity solids should be used. The two-ton and two and one-half-ton vehicles constitute a class for special study, for there were some cases in which it would pay the owner to equip with pneumatics and other circumstances under which it would be the part of economy to use solids.

To equip with pneumatic requires a greater investment than tosequip with solids and an owner should be sure before he spends the extra money that he needs the special kind of service that pneumatics can render.

If it is not essential that his trucks make fast time or, if the cargoes to be carried are not fragile he will get as good service from solids as from pneumatics and save money. But if speed and extra cushioning are vital, he can save more than enough through the use of pneumatics to make up for their extra cost.

MAKE A PLAN FOR YOUR FLOWER BED AND FOLLOW IT

The average city dweller who has never done anything pretentious in gardening, and who does not want to go to the expense of high priced nursery stock, may have flowers for his table cheaply and without much work. A little stirring of the ground and watering in the evenings during the dry season will amply repay him for his trouble, by giving him a wealth of bloom all summer.

He may be generous with his flowers, too, for the more they are picked the more they will bloom. The old reliable annuals may be grown successfully by even a child.

The seeds must not be planted too deeply. The plants may be bought already started and are inexpensive, and bloom much sooner than if grown in the open, for the greenhouse plants are probably sown in March. Some of the best are cosmos, asters, snapdragon, phlox, petunias, zinnias and salvia. Sweet peas are one of the best annuals, but must be sown early and deep, and cannot be transplanted.

Make a plan and follow it. Do not plant all kinds in a small space. Choose colors and varieties that blend well.

The mixed beds of flowers have a higgledy-piggledy appearance unless carefully chosen.

Geraniums are good bedding plants. They withstand drought well and are constant bloomers. And they are good for verandah and window boxes. All red, or all pink of the same variety are better, if geraniums are used. Sweet alyssum, white petunias, yellow and red foliage, and green vines look well with red geraniums in the boxes.

Q.—When should roses be pruned?

A.—Early in the spring, about March.

Q.—Should dahlias be started in the house before putting in the garden?

A.—It doesn't matter, they are fall flowers and will bloom early enough if just started in the garden.

Q.—Do ever-blooming roses need protection in the winter?

A.—Slight protection is better. Dry leaves heaped around them is a simple way and the leaves are easy to procure.

Q.—What is the best variety of Spirea?

THE OIL PRESSURE REGULATOR

Nearly all engine lubrication systems make use of oil supplied under pump pressure. In circulating-splash systems the degree of pressure acting is of secondary importance, but in positive pressure feed systems, the pressure applied is a matter for more accurate adjustment. The degree of pressure to be maintained in a system of the latter type is usually specified in pounds, in the instruction book relating to it, and this should be adhered to, as too light pressure may result in lubrication failure under hard service and too high pressure may result in cylinder overoiling, smoky exhaust, fouled plugs and oil waste. Since the amount of oil pumped, increases with engine speed, overoiling would result, at high speed, were it not for the oil pressure-regulator, which is a spring controlled automatic relief-valve, located in the pump delivery passage, which opens and allows enough of the oil, to be "shunted" around the bearings, back into the reservoir, to keep the pressure at them within suitable limits. Increasing the spring pressure acting upon this valve, causes it to shunt less oil and to maintain a higher oil pressure and vice versa, the spring usually being strengthened by turning in on an adjustment screw and reduced by turning the screw out. If, with oil of proper body and at working temperature and with the engine at a specified speed, the pressure indication is not what is recommended, the regulator adjustment should be changed to make it correct. However, before changing this adjustment, to increase the pressure, one should be sure that the regulating valve is not leaking, as a result of foreign matter having lodged between it and its seat, for if this occurs, pressure will run low for this reason and no adjustment may be required. Usually, the valve is readily removable for inspection and cleaning. The oil pressure required depends somewhat upon engine condition, for instance, a new engine, that has not been worn in, or one that has recently had its bearings taken up or its pistonrings replaced, usually calls for higher oil pressure than one all the parts of which have worn to an easy fit on, and the other hand, one which is well worn in and smokes badly may be run safely on a reduced pressure.

WHAT CAUSES THIS "MISSING?"

W. R. writes: The engine of my ——— six has given much trouble from misfiring and uneven running. Carburetor and magneto have been overhauled and valves have been ground. They were found very badly carbonized and there was a great deal of raw gas in the crank-case. Do you think the valves can be out of time? How can I tell?

Answer: We see no reason to believe that the valves are mistimed, especially as this is something that hardly ever happens except when an engine has been taken down and carelessly assembled. You will find marks upon the flywheel indicating when the valves should open and close and, if you find that they operate as specified, the timing is all right. Heavy carbonization and crankcase dilution indicate that the piston fit is none too good and that there has been an overrich mixture used at least part of the time. Excess of oil and soot from overrich mixture have conspired to short-circuit plugs and cause missing. Your engine should run as hot as practicable to facilitate fuel vaporization and as lean a mixture as possible should be used.

MISALIGNED REAR AXLE.

F. D. writes: I find by measurement that the front and rear axles of my car are not parallel. The rear axle is out of position in that it is not exactly at right angles to the frame, but is further forward frame member than on the left. Why should this be so and what is the remedy?

Answer: This is an instance of faulty assembling in all probability. Either the two rear springs differ in regard to the location of the center bolt with reference to the eyes that form the end supports or else the fittings for supporting the spring ends were incorrectly positioned on the frame members. It is quite likely that, when you measure the springs, you will find that they differ in length from front eyes to center bolts. If your springs prove to be mismated you can probably make an exchange with the factory that will set the trouble right or you can change the main leaf of one spring to correspond with that of the other.

HEREDITARY DISEASES.

This subject has occupied the attention of some of the best minds for many years. The influence of surroundings upon life and development has been particularly elucidated by Mendel and in order to obtain extensive and reliable information on this subject his works above all others must be consulted. The development of the science of embryology within the last half century has also thrown a flood of light upon important problems connected with life before birth. In an article entitled "Gestation," in the last edition of Wood's Reference Handbook of the Medical Sciences, will be found a brief resume of the events which concern the human female during the period of pregnancy and the growing foetus within her.

Up to the end of the third month of pregnancy the human foetus is nourished by the structures belonging to it which have grown from the original germ. Of course it has a vital relation with the organ of the mother within which it is enclosed; if the mother should die the foetus could not possibly go on developing. After the third month a soft and very vascular organ called the placenta is formed which on one side is attached to the maternal structure, on the other it is connected by a longer or shorter cord containing chiefly two arteries and one vein, with the umbilicus or navel of the developing foetus. There is no nerve connection so far as is known, between mother and offspring, neither is there direct continuance of bloodvessels from one to the other, though tufts of fine vessels from the placenta dip into the maternal structure underneath, and like a sponge absorb from the maternal fluid there circulating the blood supply which is transferred as fuel, oxygen, and food to the growing child and returned for purification to the mother's circulation loaded with waste material. It is not strange that if disease germs are circulating in the mother's blood they should be transferred to her child. It is more difficult to understand how peculiarities of temperament, of habit, or tissues, of sensitiveness, etc., are reproduced whether they come through the mother's blood or are transmitted with the original elements by which the spark of life is kindled.

SCHOOL.

"The baby has gone to school . . Ah me!
What will the mother do;
How can she keep herself busy all day,
With the dear little "bother" away?"

What has school to do with housekeeping? A great deal. Home and school are so intertwined, in the family life, that each helps or hinders the other.

All schools are not perfect, and all homes are improved if some of the school rules for discipline and faithfulness are copied in them. Often the "dear little bother" is hurried off to school to give the busy mother more time; and consequently soon the youngster is one of the army of "big heads and little bodies—too quiet, too nervous, too constrained to seem like a real, live, happy child. Schooling is one thing; education is another. And if the mother in the home is the real motherly sort, the important facts of life and living are taught right in the home.

Children that are persistently "snubbed" at home for six years, and then sent to school, usually fail to make progress. "Poor teacher," declare the parents, never thinking they are the ones who took the edge off their child's Observation is as great a teacher as experience—for one see many things one may never experience. So teach your children to keep eyes and ears open to every thing about them, in the house, on the street and in school. Their senses are their teachers, and the elements of education are found in seeing, hearing, talking and thinking about the simplest things in this beautiful world. If they ask a bookful of questions a day, try to answer them or show them how to find the answers for themselves. Then when they leave home for school, they will have pegs upon which to hang the facts given them.

It is the place of the parents to see that the children are kept in good physical condition. All parents are not able to judge a child's condition of health, and so visiting nurses make periodical examination of the little ones; and the school doctor remedies weak backs, strained eyes, and prescribes sensible shoes and insists on needed dental work being done. This work is carried into the homes. Sanitation, hygiene and better living conditions are taught through the school. Sensible mothers encourage all such school work, knowing that the children's teeth, livers, and backs, should be made perfect as well as their minds. Some mothers there be, though, who think of school as a place of detention for the children until her work is done.

Mothers' clubs are for such; they teach mothers how to let the school improve the home life.

INSURES WOMEN.

PARIS, June 14th.—An insurance company which announced a schedule of "marriage risks" may be suppressed by the French government on the ground that it encourages race suicide.

The company offered to insure any young girl from the age of sixteen up for a few sous a day "against marriage." If the girl found no husband when she reached thirty-five, the company agreed to pay her a monthly income, to take the place of a good provider.

Another plan insured brides against desertion.

SACKVILLE, N.B., June 14.—Sackville is to erect a granite shaft in honour of its soldiers who fell in the Great War. The local Council has been approached by representatives of almost every society in the town toward this end, and plans for the work are well under way. It was decided not to grant money for the memorial from the civic funds, but to raise the requisite amount by public subscription, so that everyone might have a volhntary share in the work. Bridge Street Park has been renamed Memorial Park, and the shaft will be erected there.

GAGETOWN, N.B., June 14. — When Rainsford Mason, of Houlton, Me., decided to transfer all his Lares and Penates from that city to Jemseg, N.B., he found that freight rates were not at all to his liking. So he loaded everything he possessed on a big auto truck, and started for Canada. He made the trip to Jemseg without mishap, saved his furniture from the perils of the freight car and, he adds, saved some money also.

ST. JOHN N.B., June 14.—Shad have been protected in this Province for a number of years in an attempt to increase the number in the New Brunswick waters. This year there is a brief open season. In the St. John district the catch is very light. There are more in the Gagetown waters, but most fishermen report the dainty baking fish are rare, although large.

GAGETOWN, N.B., June 14. — Tent caterpillars are playing havoc with the trees in this vicinity in spite of the fact that unusual precautions have been taken to prevent the ravages of the hungry pest. Most of the orchard owners spray their trees at the proper intervals and they are careful to cut and burn every "tent" they see, yet the situation is serious.

GAGETOWN, N.B., June 14. — Frank McAlister, of this place, has the honour, as far as is known, of picking the first ripe strawberry in the Province this spring. He found a fine wild berry on 30th May last. Everything is at least two weeks in advance of its season in New Brunswick this year, but the strawberry sets the pace.

BATHURST, N.B., June 14. — There is a well-organised effort being made in New Brunswick this year to revive the growing, especially in the north of the Province and in the County of Gloucester, of flax. Farmers who have been accustomed to sowing a mere patch are putting in two or three acres this year. The Premier, Hon. W. E. Foster, promised a great deal of assistance to the work of establishing flax growing in the Province during the last session of the Legislation, when the whole matter was carefully investigated.

KEEP MOTOR TIRES PROPERLY INFLATED.

Why do the tires on your neighbor's car run farther than yours? Suppose both of you have a heavy car of the same make, with two five-inch cord tires of the same make on the rear wheels of each. If the weight of each car is 5,300 pounds, without passengers, each of these rear tires must carry a weight of 1,415 pounds, with passenger weight added. To make all conditions equal suppose the inflation pressures are exactly the same and that the tires are shifted from one side to the other from time to time. In such a case, eliminating accidents, the tires should deliver exactly the same mileage.

If two of these tires are compared with a pair which must carry only 900 pounds, it is readily seen that the last tires carrying the smaller load are doing less work each mile. It is to be expected then that these two tires will deliver more mileage through an equal service. Tire service is properly judged not in terms of miles alone, but in miles plus work done.

The same condition holds true when pressures vary. When pressure goes down in a tire, it flexes or bends to a greater extent than when the pressure is up, or, in other words, it does more work. A five inch tire flexes or bends 1,096 times each mile, or more than 1,000,000 times each thousand miles. Any greater movement of the tire carcass makes a tremendous difference Tire officials say this difference in pressures also accounts for the fact that opposite tires carrying the same load and with the same operating conditions, may not give the same mileage, though they give the same service.

It is easily proven in factory tests that an underinflated tire is several degrees hotter at the end of a run than a properly-inflated tire, owing to the increased friction of the under-inflated tire consuming more energy. This cuts down mileage, but not the service the tire is giving.

HINTS TO MOTORISTS

The Oil Filtering Screen. It is Designed To Catch Dirt, Not to Stop Oil Flow.

The metal Gauge oil strainer in the crankcase of the engine, surrounding the intake of the pump, is designed to prevent solid particles, that collect in the oil, from entering the pump and being forced to the bearing surfaces. These particles of decomposed oil and carbon are caught by the meshes of the strainer of decomposed oil and carbon are caught by the meshes of the strainer and, in time, obstruct them so that oil can pass to the pump less rapidly than the pump calls for it, the result being that the supply of oil to engine bearings is reduced or even cut off. Keeping the strainer clean and free for the flow to flow is thus a very important matter. In most engines the strainer is so arranged as to be quite readily removable, it being quite commonly held by a flange, which can be unbolted from the outside of the oil pan and taken out when the oil suction pipe has been detached. The best practice is to clean it thoroughly each time the oil is changed or at least after each flushing out of the system, which process loosens most of the solid matter and causes it to attach itself to the strainer, when the engine is run, during the cleaning out process. The actual cleaning of the screen is best done by "brushing" it in kerosene or forcing clean kerosene through from the inside. Great care should be taken that no dirt or lint be left upon the inside of the gauze, as this will be carried into the pump. In replacing the filter, be sure that it and its pipe is secured in an oil-tight manner.

Battery-Generator Connection At Fault.

E. E. W. writes: Since having my battery recharged last fall, my lights are not steady but rise and fall in brilliancy with engine speed. Also, I notice heat back of the instrument board, where the electrical apparatus is and the ammeter glass becomes clouded over. Please tell me what is wrong. The battery tests 1275.

Answer: The indications are that your battery is not properly connected to the generator, for if it were, the lights would not fluctuate as you say they do, for the reason that the battery would steady the voltage. When no lights are on and the engine running at a twenty-five mile speed, does the ammeter show 15 amperes going into the battery? If not, the connection between generator and battery is not adequate. You should trace out the circuit and see that all the contacts are perfect. The heat that you speak of is probably occasioned by too high voltage of the generator, which is running nearly unloaded. The shunt coil of the cut-out probably is the source of the heat, which is near enough to the ammeter to make a mistake on the glass cover.

Engine Knocks at High Speed.

C. E. D., Jr., writes: My six cylinder engine has small, high compression cylinders and automatic spark advance. At speeds above 35 m. p. h. it develops a knock, although it is free from carbon. Can this be a fuel-knock and, if so, what harm will it do?

Answer: Quite likely it is a fuel knock (the so-called detonation knock), as many high compression engines produce this when "opened up." It has been claimed that this knock does not subject the parts to any serious abnormal stresses or excessive wear, but this view is not universally held. It may be that the automatic advance device advances the spark more than it should and produces this knocking. Weakening of the spring employed in the automatic spark regulator quite frequently has this effect.

DRAGOONS AND ARTILLERY IN CAMP AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS

MILITARY ACTIVITY AS BOTH UNITS PREPARE FOR WEEK'S DRILL—DRAGOONS EXPECT TO HAVE 150 MEN UNDER CANVAS —FOUR GUN CREWS WILL BE SELECTED FROM BATTERY TO GO TO PETTAWAWA.

ATHLETIC DIVERGENCE

Under tents that have doubtless housed Canadian troops, who have upheld the fair name of the Dominion on many foreign fields, the 4th Battery spent their first night at the Exhibition Grounds last night.

When the Examiner visited the camp yesterday afternoon there were four officers and about fifty men on the grounds. Against a strong wind the tents were being put up, and the battery had a struggle with the gale that left them gasping for breath before half-a-dozen tents were up. It was expected that the tents would have been up sooner but the late arrival of some of the men, and the delay in getting the ordnance on the grounds were responsible for their belated erection. At 5:30 p.m., only about eight tents were up, but the C. O assured the newspaperman that the men would have enough tents up to accommodate the battery for the first night.

Four 18 pounder guns will be used by the Battery, and in the gun drills, which Captain Lawrie intends starting once the camp is established ,the men who show up best will go to Petwawa to shoot. Four gun crews will go down on Monday or Tuesday next. Definite information has not yet been received when camp will be broken up but it will be early next week.

The chance of going to Petawawa naturally appeals strongly to the battery boys and every gunner will work hard to be one of those honoured. Thirty-five men in all will go and when they leave the others will break camp. The men who go to Petawawa will be there four days.

Reminder of other Days.

There was a great hustling and bustling about the grounds yesterday for the Prince of Wales Dragoons were getting ready also to go into camp to-morrow.

Wagons were rattling into the grounds carrying loads of supplies of all kinds, from the two cars of government stores on the Brinton Carpet Co. siding.

The heavy ordnance wagons contained all kinds of camp equipment—springs, mattresses, blankets, cooking utensils, tents, ropes, saddles, harness, lanterns and hundreds of other articles were piled high about the camp site of the artillery, and in the horse barn the quartermaster's section of the Dragoons had their supplies carefully assembled in readiness for the grand opening of the camp to-day. The quantity of goods required for the camps is immense, and to arrange for the food supplies an officer of the Department has been sent down from Toronto. He will ration the units and besides seeing that the men are well fed he must also provide the horse feed for the large number of horses quartered on the grounds. Feeding so many animals will be no sinecure.

The U.F.O. Unit.

The dragoons expect that there will be about 150 men in their camp, practically all mounted, so there will be a large number of horses. The artillery boys may chaff the dragoons as U.F.O.'s, for many of them are farmers, and come from as far as Pontypool and Millbrook, but the Dragoons may retaliate by cracking jokes about the gunners' tender years and smooth faces. Altogether it seems as if there will be some little rivalry between the two camps, but Douglas Loomis of the Y. M. C. A. has been engaged by the Militia Department to turn he rivalry into peaceful channels. He was looking the field over yesterday and was figuring on staging a ball league in each camp and a play-off between the two for victors of the camp. He will also arrange sports and a big field day.

The dragoons will be under canvas from June 14 to 22. They were planning to put up their tents yesterday at the southeast corner of the grounds. The artillery are just inside the gate. The quartermaster said that the dragoons had not quite decided where to pitch their marquees and Doug. Loomis' suggestion that they lie between the two barns, where they would be somewhat sheltered, may be followed.

The lieutenants who were busy settling the battery yesterday afternoon, are: G. W. Stevenson, D. Comeron and A .Seels. Captain D. Lawrie is O. C. The Regt. Sergeant is Sergt.-Major Oxley, and S. Thomas is Q. M. Sergeant in charge of the stores.

"Where the circus coming on Thursday is going to locate if there are two military camps on the grounds" would be a natural question to ask. The circus is utilizing the centre of the race track and leaving all the rest of the grounds to the militia.

WOMEN VOTERS FORCE MONAGHAN TO DOUBLE ITS POLLING PLACES

THE THREE SUB-DIVISIONS WILL LIKELY BE INCREASED TO SIX —THE TOWNSHIP DECIDES TO PREPARE BY-LAW FOR THE LICENSING OF CIRCUSES AND CARNIVAL SHOWS.

A list of the names of the children of May's school who need operations for adenoid and tonsils was submitted to the North Monaghan Council at their meeting on Monday night. The children were examined by Dr. Greer and Mrs. Law, the school nurse, and those whose parents were considered to be able to afford medical attention were given notices to take home. The list presented to the Council were those who, it was thought, could not pay for the operations. The Council declined to take action for the present.

To License Circuses.

Mr. E. A. Peck, township solicitor, was present and discussed with the Council the drafting of a by-law licensing circuses, side shows and other amusements in the township.

It was left with the solicitor, Reeve McIntosh and Bruce Johnston, the township clerk, to have a suitable by-law prepared.

More Polling Places.

Mr. Peck and the township clerk called the attention of the Council to the fact that on account of the additional names added to the assessment roll by the enfranhisement of women, there is now, according to law, a necessity for six polling places in North Monaghan, where there are but three at present. Mr. Peck said that the boundaries of the polling sub-divisions must be clearly defined. A committee was appointed composed of the reeve and the clerk and Councillors Lillico and Rowan to meet and designate the polling sub-divisions of the township which presumably will be increased to six.

The Council decided not to build a sidewalk on the south side of Sherbrook street between Grandview and Kenneth avenues because the road is in the county suburban area.

A motion was passed that Sam. Belcher, sidewalk engineer, be paid $150 on account, and that W. J. Byers be paid his account of $130.20 for material used for sidewalk construction in Brownton.

Sidewalks to be Built.

The construction of sidewalks on Chamberlen street, north side, new Romaine street, north side, Grandview avenue west side, and Kenneth avenue east, as local improvements, was authorized by by-law.

The following road commissioners were appointed for this year: Walter McKee, division No. 1; John N. Lillico for division No. 2; Robert Sanderson for division No. 3; George Moncrief for division No. 4; Archie Paterson for division No. 5. The wages of the road commissioners was fixed at $4 a day, and laborers' wages at $3 a day of ten hours The pay for teams drawing 1 1-4 yards of gravel will be $6 a day.

The following bills were ordered to be paid: White and Ackford, repairing mixer, $4.90; Dr. T. N. Greer, attending medical convention, Toronto, $25.

BURNS LAKE, B. C., June 14th—A curious phenomenon was observed in the lake here recently when a spout of water was sent up many yards into the air, probably owing to an explosion of natural gas at the bottom of the lake. A series of these explosions a year ago drew attention to the oil possibilities and led to the staking of land and the installation of drills. Oil seepages have been found here and the lake is often covered with an oily scum. Drilling operations await the issuance of the government licenses.

HOW HE WAS NAMED "RALPH CONNOR"

Rev. Dr. Gordon, New Presbyterian Moderator, Did Not Choose Famous Penname.

JUST MERE CHANCE

'Twas Chosen by Rev. J. A. Macdonald When, as an Editor, He Handled First Story.

HOW did Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, newly chosen moderator in the Presbyterian general assembly, get the nom-de-plume of Ralph Connor by which he became known to fame? It is an old story but it is worth repeating because it is unusual as one of the few cases on record where a pen name was chosen by another than the author himself.

Out of the west came the young Gordon, full of enthusiasm and zeal and with a message to tell of the great opportunities for religious work. He communicated his thoughts to Rev. J. A. MacDonald, publisher of the Westminster and later editor of the Toronto Globe, of whom he became later a great friend.

"Well and good," said Mr. MacDonald, "but tell them in the form of a story."

So the young minister went back west and wrote the first chapter of the novel, "Black Rock," calling it "A Tale of the Selkirks." After he had mailed the story to Mr. MacDonald he was afraid some of the homely expressions used therein would offend his more conservative friends. So he telegraphed to Mr. MacDonald, "Sign story CANNOR," the name containing the first syllables of Canadian and of Northwest.

"What sort of a name is Cannor!" exclaimed Mr. MacDonald as he read the telegram. "The operator must have made a mistake. Put it Connor. And he must have a first name. Call him Ralph." Thus Ralph Connor flashed into the literary horizon.

Dr. Gordon's First Ministry

IT is a curious reflection upon the supposed shrewdness of our cousins to the south, that Ralph Connor's first book which was highly valued in England, where it made a decided hit, was rejected by United States publishers, though when his fame became established the sales of pirated editions mounted up to the millions and publishers eagerly competed for the privilege of printing his next book, "The Sky Pilot."

Dr. Gordon's first ministerial job was a tough one — missionary at Banff, now a beautiful health resort in the Rockies, but then famous as a booze joint for lumberjacks and railroad navvies. It was in this environment that he learned the masculine Christianity which he afterwards gave to the world in his books.

It is related that the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen discovered him at his obscure post during a tour of the west. They heard him preach at the little mission church and invited him to dinner. But, according to A. C. Laut in the Saturday Evening Post, he sent his regrets, despite the fact that a governor-general's incitation was practically a command—he had an appointment in the woods with the navvies and lumbermen!

He stuck to that job until he was well on in the thirties, when he came "out" to take a poor little mission church on the western outskirts of Winnipeg. That church is to-day one of the biggest and best in Western Canada and Rev. C. W. Gordon, its pastor, is head of the Presbyterian church.

He Likes Toronto Better Than Geneva

Dr. W. A. Riddell, Giving Up Work With League, Is an Outstanding Labor Authority.

DR. W. A. RIDDELL is going to come back to Toronto and resume his job at Queen's Park as a deputy minister of labor, according to report. He is one of the few Canadians serving the League of Nations and the only man of his kind from this continent in the International Labor Office at Geneva. But it is said he prefers Ontario to Switzerland, and longs to return to his native air. For he is a Stratford man by birth, though he was only six years of age when he migrated with the rest of the family to Colorado. He is a labor man from the ground up, having not only worked as a pioneer boy twenty-four hours a day on western farms, but as a laborer on the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad, now the C.N.R. One summer he spent at carpentering. In the meantime he put himself through Manitoba College. His first contact with organized labor was while in charge of a church mission at a little place called Weston, outside Winnipeg. Here he ran bang up against Karl Marx and other sociologists, for his congregation were working men of Old Country genesis who had read much and argued often. Thus was born a desire to study the subject. He ended up by taking his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Columbia University, and by his researches and surveys becoming one of the best informed labor experts in North America. So that what Geneva loses Toronto gains.

Bourassa and Blondin Still Live, According to Newspaper Paragraphs

These Two French-Canadian Politicians Who Once Reveled in Publicity Have Both Come In for Casual Mention This Week.

OLD times have changed. Two French-Canadian stars, who once shone brightly in the political firmament but have been in eclipse for some time, emerged during the past few days, in a casual way, from their obscurity of recent months—Hon. P. E. Blondin and Henri Bourassa. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, speaking in the House of Commons, wanted the former "fired" as postmaster-general because he appeared so seldom in the Senate. Mr. Bourassa received brief notices in the newspapers because he was making a lecture tour of northern Ontario in an effort to draw the Irish Catholics and the French Catholics together. How are the mighty fallen!

Once upon a time Blondin was a disciple of Bourassa. A little more than ten years ago he was credited with making a speech in which he declared before a Quebec audience that in 1837 "it had been necessary to shoot holes in the British flag in order to breathe the air of liberty." Then he became a member of the Borden Government in 1914 as minister of inland revenue and his Nationalistic youth was forgotten. He became in turn secretary of state, postmaster-general and then a senator of Canada. Every step took him farther away from his former leader, Bourassa.

During the war when the latter was in the limelight because of his criticism of Canadian participation in the war Blondin, his one-time henchman, was receiving front page notice because of his recruiting activities. Before the Empire Club in Toronto he declared in 1915 amid great enthusiasm, "Better to die with liberty, than to live in slavery." Down in Grand Mere, Quebec, he told the habitants, "We went in to this war of our own free will." He helped to recruit the 258th battalion, became a colonel and spent a year in war work in England. He made a hit in the British Parliament when he addressed the Empire Parliamentary Association on British ideals. He was made a commander of the Legion of Honor by France.

Mr. Bourassa's record during the same period needs no recapitulation. He called Canada to keep the men at home, described her as bankrupt and opposed conscription. Early in 1917 he declared, "We have done enough." He attacked Great Britain many times. Queen's University, Kingston, early in the war cancelled its invitation that he should speak to them. A little later he was howled down by jeering Britishers when he attempted to address an audience in Ottawa. But he was able to give his views publicly through the colums of his own paper and, translated, picked-up and featured, through the columns of the Canadian press.

Then came peace and both Blondin and Bourassa ceased to function as newspaper headliners. One wonders what they were doing since—just living quietly perhaps, like all the rest of us. But, it is somewhat of a coincidence that both should receive mention in the same week in obscure paragraphs in the newspapers. It is almost like reading that the man who went over Niagara Falls some years ago in a barrel had come in second in a bicycle race.

QUEEN IN MOVIES?

MOVIE producers, it is said, have been tumbling over one another in their efforts to persuade Queen Marie of Rumania to act for the films. She has written, among other things, some plays, the proceeds of which have been devoted to the charities of her country.

"I would do anything for Rumania," she said. Knowing this film producers have been trying to induce Her Majesty to play some of the characters in one or two of her own dramas. From what I can hear, these persuasions may not be futile.

Queen Marie has a reputation for versatility. Apart from being a domesticated woman, she is a practical house decorator and dress designer.

"Tex" Rickard

Kaiser Wrote Peace Terms in 1917

In Document Found in Foreign Office, Says His Government Didn't Tell Him War Aim.

A DOCUMENT has come to light in the archives of the foreign office in Berlin, written by the ex-kaiser in the spring of 1917, in which he states his peace terms. It is a strange and amazing paper. The gist of the introduction is: "We have been at war more than two years, and my government still failed to inform me what the war was being fought for, so now in the name of my army and navy I announce my peace terms."

These terms include the following points:

Germany to have Longwy and the Erie Basin.

Belgium to be divided; Germany to have the coast.

The kaiser to be Duke of Courland.

Germany to have Lithuania.

Germany to have the Azores and Malta.

The United States to pay an indemnity of $40,000,000,000, France one of $30,000,000,000. England to pay an indemnity of money and material.

Another document in the archives shows that the kaiser was anxious to see his son Joachim king of Rumania.

'Tex' Rickard, Fight Promoter, World's Champion Showman

Man Staging the Dempsey-Carpentier Battle Was Texas Cowboy and Klondike Gambler—Put Goldfield on the Map With Big Ring Contest—Has Huge Ranch in Paraguay.

WHEN the five-foot bookshelf of biography containing the life records of America's great showmen is complete the names of Phineas T. Barnum and George L. Rickard will stand forth supreme. "Tex," is the more familiar title of Rickard.

Barnum made no costly failures in his appraisals of the attractions that brought him fame as a showman, and as for Tex Rickard, he has staged more than 30 great battles of national or international importance, and has never scored a financial loss.

The most outstanding achievement of this quiet spoken, spectacular showman of to-day has been to bring about the greatest of international battles between heavyweight pugilists with practically no outlay of capital. The guarantees of the fighters themselves were in the safe long before Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier ever thought of beginning to train for the contest, and these were sufficient to insure the preliminary expenses.

The probabilities are 100 to 1 that Rickard will collect profits from the greatest crowd that has ever paid to witness a ring contest. At the time this article was written, though the fight was six weeks away, more than $400,000 worth of tickets had been sold. Nearly half the seating capacity of the arena—some 60,000—had been disposed of before the arena itself had been fairly started.

Rickard and Barnum started their careers in lines of work which eventually came under the taboo of the law. Barnum sold lottery tickets in Connecticut and Rickard, in his earlier days in the west, conducted gambling establishments.

Tex Rickard was born in Kansas City, Mo., on Jan. 2, 1871. His family were Illinois pioneers. His father was a millwright and moved to the Panhandle of Texas when the future promoter of prizefights was a small child. At twelve years Tex found himself alone and cast on his own resources. He had a widowed mother, two brothers and three sisters to support. He could ride and throw a rope, like all Texas boys of twelve and up, and he turned to the universal calling of cowpunching.

A Friend of Rex Beach

IN 1894 Rickard hit north for Alaska, lured by rumors of wealth to be won in the mining game. When the Klondike gold rush started, Rickard was at Circle City, 300 miles away. With the rest of the population of Circle City, Tex rushed to the gold fields. He staked out claims from which he secured $50,000, though that comparatively small amount was not secured until after months of hardship.

"I often look back and wonder how we went through the life on the trail," said Rickard the other day, in his office in Madison Square Garden to a New York Tribune reporter. "Many a time I have put a 100-pound rack on my back and started out through the snow. It was killing work, but we got through it somehow."

With the money from the sale of his Dawson interests—which developed more than $300,000 for their purchasers—Rickard opened a gambling house, the Northern, in that hectic camp. For awhile he was ahead of the game, but eventually he lost everything—simply because Tex ran a "square game," as his friends have it.

Among the men with whom Rickard was thrown in contact at that time was a stalwart young collegian named Rex Beach. They were both broke, and together they sawed wood at Rampart, in the winter of 1898, to supply the river steamers. A few years later Rex Beach, in writing his Alaska novel, The Spoilers, put his friend, Tex Rickard, into the book as the Broncho Kid, "the world's greatest fistic promoter."

When Nome began to scintillate on the map as Dawson City had done, Tex Richard was one of the first on the scene and opened a gambling house.

When Goldfield brought Nevada out of its long somnolence, Rickard was among those present immediately after the christening. When a Commercial Club was formed the counsel of Tex Rickard was often sought. When the club was casting about for something which would advertise Goldfield as it never had been advertised before, Rickard suggested staging a prize-fight—not the kind that was usually put on in mining camps—but a real championship affair.

His First Fight

"I HAD in mind a fight between McGovern and Britt," said Rickard. "I did not know how much we ought to offer for a purse, but I suggested $30,000—a sum far greater than fighters were used to receiving in those days. I went out on the street and asked a few of my friends if they would get in on the guaranty. One by one they said: 'Put me down for five thousand,' until I had $50,000 guaranteed in that way."

The offer, coming to McGovern's manager from an unknown person named Rickard in a far western mining camp, was hailed on Broadway as a joke and was not even answered. Rickard then got in touch with Joe Gans and Battling Nelson, whose sense of humor did not prove to be so exaggerated. It is true that it required a display of the $30,000 in newly minted gold pieces before the manager of Nelson conquered his lurking skepticism, but the fight was eventually arranged, Goldfield was advertised as it had never been advertised before and the name of Tex Rickard began to creep into the great American household.

It is estimated that seven of the fights that Tex Rickard has promoted since that day have drawn more than $1,000,000. The Johnson-Jeffries fight, which he had to shift quickly from California to Nevada when an unexpected anti-prizefighting decision closed the former state to him, brought in a total of nearly $250,000. The Dempsey-Willard fight at Toledo brought in $425,000 and the Willard-Moran fight in New York City was worth something over $150,000.

Rickard is a partner in huge stock-raising enterprises in South America. He has a ranch in Paraguay, in a vast tract known as the Chaco. This ranch contains more than 4,000,000 acres, being almost as large as the State of New Jersey. Mr. and Mrs. Rickard have been all over it, camping just as Tex used to camp in the sagebrush in the west. Big financiers are the backers of this enormous project, and Tex Rickard is general manager. The Paraguyan government has granted a concession for a meat treating and chilling plant—part of a scheme for cheap and profitable handling of beef products close to the source of supply.

THE CONFESSIONAL:

Uncensored Talks With Big Men About Themselves

PREMIER NORRIS OF MANITOBA

By Emil Longue-Beau.

WINNIPEG, June 7.

THIS is verily the most modest premier you ever saw. You knew him when the freakiest prophet would not have predicted the first place for him in a provincial government. He is what he was then, with a great difference. He has grown, and is still growing. He has cut a few more wisdom teeth than he had when the century was a third as old as it is now; but he's the same Crawford Norris he always was—nicely matured. He is T. Crawford Norris, but he is not known to his friends by his second name through any affectation such as some public persons permit to belittle their just name. His first name is Tobias. His enemies—no, his opponents—have never called him Toby. That, maybe, is as good a tribute as any that could be paid to his truly human qualities. It's his choice, also, that he has remained a bachelor till the eve of his sixtieth birthday; and intends to remain with charity to all and enmity to none of the disappointed.

He has been so popular ever since he was a kid that the allurements that beset all other bachelor premiers no more trouble him than water annoys a duck. Of course, there have been what extremely knowing people have called escapes, but no escapades. He belongs to Brampton, and went to school there. He was well known on Peel and Halton borders before he went to Manitoba. Tradition of his good nature, good stories, unfailing popularity, persists around Brampton and Milton, and especially in Nassagaweya.

The old heads out there, with the candor that becomes true friendship, say they are surprised he ever became a premier. Mr. Norris knows this and agrees with them; for, to repeat his summing up of his position, given me in the splendid palace of laws that remains a unique monument to his predecessors here:

"I've told you before, and it's worth while repeating, that I'm under no delusion about my being here. Maybe that 's why I have remained six years. If I had thought myself a great man because I came into a big job, I guess I couldn't have lasted half as long. But here I am, safely through a session in which my party supporters have been only a minority of the legislature; and I don't see why we shouldn't continue quite a while yet."

"If you're under no delusion about yourself, what is the truth about yourself that gives you your hold on Manitoba?" I asked him.

"Well, when I became leader of the Opposition, I knew it was because the Liberal party was in such poor condition in the province, and I was chosen because, though I'm not a bad talker, there was nobody else to take the job. Before the election of 1909 the party's supporters had to choose a leader. They didn't choose me, and I never dreamed they would, though I was in the House. I'd been there for seven years from 1896 to 1903. Then I'd lost my seat; and had come back in 1907. We went into the election of 1909 under Ed. Brown, of Portage la Prairie. You know Ed.?"

"Your provinial treasurer?"

"Yes, he's been provincial treasurer since we took hold six years ago; and a mighty clever man and a good treasurer he is, too. At that time Bob's machine was as strong as a yoke of bulls. We had about as much chance of winning the election as we had of sucking water from Lake Superior. Ed. failed to win a seat. There were people who said we could have had a chance if Isaac Campbell had accepted the leadership when it was offered him. But Isaac—like most of the rest of us, an old Ontarion—though he's about the best-informed man in the country, and one of the ablest, never liked the hurly-burly of politics.

"After the election, with a mere handful of Liberals in the House, somebody had to be leader; and as I had come back in 1907, and hadn't been put out in 1909, they made me the goat. I don't know whether I looked like one, but I certainly felt like one. So long as Bob was in Public Works there didn't seem to be any chance for a good government. He had the whole province buffaloed. Our side had the biggest and best newspaper in all the west. It was continually exposing the government: but somehow, the people didn't seem to care—I mean a majority of them. The history of the Liberal party in Manitoba hadn't been as sweet as it might have been; and every fault of our manipulators was magnified as more than a set-off of what was charged against Bob and his machine. The remarkable thing about it was that to those who knew him, Bob never pretended to be anything else but a Tammany politician. He certainly had the biggest nerve of any man in public or private life I ever knew."

"For instance?"

"Yes, let's get down to cases—one will do. Bob entered politics quite young. He came to Manitoba when he was seventeen. At twenty-seven he was President of the Provincial Conservative convention of 1891. He ran for the Dominion in 1896, but in those days Clifford Sifton was in charge for the Liberal party. For electioneering resourcefulness as well as for real statesmanship Sifton is the superior of any man we have had in Canada, not excepting old Sir John A. Bob ran for the local in the 1899 election—it was the second time I was elected for my fine constituency of Lansdowne which includes Griswold my own town, about thirty miles west of Brandon, on the C.P.R. main line. While driving to a joint meeting with a Liberal, whose word is unimpeachable, Bob said that he would be all right as soon as he had been only one session in the House. He explained that he 'would make the big fellows cough up.' He was elected; his party was victorious, and he was taken into the cabinet. Everybody knows that where any coughing was to be done, Bob was not far off with a cough-motor."

"But the collapse came in 1915, all the same?"

"Oh yes. After Bob went to Ottawa in 1911 the practical calibre of the government declined. You can't make a business of getting campaign funds out of contractors, and practise it on costly new Parliament Buildings, with contracts that are suspicious on their face, and not get into trouble. You remember the disclosures before the Public Accounts Committee over the Kelley contracts? On proof that the province had been done out of hundreds of thousands of dollars with the connivance of the government, the contractor was afterwards sent to Stoney Mountain. But the party in power, after the exposure in the committe, voted confidence in the government, and lots of people thought they would get away with it.

"But we had a governor who was up to his job. Sir Douglas Cameron had fought against the Liberal party on reciprocity before his appointment, and was scrupulously fair. He gave Roblin the alternative of resigning or being dismissed. He resigned, and I took his place. Nobody knew better than I that I was not the ablest man among the Liberals of Manitoba, and I would not have objected to taking a secondary place. But they rallied round me and insisted I was all right, and had common sense, as well as common honesty. As I wouldn't deny either qualification, why, here I am. And we haven't had dull times in Winnipeg either," he said, laughing.

"You're thinking of the strike in 1919?"

"Partly. I had a very difficult part to play. It wasn't primarily my affair, but I couldn't keep out of it. I don't mind telling you I thought the employers were foolish in refusing to treat with the moral workers when they made the demand out of which the strike grew. A man ignored is like a woman scorned. Neither did I think anything was to be gained in the end by strong-arm methods—I mean taking men from their beds at three o'clock in the morning, and putting them into the penitentiary without regular legal procedure. It is a perilous game to indict half a city.

"But we had to face conditions such as had never existed before; and the strikers, without a doubt, got wildly extravagant ideas to the extent to which the city was under their control, and the extent to which it might remain so. I did the best I could to moderate the situation; but it got beyond anything we could do; but I'm not expressing any more opinions on it than I have now given you."

"And now you have got some of the men who were in gaol sitting with you in the Legislature?" I said.

"Yes, with me, but not alongside me. Dixon didn't go to gaol, being acquitted of a charge of seditious libel that should never have been brought into court. He is one of the cleverest, straightest men in Canadian public life. Then the Labor party have Mr. Smith, a former president of the Manitoba Methodist conference, and in that way for two years, my spiritual superior officer. He's able, too, and deeply read. Three of the Labor members are university men; and I guess on the whole, the Labor men have read more than any of the other groups, taken as a whole. I don't agree with all their advanced ideas; but I sympathize with the aspirations of those who say that those who do the work of the state should have their share in the government of the state. I'm not afraid of changes in the order of society; but I believe we must be governed by what we can do and not entirely by what we would like to make other people do.

"I have no quarrel with the farmers' movement, except that I think some of them want to go too fast in giving the fundamental industry of the country supreme power, as if there were no other industry. I'm not much on political theories, and don't profess to be learned in that way. Today is always an important occasion. The future's all right, but you can't live there all the time. I was raised a farmer; I came to Manitoba to farm, and I did farm. I also became a live stock auctioneer up at Griswold. I've been nearly forty years in the province, and we have all we can do to learn a few practical things from our own experience."

"You're the first auctioneer to be a premier?" I suggested.

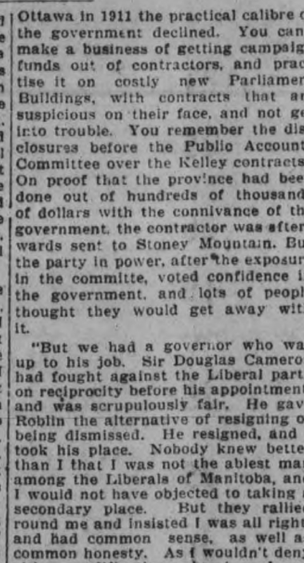
"I believe so," was the answer, "but don't run away with the idea that in politics I have ever had the habit of knocking down legislation to the highest bidder."

"Honest people don't cough that way?"

"Not the honest people I know; and my acquaintance is pretty wide nowadays," said Mr. Norris.

"By the way," I asked, finally, "will you say anything new about the issue of provincial rights in lakes, streams and water-powers that connect with the streams of other provinces, on which it is being said Premier Drury will go to the country?"

"Not to-day, thank you," Manitobias Norris replied. "I've been doing a little confessing; but no prophesying—not in connection with a clever fellow like Drury's likely to do."



"I don't want you to run away with the idea that in politics I have ever had the habit of knocking down legislation to the highest bidder."

The reader will not take too literally the observations of leading men about themselves recorded by Mr. Longue-Beau, but will understand that they are what the speakers would be likely to say confessionally.

ASKING TOO MUCH

WHEN Lord Leverhulme was settling the tenancies on his newly-purchased island of Harris, off the Scottish coast, his lawyer drew up a very elaborate contract to be signed by each tenant. It contained no fewer than twenty-six clauses or stipulations.

"One old fellow," Lord Leverhulme relates with great gusto, returned the contract unsigned and sent with it this note: 'I haven't been able to keep the Ten Commandments for the sake of a mansion in heaven, and I'll be hanged if I'll agree to keep twenty-six commandments for a wee hoose in the island of Harris."

COULDN'T MOVE

AMONGST the many good stories in the repertoire of Mr. Julian Rose, the famous Hebrew comedian, one of the best concerns a Jewish lad who was a bit of a boxer.

His father was proud of his fistic abilities. One day he fought a Christian boy, and the father witnessed the fight. The Jewish boy was winning, when a change came suddenly, and although he stolidly stood his ground, the Christian was soon "all over him."

"Jump about a bit, Ikey," said the worried father.

"I can't," said Ikey, "I'm standing on a sixpence!"

HARDING'S JOKE

WARREN G. HARDING, President of the United States, dearly loves a joke, but it must be brief and to the point.

"I prefer a joker of Smith's type," he remarked once.

"'One wife too many,'" exclaimed Mrs. Smith, as she glanced through the headlines. "I will read that. I suppose it is the doings of some bigamist."

"Not necessarily, my dear," replied her husband, without lifting his eyes from the paper.

QUICK CHANGE

A STORY which Mr. J. W. Lowther, retired speaker of the British House of Commons, is never tired of telling, concerns a countryman who, paying his first visit to Westminster during a debate, nudged his companion, shortly after sitting down, and asked:

"'Oo's the speaker?"

"Balfour," he was told.

A little later he asked again:

"'Oo did ye say the speaker was?"

"Balfour. But it's Asquith now."

The countryman consulted his parliamentary guide. In a few minutes he was once more asking questions.

"So Asquith's the speaker now, is 'e?"

"No, Mr. Lloyd George. Why don't you listen?"

"Well, blowed if this ain't a bit too quick for me," exclaimed the countryman. "my book says Lowther's been speaker for fifteen years, and now we've had three new ones in fifteen minutes."

No Coat of Mail Worn by Alfonso

This Report and the One About Steel-Clad Automobiles are Untrue and Foolish.

MADRID, Spain.

GREAT indignation is felt in Spain at a report dated Madrid, published in a New York paper, stating that King Alfonso wears a coat of mail under his clothes and drives in a specially made ironclad automobile, escorted by a squadron of cavalry, while all the troops of the garrison line the streets.

The king's valet was indignant when told about the coat of mail and said he would have it out with somebody, but the king only shrugged his shoulders and remarked:

"Man, it is not worth while."

As for the ironclad automobile, there would have to be dozens of them, as the king has a great fleet of motors. Don Alfonso always drives his own car, sitting in the open beside the chauffeur except when it is an uncovered one and the queen is with him. He is a very careful driver and only likes speed when going along the roads that lead to the Escorial, Aranjuez or La Granja, or in the summer near San Sebastian or Santander.

No escort ever accompanies the king or queen of Spain except when they go in state or have royal visitors. They can be seen in public daily, driving or walking in the streets or parks of Madrid. The queen rides out on horseback with her two little daughters, accompanied by two footmen.

When traveling their majesties use a special train with comfortable Pullman cars, and the engine is driven by a Spanish grandee, the Duke of Zarragoza, who is an expert engineer. The royal train can be easily recognized, as the cars are painted blue and have the arms of Spain on the outside.

Real Class

AN angler, thinking his Highland boatman, was not treating him with the respect due to his station, said: "Look here, my good man, you don't seem to grasp who I am. Do you know that my family has been entitled to bear arms for the last three hundred years?"

"That's nothing!" was the reply. "My ancestors have been entitled to bare legs for the last three thousand years!"

Dignity of Labor

FOREMAN: What is all that arguing down the road?

Laborer: (indignantly): Why, the man running the steam-roller wants us to call him a chauffeur.

Dean of Commons Man of Few Words

Hon. W. A. Charlton Succeeds Sir Wm. Gage as Head of Anti-Tuberculosis Forces.

W. A. CHARLTON, who was made a Canadian privy councillor a few days ago and is therefore entitled to be called "honorable" for the rest of his life, is the dean of the House of Commons. He was given this honor just after passing his eightieth birthday. He has been in politics for 35 years and is a real link with the past, having been a member of the Ross cabinet of Ontario as commissioner of crown lands. His federal experience is short compared to that of some of his colleagues, for he only entered the Ottawa field in 1911, when he won the North Norfolk seat on the reciprocity ticket. It shows the changes the war made in politics when ten years later Mr. Charlton is being honored by a Conservative premier. A man of few speeches, especially since becoming a follower of Union government, Mr. Charlton made one notable utterance when he made the closing speech in the naval debate of 1913. He attacked the subject of war and put forward the subject of peace, from a high Christian standpoint. As it happened, he turned out to be the "voice of one crying in the wilderness," but that did not detract from the calm, moral tone of his viewpoint in a debate that was filled with eagerness and bitter contention.

Mr. Charlton has succeeded the late Sir William Gage as head of the great work of fighting the ravages of tuberculosis.

STATISTICS OF SATURDAY'S GAME

An analysis of the pitching performances when Oulette turned the Petes back on Saturday, shows that while Kirn made only 108 pitches to 30 batsmen, the Lindsay heaver made 122 pitches to the same number of batsmen.

Kirn heard 16 strikes called for him and Oulette 36. This count is exclusive of foul strikes. The Petes made 13 fouls, exclusive of foul flies caught, and Lindsay made 13. At the same time Kirn sandwiched in 37 balls and Oulette 43.

Nine Peterborough batsmen hit the first ball pitched, Cherrett doing it four times out of the five appearances at the plate. Twelve of the visitors chopped at the first one, Williamson, Workman and Coombs doing it consecutively in the first innings.

Murray was the only batter to go out on three called strikes, all of them in a row.

Kirn's longest stay in the box was in the fifth, when he made 25 pitches before the side was retired. His shortest turn on the mound was in the ninth, when the side was retired on 4 pitches, Workman getting the extra one, a ball. Oulette had two long sessions, the first, when he made 24 pitches, and the sixth, when he made 23. The fourth brought him his quickest work, when the Petes went out after 6 pitches.

Oulette tarried longest at the plate. In the fifth Kirn sent him 1 called strike, 4 balls and 3 other pitches which Oulette fouled.

Next to some of the Petes' work, the most remarkable happening was the absence of throws to catch runners at first base. Neither pitcher made a throw to catch a runner napping at first, and the catching department had but one out at second. Swanston stopping the attempted theft of the middle cushion.

The first basemen had an easy day, Harrison being called upon to handle only seven thrown balls and Coombs eight.

THE PETES WILL PAY VISIT TO PORT HOPE TO-MORROW

The Peterborough Central Ontario League team will journey to Port Hope to-morrow for a League fixture with the Ontarios. The game is called for 5 o'clock. The players are asked to remember that cars will leave the Water Street Bowling Alleys at 1 o'clock sharp to-morrow.

To-morrow is a big day in the Central League. Belleville play at Lindsay, Oshawa at Cobourg, and Peterborough at Port Hope. On Saturday there are three more games: Cobourg at Lindsay, Port Hope at Belleville, and Peterborough at Oshawa. The results of this week's games will have a lot to do with deciding the winner of the first half of the Central League race. The standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Peterborough	3	1	.750
Lindsay	3	1	.750
Oshawa	2	1	.667
Belleville	2	2	.500
Cobourg	1	3	.250
Port Hope	0	3	.000

It is hard to please some people. The Lindsay Post calls the Peterborough reports of the game unsportsmanlike, because it was stated that the errors of the Peterborough team were responsible for their defeat. It should have said, the Post ball. Well if the first statement says, that Lindsay played superior does not imply the second, what does it imply?

SAYS ENTERTAINMENT OF MERRITTON TEAM HERE WAS A MISERABLE FAILURE

The St. Catharines Standard's report of Saturday's Ontario Cup game between Peterborough and Merriton gives Griffin, the local goaler, high praise in the following summary:

Merritton pulled off a great win at Peterborough on Saturday against the General Electrics and fully demonstrated to the crowd in attendance that soccer as played in St. Kitts and District League is equal to any in the Province. The game itself was a huge success, but the arrangements to entertain the Merritton team and officials was a miserable failure. Not to be discouraged, the boys went to Peterborough to win, and from the kick-off it was apparent that the Generals were up against it. Jackson kicked off for Merritton and immediately made tracks for goal. Mason, the old Port back, cleared from the feet of Craig. Bartley was now conspicuous on the right for the homesters, but his final effort was sent over. From now on Merritton took control of the game, and the football exhibited fairly dumbfounded both players and spectators and brought rounds of applause from all around the ground. Rutherford, the Merritton inside left, was a host in himself and repeatedly left the defence standing only to see Griffin in the General's goal save time after time. First Jackson, Downs and then Miller shot but all came alike. Merritton now forced four corners in quick succession. Craig placed nicely and Mason clearing, put through while Downs made sure by bulging the net. From the kick-off the Generals for the first time in 30 minutes gave Scott a shot which he cleared, and again set his forwards in motion, and for the remainder of the half rained shot after shot on Griffin, who made some wonderful saves, and when half-time arrived the score was 1 to 0 in favor of Merritton.

There was no mistaking the superiority of the Merritton team during the first period and was simply marvellous how Griffin saved his charge when goals seemed certain.

The second half opened with the Generals again on the defensive, but missed chances by Jackson, Rutherford and Craig with only the goalkeeper to beat, seemed to put life in the Peterborough boys, and for 15 minutes made some dangerous raids on Scott, but their final efforts were weak. The Merritton supporters, which numbered about 60, enlivened the proceedings by calling for action, which seemed to have the desired effect, as immediately afterwards, from a beautiful pass by Craig, Jackson scored No. 2, giving Griffin no chance whatever. The Merritton boys now gave an exhibition of football seldom seen in these parts. The home supporters repeatedly applauded the beautiful footwork of the famous trio, Craig, Rutherford and Cummings, who were a source of trouble to the General's defence throughout. Hotston broke away, and Barry and Downes had a busy time for several minutes, but danger was averted when Scott cleared at the expense of a corner, but nothing resulted. Merritton continued to hold the whip hand and when the final whistle sounded Merritton ran out well deserved winners by two clear goals.

Notes.

The Merritton team as a whole were par excellent, and gave a remarkable exhibition and excelled in every department.

The General Electric boys received a great shock as the game proceeded, although advance notes had been given of the ability of the Merritton boys.

Griffin, Mason, Turner, Manders, and Bartley were the mainstays and saved the Generals from a crushing defeat.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP BATTLES

Sandwiched in between those two famous examples of lopsidedness—the David-Goliath and Dempsey-Willard encounters — was another short and uneven battle in which James J. Jeffries whipped Jack Munroe. Munroe aspired to become heavyweight champion in 1904, but when he was pitted against Jeffries the aspiration appeared to be his strongest claim to a chance at the honor.

Early in the second round the referee thought Munroe had learned his lesson and held up Jeffries' palm.

The fighters met in San Francisco on August 26. Munroe defended himself for a few seconds by raising his gloves above his head. He made several rushes but they fell short of their objective. Jeffries then knocked him down for six counts.

Rising, Munroe's stomach collided with a left-hand punch and again he went down, remaining there for seven counts As soon as he got up, Jeffries toppled him over a third time. Munroe settled on his haunches, his head wobbly, but arose before the last count. He clinched and the bell saved him.

The second round had no sooner opened than he fell once more with a new sore spot. Even then he could not break himself of the habit of coming back for more. This time Jeffries stabbed his left into Munroe's weary ribs, and the challenger draped himself over the champion's arm. Then the referee called a halt.

CAMPBELLFORD LACROSSE TEAM HERE SATURDAY

The sporting public, especially those who will remain behind the hegira to Oshawa, on Saturday will find the spice of the variety in the lacrosse match between the Peterborough and Campbellford lacrosse teams. Campbellford are determined to win this district and have a heavy team that lacks nothing in speed. They have been practicing since late in April and are in fine condition. Peterborough will be bolstered with a defence that will give the balance it lacked in Havelock and it is understood that Lou McCoy will join Bert Todd on the home. Arnold Hatton may be at one of the defence posts and the rest of the team will be about what it was in Havelock. Mr. Skinner, who has been managing the intermediates, has not announced his line-up for this game, but of one thing the public may be assured that they will see a good fast game of lacrosse.

Count up two more for Babe Ruther, making it 21 home runs for the season.

WILLIAM FARNUM IN NEW FOX PHOTODRAMA.

Those who love fine dramatic work, the best that the screen affords, will be pleased to know that William Farnum will open at the Regent Theatre next Thursday in a play of domestic life called "His Greatest Sacrifice."

This story, based on modern life shows that there cannot be two masters in the house. It teaches that a wife cannot gain the greatest happiness in life by sacrificing the love of her husband and her child for the plaudits of the theatre-going public. When his wife starts out on her career her husband has just begun to win success as a writer. But the wife ignores this: in her selfish ambition she cuts loose from her husband and child. She wins fame, but in the end she longs for what she had wilfully cast away—the love of these two.

"His Greatest Sacrifice" is a William Fox production. It was directed by J. Gordon Edwards, who has made some big pictures for William Fox, including "Cleopatra" and "Salome." "His Greatest Sacrifice" is Mr. Edwards' forty-fifth picture made for the Fox company.

AT THE ALLEN.

FAVORITE OLD-TIME CLOWN IN "TORCHY'S DOUBLE TRIUMPH."

A favorite of present-day grandfathers in their childhood days will be seen in support of Johnny Hines in "Torchy's Double Triumph" latest of the two-reel comedies made from the stories of Sewell Ford at the Allen Theatre to-day. He is "Jolly Daddy" Evans, who was a favorite on the screen in the comedies in which John Bunny appeared but before that won the reputation of being one of the funniest clowns in the country.

That was back in "the sixties," when he was a clown in the Dan Rice circus and amused thousands by jumping hoops, apparently standing on his ear and doing a score of other stunts. "Daddy" has passed the seventy-seven mark, but those who see the picture will decide that he is as lively as ever.

"Daddy" does not come into the picture until the last reel in the midst of the chase for the society crook for whom he mistakes Torchy. There is said to be a decidedly novel scene here, where Torchy disguises himself as a scarecrow and other laugh-provoking scenes with a haystack as the background.

Most of the action, however, is indoors and shows how Torchy balks the game of the crook with whom Marjorie, sister of Robert Ellins, is smitten.

The colorful events of the Boxer unrising of 1899 form the background for "A Tale of Two Worlds," an original screen story from the pen of Gouverneur Morris, one of America's best living short story writers. He is associated with the Goldwyn-Eminent Authors, and has the distinction of being one of the few authors who supervise personally the production of their stories.

This latest Eminent Authors production, which is now being shown at the Allen Theatre, is a triumph for the artist as well as for the director and the author. The beauty of China in the nineties is contrasted with the tawdriness of a street in Chinatown, in San Francisco. The set is not a photograph of the real thing, but of a reconstructed street. In this atmosphere, Frank Lloyd, the director, produced a gripping melodramatic tale, in which the love interest centres about an American youth and a young girl whose parents were killed in the Boxer uprising. Coupled with the romance of the story, is the quest of a jeweled sceptre, the motive that actuates the Chinese villain. Hosts of Chinese appear in the story, lending a verisimilitude to the picture that will be grateful to those who like genuineness in their photoplay entertainment. All in all, "A Tale of Two World" is an exceptionally dramatic picture, beautifully mounted and directed, and splendidly acted by Leatrice Joy and her associates.

SPECIALISTS MAKE CHINESE COSTUMES.

No less than six costume designers consulted over the Chinese wardrobe which had to be made for Leatrice Joy's role in the Gouverneur Morris-Goldwyn production of "A Tale of Two Worlds," which will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow. The role is that of a Chinese high caste maid, and no incorrect, make-shift garments were used. For instance, the good luck bracelet worn by Miss Joy, is supposed to keep sickness away. It is made from the root of a water lily and is a dark and inconspicuous circlet worn between other more brilliant bracelets. Perhaps one person in a thousand might notice the absense of that charm, but it is for him and in the interest of strict accuracy that Goldwyn seeks to maintain the verities in costume as well as in design of sets and in the interpretation of the mood of every story made at their studios.

In the case of the costuming of the characters in "A Tale of Two Worlds," the result is interesting from both an entertainment and from an educational point of view.

O'CONNOR SISTERS AT "THE CAPITOL"

VOCAL TRIO FROM KEITH CIRCUIT ADD BRIGHT FEATURE.

The three O'Connor Sisters, a winsome and tuneful trio, direct from Keith's Circuit as headliner attractions, made a hit at The Capitol Theatre last night.

They have splendid voices, which were shown to good advantage in "I Never Knew I Could Love Anybody as I'm Lovin' You" and "Goodnight, Angeline," the deep, strong voice of the end singer blending with the light, colourful sopranos of the other two in a pleasing, rollicking harmony. The girls have a bright little act, and were encored loudly by a pleased audience.

The Larry Semon comedy is exceptionally funny, the Pathe Review very good, and the feature picture, with Constance Binney in "39 East," an entertaining little heart-interest drama. The girlish charm and unsophisticated air of the pretty young lady are displayed to great advantage as the ambitious daughter of a small-town minister, seeking to make a mark on the Great White Way. "39 East" is the boarding-house where she finds a refuge, and where the feline proclivities of the other, older and less beautiful feminine occupants are much exercised in her behalf. The various types of gossiping females are well portrayed here, with a skittish Southern widow and a hard-hearted landlady. Penelope's adventures with the amorous theatrical manager, whom she regards as a sort of guardian angel, come to a very satisfactory conclusion, with the conventional happy ending and final close-up.

SAYS NO GRANT AUTHORIZED FROM RED CROSS SOCIETY FOR A MEMORIAL

The Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I understand that a by-law is to be submitted to the ratepayers in the near future for authorization to issue debentures to the amount of $5,000.00 and donate the amount towards a 'War memorial to be erected by the local Red Cross Society" (Mail and Empire, June 7th).

I wish to state here that there is no one in this city more desirous than myself of seeing an adequate memorial erected to the memory of our Peterborough soldiers who did not return from overseas. Further, I consider that the entire cost of such memorial should be borne by the city, a gift from the whole population, and many have told me that they agree with me in this.

Now, Sir, I beg to quote further from The Toronto Mail and Empire: "The Society has $15,000.00 of Red Cross funds, which were subscribed during the war and which the Executive of the Canadian Red Cross has given its permission to use for this purpose. Considerable local criticism of using the surplus, however, has influenced the Society to make $30,000.00, the estimated cost of the memorial, its objective."

It is evident from the above that an unfortunate misunderstanding has arisen, since I have in my possession letters from the Secretary of the Canadian Red Cross (Ontario division), from which I quote as follows: "Any statement made in Peterborough to the effect that the local branch of the Red Cross Society had authority from the Canadian Red Cross to donate $15,000.00, or any other sum, towards the erection of a monument to fallen soldiers was not correct; although it may have been made, as incorrect statements sometimes are made, in good faith."

Also: "The Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society has no power to authorize a branch to use its funds for any object not included in the charter of the Society, and has in no case given such authorization to a local branch."

I feel sure, Sir, that with a clear statement from the local Society that Red Cross funds will not be used in an unauthorized and unconstitutional manner the objective will be more easily attained.

UNJUST TO BLAME RETURNED MEN FOR THE UNREST WAVE

JUDGE HUYCKE POINTS TO UNDUTIFUL PARENTS AND LACK OF RELIGIOUS TRAINING AS PROMINENT CONTRIBUTING FACTORS.

In his address to the Grand Jury in the County Court this afternoon, His Honor Judge Huycke spoke of the presence in the jail at the present time of three old men, one 86 years of age, one 70 and one 80, and suggested that it was rather a serious reflection on the city that these men should be in jail on the charge of vagrancy, when such institutions as the House of Providence and the Old People's Home were available.

He considered the placing of much of the onus of blame for the present crime wave that is sweeping over the country on the shoulders of the returned men as an injustice to those who had sacrificed much for their country, and regarded the growing disrespect for law and order as a serious sign on the horizon of the country at the present time. The defective home training received by children of the present generation, the absence of any sort of religious instruction in many of the homes and the Public schools of the country, and the detrimental effects of many of the moving pictures on the morals and ideas of the younger generation, were all scored by the speaker, who brought his address to a close with instructions to the jury on the carrying out of their various duties.

WINNIPEG, June 14. — There are now 75 rural credit societies in Manitoba, 17 new ones having been organized since the end of the fiscal year last November, C. Gifford, the supervisor, announces. Loans that were granted total $1,640,000, which was about $67,000 less than last year.

TERRACE, B. C., June 14. — A reminder of the olden days before even the river steamboats plied their way up the Skeena, was discovered in Little's Island, a short time ago. A cedar tree from which the bark had been stripped when small had years ago been used to write upon. Workmen upon felling the tree and cutting away the overlaying wood, found an inscription written in pencil of "E.T.L., (day and month illegible), 1873, Montreal, Canada." The date is authetic as the wood cut away has sufficient annual rings to account for the ensuing years.

TANATED CALOMEL

The Only Drug Known That Acts Upon the Liver

Excellent for Headaches, Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism, Pimples, Etc.

You no doubt have been taking all sorts of medicines for your particular ailments, but you only get temporary relief and sometimes no relief at all. The reason for this is due to the fact that none of the things you have taken act upon the liver. The liver is the cause of 99 per cent. of the ailments susceptible to the human system. When the liver is inactive and does not excrete bile, the intestines become clogged up with poisonous waste, and ths poison is carried to all parts of the body, causing all sorts of ailments, as headaches, indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, etc. Doctors recommend that you take one Tanated Calomel Table about 15 minutes before meals, or two at bedtime, and in 1 to 2 days you will feel 100 per cent. better. The reason that Tanated Calomel is better than any other form of Calomel is because it acts without griping, and is self-eliminating, and no salts, castor oil, or seidlitz are necessary to remove it from the system.

REVIVE SOUTH SEA SEALING INDUSTRY

AFTER FIVE YEARS OF INACTIVITY NOVA SCOTIA RE-ENTERS.

HALIFAX, N. S. June 14.—(By Canadian Press).—Sealing in the south seas, one of the most picturesque industries in which Nova Scotia mariners have engaged, has been revived after a five year period of inactivity by the hundred ton two top-mast Schooner Eva June out of Halifax. This vessel has just returned to port after nine months absence in the sealing grounds of the South Atlantic. She is owned by H. R. Silver Ltd. and commanded by Captain Matthew Ryan of North Sydney. The Eva June sailed from Halifax September 2 of last year and cast anchor again in this harbor May 31. Captain Ryan said he had encountered unusually stormy weather which curtailed the schooner's pack. The trip was, however, successful and many hundreds of pelts were shipped by the Eva June from Montivideo to London. A small number were brought to Halifax for shipment to England from this port. The sealing waters in which the Eva June operated lie between forty and fifty-five south latitude and from one hundred and fifty to one thousand miles off the South American coast. On October 3 last year the crew of the schooner saw land fade from their view to reappear no more until they put into Montivideo on January 30. They left Montivideo February 25 and again were out of sight of land until April 12 when they began their homeward voyage to Halifax.

Matthew Ryan, commander of the Eva June, has been afloat the greater part of his life and has trailed the seal since 1889 north and south in the Pacific and Atlantic and around the globe. He says that to his knowledge Nova Scotia fishing vessels have been in sealing industry since 1886. Around the Horn and to the Behring Sea was the goal in the old days. The majority of the vessels put out from Halifax and the Sydneys. It is noteworthy that Nova Scotia and British Columbia the sea-touched frontiers of the Dominion, joined hands in this industry and pooled many of their interests. Victora was the last Canadian port of call for Nova Scotian vessels and they sailed from there accompanied by the ships of the western province From Victoria the fleets would follow the Canadian coasts north or strike across the Pacific to the Japanese and Russian coasts. On this latter ocean trail Yokohama was the favorite port of all. Captain Ryan believes the Schooner Pathfinder in command of Captain Will O'Leary of Musquodoboit, was the first Nova Scotian vessel to voyage around the North and South American continents to hunt the seal in Northern Pacific. Captain Ryan thinks Captain O'Leary is now living in Victoria, B.C. The. Anne C Moore from North Sydney in command of Captain Charles Hackett, followed the Pathfinder in the same year. After the pioneers came such well known vessels as the Umbrina, Brenda, Libby, William MacGowan, Geneva, C. H. Tupper, and Agnes MacDonald.

Captain Ryan made his first trip to the North Pacific in the schooner Carmelite which sailed from Sydney in 1889. Two of the most interesting trips in the history of the sealing industry were made by Captain Ryan in the tern schooner Hilda R. These took him around the world over a route from Nova Scotia to Australia, around the Cape of Good Hope and through the Indian Ocean thence to New Zealand and subsequently home. The Hilda R. was finally torpedoed during the Great War by a German submarine near Gibraltar.

Sealing in the Behring sea continued until 1910 when an international treaty put a stop to it for twenty-five years. As far back as 1900, however, the South Atlantic began to attract Nova Scotia and British Columbia sealing mariners. Captain Fred Gibert in the Schooner Edward Rye was probably the first on these grounds. The Beatrice L. Corkum, Captain Reuben Balcolm, joined the Edward Rye in 1901. 1902 saw the Florence M. Smith, commanded by Captain Ryan, and the E. B. Marvin Captain John Anderson, sail south from Victoria and join the fleet out of Halifax in the South Atlantic. Succeeding years there were many other Nova Scotian and in British Columbia vessels scouring the southern ocean. The number gradually diminished, however, until in 1913 the Ida M. Clarke, commanded by Captain Ryan, went alone from Nova Scotia. She returned in 1914 when the shadow of war was throwing itself over land and sea. None followed her in the succeeding years.

The Eva June type of vesse, two top masts and one hundred tons, is the most useful in the sealing industry. Larger vessels break their boats in rough weather. The Eva June carries eight hunting boats, each of which is manned by two men armed with double-barrelled shot-guns. Although many of the old sealing vessels have passed out of service, few met with serious misfortune while engaged in the industry. Probably the only Nova Scotian craft lost in the South Altantic were the Edith R. Blacolm and the Baden Powell both of which ran ashore.

Whether Nova Scotia and British Columbia vessels will again enter the sealing industry to the extent that they did in years passed, it is impossible to forecast, but it is almost a certainty that August will see Captain Ryan back in Halifax superintending the fitting out of the Eva June for another trip south.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, June 14.—(Canadian Press). — The trend of prices at the opening of to-day's Stock Market suggested an extension of yesterday's late rally, a number of leaders showing gains of one to 1½ points. This was immediately followed, however, by a resumption in large volume of the recent selling movement in Rails, Oils and Equipments. Northern Pacific reversed its initial gain of one point with an abrupt decline of two points, and Great Northern 1 ost2 3-4. Mexican Petroleum fell two points, Baldwin Locomotive 1 5-8, Pure Oil 1½, and General Asphalt 1. Steels, Motors, Sugars, Tobaccos and Textiles also re-acted.

Declaration of the regular dividend on Chicago and North Western and a drop in call money to 5 1-2 per cent stimulated further recoveries at midday. Northern Pacific made up its loss and Great Northern rallied substantially. Oils and motors were the strongest features at a gain of 1 1-2 to four points.

Weakness of Great Northern, which increased its decline to 3 1-4 points, unsettled other rails during the first hour. Shorts extended their commitments in equipments, steels and Rubber specialties. Pullman, Baldwin, American, Brake Shoe, Crucible United States Rubber, Kelly-Springfield tire and Goodyear common and preferred, sustained extreme losses of 1 1-2 to four points.

Sugars, Tobaccos and low grade oils displayed little rallying power. Studebaker, Sears Roebuck, American Linseed and Atchison and Louis ville and Nashville embraced the firm stocks. On a moderate rally before noon trading becam dull. Call money opened at six per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, June 14.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange strong, demand 3.75 1-4; Canadian dollars 11 per cent discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14.—Favorable weather for harvesting had a bearish effect on the wheat market to-day and so too did reports on increased country offerings. Houses with Eastern connections led the selling. Initial figures which ranged from 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lower were followed by decided set backs all around.

Corn gave way with wheat. After starting 3-8 to 1 1-4 to 1 3-8 down the market continued to descend. Oats were depressed by the action of other grains opening 1-4 to 1-2 to 5-8 lower and then undergoing a further decline. Provision reflected the down turn in the value of hogs.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO

TORONTO, June 14.—(Canadian Press) — Prices at the end of this morning's fairly active session of the Toronto Stock Exchange reflected the conflicting opinions held by traders regarding financial conditions in Canada. Gains and losses were about evenly distributed with material changes in the prices of some stocks. Riordon was again in the limelight falling to new low record at 9 3-4 with a slight rally which carried the price up before the close to 10 1-4 a net loss of 3 3-4 points. F. N. Burt common declined two points to 100 while Canadian General Electric lost 1 1-4 at 110 3-4. OBITUARY

ROBERT STRAIN.

The funeral of Robert Strain, who died on Sunday at Nicholls Hospital, will take place at 10 a.m. tomorrow from Belleghem's Undertaking Parlours to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Robert Pogue will conduct the service.

Mr. Strain had resided in Peterborough for many years and was universally respected He was 72 years of age. He is survived only by his wife. Deceased was a Presbyterian, a member of St. Paul's church. He had been in failing health for some time and several weeks ago his serious condition necessitated his removal from his home, 239 Hunter street, to the hospital.

JOHN HENRY.

At an early hour this morning the death occurred of John Henry, at the home of his son, W. J. Henry, city assessor, 531 Homewood Ave. Mr. Henry was 83 years of age. He was born in Kingston, but had lived in Peterboro for about 60 years. His wife predeceased him 40 years ago. The surviving members of the family are two sons and one daughter, W. J. Henry, John Henry, Sherbrooke street and Mrs. Poulson, of Smith township.

VANCOUVER, June 14.—A Japanese firm proposes to make another attempt to raft timber from British Columbia to Japan They believe that the Davis raft structure, of which the outside rows of logs are laced with cable, can be made to stand the trans-Pacific passage. The first raft will leave this coast about August. It will have a superstructure of piled logs, strongly laced Hitherto rafted logs have not withstood long sea voyages, except one which was taken from San Francisco to China, about 20 years ago. Favored by calm seas the raft was safely landed. The Chinese, however, unused to big logs, took ten years to cut up this boom, using long hand rips saws to make the boards.

No use to wait for our ship to come in unless we have sent one out.

From June 1 passenger fares on the Austrian State railways will be raised 100 per cent. and the goods rates an average of 70 per cent.

VANCOUVER, June 14. — The alleged underhanded attempt by Davy Jones to rob the provincial government of ten thousand cases of Scotch aboard the steamer spectator by sucking the vessel beneath the sea off the Mexican Coast, has been exaggerated, Captain H. Owen reported on his arrival here.

The captain said it was true that volcanic disturbances in Mexico caused an earthquake which was felt by the big steamer, but the story of being drawn into Davy Jones and spewed forth again, because Davy did not like the taste of whisky was without foundation. A special report of the occurrence has been handed in by the officials to offset misleading reports.

The four-flusher usually has a wonderful command of his mouth and a fertile imagination.

I have noticed that the "has been" never receives any too much encouragement to come back.

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.

"There's a Reason"

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE IN FIT OF DESPONDENCY

BELLEVILLE, June 14.—Shortly before noon yesterday, Mrs. Daisy Gardiner, recently of Buffalo, walked into the water over her head, in an attempt at suicide, it is alleged. Fortunately, workmen on sewer construction saw the woman's plight and rescued her. The police on investigating the incident think it was a case of despondency. Her husband is a barber living in the United States. The Salvation Army authorities are taking care of the woman.

A DANGEROUS TRICK.

COLBORNE, June 14.—Charged with lossening the brakes on a freight car standing on the C.P.R. siding and allowing the car to run down the main line, a Lakeport youth was remanded by Magistrate Millar for one week.

WEDDING BELLS

CROCKER—REID.

A very quiet wedding took place at All Saints' church rectory on Tuesday, June 7th, at 3 o'clock, when Alice Marion, eldest daughter of Mr. Alex. Reid, 212 Aylmer street, was married to Joseph Hector, only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Crocker, 238 1-2 Simcoe street, the Rev. R. B. Grobb officiating. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Crocker left on the 3.50 C.P.R. train for Toronto and other points. They will reside in the city.

HICKEY—NEARY.

On Tuesday, June 7th, at the Church of the Sacred Heart, the marriage was solemnized by Rev. J. J. O'Brien, of Margaret Catherine Neary of Peterborough, and Vincent J. Hickey, of Emily. The young couple were unattended.

After a short honeymoon spent in Toronto and Niagara, they will reside in Emily.

BROWNE—GILLESPIE

A quiet wedding took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Murray street Baptist church, when Hazel Hepburn, youngest daughter of Mrs. Gillespie and the late T. G. Gillespie was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Carl Sanford Browne, M.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Browne of Vanleek Hill, the Rev. J. R. Webb officiating. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her brother, Mr. S. G. Gillespie of Kitchener. Her costume was of rush brown French tricotine with small taffeta hat and Ophelia roses. Miss Ida Sanderson played softly throughout the ceremony, and Mr. S. J. Graham, B.A., of Toronto, sang "O Fair, O sweet and Holy", during the signing of the register.

Mr. and Mrs. Browne left on the afternoon train for Toronto leaving by boat from there for Brackley Beach, Prince Edward Island. They will reside at 110 Lock street on their return.

A charming feature of the ceremony was the beautiful background of flowers, the work of members of the church choir, of which the bride was a member and Mr. Browne, the president. The baptistry, choir gallery, pulpit and platform were covered with rushes on tall pedestals, ferns in jardinieres, white peonies in bowls, and massed effects of starry-eyed daisies, made very lovely by the busy, friendly hands of the friends who gathered and arranged them with such faithful, artistic care.
